Churchill, Eden Fly On Tuesday To Bermuda Talks

To Seek Quick Acceptance Of Russia's Bid for Parley

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill leaves by car tonight for the Big Three conference in Bermuda, determined to press for quick acceptance of Russia's bid for an East-West meeting in Berlin.

Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and their retinue of advisers will make the flight in the same plane which last week carried the Queen across the Atlantic on the first leg of her Commonwealth tour. A refueling stop is scheduled for Gander, Nfld.

French Premier Joseph Laniel and his party are scheduled to arrive in Bermuda Thursday and President Eisenhower Friday.

Eden made it clear in the House of Commons Monday that despite U. S. doubts of Soviet sincerity, Britain wants to get Big Four talks started as soon as a reasonable time to stabilize the economy.

6. Personal spending and income reached new highs in 1953 levels.

STABLE MARKET

"To sum up, continuation of general economic conditions existing in the period ahead is indicated. It must be taken into account, of course, that the stable market buying and larger outlets are necessary to sustain the present volume of production.

"Despite the existence of increasingly-competitive conditions on an international scale, marketing problems are encountered in some industries . . . but as for the general level of economic activity I predict the pessimists are going to be wrong again."

Referring to 1953, Mr. Howe forecast increases would be evident in production, the physical volume of consumer purchases and a record for the year in spending to increase productive facilities.

INCREASE PLANT

These capital outlays, he said, will be about 10,000 nine per cent higher than the record in 1953. Increases in the capital goods were reasonably stable, the minister said, an equivalent increase in plant.

He said some of the problems of the last year—the steel strike and farm equipment industries were unavoidable in general prosperity. It was important to realize that the seller's market has given way to the buyers' market. That meant that many Canadian industries will experience more intensive competition both domestically and internationally. This competition could not be avoided if Canada wished to enjoy the broader benefits of free international trade.

Noted Heart Specialist Shot Leaving Office

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Edward D. Spalding, noted heart specialist, was shot often in Detroit's professional building and stepped into the path of persons hurrying down from a routine day at work.

A few violent minutes later he lay dead on the pavement, shot, police said, by a former mental case who got the wrong man.

Nearly half an hour later, two police detectives grilled John Eberbach, 41, a few blocks away, in Eberbach's pocket was a list of persons he considered responsible for his troubles.

Spalding's name was on the list.

WOMAN DESCRIBES KILLING

Eberbach had waited in the building lobby Monday. When Dr. Spalding left, a witness, Mrs. Madeline Bertsch, 39, said Eberbach walked up and fired one shot. The 49-year-old doctor fell.

Spalding was considered one of the top heart specialists in the United States.

Police said that the list in Eberbach's pocket included 17 doctors and one nurse in building.

Dr. Hodes, a mental hospital physician, said he had been unable to kill Dr. William T. McAlman, who he claimed had mistreated him. McAlman was still in his office at the professional building at the time of the shooting.

Ottawa Will Not Spend More On Tourist Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial tourist conference has been told that heavy defence expenditures will not be increased and federal efforts in 1954 to attract the tourist dollar will be stable.

Resources Minister Lesage, who spoke for Parliament Hill at the Ottawa government travel bureau meeting Monday that "defence expenditures simply will not allow any much leeway for additional expenditures." Defence spending in 1954 would be heavy because of Canada's international commitments, he said.

H. Gordon Robertson, deputy minister, said that defence expenditures should be at a level that will be about the same as this year. Prospects for obtaining more money were not good.

But Mr. Lesage and Mr. Robertson were commenting on suggestions that provincial delegates that the federal government increase the travel bureau's appropriation. The present budget of $238,450 for the 1953-54 fiscal year, two-thirds can be used for advertising and publicity.

The provincial delegates and representatives of private organizations complained they plan to spend more money in 1954 to boost promotion, particularly in the United States. They warned that if Canada faced increased competition for the American tourist dollar expenditures should be increased.

$2,866 LAID OFF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another 26,000 civilian workers were dropped from the federal payroll during October, the U. S. Civil Service Commission reported today. It said this brings the total cutback since January to about 178,000, leaving a total of 2,371,100 federal employees.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Mild weather map indicates continued cool temperatures for the country but strengthening southwesterly winds will bring milder weather Wednesday. There is considerable that colder weather may follow the low pressure area now moving into Manitoba and meeting forward the previous warmer this would be until Thursday and by any case it is not yet definite. Low by far south of the Great Lakes will produce rain.

Rain is expected in most of the province during the latter part of Wednesday, and in the extreme northern Ontario the rain may be preceded by snow.

HOWE PREDICTS PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR CANADIANS

Minister Says Selling May Be Little Tougher

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe has offered two predictions: A tougher job of selling goods abroad next year; but a generally prosperous year at home.

Mr. Howe's economic review of 1953 and forecast of 1954 highlighted the opening debate Monday in the Commons.

Mr. Howe said:

1. Overseas trade volume appears to be "firmly based" after three years of adjustment. Increased world wheat supplies likely will bring a reduction from the record export levels of the last two years.

2. "Sales prospects are probably firmer at home than in export markets."

3. There is every reason to look forward to a continued high export spending.

4. A prospective shift in investment toward housing, commercial and institutional building will mean a "more balanced economy."

5. Government spending for defence will be "about the same" next time to stabilize the economy.

U.S. Will Not Buy Own Safety At Expense of Enslaved Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles assured Soviet enslaved countries Monday that Americans never will bargain away their chances for freedom just to gain "illusory safety for ourselves."

Soviet despotism, Dulles said, "cannot indefinitely prosper when rule over hundreds of millions of people who love God, who love their country and who have a sense of personal dignity."

While the secretary suggested no specific steps for liberating countries behind the Iron Curtain, he did say:

"The captive peoples should know that they are not forgotten, that we are not prepared to seek illusory safety for ourselves by a bargain with their masters which would confirm their enslavement."

Dulles was the first witness before a special House of Representatives committee set up to investigate Russia's seizure and subsequent absorption of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. The committee hopes the information it obtains will be used, if Congress wishes, in laying the plight of the Baltic countries before the United Nations.

Committee chairman Charles Kersten (Rep. Wis.) said the tragedy of 6,000,000 Baltic people was the blueprint for what happened elsewhere later. Dulles and diplomatic representatives of Baltic countries agreed that the pattern was the same.

Treaties of peace and non-aggression, in vital instances, pacts dictated by Russia, then invades and takes over top of puppet governments, and incorporation of the countries into the Soviet union.

Dulles said that Soviet-backed independent countries now have been Sovietized, noted that Soviet leaders still ask free peoples to accept and rely on Russian mutual security pacts.

"We should know by now," he said, "that when the Soviet rulers use the word 'security' they mean security against the Soviet Union to secure new victims."

Politicians Shield Racketeers Says Former Probe Lawyer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Powerful political lobbies in the United States are protecting racketeers, the former counsel of a congressional investigating committee says.

William F. McKenna, Los Angeles lawyer who resigned his post with a House of Representatives sub-committee on racketeering Friday, said a congressional inquiry on the political mantle that protects racketeering in this country is essential.

McKenna resigned following a hearing in Detroit on the AFL Teamsters Union. His statement Monday was prompted by remarks in Detroit by Committee member, Rep. Clare Hoffman (Rep. Mich.).

Hoffman, in announcing McKenna's resignation to return to private practice, said he knew of the chairman, Rep. Wint Smith (Rep. Kans.), at the hearing caused McKenna to leave with a bad taste in his mouth rather than a good feeling."

Hoffman said McKenna was "humiliated in not getting more support from Smith in his efforts to get the story over a failure by (James R. Hoffa, head of the Michigan Teamsters)."

McKenna in his statement said the House government operations committee was a powerful racketeering last spring, conducted hearings in Kansas City and Detroit on labor racketeering but refused to subpoena Hoffa.

He said he, as counsel, and the investigators made it their business to stay out of politics but "we would, however, have been derelict in our duty if we had failed to be oblivious to the pressures exerted by any powerful lobby that to stop the inquiry into racketeering."

Gouzenko Believes Third World War Coming Soon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Igor Gouzenko, whose disclosures led to the Canadian espionage trials in 1946, told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch today he believes a third world war is near.

Donald Grant of The Post-Dispatch, in a copyrighted dispatch from Toronto, reported Gouzenko "does not believe the atomic bomb provides any real security for the West."

"He believes it is deathly important for the United States and including the United States and Canada to stop blindness and stand together," Grant reported.

WIFE PRESENT

The Post-Dispatch reported Gouzenko's wife was present during the four-hour interview at an undisclosed location. Gouzenko, the former Russian code clerk, has built a new life under an assumed name in an Ontario village for personal security reasons.

In the interview, Gouzenko said "he most definitely does not believe in a preventive war against Russia."

"What he does believe," the article said, "is that communism must be fought seriously and well by a West that is strong, vigilant and morally right.

"Gouzenko said he is interested in catching Russian spies now not in 1945, or at any other date in the past, but now, before it is too late."

REJECTS JENNER PARLEY

Gouzenko told Marcus in a copyrighted article written for The Post-Dispatch and the Toronto Telegram that he had declined to be interviewed by the Jenner subcommittee of the U.S. Senate. The subcommittee twice had forwarded requests to interview him. Gouzenko said he had decided his testimony would not serve the best interests of either U.S. or Canadian security and would endanger his anonymity."

TO FIGHT GUERILLAS

SEOUL (AP)—Defence Minister Sohn Won Il said today that battle-toughened South Korean soldiers will join national police in the fight against Communist guerillas infesting South Korean mountains. A police-military source said at least one army division will go into action against the guerillas next week.

BRITAIN HOPES FOR MORE TRADE WITH RED CHINA

Consulting With U.S. On Classifying Goods

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain hopes to increase her trade with Communist China and other countries east of the Soviet bloc, a board of trade spokesman says.

Derick Heathcote-Amory, state minister for the government trade bureau, said the House of Commons Monday night British officials have been engaged in consultations with the United States and other Western powers aimed at broadening the classifications of goods controlled.

But he emphasized that the government is more concerned with keeping strict control over trade with Communist countries than with expanding its volume.

Heathcote-Amory said Britain's embargo on the shipment of munitions, anti - malarial and sulfa drugs to China will be discontinued at the end of this year. The embargo is one of the main criticisms in Britain, is being terminated by decision of the international consultative group for strategic exports, the high board of trade spokesman made his statement after Labor member Harold Davies called for termination of East-West trade as "vital matter for the economy of the United Kingdom."

Davies said British trade with Red China in the 15-month period ended September was four times that of the previous 15-month period, but declared there was room for much more for increase. He said Britain had exported $28,000,000 worth of goods of trade with Communist countries in the last year, and concluded that West Germany, Japan, Denmark, Holland and Sweden also had profitably by the British policy.

Queen and Duke Visit Cruiser

By GOMER JONES

ABOARD H.M.S. GLENNIC (Rentcrs)—Queen Elizabeth interrupted her voyage to the South Pacific until Tuesday to visit a British boat to the British warship accompanying her.

The Gothic was heading through the Bay of Biscay today and Panama and heading for the next stage of the royal tour in the South Pacific.

The order, "Stop engines" sounded and the Gothic slowed down into a lowered launch. With the Queen and Prince Philip aboard over to the escorting cruiser Sheffield and climbed up the side.

There was a ceremonial reception aboard the warship, the Queen reviewed the ship's company and inspected the ship. She was presented with a cake specially baked in the galley.

QUAKE HITS GREECE

ATHENS (AP) — A new earthquake injured at least six persons, collapsed 100 houses and caused 300 others Monday night in south central Greece. First reports from the quake area made no mention of any fatalities. Official dispatches said six persons were injured in the village of Makrynou and an unspecified number hurt in adjoining hamlets.

Vishinsky Brands Atrocity Charges As Falsification

Calls Lodge Report Cynical, Cowardly in UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia's Andrei Vishinsky today branded U. S. charges of Red atrocities in Korea a "flagrantly concocted falsification."

The Soviet delegate told the United Nation UN General Assembly that charges detailed Monday by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States were brought out to "dynamite" peace negotiations in Korea.

He called the Lodge report "cynical," "cowardly," "a malicious effort to cover the worst crimes of all perpetrated by the American military circles in Korea," and "redolent of slander."

FIRST SPEAKER

Vishinsky was the first speaker at this morning's session, called to debate the American charges that some 38,000 persons were victims of atrocities committed by communist Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

The Soviet bloc, counting on the neutral UN members to stay out of the debate and abstain from voting, apparently is determined to fight the atrocity issue.

India already has served notice that as head of the neutral nations repatriation commission in Korea she will neither speak nor vote. There is little doubt, however, that the Soviet bloc will receive any overt support in the debate.

ASKS ASSEMBLY ACTION

Most delegates met in silence Monday as Lodge, U.S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, delivered the atrocity report and introduced a resolution calling on the assembly to:

1. Express "its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea;"

2. Condemn "the commission by any government or any authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, and inhuman practices against the captured military personnel or civilian population, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and of the fundamental human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person;"

In his speech, Lodge raised the earlier U.S. figure of nearly 30,000 atrocities to more than 38,000. He later told reporters it is his "personal conviction that over 35,000 of these are dead." He explained the higher figure includes estimates of deaths in the notorious death marches and prison camps which the Reds have refused to let the earlier U.S. Army report.

Lodge's speech was followed in the debate by representatives of Britain, Turkey and Canada.

SENTENCED FOR FRAUD

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Raul Mercante, former minister of public works in Buenos Aires province, was sentenced Monday to three years and four months in prison on charges of defrauding the government. Three days ago four former officials of the Buenos Aires Province were sentenced to prison terms up to five years and ordered to repay almost 9,000,000 pesos ($638,500) stolen from the government by fraud.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne Do Their Christmas Shopping Early

WINDSOR, Eng. (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne were shopping today to do their own Christmas shopping.

With their "Nanny," nurse Helen Lightbody, they visited shops in the Royal Lodge, Windsor, where they are staying, in a toy store in the shopping district.

There five-year-old Prince Charles solemnly explained to a clerk that he was doing his shopping early "so that Mummy and Daddy have their presents in time for Christmas."

He had little trouble making up his mind—books and toy soldiers.

But curly-headed Princess Anne, 3, who prefers rough-and-tumble to soldiers, was undecided.

So the rest of the morning was spent looking at dolls and soldiers in dolls. The tiny princess chose several large dolls for her best friends.

The children were in a day mood. They laughed and waved to the townsfolk who gathered in the streets.

They are expected to spend Christmas with the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret at Windsor since their parents are away on a six-month Commonwealth tour.

Car Hits Truck, Two Killed At Sharbot Lake

SHARBOT LAKE (CP) — A newly-wed husband and his cousin were killed Monday night and the 25-year-old bride of one of the men critically injured when their automobile skidded and was jammed under a transport truck near here.

Dead are Donald McNaughton, 23, of Merrition and Ottawa, who was married Nov. 21, and his cousin George McNaughton of Convale, Ont., driver of the car.

Mrs. Donald McNaughton was critically injured. She arrived in Canada from France less than three weeks ago to marry Donald.

TWO TRUCKS INVOLVED

The three were on their way to Sharbot Lake to visit George's cousin when the fatal accident occurred. Police said the transport jackknifed after the crash, spilling its load of logs across the highway. A second transport following the first truck also was involved.

Neither truck driver was injured.

Dr. McIntyre, at the intersection of highways 28 and 7, 40 miles north of Kingston, tied up traffic for more than 2½ hours. Police said here and blood mingled on the highway.

Donald met his wife, the former Miss Jeanne Arnold, France, while with the RCAF in France. They were married in Marrition.

NERVE OR "G" GAS FULLY DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Nerve gas or "G" gas as it is sometimes called, was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Civil Defence organization in the Collegiate on Monday evening.

Members of the organization made a thorough study of the element and it was pointed out the gas is one of the most effective weapons which may be used in war. The lecturer said it was absolutely necessary members know something of the properties of the gas as they may take care of themselves in case of an attack of this nature.

Further training in communications and first aid was given to the group. Al Smith, communications director, is planning an outdoor exercise involving the use of radio and other communicating devices to further increase group familiarity with this subject.

Checking Oil Attendant Finds Hen on Engine

One of the best practical jokes ever laid on a morning alumnus was played on a well known industrial accountant in this city recently.

The gentleman in question was on his way to Toronto to attend a reunion of Upper Canada College grads and on arriving at the city he stopped off at a local service station for gas.

The gas attendant offered to check the oil in the car, and despite his hurry, the gentleman agreed to the inspection. When the oil dipstick was produced the attendant saw a live hen sitting on the engine.

How long the hen had been there is not known and not something the 'old grad' could care to discuss at any great length.

The name of the chicken fancier, who decided to keep a hen warm by installing it on the engine of the accountant's car has not yet been learned. And not likely to be, either.

CBC Criticized By Speaker At Rotary Club

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, was critical of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in his address at the Rotary Club on Monday in the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Allard said: "The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is a taxfree, subsidized government-owned operation which competes with privately-owned broadcasting stations. It is judge, jury, policeman, conciliator, prosecutor, hangman, all in one."

He further said that those who seek power always have good reasons to give and that only certain information should not be made public. He described them as the 'guarding reasons rather than the real reasons."

He said that it is so easy for a body to arouse public sentiment against a private agency and under such guises as protecting public interest, destroying the young from heretical ideas.

We ask that there be eliminated from broadcasting system which a government agency, itself under the control of the government arm, is simultaneously competitor with private stations; and combines within itself the functions of legislator and judicial powers; and that there be substituted therefore, freedom for broadcasting stations to operate under the law, necessary powers of control to be exercised by a body embodied within a separate regulatory body not connected with any broadcasting system," Mr. Allard concluded in announcing the views of his association.

Club president Harold Mott announced December 14 has been set aside as the annual rural dinner meeting. Each member is expected to bring a farmer from this area to dinner as his guest. An outstanding speaker from the Ontario Department of Agriculture will address the gathering at that time.

Bill Morrison said winners of the Rotary-sponsored competition created by C.K.L.C.S. and Albert College were: Donna La Rue and Jack Evans at the College and Glenna Ritchie and Donald MacKenzie at Albert. The topic was "Promotion of World Fellowship."

Birthday roses were presented to Jack McArthur, Rogers Riedel and Gordon Robertson. Court Miller made the presentations.

The speaker was introduced by Don Hughes and the thanks by the club were expressed by Enos Dewid.

Final Session for 1953 Of Hastings County Council Opens on Tuesday Morning

Hastings county councillors convened for their final session of the year at Shire Hall this morning with Warden Lloyd Herchell, reeve of Madoc village, welcoming councillors to the December session.

He noted that it had been a very busy year and expressed the hope that Hastings county would benefit as a result of deliberations in county council.

The warden congratulated council members who had received acclamation for another term of office as a result of recent nominations. "Acclamations indicate a feeling of confidence in the ability of sitting council members," he said.

Council members were urged to take in the British Empire Dairy Show being held in the city this week and also to attend the cheese makers' banquet to be held Wednesday evening.

DISCUSSES TOURIST BOOKLET.

Little business was conducted at the morning session, although a discussion on tourist booklet printed by the county should continue its policy of getting out tourist booklets.

Reeve Ritchie Wells of Marmora, chairman of the 'publicity' committee felt it might be well to discontinue publishing the booklet. "We don't want to stay in the red," he said, adding that industry could advertise its 'own business to better advantage," he suggested.

Reeve John Anderson of Faraday, took a different attitude, claiming that the tourist industry did not pay for the booklet being. More publicity should be given, he said.

Warden Kincaid agreed that some advertising should be carried out, but suggested that the form of advertising might be changed. He noted that the different municipalities, as well as the tourist organizations contributed toward getting out the tourist booklet, the county's share paying for the printing.

The county's share of the cost of publishing the booklet this year was in the neighborhood of $6000, council members were told.

Reeve T. C. Graham, of Tweed, suggested that possibly the tourist operation could do a better job of advertising their own business and that if the county wished to continue its support the purpose might be to have served by a contribution to the various tourist associations.

No action was taken on the matter and it was tabled for further discussion.

SALVATION ARMY GRANT

Neither was any immediate action taken on grant request from the Salvation Army which asked a grant of $150 for headquarters in Toronto. Council was told that grants to the local branches of the Salvation Army had been raised last year from $500 to $800, with $350 going to Belleville. The grant was left over.

Tweed, and that the usual grant of $150 to headquarters had been dropped.

All councillors were in agreement that the Salvation Army was a very worthy organization. Reeve W. Fox of Madoc suggested that council treat grant requests very carefully. No decision could be given unless a financial statement of the organization was presented.

The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

In a resolution passed at the August meeting calling for a change in the regulations which demanded a minimum of three acres for building lots under the V.L.A. Reg. T. J. Show Organizer, James L. Irwin, To Be Honored

The name of the late James Irwin, former chief dairy grader for Central Ontario, who did much to organize the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and the British Empire Dairy Show being held this week in Belleville, to be perpetuated by the cheese makers in the organization.

A handsome trophy, the J. L. Irwin Memorial Trophy, has been purchased by the Association with the names of contributing Irish friends in the cheese industry, and will be up for annual competition, the winner to be the maker with the highest average score and who has shown the best workmanship during the year.

The trophy is an electric clock on gold standards with a model of a dairy cow. The winning name each year will be engraved on small bronze fastened after the cheese. On turning the trophy in after holding it a year, the cheesemaker will receive a gift from the Association to keep permanently.

Mr. Irwin did much in getting the British Empire Cheese Exhibit started and served as its honorary president for many years. Until his death a year he took an active part each year in planning the Dairy Show.

The trophy, won this year by Howard Andrews, of Lakefield, will be presented to the winner at the closing banquet Wednesday evening.

Hunter Lucky He Did Not Call Moose

GLENWOOD SPRINGS Colo. (AP)—The effortless call of a duck call used for the first time by Lyle Call exceeded his expectations.

Call had settled in a willow blind, and when a flock of ducks circled overhead, he sounded his duck call.

After a few toots, the band came in for a landing. One of the large Mallard drakes peeled off, flew directly into the blind and landed on Call's lap. The astonished hunter grabbed the bird and killed it. One of two companions dispatched it.

rates and taxes could be reduced.

No action was taken on a request by Reeve Theodore Tryon of Bancroft village, suggested the calling of in to cattle prices had lowered the incidence of rustling. "There's no money in rustling now," he commented.

Ford Suing 12 Companies For $905,101

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Claims totalling $905,101 are involved in legal actions launched at Toronto today on behalf of Ford Motor Company of Canada.

The actions against 12 insurance companies. They arise out of a strike in December, 1951, when strikers forced a shutdown of the company's power house, which provides essential services, including heat, to Ford of Canada's plants and offices in Windsor. All Ford's buildings were left without heat during a period of cold weather and extensive damage was done.

Two actions have been instituted against each of the 12 insurance companies with which Ford of Canada is insured, making 24 actions in all. One set of actions claims indemnity for property damage loss, including heat and the other for loss resulting from the interruption or interference with the company's business according to $657,623.

The contract hinge mainly upon the interpretation of the "riot" clauses of the policies.

Killed in France, RCAF Officer Known in Trenton

TRENTON—S/L George Aitchison, 39, killed in a road accident in France last Friday, served a few months here at Station Trenton before proceeding overseas with the R.C.A.F. in May of this year. His wife, Cecile, followed him to the continent a month after he left here. He was well known in officer circles with distinguished service in World War II. He leaves a widow and no children.

Quick-Thinking Driver Escapes Crossing Crash

TRENTON. — (Special.) —With a big diesel-engined freight train bearing down on the car she was driving Mrs. Rose Wallace, 35, of Trenton, the mother of three daughters kept a cool head last night, saving herself and two companions by stepping on the gas pedal instead of the brake. The three women riding home from work downtown were travelling north on West Street, crossing the C.P.R. tracks. Mrs. W. A. Vatman was sitting beside the driver while Mrs. Vincent Slone rode in the back seat.

"It was dark and foggy and I was driving slowly because of the poor visibility," related Mrs. Wallace. "I looked up and down the tracks and didn't see anything. I remember thinking that an airplane was flying low overhead and said something to the girls about the roar of the motor. Suddenly Mrs. Slone screamed: "Rose, it's a diesel." I turned my head and saw the headlights of the train a few feet away from the side window. Something told me to tramp down on the accelerator. The car lurched ahead and then I heard a grinding crash and the car started to swing around facing the train. The three of us sat still in the car until a man from the train ran up shouting: "Who's hurt. Who's hurt." When I assured him all were well he remarked: "You don't know how lucky you are."

Mrs. Vatcman praised Mrs. Wallace's driving ability. "Rose is a really good driver," she said. "I never really felt we wouldn't make it. It was lucky she didn't step on the brakes or we'd have all had it. I didn't realized I was scared until I began to shake when I got out of the car."

The train struck the right rear fender of the car causing only minor damage. Fred Ellis of Toronto, was driving the diesel.

Assessment Court Opens Hearings On Many Appeals

TRENTON (Special) — Of the great number appealing assessment notices only a few appeared last night before the opening session of the Court of Revision.

Some 200 taxpayers have appealing for readjustments since receiving notices under the Manual of Assessment for the province-instituted this year.

With board member, V. R. Ryan presiding as chairman, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Aziz asked for a lower rating on their McColl Street apartment house, and residence. Mr. Aziz pointed out that the rentables in Trenton meant that he can now only realize 5.3 per cent on borrowed money and realistic rents at present levels. He told the court he was charging $80 and $85 a month for his dwellings.

There was some misunderstanding about the size of the Aziz apartments, whether they were five-roomed or four-roomed living quarters. Assessor Charles Ferguson told that's living room and dinette adjoining were classed as two separate rooms. Mr. Aziz felt the combination should be rated as one room. The court agreed with the Assessor's decision. The apartments were assessed under the new arrangement at $75 per room.

Mr. Aziz was asked to name a comparable property. He indicated his place had been built from plans of the Weaver apartment block on Henry Street. He brought to the attention of the court that this particular Weaver building had been assessed as four-roomed apartments. The assessor noted the difference, indicating to the court that necessary adjustment on the Weaver property would be investigated.

The court decided that no adjustment could be made in the Aziz assessment figures, suggesting that Mr. Aziz take his appeal to higher court if he was not satisfied with the decision. The chairman explained that the manual of assessment by the council had been approved by the province and that the Court of Revision had no power to change the manual.

NATIONALISM AND THE REDS

Ho Chi Minh, leader of the Communist rebels in Indo-China, is reported to have offered to negotiate an armistice.

Anti-Communist nationalist leaders in the Indo-China capital are described as indignant and panicky. Many are demanding a break in relations with France.

Much of their opposition may spring from well-grounded fears as to their own safety in any regime which makes a truce with the Communists.

But it seems reasonable to suppose that their nationalism, as well as their anti-Communism, is a factor in their opposition.

Here we see a curious situation, which faces the world not only in Indo-China but also in many other Asian nations — and which will almost certainly be matched, at some time in the future, by a comparable situation in Africa.

At a time when the forces of events is turning many of the more advanced nations towards internationalism, (when, for instance, the efforts to establish a European Defence Community foreshadow an eventual United States of Europe such as that of which Briand dreamed), there is more backward nations are being caught in the toils of nationalism. This is the inevitable result of the colonial policies of the white nations. There appears little doubt that the movement can be successfully checked, that nations which so recently were controlled from overseas will consent to forego that full control of their own affairs which at last appears within their grasp.

This has created a complicated situation for the Communists. Nominally Communism is an international revolutionary movement. But the rulers of Asia, while revolutionary themselves, are not ripe for internationalism. In some countries Communist leadership has been accepted in spite of the nominal internationalism of its creed. In other lands control of the nationalist leaders has rejected Communist help in spite of its revolutionary character.

This nationalist sentiment is the most powerful force today in the West's strongest ally against the Red tide in Asia and Africa. It may be argued with validity that the leaders of pro-Western governments in many countries have themselves to be ruthlessly nationalist. This is true, but their nationalism does nothing to endear them to the nationalist leaders of Asia, or to the Russian Communists. The nationalists of the backward countries now seeking their independence are opposed to internationalism, but doubly opposed to domination by another white nation.

Incidentally, Asiatic countries are not the only ones in which a rising tide of nationalism has frightened recent years. Canada has been experiencing it. Fortunately here it is tempered by the internationalism inherent in membership in the British Commonwealth of Nations. Moreover, Canada's nationalism is most useful purpose. It acts as a bulwark against too close an integration of our way of life with that of our great neighbor to the south. Under different circumstances such an integration might be highly desirable, but the United States is actually one of the most highly nationalistic countries in the world. The growth of Canadian self-reliance helps to merge itself with the U.S. would merely be submerged.

That this country has been in no danger from United States aggression is due to the unique character of the U.S., nationalists to permit other nations to go their own way. To a large measure this indifference was founded in isolationism. Isolationism, although not dead-is dead dying in the U.S. It is not yet certain that a truly international outlook will replace it in time to avert some troubles for the U.S.A. and the world. The many people like Col. Robert McCormick of Chicago distrust the only effective example of internationalism, the British Commonwealth of Nations. And even within the Commonwealth nationalistic sentiments are, in some lands, becoming dangerously strong.

ONE MAN'S MEAT

Margaret Southwick of the Slough Research Station in England has one of the strangest jobs in the world. She helps to cultivate blowflies.

Most of us know bluebottles and few of us like them. But certain types of frogs and toads at the London Zoo relish them. They have dined off them exclusively for as much as five years and have developed excellent health. That is why Margaret Southwick raises them.

These interesting facts were revealed on a recent BBC broadcast. When Miss Southwick began the intensive research on blowflies being carried out at the Slough Research Station.

Blowflies hatch into maggots within a day, feed for a few days and then mostly burrow into the ground, where they turn into chrysalids. The adult fly emerges not more than twelve days after the egg was laid, and the cycle starts anew. The Zoo shortens this process by buying maggots from the dealers who breed them as fishing bait. When the maggots arrive Miss Southwick puts them in a temperature to retard development so that they can hatch at the exact moment required and ensure an adequate food supply throughout the year for the Zoo's insect eating animals.

The flies are kept in box-like cages covered with mosquito netting. When feeding time arrives a test-tube is inserted through a sleeve opening made of netting and as many as two hundred flies at a time are scooped up. Some are flung out into the open air, so that they can be snapped up easily by the amphibians waiting eagerly to eat them; others are wetted, which temporarily disables them and enables them to be caught while they are struggling to dry themselves.

Despite the fact that blowflies are such delicious provender to some creatures these little scavengers are highly inclined to let man for they contaminate his food and carry diseases. Green stressed the fact that although blowflies are used to combat them by the use of chemicals the first and most effective line of defence against blowflies is adequate hygiene.

During the past summer he was concerned with experiments in which scientists released some thirty thousand blowflies which had been fed on radio-active material so that when trapped and brought back to the laboratory they could be detected with a Geiger counter. About three hundred thousand flies were caught, amongst them two hundred radio-active ones which the scientists were able to study and broadcast in the program. The radio-active blowflies proved that even in a densely populated city where they have no need to travel, they migrate in all directions, visiting food shops, canteens, hospitals and homes, giving an indication of the rate at which disease germs can be spread throughout a city.

GOOD SAMARITAN REWARDED

An advertising man told a group of friends recently how he and his wife had played the Good Samaritan to a small—quite without any design—had found themselves in the role of the Samaritan's adversary in the matter of the innkeeper's reward.

The adventurer's wife was having lunch one day in a restaurant when at the next table a woman choked. Acting with quick skill the adventurer's wife made herself useful and after the girl recovered she had revived learned that the fainting had been induced by anxiety and fatigue. She was very worrying about! She had invented a product to be used in beauty parlors, and after a year or two of energetic promotion, had been compelled to admit that she was defeated.

The advertiser's wife inquired a little about the product. Was it any good? Of course it was good, the woman replied with some asperity. Well, the upshot of the whole matter was that the wife of the advertising man became interested to a little advertising of this product. Within a year it became quite popular. It brought an income and enriched the woman who had spotted every in a faint and it became a source of lucrative income to the advertising man.

Having the Good Samaritan had paid off. Or, to use an expression of the Bible, the bread cast upon the waters had after many days it came back in the form of cottage pudding with wine sauce.

Ottawa May Control Roads

(By Austin F. Cross, Windsor Star, Ottawa In The Financial Times, Montreal)

Do not be surprised if the federal government quietly takes over the highways of Canada. Right now the cabinet is wrestling with the idea of meeting in on the trucking business, and on the Trans Canada Highway.

Legally the government is supposed to have jurisdiction over interprovincial highways. Since Sir Henry Drayton's time in 1926, the trucks have started operating coast to coast on a large scale. I am told that if you motor from say Windsor to Regina at any time, you may find very little passenger automobile traffic, but you will encounter a great number of trucks. These trucks have provincial address. They will be trucks loaded down with freight from Montreal. You will find that the trucks from Montreal will be loaded down with cargo which they may have picked up in Toronto, Chatham or some town in between point.

It does not take too much imagination, therefore, to see the federal authorities some of these days laying down the law to the provinces. They will start off with a foot in the door. They will start off with a better of the law. In due course the federal authorities will have the road.

Too long have the provincial governments played politics and have thought only in terms of provincial roads. I can give them no help anywhere.

Quebec has not agreed to build a highway from Montreal to meet highway No. 17 that comes down from Ottawa via Hawkesbury.

Ontario has never bothered to pave the Trans Canada Highway. They play up to the Toryvote with a few miles here and there, but Ontario is anywhere in Conservative territory.

Alberta for years let the eastwest road from the Saskatchewan border at Alberta languish under layers of dust. But they made sure they paved as much as they could between Edmonton and Calgary.

Manitoba has done well, but provincially but there was neither awareness nor interest in a Trans Canada highway.

Well don't be surprised if the feds move in.

The manner in which the provinces have left the Trans Canada Highway so by default is indicative of their fatuity. I expect that it only will be the TC Highway get under exclusive federal jurisdiction but, in time, the Ottawa people will move in and develop feeder roads to the main highway.

Alcoholic Amoebas?

(Winnipeg Tribune)

For many years scientific researchers have been able to suspend life in monkey wurms, leeches, embryos, muscle fibres and other living tissues by rapid freezing. When these living tissues were thawed out they became just as lively as ever.

But the amoeba, probably too busy with its own affairs, stubbornly resisted this treatment. When the scientists froze an amoeba, no matter how fast or how hard, it simply ice and died.

Understandingly this worried the scientists a great deal. They did not much they could do about it until recently when a couple of them had a few beers. They brooded over the amoeba's perverseness and finally concluded that the main reason why the amoeba would not come back to life when thawed out was because of its high water content.

They decided to try dipping the amoebas in ethylene glycol—antifreeze in these parts. The dipped amoebas were frozen as hard as bricks and when the blessed thing thawed out. The anti-freeze-treated critters came through with a deal with flying colours. When they were thawed out, they were as lively as ever.

Just where all this will lead is not too clear. We can only hope the amoebas are not acquiring a taste for alcohol. That would be every enough state without amoebas having control over the pace.

Let Her Write

New York Times.

It is hard to see why, with approximately fifty-eight million females in the age group in the United States, the Post Office performs only a small fraction of a deficit. For if every female in that group were to write a letter a week per week, affixing a three-cent stamp to each, in the course of a year the sales would therefrom would amount to $150,000,000. Every male knows that, however, the wonder sex writes more than a letter per week not just how many more no one can say, but surely there are a few, and perhaps several, and the total revenues, to near-astronomical proportions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOOK LIKE SOMEBODY!

Pope said that "the proper study of mankind is man." All of God's creations, man must remain as his greatest. We have plenty of material with which to make this study for among all the millions of human beings not even two are exactly alike. But we should never form any judgment of a man or woman merely because of his or her looks.

There is a great deal, however in the way a person carries himself. Faces are as interesting study. It is said that a public official can picture of a person in connection with any story in a newspaper or other publication. People like to see what a favorite actor or actress looks like. If a certain writer whose novels I always delight to read should photographed what I looked like. Recently I discovered a picture of myself and, it wasn't anything like the face I had long imagined.

Slow Driving Has Its Joys

(By "A Naturalist" In The London Times)

Brought up mainly on bicycles in boats, and on foot, I do not consider myself fortunate that I was usually travelling slowly enough to absorb what I saw in the English countryside. I could get off, or step aside, to study it pleasantly — and I did. So to this day I can recall in the smallest detail a fortnight I spent cycling through north Wales 30 years ago. I could name almost every very wild flowers I passed in the hedgerside near Llandudno.

But tours by car in later years have left me with legacy of wayside detail. I have a blurred impression of unrecognizable villages and towns, and of the country-sides mixed up like the colors running on an untidy child's paint box lid, old churches linked in my recollections only by the number of miles I went too fast to take in all in properly, and by "fast" I mean anything from twenty-five speed of 25 to 30 m.p.h. On this account, then, motorists are often condemned in my eyes as a good way of seeing—nothing at all. It is a way of—well—the fair face of this land of ours.

The motorist who wants to travel slowly today is, I find, a "problem" to the police and to "traffic." He is timid—a bad driver. He slows up the traffic and holds up the fellow that better go and have a few lessons in good driving and learn how to keep up with the stand—the pace. On those unbeaten tracks of resistance I have mentioned by-pass roads I find there are traffic lanes—slow, medium and fast. Even on a by-pass I am still glared at and tooted at because I cannot keep up to the 40 m.p.h.

It is all very sad, because there is so much to get out of going slowly. I am, in fact, becoming a specialist in it. I have many miles through the lanes of Surrey and Hampshire to my credit in my car—creeping along at 5 to 10 m.p.h.—relaxed, with my left arm out of the door to explore a corner, undisturbed by the racetrack tooting behind me. I am grateful to the motorists will smile at this. They probably think I am trying to see England by car. If you wish to have any recollections that will last you, don't.

I could tell you the stuff men put on their cottages to catch the sort of gates to the farm fields, the kinds of hedges and the kinds that haunt the lanesside fields, the flowers in the cottagers' gardens I have seen, but I will not bore you because I prefer to be a slow driver. Above all I take delight to get a bicycle again—or just walk.

ASTHMA AND THE HOME CLIMATE

A reader gave me a good scolding the other day because I said that in my opinion whatever benefit an invalid may derive from a change of climate is undoubtedly due entirely, on the fact that he spends out of doors. In other words, the climate for whatever ails you is the climate where you can and will spend the most time out of doors—comfortably, of course.

Now, please, Mr. and Mrs. Wiseacre, don't cite cases which prove I am wrong. The reader who scolded me has already thrown out the thing was so plain that even I should be able to see it myself.

The reader's brother-in-law, a St. Louis restaurateur who had carried a line of hosiery, drugs and light footwear, had suffered for years from asthma. Finally Hell's persuaded to spend the month of February in San Diego, California, to see if the change of climate would do for him.

It did so much for him, by George, that, although not yet 65, he decided to sell his business and retire to Elysium. But, that he said his delighted spouse had to return home to wind up business, pack their household goods, furniture and—

Alas!—only a few hours after they arrived home that horrible scourge, asthma, had the poor fellow hard one of the worst asthmatic bouts in years. Worse still, he had to endure distress most of the time after the attack passed, for the air was so filled with them to make their getaway. And within a few days after they returned to southern California the asthma was gone. Whereupon you'd never know he had any chest trouble at all. Right clear later he was playing golf several days a week and says a whizzer.

So, back to better health my arbitrary and misleading thinking about the remedial value of change of climate?

No, Mister. The circumstances in this case suggest that the patient is allergic to something about his home. Even in St. Louis, dog or cat hair, canary feathers, goose feathers down, bedclothes, molds, milk, silk, horses, flowers and numerous knows what. There are a good many individuals who are allergic to ragweed. Allergy, by the way, is the rational explanation for the distress of hay fever. I don't think hay fever is present, even though the cat be hidden.

Japs Invent New 'Strike'

(Sudbury Star).

Some of the union leaders who are alighty on the wild-eyed "job-action" tactics might take a tip from the Japanese.

Japanese railway engineers struck for a week. They decided the best way to attract attention to their request—that the building of 3,000 locomotives for one full minute.

The National Railway Workers Union said 3,000 locomotives working at once for one full minute would cost the government the equivalent of $1,500.

This novel way of blowing off steam means no lost time, no lost wages, no finance company seizures for unpaid debts and no hardship to anyone.

With the co-operation of the foremen the Japanese engineers could probably synchronize their steam-blowing so that the steam rise—would normally escape through the safety valves would "blow out" through the whistle instead.

This system would save $1,500 of the taxpayers' money (by utilizing otherwise wasted steam.

Must Prepare For Million

(Vancouver Sun)

We're afraid City Engineer John Oliver is right in his forecast of more than a million population for Greater Vancouver by 1980.

Our fear stems from the fact that Vancouver isn't preparing for that population. Had we been prepared sparrows than there was in 1929, the Depression would have been averted.

Mr. Oliver's estimate of 1,112,200 persons by 1980 was made in a speech to engineering organizations here, and he asked for a sewage system to drain 300 square miles of the lower Mainland.

But an immediate start is also needed badly on a system of water distribution and access roads throughout the same area.

Mr. Oliver's sewage system outlined by Mr. Oliver this district will smother the water pollution.

And without the engineers it will strangle in its own traffic.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The old fashioned grandmother is to be found farther and farther back from the front line today. Her modern grandmothers were drinking tea in my house yesterday, and their conversation shook me.

"Am I exhausted!" cried one." They left young Joey with me yesterday."

"Poor you!" cried the other, "am half scared to pick them up in my arms. I remember when I was a child they used to fit in my arms. Now, they feel strange, sort of unsteady. I don't think babies nowadays are as naturally cuddly mothers-to-be.

as they used to be. Maybe all this scientific baby-rearing has produced infants has changed the feel of them in your arms . . ."

"I'm not sure that that is the grandmothers, not the babies and their mothers. Most of these modern grandmas were themselves infants, the small girls of the family were already studying to be grandmothers. It was they who were the experts after the babies in the family or in the whole neighborhood. They were not only permitted to dandle the infants, they expected it of them and demanded of them. They had to rock the babies, walk them up the pram, rock them and soothe them when they cried.

When the medical profession about thirty years ago, decreed that babies must be left to cry, and rocked and dandled, when they laid down those rules about feeding, they also let little girls cry, and all the rest of the sisters and aunts and cousins of babies, they also struck a death blow at grandmas. For they got rid of the material all the little grand mothers-to-be.

The Greatest Faith Ever Known

By Fulton Oursler and April Oursler Armstrong

When Peter Met Paul

CHAPTER 9

'Tis the year of our Lord 36 Paul returned to Jerusalem.

The fate of what had happened to Damascus had died down in the capital, but Peter and the other Christians who had fled, and who had crept back again to the city were startled that their persecutor was alive, planning why God knows what.

They were all afraid of Saul, John reports, and not believing that he was a disciple."

But one man refused to give way to fear and suspicion. Barnabas of Cyprus, young, clear-headed, refused to judge that he himself be not judged, heard the news trickling from Christians working in the Damascus camel trains; went that Paul had come out of the desert and was on his way north.

Paul, scourge of the Christians, now one himself? Barnabas stood up to hear and remember. He was for the Law and the Prophets. If such a firebrand were to see Jesus Christ between Truth, the fulfillment of the Law and the Prophets, then the Church would have a new member of indomitable valour.

There were no cries of welcome when Paul rode through Stephen's Gate into the city where, three years before, he had cooly watched the martyr's dignified pleas. Now his cloak was wrapped high above his chin, so that he would not be recognized by the Temple guards before he could get to Peter and offer himself to the cause.

But it was not easy for a stranger to climb to Peter's door, you a Christian? Every man to whom he met that morning he saw back and spat in the street. To admit to being a Christian in the city of Annas and Caiaphas was suicide. Do you know Peter, the impetuous fisherman? We know him not. These people on the Jerusalem streets shared not only the Lord's every act — or Peter's. But Paul was recognized, and secret word was rushed to the Christians that he was looking for Christians, was on a definite errand in mind. What if Paul were really converted? Would it not be a sin to cast him out?

His listeners were saints, but they were also human beings, with a man's memory and a man's capacity to hate. Paul-Saul! The names were a stink in their nostrils. Had the murderer of their pitiable Stephen, smiling under the long hail of stones, prayed for the forgiveness of his killers now while he was dying?

But if Stephen could forgive, Barnabas insisted, could they refuse forgiveness?

After a startled silence, Barnabas left the disciple. He walked carefully through the throngs, searching every face. And presently he saw the stalwart, little figure, face shrouded, riding a dusty beast.

"Come!" he said, with scarcely a movement of the lips, and, seizing the rein, he led Paul toward the Cenacle.

The apostles assembled, sitting in their heels, looking at Paul and Barnabas, to hear the Damascus story.

They listened, because Barnabas had convinced them that they ought to reserve judgment until Paul had stated his case, on this century Atlantic, in the candle-lit room of the Last Supper. On their way there he had hastily gathered the facts from Paul; now he, and not the illustrious convert, told the events — the only time in Paul's life that someone else did the talking for him.

In Damascus, he dealt confidently in the name of Jesus; Barnabas announced.

Not much had been heard lately from the Damascus brethren. At first, there had been in the fugitive, hasty messages brought by wanderers and converted merchants, much talk of Paul. But after he escaped in the basket, here came almost nothing. Now Jerusalem Christians heard that ecstatically Paul, in disguise, had returned from the desert to Damascus — and worshipped with the faithful, who had found him worthy to be one with them and yet felt it wiser not to mention him in letters that might be seized by Roman or Jewish guards.

Peter, the towering fisherman, stepped forward to welcome Paul openly and fully. Two wind-burned, callused hands settled on the convert's shoulders.

Barnabas made Paul's case so clear that everyone perceived that here indeed was a Christian and Christian, who was also proud to be a Hebrew of Hebrews.

Peter, the towering fisherman, stepped forward to welcome Paul openly and fully. Two wind-burned, callused hands settled on the convert's shoulders.

Their eyes were magnetized by the recognition of the Holy Spirit in each other. Peter, the untutored, the lowborn, who had denied Christ and yet was chosen by Him to be the rock of the Church; and Paul, the rabbinist, the intellectual Roman citizen, who had persecuted Christ and yet was wrenched out of his soul's darkness to become the light of the Church; they understood each other at once. Differences might suffice the surface between them as the winds of the years blew over them. Nothing could ever destroy the deep,sure calm of faith which they shared.

The two giants of Christianity took each other's measure, and found that there was peace together. Fifteen days, while Paul and his wife, and all Jerusalem unobserved by the spies of Caiaphas and the Temple aristocracy, Peter and Paul spent together.

Peter led the quiet scholar to meet James called the Less, and together they shared with Paul the warm, living details of the life of the Man Who was God.

Paul walked with them through the familiar streets of Jerusalem, seeing the city with new eyes. See, Paul—there is where He saw the woman taken in adultery! And here near the Pool of Siloam, He healed a blind man on the Sabbath Day. That rich man's house on the corner is there Mary Magdalene washed His feet, and earned his forgiveness.

Paul stared at the Temple, where for years he had worshipped while studying under Rabbi Gamaliel, and tried to visualize the Lord preaching there and whipping the moneychangers out of His Father's house. He walked past Caiphas' home; past the Sanhedrin hall; past the governor's palace, picturing the agonies of Christ's trial and scourging. With Peter, Paul walked the Via Dolorosa, Way of the Cross, where Jesus had fallen three times on the way to Calvary. And Paul shuddered at his own soul's blindness, as he realized that he had lived in this very city while Jesus lived and died — and had never known the Truth.

He had much to learn from Peter and James the Less!

But Paul, in his turn, must tell them of his years in the desert, of his unutterable vision of paradise, of all that the Spirit had taught him in the wilderness.

All too short, the fifteen days they had together, a time of fevered talk and shared prayer, of spiritual excitement and earnest plans for the future. Then they were abruptly and sadly separated.

Reports were getting to Annas and Caiphas about this stranger who visited Peter. Moreover — and this tendency made even some of the apostles uneasy — Paul had been speaking to the Gentiles and disputing with the Greek-speaking Jews. The Temple was hatching a plot to murder him — and that would mean more persecution for the rest of the Church. Clearly enough, the moment was not ripe for Paul's ministry. Paul must wait. He must command his ardent spirit to sit still in obscurity.

Nothing harder could have been asked of him. Up to the port of Caesarea Paul went, to the ship that would take him to the place where Peter had told him to wait.

And where was that? It was Tarsus! He must go back to his boyhood home and his trade of tentmaking, instead of launching the dazzling efforts of which he had dreamed!

Paul went home, to face the cold shoulders of old friends and teachers in the plain little synagogue — an apostle without a calling, a missionary with no field. He had gained in depth the height of spiritual experience, he had been accepted as a brother soldier by Peter — and for what? To be buried in Tarsus, to live in the confines of a bazaar, unweleomed either by old friends or new? The Church was moving on, and it seemed that Paul was being left behind. He was, apart, undoubtedly thought, ever to catch up with it again.

Yet Paul's withdrawal helped the Church. With Paul no longer in Jerusalem, no longer an embarrassment to the Sanhedrin as an illustrious convert, there was a truce in the persecutions.

"How the Church had peace," St. Luke reports, "Peace throughout all Judaea and Galilee and Samaria, and was edified, walking in the fear of the Lord, and was filled with the consolation of the Holy Ghost."

And Paul went about his trade in Tarsus. He was to wait humbly, in prayer, until his work — as wanted by those of the new Church or the old — for thirteen years. Considering his dramatic conversion, was there ever greater test of an articulate and ardent believer, whose fire and energy had been seized with power the world and down through history? His one avenue of service during those years of obscurity was to aid the poor of the Church by remaining silent, praying for the souls of others.

And through miracles and debates, wonders and trials the faith was moving on.

Korea Veterans Will Receive More Benefits

OTTAWA (CP)—Veterans Minister Lapointe Monday announced an extension of veterans benefits to regular army men who served during the Korean war, too.

He said in the Commons that regular forces veterans now will be entitled to benefits similar to those extended to members of the armed forces specially recruited for the Korean conflict.

The extension makes regular servicemen who served in Korea eligible to university and vocational training, allowances while establishing themselves on farms or in business and benefits under the Veterans' Land Act.

The government will pay for university and vocational training on the basis of one month for each month the veteran spent in the Korean theatre of operations.

Only Five Men Among 10,000 In Special Force

OTTAWA (CP)—Only five men among 10,000 who joined Canada's special force for service in Korea still retain their identity as members of that unit.

Army headquarters said Monday that about 7,000 former special force soldiers accepted their discharge and now are back in civilian life. Another 3,000 chose to enlist in the regular army, of whom many have returned to Korea.

But five men technically are neither civilians nor members of the regular army. Four of them are returned prisoners of war now on leave in Canada, and the fifth is still in Japan.

An official spokesman said those on leave would be given the choice, as were all members of the special force, of joining the regular army or accepting their discharge.

The fifth man is a special case. The army, who would not identify him, said he is married to a Japanese girl and is having difficulty arranging the latters immigration to Canada. This man, too, would be given the same choice as his former comrades when he returns to Canada.

The special force, a beefed up force officially defunct last October.

Former Governor Of Michigan, 3 Others Killed

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Silver-haired Kim Sigler, who took over the Michigan governor's chair seven years ago on the strength of a sensational grand jury expose, died late Monday in a fiery plane crash. Three companions died with him.

Sigler's private four-place plane threading its way through a dense fog, nosedived into a guy wire supporting a 540-foot television tower. The impact sheared off one wing and sent the fuselage hurtling into a woods three-quarters of a mile away, where it crashed and burned.

The 59-year-old Republican personality was at the controls. He was a veteran and enthusiastic flier.

The other victims were Sigler's secretary, Mrs. Vera Prentice, 41, of Battle Creek; Virginia Schuyler, 28, and Mrs. Schuyler's husband, Harold, 37, both of Detroit.

Sigler and his party were returning from a combination business-pleasure trip to Louisiana.

It was believed that because of the fog Sigler had been circling for coming in for a landing at Kellogg field, only three miles from the tower, when tragedy struck.

DRAFT BURNED

In the mid-1940s, Sigler, as special prosecutor for a one-man state grand jury, won convictions and indictments against more than 100 legislators and lobbyists. Many of them went to prison. Strike-taking influence votes was expunged.

After a bitter feud over continuance of the grand jury, Sigler took a final politics in 1948, and by a majority of 340,000 votes, defeated Democratic incumbent Murray D. van Wagoner.

But after one two-year term, Sigler was ousted by the present Democratic Governor, G. Mennen Williams, by 154,000 votes in a surprising political upset.

Canada Sells
22 Million Pounds
Of Canned Pork

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has sold about 22,000,000 pounds of government-held canned pork to West Germany since the last few weeks, a government official said Monday.

He said the pork was sold in two lots of about 11,000,000 pounds each and that of it now is being loaded for shipment to Europe.

The total pork is part of the 80,000,000 pounds which the government purchased and canned during the 1951-52 outbreak of foot and mouth disease when Canada's meat was banned to the United States was closed.

The average cost to the government was 60 cents a pound. No figures have been issued on the selling price, although it is known the government had been forced to take a loss on the stocks.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner reported in the Commons last week that 20,000,000 pounds was still in the government's hands at Nov. 25.

60PC. of Women Newfoundland Bake Own Bread

TORONTO (CP)—Sixty per cent of the women of St. John's, Nfld., bake their own bread, while sixty seven per cent of the women in Toronto perform this homely task.

This is the latest pattern of bits of information about the buying habits of Canadian which may be gleaned from 303 pages of tight tabulation contained in the Canadian consumer survey of 1953, compiled by Canadian Opinion Company and published by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

The survey is based on replies from varying numbers of people in 36 cities and towns, according to usual Public-statistical methods.

The figures cover replies dealing with ranges of 325 classifications of products bought by individual consumers.

Designer Shows Flair for Use Of Jersey Cloth

By MURIEL FENN

LONDON (Reuters)—A young designer with a flair for creative use of jersey has become the 13th member of London's "inner sanctum" of fashion.

The successful candidate, Scotsman Ronald Paterson, 33, joined the "big 12" through being elected to the exclusive Incorporated Society of Fashion Designers.

Paterson started in from scratch just over 4½ years ago, and rapidly won a reputation among couturiers, especially for his dazzling use of jersey.

As a young man waiting to enter Edinburgh University, Paterson's career has changed by winning first prize in a design competition run by Schlaparelli, the famed Parisian fashion maestro.

He went to Paris where he quickly learned, to his dismay, that he could not enter the world of dress designing without some basic training. He returned to London to enter a school of design, and had just finished his course when the war came.

RETURNS TO DESIGNING

After 4½ years in the army, Paterson returned to London to begin serious work designing theatrical sets and costumes. But on a vacation in Paris he saw two dress collections, and awoke with his youthful dream of designing dresses alone. He took a job sketching for the top French magazines while he studied the art of dress designing. During this period he met his wife, better known as Slevie Stephenson, a Canadian fashion journalist.

Together they came to London and started their own business in February, 1949.

Rev. C. Fitzpatrick Gives Interesting Talk on 'Education'

Approximately 80 members of St. Michael's High School Alumni were present at a community breakfast held in the Knights of Columbus club rooms Sunday morning following the 9.30 mass.

The president, Mrs. R. Barrett, introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of the Holy Rosary parish of this city, who gave an interesting and inspiring talk on "Education." Briefly he said, "we are forever in the process of learning, whether it be in grade school, junior high school or university. Even on graduation day, as we sat with the squared cap and scroll in hand, thinking to ourselves that at last we were finished with books forever after so many years of intensive study, some learned professor would jolt us by saying 'ladies and gentlemen this is but the beginning.' In other words, what you have been studying all these years is merely a stepping-stone, a preparation for the years ahead."

Throughout the course of his address Father Fitzpatrick, with his witticism and eloquence, held the audience interested and entertained. Being in Belleville only a short while, he expressed pleasure at having the opportunity of making so many new acquaintances.

At the conclusion of his address on a vote of thanks was tendered the guest speaker by Dr. Boyd Upper.

Plans for the January meeting were discussed on behalf of the members present, Mrs. R. Barrett expressed her appreciation and thanks to Miss Mary McDougall and members of her committee for having provided such a delicious breakfast.

CANINE BIRTHPLACE

The true breed of Newfoundland dogs originated in Belle Isle, an island off the Newfoundland coast.

Fashion Flashes

Sure to steal plenty of admiring glances and comments is a black velvet turban inspired by the head dresses worn by Sicilian bandits of old. The rich velvet is draped low to a deep profile line and finished with a deep, shirred band of the same over one ear. It is head-hugging.

Look inside for interesting linings in many of the new coats and suits, with the lining adding either a strong color contrast or a good material story. Deep gray oxford cloth makes a wide-collared gray coat cut on slim, easy lines. Its big surprise is a cozy lining of Orlon fleece in soft pink-warm and ever so pretty.

The soft touch of fur on soft woolen is the trademark of the season, and is nicely expressed in a soft sheath of oxford gray wool jersey with a Peter Pan collar of ermine, studded with pearls.

There's plenty of news in furs, such as, for instance, the new fur combinations. A soft gray muskrat, beaver, made on wrappy lines, has tuxedo fronts of a deep, rich creamy lynx, making for a new and lovely effect.

Just filled with color is the word on resort clothes soon coming into the stores. Chinese color tones in the new, soft wool line make the floral print of a silk surah sheath with a draped halter neckline. With it is a seven-eighths coat of wool flannel that picks up one of the print colors.

There's nothing so effective and so wearable as a well done silk suit for theatre or smart informal evening wear. As a change from satin and taffeta, there are delightful suits of tapestry silk brocade, in ivory and soft castela; the fine fabric simply handled.

A bit of glitter, well placed, can make an evening dress a shining success. A floor-length dress of tulle, with low back and high front, is trimmed across the bodice with a sequinned garland of silver vines with a little knot of the roses appliqued on the bodice further down, and with the sequins form tufted leaves and stems.

It's easy to bring color into the costume with a print blouse and there are some beauties coming along from California. A butterfly print in tawny browns, lime, green orange and black, on ecru silk crepe, makes up into a soft blouse, with gentle shoulders, cuffed sleeves and big, bow-tied neckline.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SAD SOMNOSIS ARE USUALLY CORRECT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 28, I have been a widow for two years; my husband having been killed in an automobile accident.

During all this time, I have never gone out with anybody until recently, when one of my girl friends asked me to on a double date. I liked the man who was my date very much, and he has asked me several times since then to go out with him again, but I have refused, because my mother feels it is too soon for me to date again.

I loved my husband devotedly, and wouldn't for the world do anything to dishonor his memory, but it is very lonely staying home all the time. Do you agree with my mother that it is too soon for me to start good times again?

Mrs. R.N.

Dear Mrs. R.N.:

There is only one answer to that question, and that is that you should accept any opportunities which may come to you and not set back into normal social life again. You have stayed home long enough with your memories for two years already, a very unhealthy thing to do.

Since this man you met on your double date shows an interest in you, I would say the door was open to start living again in the way a young woman your age should be doing. You cannot afford to live in the past indefinitely, and I hope you will take all the social opportunities the present has to offer you.

THIS CHAP IS KIDDING HIMSELF A LITTLE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young man of 19 away at college and have a girl back home who is 18.

Am I doing the right thing in taking girls from the college to dances and other events? I feel that to do this is a real test for finding out if I really am in love with my steady girl back home.

Bill H.

Dear Bill:

There's no need for you to think up funny reasons for justifying your very natural desire to take girls at your college to social affairs. Don't kid yourself that you are going out with them as a scientific test of your feelings for the girl at home. You just want to have normal good times like any other boy of your age, and it seems very foolish to me, anyhow, for an 18-year-old to tie himself up so completely to one girl that he goes out with no others.

It would be a little dishonest, however, to let your steady girl friend believe you're not going out and I think you should have an understanding between yourselves that you both are free to do this.

An Electric Table Grill For Light Housekeepers

By Mary Moore

We have a new electric table grill and griddle to experiment with.

Pete's first reaction was to lean back, having it during the summer when he prepared his own breakfasts at 6:30 a.m. You can be ready to read the morning paper when he eats alone and it was a nuisance jumping from breakfast table to stove to serve hot cereal or bacon or eggs or French toast or whatever bugs breakfast he was currently eating.

The grill makes it possible to sit still through the whole meal and merely keep one eye over the edge of the paper to watch cooking progress. It's slick. At one sitting prepare four eggs and the right rashers of bacon, for the hearty breakfast measures 12x6 inches.

Of course, you can cook almost any top-of-stove item on it including the cereal in the double boiler and the coffee in the percolator, but the reason I am enthusiastic about the thing is the lovely, evenly golden pancakes it turns out. Have you ever wished that Mammy-like demonstrator flip pancakes at a Fall Fair? Everyone's evenly golden, never a burnt one and no sign of fat on the griddle. This electric plate does just that and here's the recipe. Now just because the batter is thin don't change it. It is exactly right.

GRIDDLE CAKES

One and one-half cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder (2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder), 2-4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 1-4 cups milk, 3 tablespoons soft butter or shortening, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla. Sift the dry ingredients together. Beat egg, add soft butter or shortening and beat, add milk. Add dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Turkey to a pitcher and stand this on a plate on the table. I heated our grill for 5 minutes at No. 4 setting. I pour, set on the batter in about 6-inch rounds and made three cakes at one time. As soon as they were full of bubbles I flipped them over. The evenness of the golden brown surface was a delight to behold and the second side was just the same. Pete ate eleven. I had three. What they did to a plate of butter and a pitcher of maple syrup you can guess, and don't count the calories.

Plans are afoot in the Moore household to have a dessert party and serve Crepes Suzette made on this grill where the drooling guests watch. Crepes Suzette are rolled thin pancakes served, as the French do, with hot pungent orange sauce.)

QUESTION:

I am writing again and this time will try and give a few details (or husband's ulcer diet). We certainly do expect a lot of you to be a mind reader along with all the help.

For meals on my husband's diet he can have roast beef, lamb or chicken, boiled beef, steak and broiled scraped beef balls, broiled liver, stewed lamb or chicken. I have tried broiling liver but have never had any success. It always has such a hard outer crust, that George never liked it. He can also have fresh fish except salmon. The vegetables are potatoes, carrots, cauliflower, spinach, squash, vegetable marrow, parsnips, strained peas or strained string beans, beet, asparagus tips. Milk puddings, such as rice, sago, tapioca custard, junket, bread puddings, blancmange, gelatins such as Bavarian cream etc. It is mostly the meat that I would like help with. . . it is too bad they don't have a cookbook for ulcer patients. They send you menus with a sheet of paper stating what you can and cannot eat, and I must admit I'm not that good of a cook yet.—Doris W.

ANSWER:

There is such a book Doris: "The Special Diet Cookbook" by Marvin Small, Greystone Press, N.Y. It contains a chapter of 43 pages on The Bland Diet, which is frequently prescribed in treatment of peptic ulcers. In school we were taught to broil calves' liver on 1-3 inch slices like this: Brush 2 such slices with 2-4 teaspoon melted butter mixed with 2-4 teaspoon lemon juice. place 1 inch from very hot broiler and broil on both sides until juices are just set—never overcook until surface is crusty. Serve this on mound of noodles cooked in chicken broth or dilute of canned consomme. It's a delicious dish. My best advice is to buy the book I mention. Actually your husband's doctor has allowed him a fine variety of food, for his ailment.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHRISTMAS CARD TO MINISTER AND WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I address the envelope of our Christmas card to our minister and his wife? (He is a D.D.)

Miriam W.

Adress the envelope to:

The Reverend Dr. and Mrs. John Good

Or, if you prefer, use the more formal form:

The Reverend Dr. John Goode and Mrs. Goode

(Important note: Always write "The" before "Reverend" . . . "The Reverend . . ." or The Rev . . . if there is not enough space to write out the word.)

FORM OF NAME WHEN JOINING THE CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Mrs. Keith Kaffrie, wishes to join the church during the coming holiday season. She and I would like to know if she should give her name or mine to the minister when she makes her name. I tell her to give him her name—Katherine Smith, she says—because that is the name that probably would be on the church book.

T.D.S.

When your wife consults with the minister about joining his church he will tell her the form of name he wishes to have her use. It may be her formal name . . . Mrs. Theodore Dale Smith . . . or her informal name, Katherine Williams Smith, the form sometimes used. It is best not to use the form "Mrs. Katherine Smith," unless this form is customarily used in this church.

WEDDING PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to have only two bridesmaids. No maid of honor. Would it be correct to have them dressed in gowns of identical design and color? If not, would it be correct to have the gowns of the same color but of different styles? Any other suggestions?

2. Should wedding cake be made several months in advance, like Christmas cake?

I.R.

1. I like so much the charming and effective harmony of having bridesmaids, whether two bridesmaids or ten, wear dresses of the same design and color.

Since your two bridesmaids will have the same importance (neither to be an honor attendant), you really should have them dressed exactly alike. You may have them walk together, or singly . . . if singly, the one closer to you in relationship, the one who would be the actual witness, should walk directly in front of you and your father, or whoever is to escort you.

. . . Not necessarily . . . and not customarily. Often the small toilet, or fruit cake, is stored away to be cut on the first wedding anniversary.

PRE-NUPTIAL LUNCHEON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should one bring a gift to the bride-to-be when one is invited to a pre-nuptial luncheon given for her? Should a member of her family or her mother, sister, etc.) bring a gift?

M.S.

If this not a shower-luncheon (as I judge it isn't), it would not be necessary for a guest to bring a present to the guest of honor. If other than Lauren's expected to bring presents, it is not good taste for a member of the girl's family to bring a present, for this might embarrass the other guests, might even seem to suggest that they too should have—brought presents. (Presents from her family, such as engagement presents, should be given to the bride-to-be at some other time.)

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

PROMINENT COLLAR BONES

Thin girls with prominent collar bones are frequently envious of those who can waltz around in barrop formals without being censured for both. They don't realize, the poor dears, that it is not always emaciation that makes collar bones prominent but their own deplorable poor posture. By pulling up their backbones, tucking in their tummies breathing deeply so the chest lifts they could rid themselves of those unsightly bones.

Instead, they throw their shoulders forward and what happens? The chest falls inward instead of lifting. Instead of a neat flat back, as every slender girl should have, the shoulders are rounded.

For the perfect silhouette the throat should be slightly thicker from front to back than from side to side. The lower portion should carry a slight indentation. From that point downward there should be a gradual fullness of the chest to the breasts, the breasts forming the lower part of the line.

If today's subject is your special beauty problem, make a test. Stand before a full-length mirror. Let your shoulders and arms fall forward. Then come to order, taking the soldier's position. Place your finger tips of your shoulders. pouf your elbows back, then drop your hands in front of you. Pull yourself up full height. Keep your head balanced. Next, then be presenting two pictures of yourself, one with slouchy carriage, one maintaining correct posture. The latter picture will be spirited and graceful. And where are those collar bones about which you have been complaining? They have disappeared.

Develop the chest muscles by by doing arm swinging exercises, one arm at a time. Fold your fingers in the palm of your hand, push the hand forward, then high and far out at the sides, then far back as if you were swinging a pendulum.

Massage may help, if continued faithfully. Use a heavy cream, making rotary motions over the chest, especially along the line of the collar bones. Do that at bedtime after you have creamed your face. In the morning turn the cold spray on your chest to stimulate circulation.

PICTON

Three Townships Are Forced To Hold Second Nominations

PICTON — Municipal elections are being held in Picton, Hallowell township, Bloomfield village, Athol township and Hallowell township. An unusual situation existed nominations for reeve in Ameliasburgh, North Marysburgh and Sophiasburgh, necessitated where full slates of councillors, but not reeves.

Picton has eight seeking the six councillors' chairs. They are Dalgleish Clapp, Brian Dodds, Sam Gentile, Andrew Jarvis, Nesbitt Parkinson, Fred Shannon, Donald Ward, Ernest Ward. Mayor H. J. Mumford was given an acclamation; Deputy reeve Carman Scott will become reeve and councillor Woodrow Blakely is the new deputy-reeve.

Bloomfield has a three-way contest for the reeveship between Ed Allison, chosen by acclamation in the middle of the year, councillors George Thomas Jackson and Charles Howard. Councillors by acclamation are Henry Cronkwright, George Pike, Sherman McQuaid, Claude Phillips and Ernest Ward.

Hillier township has a contest between councillor Sam Dunford and a former reeve, Murray Parks, for the reeveship, with Reeve Doris Wight retiring. Four councillors will be elected from Rose Harris, Bert Cannons, Andrew Haight, Wesley Vandlief and Kenneth Wood.

In Athol township, councillor Lee Keenes is opposed in the reeveship race by H. S. Culliver, who is Picton's 1953 reeve. Reeve Hinton Green, warden of the county this year, retires after ten years' service. Seeking the four council seats are Keith Brunsell, Gordon Demorse, John B. Hagerman, David Leavitt, Melvin McConnell, Walter Steinacker.

In Ameliasburgh, Reeve Melvin Wolfe and Deputy Reeve Wellington Nightingale were given acclamations. Harmon Montgomery and Clifford Smith qualified as councillors. Gary Walker nomination was that of councillor Bill McDougall but he was declared ineligible to qualify when it was pointed out that being absent from nomination meeting he had not filed a declaration of acceptance with the clerk, as required under the act.

SEEKING COUNCIL SEAT.

In Hallowell township, Clarence Hicks retires as reeve but seeks a seat in council. Deputy Reeve Clifford Wilson steps up to the township and Councillor Ross Hyatt is deputy-reeve. From four, elections will choose three councillors, candidates being Clarence Hicks, Jack May, Gordon Parks and Russell Vader.

Which we came on from behind the tree and started to do me saying. Does Jack Aszigreece live here, mister?

Who! No, what kind of a name is that! the man said, and he took the key out of the keyhole and looked at it mad and blew on it and put it back again, and it still didn't work, and Puds said, Can you tell us what name does live here?

I can tell you a cupple of names that will be Mud if you dont steer out of here being I lose the rest of my temper, the man said.

And he made a fierce face at us making his one natural face look even worse, and we quick kept on going, and the last time we looked around he was sitting on the steps as if he was waiting for somebody elts to come home and let him in with a better key.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Puds Simkins are the only 2 members of the Potts Simkins Secret Service, and we were walking along one day and we was on the lookout for spies and saboteurs and things, and I said, On the trale, pardner, he's trying to broke in.

Meaning some man trying to get into a house by ratteling his key in the lock and shaking the door, and Puds said, Oh boy, he's a foreign agent after secret papers.

He probably telefoned first and didn't get an answer, that's how he knows nobody is home, I said, and Puds said, I bet he's using a skeliton key and it wont work.

Sure, it probably came from the wrong skeliton, I said.

And we got behind a tree and watched him a while, and his key kept on not working, and Puds said, Let's try to trap him by asking him innocent questions and see if he gives us gilty answers.

Churchill Has Seen Nearly 60 Years of Continuous Action

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—All who want to live into their 70th year should pick a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of living if not, time, says? He says he put into one word—Gusto.

"All babies look like me," he once quipped. And he has indeed the qualities that mark all healthy children—imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up.

Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battlefield of life Churchill has been nearly 60 years—a personal journal at 78 is still going at a gallop.

Churchill has never been afraid to be grandly right—or of being greatly wrong. He has never shied from death or hesitated to take fame's fees. He has undertaken splendid responsibilities, not of his own choice, but as welcome ordeals.

POWER A BLESSING

"Power, for the sake of loving it over fellow creatures or adding to personal pomp, is rightly judged base," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his gaze too lightly or himself too seriously. He never lost his sense of humor.

If Hitler invaded hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the devil in the House of Commons."

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He lived his history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

Churchill has played and worked with equal fervor all his life, and yet is a stout defender of the afternoon nap.

"The rest and the spell of sleep in the middle of the day refresh the human frame far more than a long night," he wrote. "We were not made by nature to work, or even to play, from 8 o'clock in the morning till midnight."

So if you want to live a rich, full life like Churchill's, enjoy your work as much as your play—and get that afternoon nap.

Nothing else to it. Except ability.

Railway Unions Ask for Officer To Settle Issue

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian railways and brotherhoods representing non-operating employees have been unable to settle contract differences and have asked for appointment of a federal conciliation officer, it was announced Monday.

The announcement was made jointly on behalf of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

Representatives of the railways and the brotherhoods started discussions last week on terms of a new contract to replace one due to expire today. The brotherhood sought "fringe benefits" rather than a per hour increase in salary.

The brotherhoods, representing some 130,000 men in shops, stations and offices of the railways, asked for improved pay for work on statutory holidays and Sundays, extended paid vacation and more generous sick-pay provisions.

Youth Arrested

KITCHENER (CP)—A 20-year-old Linwood youth was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving Monday night after police said he pushed a car through the nearby village of St. Clements at 65 miles an hour.

Police said Frank Friedman pulled up behind Gordon Schlueter of Heidelburg just outside St. Clements and pushed Schlueter's car through the village at 65 miles an hour. Schlueter learned out his brakes trying to stop.

When they reached the other end of the village, Friedman drove down a side road.

Bail set at 5,000 property or 1,000 cash. He will appear in court Dec. 8.

Seek to Inform U.S. Tourists Of Firearms Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's tourist experts decided Monday to study new methods to inform American tourists of laws governing the possession of firearms.

D. Lee Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, told the federal-provincial tourist conference he has received complaints from Americans fined for illegal possession of weapons.

Many entered Canada without knowing they must have special permits to carry rifles during the summer. Others purchased by registered permit, when they entered Canada but ran afoul of the law when they reached another province.

H. H. Taylor of the customs division of the revenue department said booklets on firearm regulations are placed in racks at points of entry. However, customs officers were not permitted to distribute them.

The conference decided to investigate the possibility of porter displays at border points outlining regulations.

Bombers-Ti-Cats Cup Battle Greatest In History, Say Sports Writers

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SPIT IT OUT, THE TRUTH!

It takes all kinds of people to make up this wacky old world. But then it would be totally wacky if everyone was perfect.

For instance, there are some people in the city who have a definite misconception of the senior "B" hockey situation here.

Some of them are of the opinion that the Memorial Arena Commission took over the franchise purely through monetary motives. In fact one business man, who ordered an advertisement in the club program cancelled it when he learned that the city was sponsoring the team. "The city gets enough taxes," he is alleged to have said, "why does it need money?"

Others, for the same reason, have refused to attend the games in which the senior club plays.

They forget that the operation of the hockey club by the Arena Commission is as far from city business as an Eskimo igloo from glamorous Bali-Bali.

This department contacted Alderman Bruce Smith, appointed manager of the team after its sponsorship was taken over by the Arena Commission. And here is his statement:

It speaks for itself:

"Late in the autumn of 1953 the sponsorship of the Belleville Mercos senior "B" hockey club was taken over by the Memorial Arena Commission. It was given the post of manager with power to act without outside interference.

"There is, however, one point I would like to clear up and have definitely understood by every hockey fan in the city and district.

"The Arena Commission took over the sponsorship of the club only because no private sponsor was available. The city did not seek at any time to undertake the job. It took it over for one reason only, and that was to give hockey fans of the city and district senior hockey this season.

"The Arena Commission realized with the last moment hectic rush. In order to fulfill this obligation it had no association the opportunity to exercise the franchise. This was not forthcoming a few days before the deadline for entries. Circumstances noted.

"I have been given to understand there are some people who misunderstand the commission's action in taking over the club. They believe, or did believe, that the object was an entirely monetary one. This is definitely not the case.

"Meanwhile, I with the members of the commission, have endeavored to do the best we can to bring to Belleville a team of which it will be proud. We went for afield to secure additional members of the team. We came to a satisfactory arrangement with the players as a whole, and I firmly believe that by playoff time the Mercos will be up there with the leaders.

"The calibre of hockey produced thus far by the team in the group indicates that Eastern Ontario senior "B" hockey ranks with the best in the province, Oshawa, Kingston, Brockville and Orillia are far stronger clubs than in 1952, and this has made for keener hockey entertainment. And it will improve as the season progresses.

"I sincerely trust that all hockey fans of the district will support the Mercos and in this way help them in their efforts to bring a championship to Belleville."

AT LONG LAST!

With all their faults, you cannot call the Memos "homers". They have been on the road in two of them have been on foreign ice. They clipped the Oshawa Generals 8-5 in Stowmarville, dunked the Peterborough Peter Brs 5-1 and last night made the Kingston Goodfrays say "uncle" to the tune of 4-3 down in Reddenville's Community Centre.

And the victory is all the more impressive since it was the Memos' third game in four days. They apparently had something in reserve for their last period rally that landed to take the lead and ultimate victory. It was another of those typical Kingston – Belleville ice battles, featured by a quarter-staff tussle between Gabby White and Bob Taylor, which resulted in major and match penalties for both, incidentally the first penalties of this nature to be handed out this season.

And with the Memos on the short end of the score at the time prospects for a victory took on a rather dim hue with Taylor being banished. However, the Memos hitched up their bootstraps and Peter Jones, along with Doug Rashleigh, tied up the count midway through the third beat. "Dude" Dorsa proved the hero of the piece when he blasted home the winner on a play with Jake Wade and Ed Duncan.

With a minute or so to go "Red" Doran got the gate and the Goodies swarmed to the attack, but the Memos' defence held up and they skated off with the most-desired scalp in the senior "B" tribe dangling at their collective belts.

Ti-Cats Picked 'Better Team' With Winnipeg's Jack Jacobs Getting 'Best Player' Accolade

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sports writers were virtually unanimous Monday in their Grey Cup postmortems! Saturday's East-West final was one of the greatest in the history of the annual football classic.

They picked the champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats the better team and Indian Jack Jacobs, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' quarterback, as the best player.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson thought the Hamilton club beated 13-6, "wasted valuable seconds in long huddles when they seemed to be defeating themselves among themselves."

"About 40 seconds of that last speeding minute were used up in huddles, when plainly, their session was the Jacobs' pass. Briefly we think that three of the four eastern teams could have beaten the Bombers, game and beaucoup as they were. . . ."

Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell described Jacobs' 38 completed passes as "a remarkable piece of work, one that will be remembered long after the Indian is gone from football."

Stan (Hamilton Spectator) Miller said it was a "tremendous thrill to watch a game, hard-fighting, bound like an early heavyweight championship once more after the storm had been weathered, then stave off a magnificent closing fling by a brilliant foe, the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, in the final seconds. It was a superb ending to a battle between teams that fought with different weapons, perhaps, but both of which gave the fight, going all out every inch of the way. . . . There were many stirring features in the contest but foremost us most is that (Hamilton) coach Clair Hodgson proved himself right on so many counts."

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll said the Tiger-Cats won because "they were just a little more versatile than the Bombers, especially on attack. Tom Casey is a specialist, but Jake Wade didn't make enough use of him."

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick said Tiger-Cats "conceded in advance that Jacobs at his best would propel an aerial offensive of most spectacular proportions. He did and they did not stop them."

KICKING LACKING

Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve said one thing was lacking "and that was the kicking. The reason for that was fairly obvious; Jacobs had no reason to do and big (Merle) Hapes had his line-smashing chores so it was a wonder to us that they got the ball away at all."

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara said of Jacobs' performance: "You won't see anything like that again in our football if you live to be as octogenarian. Still you wonder if he didn't overdo that phase of the game. We didn't like cut Casey loose in the first half as he did in the third period! Why place so much reliance on (Gerry) James, use him up on so much in running attacks?"

Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Vipond and Voyles accomplished the coach's dream of a team to peak its performance for the season to peak efficiency at the right time. That's an achievement all the more amazing when it is recalled that he was beset with tremendous grid difficulties the outset."

Tommy (Ottawa Citizen) Shields: "In future years football footballers get around to talking about Grey Cup games, they probably will refer to the 1953 final as the outstanding Canadian final in gridiron history. Naturally, this one was the best of them all that it has taken over forty minutes to see."

Jack (Winnipeg Tribune) Matthews: "The point the Bombers didn't bring up (after the game) was the weak defensive play on their right line in that first quarter. The best line in the West was a poor second on the field, and Tiger-Cats' charger were picking up a lot of yardage. The promised explosion of Bombs Jake Wade and Huffman and Mazza came to grips was nothing but a mild fizzzzz. . . ."

Bob (Winnipeg Free Press) Moir: "Eastern Coach Dick Brown, Vilo Ragazzo and Ray Truant in the Hamilton backfield all played well. Their line, led by the two guards, definitely outplayed Winnipeg's strong front wall over the route."

Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan: "Two factors which contributed most heavily to the 13-6 Hamilton victory were line play and pass defence. The Tiger-Cat line has long been rated one of the best, if not the best, in the East."

Maryland Named Top American Football Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland, the only United States college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the emblematic 1953 national collegiate football championship from undefeated but once-tied Notre Dame.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and headed for a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, captured the coveted O'Donnell Trophy in the final Associated Press poll of the season.

The O'Donnell Trophy, donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in honor of the late Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the basis of The AP poll.

Maryland succeeds Mich'gan State as holder of the trophy.

Michigan State won last year's champion; finished third. The Spartans were followed in the voting by UCLA, Rice, Illinois, Georgia Tech Iowa and West Virginia.

Major Leagues Take 13 Players From Minor Loops

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The major leagues dipped into the minor league ranks for 13 players at an investment of $133,500 Monday in its annual sale that opens winter baseball meetings.

Baltimore Orioles, the St. Louis Browns' No. 1 pick, took second baseman Vinicio Garcia, a .305 hitter at Shreveport in the Texas League. They also took 30-year-old outfielder Chuck Diering, former Giant and Cardinal, from San Francisco.

Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore each drafted two men and Philadelphia Athletics one for a total of nine by American League clubs. The National League picked only four, headed by Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis. Seven clubs passed when their names were called, including the world champion New York Yankees and perennial pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers.

Five pitchers, five infielders and three outfielders were selected, two more than the 852 draft of 15 players for 120,000.

Branch McKey, Jr., of Pittsburgh had the biggest purchase New York Yankee prospect in outfielder Gerald Lynch. Lynch led the Piedmont League in hitting with a .368 mark at Norfolk last season and hit 21 homers.

CLAIM "SLEEPER"

Cleveland may have grabbed a "sleeper" in Ralph Terry, Oklahoma, rowsk, a New York Giants farmhand out of Minneapolis Mill.

The Indians went down to class A to get the infielder, who played with Victoria, Texas, in the Eastern League last year and batted .285. Second other choice selection was right-handed pitcher Don Ferrarese, 24, who performed in the Texas League.

The Dodgers last two men when the Athletics selected Jacksonville man Forest Jacobs from Montreal Royals and Cincinnati took right-handed pitcher Jim Morton from Fort Worth. Jacobs played at Fort Worth and hit .282 before the Brooks moved him up to Montreal.

The Chicago Cubs was the only big business of the day. The International League failed to solve its dilemma about its 1954 setup after meeting representatives of Havana and Richmond.

The meeting was adjourned until Wednesday.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Once again, another Grey Cup football classic has been written into the colorful saga of one of Canada's most picturesque sports events. Once again the game has actually attracts more fur-flung attention and interest than all the other sporting classics combined, including the Kentucky Derby!

And once again, this column raises a plaintive voice to enquire why and on what grounds the entire football populace of Canada's West, and a good proportion of the sporting public in the east, are excluded by mandate from viewing any part of this gridiron spectacle.

The answer to this is likely to be that Toronto's huge Varsity Stadium, with its 28,000 seats, can accommodate more people than any other stadium in Canada. If that is correct, it isn't a good one because it contains two holes through which you could drive a 250-pound linesman.

The first gap in this line of thought, presuming it exists, is that in giving Toronto the monopoly on this game, several thousand Canadians, west and east, will be denied the right to be in Toronto, and probably couldn't secure a seat for the game if they got there, and shot a cannon.

And these several thousand are the folks who, by giving their whole-hearted support to the teams of the Western Conference in the prairies, and the Big Four in the east, make the Grey Cup spectacle possible.

The second yawning gulf in the answer is financial. If the Grey Cup is to be made a national institution of ultimate in dollars, then its practical proponents are missing a bet. It is were played on the same practical basis as the baseball World Series, or the Stanley Cup, Hambro Cup, Mann Cup, Vanier Cup. Those who helped make the series possible would see the games, and the principals of, say, 3-game series one east, two west, and vice versa in alternate years, would more than equal the returns from a single game.

There are those who urge that this is Canada's most gaudy, glittering and colorful sports drama of the year. We agree.

But we don't agree to the argument that it should be limited to one game, one city, or to the theory that it would sharpen the Cup finals to broaden the scope. It hasn't cheapened the world's baseball series or the Stanley Cup series in any noticeable way, and these give the fans who paid all season a chance to view not only the prologue, but the final drama. So it should be with the Grey Cup.

Memos End Four-Game Losing Streak With 4-3 Win Over Kingston

The 'Duke' Blasts Home Winner After Squad Roars from Behind In Thrilling Senior 'B' Clash

KINGSTON — Two goals scored in a space of 34 seconds, turned the tide in favor of the Memos in a thriller last night in the Community Memorial Centre when the Belleville Memos received the OHA Senior B group three, chart and edged Goodyears, the while almost 3,000 fans looked on in disbelief and amazement. It was Bell-Irving's third triumph in ten starts and Goodyears fifth reverse in eleven tests. The result could not be falsified; then Memos earned points total to 9. Goodyears who lacked the payoff punch, outshot the Memos by 30 to 26 were belatedly rewarded by Ron Sarrault, the cool and accurate centreman of the Belleville cagey. The game was played at a consistently fast pace, feeling was tense and there were occasions when it was feared the goings on would get out of control.

GIFT MATCH PENALITIES

In the second period Jack White and Bob Taylor engaged in a mix-up, both swinging sticks with such vehemence each received a match penalty. The referees however permitted the use of substitutes at the end of five minutes hence the penalties to skate then an alternate will be eligible as a replacement only after the offender has served ten minutes.

The visitors provided a surprise when they led by 2 to 1 at the first intermission but they were forced into a 3-3 deadlock during the boisterous middle session and were outscored 2 to 0. The Memos were meticulously to their 2 to 2 advantage until Pete Jones, aided by Jack White, the squalizer at the 18.34 mark in the final dash and before the game had ended Memos'ed Duke Doran, assisted by Doug Bastedo and Ron Sarrault, fired the winning marker. The time feverishly and rushed with telling effect.

The Memos, which didn't look like a trailing team, turned in a masterful effort against opponents who appeared to be too defensive cautious. Over the years although to launch ranging attacks they threatened to break the game wide open. Vernon Gover, Taylor, Wade and Bastedo offered the resistance and ably supported their eagle eyed goalkeeper.

The paid attendance of 2909 was far above expectations when it is considered that the Memos had lost 7 of 9 previous engagements and that weather conditions were inclement.

Tommy Goodfellow paced all goal-getters when he flashed the puck past Sarrault on two occasions. He was also extremely defensively and rushed with telling effect. Don Murray got the other Kingston counter while Ken Devlin, Johnny Myles and Ted Middleton each earned an assist. Flashy George MacGregor had several good chances but was thwarting by Sarrault.

The Duncan twins, "Duke" Doran and Pete Doran were Belleville's successful snipers. The Duncans and Doran also formed the most effective forward line on either team. Wade and big Vern Gover, stout defenders, were also prominent operators and enhanced their usefulness by blasting clear of the penalty bench.

Goodfellow was serving a sentence when Edwin Duncan scored the first goal at 8.32 in the first period. Goodyears owned the count at 11.40 and appropriately enough, Goodfellow was the marksman and Ken Parris the assistant. Late in the period Ted Nicholson hooked "Red" Doran, who was in the clear and a penalty shot was awarded to Belleville. Doran blasted the shot but, however, and Nicholson was sent to the penalty bench. He was still there at 18.36 when Edwin Duncan, assisted by Edwin Duncan and Taylor, shot the Memos into the lead.

TEMPERS FRAYED

Tempers became frayed at the edges in the middle session and during the excitement a battle broke out in the corner when Jack White drew the first sentence for tripping Jack McKeown and remained after the session opened and it was served by Doug Bastedo. Myles and Taylor drew minors for high sticking at 4.59, Pete Jones joined them at 5.42 for, Don Murray, Then Taylor and White tangled and were suitably penalized but Memos did not waver until at 12.51 Clint Thirkes clicked in a three way attack with Myles and Murray, but Lundry was penalized for using a broken stick at 13.34 and Sarrault in his absence Goodfellow got his second counter and Nicholson an assist.

Goodyears outplayed the Memos by a considerable margin during the first ten minutes of the final period but could not solidify their attack. Then the Belles struck at 10.34 with Pete Jones sagging the twine and in another 34 seconds "Duke" Doran fired the winner past Ken Johnson. Goodyears snuffed chances over the rest of the route. At 18.25 Johnson was replaced by an extra attacker but was rushed back when a face off was called near the local net.

At 18.50 a great cry arose that "Red" Doran should be penalized for holding MacGregor and Referee Louis Lecompte obliged when he waved the puck over the Memos inner-sanctum but still could not count.

Goodyears opened the scoring at 11.40 and appropriately enough, Goodfellow was the marksman and Ken Parris the assistant. Late in the period Ted Nicholson hooked "Red" Doran, who was in the clear and a penalty shot was awarded to Belleville. Doran blasted the shot but, however, and Nicholson was sent to the penalty bench. He was still there at 18.36 when Edwin Duncan, assisted by Edwin Duncan and Taylor, shot the Memos into the lead.

Letter To Sports Editor

Senior 'B' Hockey

Dear Sir:-

I would like to take up the matter of Senior 'B' hockey in the first; I would like to take to task the person or persons responsible for the present schedule. It is totally unfair to both fans and players. Last week-end for example the Memos played games on Friday, Saturday and Monday. I don't feel that they are right in asking one other as far as attendance goes, but instead the way we are regarding distance, there is no reason why Kingston and Peterborough have scheduled two week-end games.

As far as the team goes, I admit the defence is stronger but I think it is quite apparent from the last few games that we lack a scoring punch. "Rest" is going mainly with the losers and I think it is only fair to those players to ask if anything is being done to try and get us a few more scoring chances. If we are to be a contender this year, now is the time to see the attendance drops off to nil. And we can't afford that.

From what I hear Mr. McNevin was totally responsible for the recent strength of the team. How about the present committee getting something, or will they be the writing on the wall?

Signed: F. Jones.

53 Graham Street.

Ed. Note—Mr. Jones has "heard" correctly. Alderman Fred McNevin had absolutely nothing to do with the organization of the Memos interests this year. Secretary Drury Denyes and Manager Bruce Smith with information from outside sources, alone were responsible for the coming here. Those two men were appointed by the Arena Commission to handle all affairs of the team without any interference whatsoever either by the commission or members of council.)

'Mike' Weichel Re-Elected Head Of O. M. H. A.

O. M. Weichel, D.C.M., and recent recipient of the Coronation Medal, has been re-elected president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association by acclamation, it was announced here. When nominations for office in the O.M.H.A. closed, it was disclosed that the president, three vice presidents, secretary and treasurer had been nominated by acclamation but that ten hockey enthusiasts would contest the seven seats on the executive committee.

Mr. Weichel was nominated in addition to the popular Kimira war-veteran, were vice presidents Fred Nonamaker, Simcoe; Bert Hick of Lindsay and Jack Oakes of Hamilton; secretary, L. L. Christie and treasurer Dr. Leon Hirsch, both of Toronto.

Seven members of the present executive committee are standing for re-election. They are Frank Doherty, Thorold; Ted Kines, Galt; Jerry Quinn, Gravenhurst; Frank Cudmore, Wallaceburg; Jim Hamilton, Guelph; Albert Watkins, Peterborough, and Doug Patterson, of Stirling.

Newcomers, seeking entry to the minor hockey's governing body are Tom Loftus of Kingston; Gordon Bishop of Norwich and W. Hall of Sarnia, both of Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

Wilson Succeeds Brundage As Olympic Prexy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Avery Brundage retired Monday as president of the United States Olympic Association, after serving 25 years in the post. Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, commissioner of college football's Big Ten conference, was elected to succeed him.

Brundage told a press conference he was giving up the American post to devote his full energies to the International Olympic Association. Brundage was elected president of the international group last year and will serve in that capacity until 1960.

Brundage, 66, withdrew from the U.S. presidency for two additional reason that he wanted to forestall any possible charge of bias in holding the two jobs at the same time. Brundage, who formerly held the post of vice-president in the U.S. association, was elected unanimously. Wilson of New York then was re-elected secretary.

Douglas F. Roby of Detroit, who retired as president of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, was elected second vice-president. R. Max Ritter of Philadelphia was named treasurer.

Johnny Latiner All-American May Join Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province said Monday that all-American half Johnny Latiner of Notre Dame is "an odds-on bet" to join British Columbia Lions football club next summer.

In a dispatch from Los Angeles, the Province also says Tom Mickeloff, big Southern California end, has been offered a provisional contract with the Lions, slated to join the Western Interprovincial Football Union next fall.

The story says Lions' coach Annis Stukus and Don MacKenzie, player committee chairman, are on a scouting trip in California and refused to comment on the report.

The newspaper says Latiner, ranked 3rd individually in the U.S. will turn professional when the Notre Dame finishes next week and will discuss terms with the Lions before talking to other clubs. He was reported to be anxious to play in Canada because he felt he would have a better chance to get a good job.

Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts May Withdraw from Junior Hockey

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Record said Monday that Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts may withdraw from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The club was purchased recently by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Representatives of Quebec Junior League clubs were said to be in Kitchener Monday making arrangements to take over the Greenshirts if the Greenshirts folded.

The story says the Greenshirts have lost money steadily since they joined the league in 1951.

In Midland, George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he has had no official notification that the Greenshirts dropping out.

Dudley said the Canadiens "apparently" would not violate CAHA regulations if they chose to transfer Kitchener-Waterloo players to Quebec junior teams.

Sport in Brief

BIG OLYMPICS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Australian spokesman for the United States predicted Monday night that the 1956 Olympics "down under" will be the greatest ever despite "the mental anguish" involved in getting there.

Sir Percy Spender, in a speech before a banquet meeting of the United States Olympic Association, gently spoofed the extravagances of athletics in which the difficulty the Australians encountered in turning the Melbourne Cricket Club Arena into a field for Olympic competition.

"So hallowed an Australian sporting arena had the MCC become," he said, "there was hesitation at one time to accept the need to reconstruct the Olympic Games as the historic turf where Trumper and Bradman once smote with such bowling."

"In due course," spender added, "it was realized that there was no alternative site in Melbourne so considerably suited for the Olympic Games as the MCC and the supreme sacrifice was made."

He assured the United States fans' mental anguish in disturbing the MCC by asking fellow Americans will feel some day if the Yankees or Yankee Stadium, where Babe Ruth once trod, must be torn up to stage an international cricket match.

CLEARS RECORD

LONDON (CP)—Harry Llewellyn leading British equestrian who has just returned from riding in Canada and the United States, has cleared himself of charges in his views on the relative abilities of Ottawa's 18-year-old Shirley Thomas and Britain's Pat Smythe.

In a letter to the Daily Telegraph, he emphasized that he had not described Miss Thomas as the world's best rider. He had said that was that her horse, White Sable, is tops.

"Then to take the sting out of that statement, he added:

"Miss Thomas is young and inexperienced and shows considerable promise, but I would not rate her in the same class (with Miss Smythe) at the present moment."

Llewellyn was quoted on his return from riding at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto as saying that Miss Thomas was the world's best lady rider. He said in his letter that he had been "misheard" and wanted to stand by his numerous previous tributes to Miss Smythe as the top woman rider.

SIGNS WITH CHISOX

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Marty Marion, manager of the last place St. Louis Browns in 1953, has been signed as coach of Chicago White Sox, it was announced Monday night.

Marion, who had piloted St. Louis Cardinals to a third-place finish in 1951 before joining the Browns as a player-coach the following season, was dropped by Baltimore Orioles after they inherited the Browns last month.

Roger Cramer, who coached the White Sox last season, was dropped to make room for Marion. Cramer has been offered another job in the organization but has not yet made his decision.

Marion's salary was not disclosed but it will fall far short of his $53,000 salary with the Orioles. It was expected that the Baltimore club will make up the difference.

DISCUSS JOINT SKED

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The American Association Monday discussed a proposal for an interlocking schedule with the International League but took no action due to the uncertain condition of the International League makeup.

It had been proposed that each club take one swing around the eight cities of the other triple A league. A league spokesman said, however, it probably would be impractical if Havana should be granted membership in the International.

Under the proposed interlocking schedule, each American Association team would make one swing around the International League.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two young actors, one a night club comic and the other a specialist in film noir, laline, are filling the celebrated shoes of Abbott and Costello.

The lucky players are Buddy Hackett, 28, and Hugh O'Brian, 26, an actor who is known as the eager beaver of the Universal-International lot. He is now starring for film roles that he even allowed his head to be shaved for a part as a treacherous Indian chief.

The pair fell into their good fortune as the result of some bad luck for the veteran comics. Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, a couple of weeks ago, the strain of doing movies, live and filmed TV, benefits and other appearances finally struck Lou, who only a few years back was in bed for a year with rheumatic fever. Doctors now say his heart will not allow any activity for three to six months.

This threw U-I in a tiry. The studio was all set to start "Fireman Save My Child," Lou's scenes had already been shot in San Francisco, and Bud Jones and his music-wrecking band had been signed. At first the picture was indefinitely postponed.

GIVE? GO-AHEAD

Then studio officials mulled define the film with another team. O'Brian and Hackett were tested, and the new team was given the go-ahead signal by producer Howard Christie.

"I'm still catching my breath," said Hackett. "I thought I'd have only a week before the picture started. I wasn't told to report for work until the morning the picture started.

"I asked Hackett how he felt to be filling Lou Costello's shoes.

"I'll tell you a story," said the rely-poly funnyman, who speaks in the unmistakable tones of his native Brooklyn. When I started out as a comedian six years ago, the first review I got compared me to Lou Costello. Ever since then, I have worked hard to avoid being similar to him."

MARMORA

Trent Valley Pre-Season Loop Gets Under Way

MARMORA — The Trent Valley pre-season league set the pace in exciting play Friday night at the Marmora rink as Point Anne and Batawa, Campbellford and Wellington played a double-header.

In the first fixture Point Anne won comfortably by 10 goals to five.

Batawa, led at the end of the first period by 2-1, Foster, Reid, and Rankin scored on assists by Mills, Warden and Foster respectively, while Hull and Jacklin each added for Point Anne.

Point Anne's first line put on the pressure early in the second. Goyer led the score on Mullholland's pass. Jacklin broke through and unassisted after seventeen seconds later scored another on Climenhaga's pass. The latter player took the puck at 11 minutes on Jacklin to Hirsbrunner and made the score read 5-3 at the end of the period.

Jacklin got his fourth goal on assists from Strahan and J. Goyer early in the third. Rankin installated for Batawa on assists from Mills and Rankin. Further goals were registered for Point Anne by Mulholland on Goyer's pass at first and Hunter and Williams unassisted. With two and a half minutes to play Goyer got the final goal for Batawa.

The second game wound up with Marmora and Wellington tieing 3-3 after ten minutes overtime. The game was evenly contested. Riddell for Wellington got the scor-tounter in the first on Hunt's assist. Marmora did all the scoring in the second period. Trumpis registered on assists from Leonard and Maynes and Reynolds put Lovelace pass to good account.

In the third, Pettingill on Greer's assist got the score even with two minutes to go.

Each International Club would make a similar trip. All games would count in the league standings.

What you say you would do and what you actu-do with a hand at bridge is not always the same. This has been proven over and over again with hands that are played in a duplicate match. Fixed deals were made up in advance to be played by all pairs in a this match. One of these deals is shown here.

East was dealer. All west players got to seven hearts. But not all reached them in the same manner. Nor stayed there. Some tables found seven was the final contract or seven spades.

Some got doubled at seven hearts and succeeded. Most of those who redoubled aroused the ire of their opponents. These woke up to the fact that opponents took out the redouble to seven spades.

Those who shot right to seven hearts at the first opportunity were not even doubled. Or they earned opponents' love by seven spades fast. Seldom is it wise to go seven hearts at once.

Since east is dealer with nothing, the first legitimate opening is by south. What west does will no doubt depend on the opening used by south. West then has a wide choice.

South might open with one spade or two spades or three spades or even four spades. The correct opening is two spades. This is a forcing to game signal. It tells partner he is holding slam possibilities.

In either case, a clever player will not bid hearts at once with the west hand. Almost anything but hearts at first will come to a better end. Then, seven hearts will probably be doubled.

What bid other than hearts could west use? Diamonds, clubs, a takeout double, an overcall in opponent suit; almost anything of a forcing nature but a jump to game the heart holding.

Such is the course that would be followed by a very skilful player. Beginners can stuff up their ears to such advice.

Blackmore Comes To Defence Of McCarthy

OTTAWA (CP)—John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) Monday completed in the Commons what he said was a defence of Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

He was replying to an attack made by David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) last week against "Mc-Carthyism and McCarthyites." Mr. Blackmore was still speaking at the 10 p.m. adjournment Friday night and completed his speech Monday.

Mr. Blackmore said Senator McCarthy is a "dynamic" personality, "a man of vigorous energy and sincerity" with a great "intellectual capacity" and "understanding of world affairs."

Because of McCarthy's work, Communist sympathizers were "gnashing their teeth" and "screaming."

Another reference to Senator McCarthy was made later in the throne speech debate by John Decore (L—Vegreville), who said the scene is like vaudeville: Edgar Bergen, whose dummies are named Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd.

"In Canada we has little Mc-Carthys—Charlie McCarthys—and there's a Mortimer Snerd for good measure."

Average Price Of 30 cts. Pound For Burley Crop

CHATHAM (CP)—At a meeting of the directors of the Burley Tobacco Marketing Board here Monday, the market appraisal committee set the average price of 30 cents a pound for the 1953 crop. The price fixed has been accepted by the marketing board.

The negotiated price is half a cent a pound higher than last years price and it is expected to bring an amount an acre slightly more than the 1952 return because of a higher yield.

J. Fred Thoeris of Malden township, Essex-Kent district board said the 1953 crop was of excellent quality, better than it had been during the last 18 years.

Prices by grades in hundred pounds computed from the negotiated average price are as follows: CB 2 41.67; CB 3 35.84; CB 4, 31.19; CB 5, 29.94; CB 6, 26.99; CB 7, 24.04; CB 8, 21.09; CB 9, 19.18; and CB 10, 17.05.

Growers were also advised by members of the board to refrain from stripping tobacco until the crop is sold so they can meet with requirements of various buying companies. Directors have set the toll levy to association members at half cent a pound to take care of operating expenses, which is a quarter cent lower than a year ago.

Market for members will open Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Gen. Pearkes Claims Reserve Forces Are Weak

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) said Monday in the Commons that Canadian Army and RCAF reserve forces are so weak they could not be relied upon in an emergency.

He urged buildup of army and RCAF reserve manpower. RCAF reserves didn't have sufficient personnel to fulfil their given role. The 12 auxiliary squadrons were not equipped with the latest planes and thus would not have the required performance in case of Soviet air attack.

The Progressive Conservative military critic also said Defence Minister Claxton in his speech to the Commons last week had not outlined what steps, if any, were being taken by the government to maintain army reserves.

The free countries could not place intolerable strains on their economies by maintaining regular forces to match the Russian armed division for division. For this reason, the government should put emphasis on reserve army manpower.

IGNORE RESERVES

It had been traditional Canadian policy for years to regard the reserves as the backbone of the land forces. But "very little attention" had been paid of late to army reserves.

Gen. Pearkes said Mr. Claxton had given no assurance that all joint defence agreements with the United States had been put into force.

The minister had made a "halfhearted response" to President Eisenhower's call for action on all agreed measures for defence.

If any agreed ... were held in abeyance, such as standardization of ... equipment, the government should give reasons.

MARMORA

Ritchie Wells Acclaimed Reeve At Nomination

MARMORA.—Contrary to some expectations, there will be no contest for the reeveship of Marmora village this year, since Ritchie Wells was given acclamation at the nomination meeting held in the town hall on Friday evening under the chairmanship of E. C. Prentice, village clerk. However there is a possibility of an election on Reeve Wells' council for the four seats on the council.

They are John Reynolds, William D. Lavender, Carl Hoard, and Ira Shannon, retiring councillors and Sam Davidson, a new aspirant. Two are nominated for the office of Hydro commissioner, namely Fred B. Wells, retiring commissioner and Ralph E. Neal, ex-reeve of the village. The latter is acting member of the Public School Board namely, Donald F. Marett, Thomas J. Saleman and Roy Wright received acclamation. A short meeting followed the close of the nominations. The chief point of interest was the report of Councillor William A. Shannon, who touched upon the work of R. V. Anderson and Associates Limited on the sewage and water works systems in the village a project a large number of residents would like to see accomplished.

New Yorkers Without Major City Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP)—News-hungry New Yorkers were without a major city newspaper today as the Herald Tribune suspended publication in sympathy with the six big dailies closed down by a photo-engravers' strike.

The shutdown of all the principal newspapers was the first in the city's publishing history.

Representatives of the AFL photo-engravers union and of the publishers of the six affected newspapers scheduled resumption of negotiations this afternoon.

When negotiations were recessed Monday night, a federal mediator said there was no change in efforts to settle the dispute over wages and other issues. Union and publisher representatives had no comment on the course of the talks.

Photo-engravers on the six newspapers walked out early Saturday, but the Herald Tribune was not affected because it has its photo-engraving done by a commercial plant. The six dailies closed down because members of other newspaper unions honored the picket lines of the engravers. More than 30,000 employees were put idle.

The Herald Tribune, which published a streamlined eight-page edition Monday, announced Monday night it is suspending until further notice.

TRIB'S ANNOUNCEMENT

The newspaper's announcement, saying in effect that it would not be used as a lockout instrument to force a strike settlement on the other newspapers, read in part:

"We take this action because it is clear that the continued publication of The Herald Tribune is being used as an instrument to obstruct normal collective bargaining.

"In this connection a responsible union official involved in the general strike was quoted as saying, 'If The Herald Tribune is published and The Times is closed, it won't stay closed long.'

"This newspaper . . . feels that the other publishers have done everything possible to reach a just agreement, including two offers to submit the issues to an impartial arbitrator or board of arbitrators. . . .

"All members of The Herald Tribune organization are expected to report at their usual hours and to handle their regular work so that it will be possible to resume publication without delay."

The Herald Tribune did not quantity the union demand it quoted. However, the New York Times on Saturday attributed the same quote to David M. Burke, president of striking Local 1 of the International Photo-Engravers Union (AFL).

The Times and Tribune are close competitors in the morning newspaper field.

SCALE PACKAGE INCREASE

The photo-engravers, who make the metal plates from which newspaper pictures and illustrations are reproduced, went on strike in support of their demand for a package increase of $15 a week, including wages, pensions and welfare benefits. The publishers, represented by the Publishers Association of New York City, offered a $3.75-a-week package. Current wages are $130 a week for day work and $135 for night work.

Most New Yorkers, lacking newspapers with a combined circulation of almost 5,500,000, had only their chewing gum to occupy them on the subway going to and from work today. Lockier New Yorkers and many commuters had copies of largely-regional suburban newspapers. Thousands of news stands were closed. Newspapers from other cities were in heavy demand at the few midtown stands which feature them.

Radio and television stations increased the length and frequency of their news broadcasts.

The loss of Christmas advertisements of the stores struck the newspapers a heavy financial blow.

Poor Arson Attempt Is Seen at Lakefield

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Fire in the Corvaltion Inn Restaurant at Lakefield, eight miles from here Sunday night appeared to be a "poor attempt at arson" police said.

Mrs. David Webster called firemen when she smelled smoke from the closed restaurant. The fire was quickly controlled and firemen said "quilt and ignited matches were found stuck between kitchen joists and wood was piled in a nearby window.

Liberals Favor Hospital Health Insurance Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal House leader in the Ontario legislature, said Monday night his party stands for a provincial hospital health insurance scheme.

Speaking in a series of free-time political broadcasts over a Ontario network, he stressed the importance of a province - wide health plan and said Ontario "should not delay longer, but follow where other provinces have led and provide for the citizens of Ontario an over - all protection against the cost of sickness."

Mr. Oliver said hospital grants have not kept pace with increased costs. The Ontario Liberal party would meet Dec. 11 and 12 to discuss policies to come up at next April's leadership convention.

Good Strapping Is Recommended For Juveniles

TORONTO (CP)—A "woodshed" attached to courts would solve the juvenile delinquency problem, CCF House Leader W. J. Grummett told the Ontario Legislature's select committee on reform institutions Monday.

The woodshed, for obvious purposes, would eliminate the glee that seems to hang over youths who have spent time in jail, Mr. Grummett said.

"When these boys get out of jail they return to their gangs and tell tall stories of how they acted in jail," he added. "There wouldn't be any talking if they were given good strappings."

Professor G. E. Reaman of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and a former head of the Bowmanville Boys' Training School agreed with Mr. Grummett. He said public opinion is in favor of corporal punishment for young offenders.

He urged legislation to permit magistrates to order strapping and said juvenile courts are hamstrung by a lack of discipline in homes.

Mysterious Fracas

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas McDermott, 36, Monday was charged with shooting with intent after a mysterious fracas in a schoolyard. Rattler MacDermott told police he had been assaulted and shot in the foot. However, police claim McDermott fired shots at an assailant. assailants, who overpowered him and he accidentally shot himself.

William McCraw, 25, held as a material witness, told police he was attacked at the same spot.

Churchill, Eden Fly On Tuesday To Bermuda Talks

To Seek Quick Acceptance Of Russia's Bid for Parley

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill leaves by air tonight for the Big Three conference in Bermuda, determined to press for quick acceptance of Russia's bid for an East-West meeting in Berlin.

Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and their staffs of advisers will make the flight in the same plane which last week carried the Queen across the Atlantic on the first leg of her Commonwealth tour. A refueling stop is scheduled for Gander, Nfld.

French Premier Joseph Laniel and his party are scheduled to arrive in Bermuda Thursday and President Eisenhower Friday.

Eden made it clear in the House of Commons Monday that despite U. S. doubts of Soviet sincerity, Britain will go to the talks ready to explore under way as soon as reasonably possible.

It is believed Churchill and Eden will urge Laniel and Eisenhower to join in meeting Berlin as the first step, proposing mid-January as the date.

Churchill is still thought to regard the proposed conference of Big Four West European defense and possible prelude to his cherished hope of a face-to-face meeting by the United States.

Now the Big Three will face the problem of dovetailing policy for the proposed meeting in Berlin. Churchill and Eden are both expected to bring up Britain's current stalemated negotiations with Egypt on the Suez canal zone and the continuing tension between Israel and Jordan. It is taken for granted also that there will be a thorough review of the situation in Trieste.

The question of the proposed European army, including German troops, undoubtedly will be a major topic of discussion.

Noted Heart Specialist Shot Leaving Office

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Edward D. Spalding, a well-known heart specialist, left his office in Detroit's professional building and stepped into the trunk of the car he was driving from a routine day at work.

A few violent minutes later he lay dead on the pavement, shot, police said, by a former mental case who got the wrong man.

Barely half an hour later, two roadside patrolmen grabbed John Sherbeck, 51, a few blocks away, in Sherbeck's pocket was a list of persons he had condemned to death, they said. Spalding's name was not included.

WOMAN DESCRIBES KILLING

Sherbeck had waited in the building lobby Monday, when Dr. Spalding left, a witness, Mrs. Madeline Bartolomei, told police. He walk up and five one shot. The 49-year-old doctor fell.

Dr. Spalding was considered one of the six top heart specialists in the United States.

Police said that the list in Sherbeck's pocket contained 10 other orderlies and one nurse in building at Eloise, a county hospital. Sherbeck said that he had meant to kill Dr. William T. McAlonan, who he claimed had maltreated him. McAlonan was still in his office at the psychiatric building at the time of the shooting.

Ottawa Will Not Spend More On Tourist Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial tourist conference has been told that heavy defence expenditures will not be increased.

Federal efforts in 1954 to attract more tourists to Canada.

Resources Minister Lesage, who reports to Parliament for the Canadian government travel bureau, said Monday that "defence expenditures are not going to be any much leeway for additional expansion." However, he added, there would be heavy because of Canada's increased commitments.

R. Gordon Robertson, deputy minister, said that defence expenditures during the fiscal year will be about the same as this year. Previously, it had been stated more money were not good.

Mr. Lesage and Mr. Robertson were commenting on suggestions by provincial delegates that the federal government increase the travel bureau's appropriation. The bureau now gets $1,500,000 a year. Of this total year, two-thirds earmarked for advertising and publicity.

The provincial delegates and representatives of transportation companies reported they plan to spend more money in 1954 to boost the promotion, particularly in the United States. They warned that Canada faced increased competition for the American tourist dollar, especially from Mexico.

28,000 LAID OFF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another 29,600 civilian workers were dropped from the federal payroll during October, the Civil Service Commission reported today. It said this brought the net cutback since January to about 176,600, leaving a total of 2,372,100 federal employees.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The weather map indicates continued cool weather in Ontario today but strengthening southerly winds will bring warmer weather Wednesday. There is a possibility that colder weather may follow as low pressure areas located today in Manitoba and moving towards the province. However this would not be until Thursday and in any case it is not yet definite just how far south the cold air will penetrate.

Rain is expected in most of the province during the latter part of Wednesday and in the afternoon northern Ontario the rain may be preceded by snow.

Dockers Strike As New Law Goes Into Effect

NEW YORK (AP)—A work stoppage broke out today at the pier of the liner United States as the new Taft-Hartley labor law went into effect in the port of New York.

Announcement of the stoppage, first picket appearance since the start of a campaign to purge the docks of criminal abuses, was made at one of the complement of ten setups in the New York area which has waterfront control commission.

Under the new law, which went into effect at midnight, labor and workers must be signed on in the employment centers, after first being licensed by the commission. Previously the "shape-up" system was used.

Safety Belts in Cars Suggested As Means of Saving Many Lives

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Safety belts in automobiles could prevent thousands of lives in highway accidents, an American Medical Association exhibit suggests.

It found that 453 out of 623 persons killed in one year in Indiana probably could have been saved by some safety changes.

They were mostly killed by accordian collapse of their cars. They died from being thrown. Safety belts, crash pads and other minor changes within cars apparently could have given them a new ticket on life.

The exhibition is presented by Sgt. Elmer Paul, head of the auto crash injury research section, Indiana state police, and trooper John B. Klein. It is part of a campaign to prevent one death every day deaths at the AMA's midwinter meeting opening today.

It is not just high speed which kills, Paul said. Two little girls were killed by being flung out the door of the car when the driver, in the car, moving at 20 miles an hour, was hit obliquely by another machine.

Another car skidded, struck a pole, and suffered only $150 damages. A man slid, across the seat and out the door when he had to brake, when his head hit a pole.

They were saved by such means as saving lives, are being installed now by some car owners, Paul said, and by some code clerk, but cars now are equipped with them.

A harness-type belt, holding the chest and shoulders back, is better than the airplane seat-belt type, he added.

The right front seat is one of the greatest danger spots. A study of passengers only found that 70 per cent of persons in cars were riding in the right front seat, and 23 per cent in rear seats.

HOWE PREDICTS PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR CANADIANS

Minister Says Selling May Be Little Tougher

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe offered two predictions: A tougher job of selling goods abroad next year; but a generally prosperous year at home.

Mr. Howe's economic review of 1953 and forecast of 1954 highlighted the throne speech debate Monday in the Commons.

Mr. Howe said:

1. Overseas trade volume will remain at the "fairly high" level some adjustment this year.

2. Canada's export prices likely will bring a reduction from the record export levels of the last two years.

3. "Sales prospects are probably firmer at least than in export markets."

4. There is every reason to look forward to a continued high capital spending.

5. A protective shift in investment toward housing, commercial and institutional building will mean increased employment.

6. Government spending for defence and other purposes will continue to stabilize the economy.

7. Personal spending and income should remain near 1953 levels.

STABLE MARKET

"To sum up, continuation of generally favorable conditions for the period ahead is indicated. It is true that the export trade, of course, that capacities are expanding in many countries and necessary to absorb the increasing volume of production.

"Further emergence of increasingly-competitive conditions on an international scale, may in time, as problems will be encountered in some industries . . . but as for the present, the trend of economic activity I predict the pessimists are going to be wrong again."

Referring to 1953, Mr. Howe forecast increases would be evident in production, the physical volume of consumer purchases and a record increase in capital to increase productive facilities.

INCREASE PLANS

Private capital outlays, he said, may reach $6,500,000,000, nine percent higher than the record in 1952. Although prices of capital goods were reasonably stable, the trend was toward substantial increase in plant.

He said some of the problems of the textile, electrical appliances and farm equipment industries were unsatisfactory and called for prosperity. It was important to realize that the sellers' market has given way to the buyers' market.

That meant that many Canadian industries will experience more intensive competition both domestically and internationally. The petition could not be avoided if Canada decided to maintain a broader benefits of free international trade.

U.S. Will Not Buy Own Safety At Expense of Enslaved Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles assured Soviet enslaved countries Monday that Americans never will bargain away their chances for freedom just to gain "illusory safety for ourselves."

Soviet despotism, Dulles said, cannot indefinitely perpetuate its rule over hundreds of millions of people who love God, who love their country and who have a sense of personal dignity."

While the secretary suggested no specific steps for liberating countries behind the Iron Curtain, he did say:

The captive peoples should know that they are not forgotten, that we are not prepared to gain safety for ourselves by a bargain with their masters which would confirm their captivity."

Dulles was the first witness before a special House of Representatives committee set up to investigate Russia's seizure and subsequent treatment of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. The committee hopes the information it obtains will be used, if Congress wishes, in laying the plight of the Baltic countries before the United Nations.

Committee chairman Charles Kersten (Rep. Wis.) said the tragedy of 6,000,000 Baltic people was the blueprint for what happened elsewhere later. Dulles and diplomatic representatives of Baltic countries agreed that the pattern was:

1. Practice of peace and nonaggression, mutual assistance pacts discarded by Russia, then invasion and the setting up of puppet governments, and incorporation of the countries into the Soviet Union.

Dulles, saying that some 15 once-independent countries now have been Sovietized, noted that Soviet leaders still ask free people to accept and rely on Russian mutual security pacts.

"We should know by now," he said, "that when the Soviet rulers use the word 'security' they mean an opportunity for the Soviet Union to secure new victims."

Politicians Shield Racketeers Says Former Probe Lawyer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Powerful political lobbies in the United States are protecting racketeers, the former counsel of a congressional investigating committee says.

William F. McKenna, Los Angeles lawyer who resigned his post with a House of Representatives sub-committee on racketeering Friday, said a congressional inquiry into the political mantle that protects racketeering in this country" is essential.

McKenna resigned following a hearing in Detroit on the AFL Teamsters Union. His statement Monday was prompted by remarks in Detroit by committee member, Rep. Clare Hoffman (Rep. Mich.).

Hoffman, in announcing McKenna's resignation, said he was to prejudge practice, said the conduct of the chairman, Rep. Wint Smith (Rep., Kans.), at the hearing "caused McKenna to leave with a bang and left his counsel in limbo a good feeling."

Hoffman said McKenna was "humiliated in not getting more support from Smith in his efforts to get the story out of Hoffa (James R. Hoffa, head of the Teamsters union)."

McKenna in his statement said the House government operations committee began investigating racketeering last spring, conducted hearings in Kansas City and Detroit but had barely skimmed the surface in those cities.

He said he, as counsel, and the investigators made "a fruitful effort to be oblivious to the pressures exerted by certain powerful lobbies to stop the inquiry into racketeering."

Gouzenko Believes Third World War Coming Soon

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Igor Gouzenko, whose disclosures led to the Canadian espionage trials of 1946, told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch today he believes a third world war is near.

Donald Grant of The Post-Dispatch, in a copyrighted dispatch from Toronto, reported Gouzenko does not believe the atomic bomb provides any real security for the West.

"He believes it is deathly important for the Western world — including the United States and Canada — to stop bickering and stand together," Grant reported.

WIFE PRESENT

The Post-Dispatch reported Gouzenko's wife was present during the four-hour interview at an undisclosed location. Gouzenko, the former Russian code clerk, has built a new life under an assumed name in an Ontario village for personal security reasons.

In the interview, Gouzenko said "he most definitely does not believe in a preventative war against Russia."

"What he does believe," the article continued, "is that communism must be fought seriously and well by a West that is strong, vigilant and morally right. . .

"Gouzenko said he is interested in Canadian spies — not in 1945, or at any other date in the past, but now, before it is too late."

REJECTS JENNER PARLEY

Gouzenko said Monday in a copyrighted article written for The Post-Dispatch and the Toronto Telegram that he had declined not to be interviewed by the Jenner subcommittee of the U.S. Senate. The subcommittee twice had forwarded requests to interview him.

Gouzenko said he is convinced his testimony would not serve the best interests of either U.S. or Canadian security and would endanger his anonymity."

TO FIGHT GUERRILLAS

SEOUL (AP)—Defence Minister Sohn Won Il said today that battle-toughened South Korean soldiers will join national police in the fight against Communist guerillas infesting South Korean mountains. A reliable police source said at least one army division will go into action against the guerillas next week.

BRITAIN HOPES FOR MORE TRADE WITH RED CHINA

Consulting With U.S. On Classifying Goods

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain hopes to increase her trade with Communist China and other countries of the Soviet bloc, a board of trade spokesman says.

Derick Heathcote-Amory, state minister for the government trade bureau, told the House of Commons Monday Britain's official talks have been engaged in consultations with the United States and other Western nations aimed at broadening the classifications of non-strategic goods.

But he cautioned that the government is more concerned with keeping strict control over trade with Communist countries than with expanding its volume.

Heathcote-Amory said Britain's embargo on the shipment of antibiotic, anti-malarial trade with drugs to China will be discontinued at the end of the year. The embargo, target of much criticism in Britain, is being terminated by decision of the multi-country consultative group that supervises strategic export controls, he said.

The board of trade spokesman made his statement after Labor member Harold Wilson called for expansion of East-West trade as a first step toward "the revival of the British people."

Britain's total British trade with China in the 15-month period ended September was four times that of the previous 15 months. Britain declared there was still much room for increase. He said Britain had not "refused" nearly £50,000,000 worth of trade with Communist countries in the last year, and consequently West Germany, Japan, Denmark, Holland and Belgium are profiting by the British policy.

Queen and Duke Visit Cruiser Escorting Liner

By GOMER JONES

ABOARD H. M. S. GOTHIC (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth interrupted her voyage to the Pacific Tuesday to cross over in a small boat from the royal warship accompanying her liner.

The Gothic was heading through the Panama Canal at the end of Panama and heading for the next stage of the royal tour to the South Pacific.

The order, "Ship engines" sounded and the Queen climbed down into a lowered launch.—With her husband Prince Philip she moved over to the escorting cruiser Sheffield for lunch with the ship's officers.

After a ceremonious reception aboard the warship, the Queen rejoined the Gothic and resumed the tour of the ship. She was presented with a cake specially made for the galley.

Then the royal couple crossed back to the Gothic and the royal tour to the southern islands, Australia and New Zealand was resumed.

QUAKE HITS GREECE

ATHENS (AP) — A new earthquake injured at least six persons, damaged many homes and caused 300 others Monday night in south central Greece. First reports of the quake area said there was no mention of any fatalities. Official dispatches said six persons were injured in the village of Makrynou and an unspecified number hurt in adjoining hamlets.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne Do Their Christmas Shopping Early

WINDSOR, Eng. (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne went to town today to do their own Christmas shopping.

With their "Nanny," Nurse Helen Lightbody, they visited the Royal Lodge, Windsor, where they are staying, to a toy store in the shopping district.

There five-year-old Prince Charles solemnly explained to a clerk that he was doing his shopping early as that his friends would want their presents in time for Christmas.

He had little trouble making up his mind—books and toy soldiers.

But curly-headed Princess Anne, 3, who prefers rough-and-tumble play to dolls, surprised everyone by realizes that her little girl friends may enjoy more conventional playthings.

So the rest of the morning was spent in the toy section which specializes in dolls. The tiny princess chose several large dolls for her best friends.

The children were in a gay mood. They laughed and waved to the townsfolk who gathered in the streets.

They are expected to spend Christmas with the Queen Mother at Sandringham, Norfolk, as Windsor since their parents are away on a six-month Commonwealth tour.

Vishinsky Brands Atrocity Charges As Falsification

Calls Lodge Report Cynical, Cowardly in UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia's Andrei Vishinsky today branded U. S. charges of mid atrocities in Korea as "flagrantly concocted falsification."

The Soviet delegate told the United Nation UN General Assembly that charges detailed Monday by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States were brought out to "dramatize" peace negotiations in Korea.

He called the Lodge report "cynical," "cowardly," a manoeuvre to cover the worst crimes of all perpetrated by the American military circles in Korea," and "redolent of slander."

FIRST SPEAKER

Vishinsky was the first speaker at this morning's session, called to debate the American charges that some 38,000 prisoners were victims of atrocities committed by Communist Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

The Soviet bloc, counting on the neutral UN membership to stay out of the debate and abstain from voting, apparently is determined to fight the atrocity issue.

India already has served notice that it has not yet decided on the relations repatriation commission in Korea, a crucial question in the vote. Other neutrals, especially members of the Arab-Asian bloc, also are expected to keep silent.

There is little evidence, however, that the Soviet bloc will receive any overt support in the debate.

ARMS ASSEMBLY ACTION

Most delegates sat in silence Monday as the chief U.S. delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, delivered the atrocity report and introduced a resolution calling on the 60-member assembly to:

1. Express "its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea;"

2. Condemns "the commission by any government or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, and other atrocity as well as any organized military personnel or civilian group, as a violation of the laws of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality in the treatment of prisoners of war and the dignity and worth of the human person."

In his speech, Lodge raised the figure of "at least 38,000" for the atrocity victims to some 38,000. He later told reporters it is his personal conviction that "at least 1,000 of these are dead." He explained that the higher figure included estimates of losses in the notorious death marches and prison camps which had not been included in the earlier U.S. Army report.

The denunciation was echoed in the debate by representatives of British, Turkey and Canada.

SENTENCED FOR FRAUD

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Raul Mercante, former minister of public works in Buenos Aires province, was sentenced Monday to seven years in prison on a charge of defrauding the government. Three days ago he and other officials of Buenos Aires Province were sentenced to prison terms up to five years and ordered to repay almost 9,000,000 pesos ($852,000) obtained from the government by fraud.

NERVE OB "G" GAS FULLY DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Nerve gas or "G" gas as it is sometimes called, was discussed at the weekly meeting of the Civil Defence organization in the Collegiate on Monday evening.

Members of the organization made a thorough study of the element and it was pointed out the gas is one of the most effective weapons which may be used in war. The lecturer said it was absolutely necessary members know something of the properties of the gas so they may take care of themselves in case of an attack of this nature.

Further training in communications and first aid was given to the group. Al Smith, communications director, is planning an outdoor exercise involving the use of radio and other communicating devices to further increase groups' familiarity with this subject.

Checking Oil Attendant Finds Hen on Engine

One of the best practical jokes ever laid on a returning alumnus was played on a well known industrial accountant in this city recently.

The gentleman in question was on his way to Toronto to attend a reunion of Upper Canada College grads. Before leaving the city he stopped off at a local service station for gas.

The gas attendant offered to check the oil in the car, and despite his hurry, the gentleman agreed to the inspection. When the car's hood was raised the attendant saw a live hen sitting on the engine.

How long the hen had been there is not known and not something the 'old grad' could care to discuss at any great length.

The name of the chicken fancier, who decided to keep a hen warm by installing it on the engine of the accountant's car has not yet been learned. And not likely to be, either.

Also, the arena will again be rented for skating by the club members on the last three Sundays in December, and new memberships must be taken out by December 20th in order to enjoy this privilege.

Three District Boys Qualifying To Contest Seat

Three district boys have qualified to contest an election in which a representative for constituency 75 will be chosen to attend the 33rd annual session of the Boys' Parliament to be held at the University of Western Ontario from December 28 - 31st.

Willy Jackson, Springbrook; Keith Richards, Frankford; and Guy Thompson, Thomasburg, will address an election rally St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Friday, December 4th. Following the rally, all qualified voters will elect one of them to represent constituency No. 75 at the provincial rally.

The Older Boys' Parliament is promoted by the Boys Work Board of the Ontario Council of Christian Education and is an interdenominational body representing Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, Evangelical, United Brethren, Church of Christ Disciples, United Church and The Salvation Army.

Rev. G. J. Miniely, Trenton, is the qualified returning officer for constituency 75.

Those qualified to vote must be between 12 and 21 years of age, have attended Sunday School or their Sunday School classes, and must be a member of a Church organization which has registered with the Ontario Boys' Work Board and sent the voters' list to the district returning officer.

CBC Criticized By Speaker At Rotary Club

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, speaking at the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, in his address at the Rotary Club on Monday in the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Allard said: "The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is a tax free, subsidized government-owned operation which competes with privately-owned broadcasting stations. It is judge, jury, policeman complainer, prosecutor and man, all in one."

The speaker said that those who seek power always have good reasons to give concerning why certain institutions should not be made public. He described them as "appealing reasons rather than the real reason."

He said that it is so easy for a body to arouse public sentiment in support of censorship under such guises as protecting public morals or saving the young from horrified ideas.

We ask that there be eliminated the present system under which a government agency, itself under the control of the executive arm, is simultaneously competitor with, and regulator of, non-government broadcasting stations within its self exclusive, legislative and judicial powers, and that there be substituted therefore, freedom for broadcasting stations to operate under the law, necessary powers of review and regulation being exercised by a non-political regulatory body not connected with any broadcasting system," Mr. Allard declared in announcing the aims of the association.

Club president Harold Mott announced December 14 has been set aside as the annual rural dinner meeting. Each member is expected to bring a farmer from this area to dinner as his guest. An outstanding speaker from the Ontario Department of Agriculture will address the gathering at that time.

Bill Morrison and winners of the Rotary-sponsored composition contest in B.C.I.V.S. and Albert College were: Donna Lai Fee and Jack Evans at the Collegiate and Glenna Ritchie and Donald MacKenzie at Albert. The topic was "Promotion of World Fellowship."

Birthday roses were presented to Jack McArthur, Rogers Riedel, and Gordon Robertson. Court Miller made the presentations.

The speaker was introduced by Don Kingdon and the thanks of the club were expressed by Enos David.

Final Session for 1953 Of Hastings County Council Opens on Tuesday Morning

Hastings county councillors convened for their final session of the year at Shire Hall this morning with Warden Clarke Kincaid, reeve of Madoc village, welcoming councillors to the December meeting.

He noted that it had been a very busy year and expressed the hope that Hastings county had benefited as a result of deliberations in county council.

The Warden congratulated council members who had received acclamation for another term of office as a result of recent nominations. Acclamations indicate a feeling of confidence in the ability of sitting council members, he said.

Council members were urged to take the British Empire Dairy Show being held in the CNE this week, and also to attend the cheese makers' banquet to be held Wednesday evening.

DIRECTOR TOURIST BOOKLET

Little business was conducted at the morning session, although members discussed briefly whether the county should continue its policy of getting out tourist booklets.

Reeve Ritchie Wells of Marmora as chairman of the publicity committee felt it might be good business to continue the booklet. "We don't want to stay in a rut, simply the tourist industry could advertise its own business to better advantage," he suggested.

Reeve John Anderson of Faraday, also a member, supported, claiming that the tourist industry did not advertise enough. More publicity should be given, he said.

Warden Kincaid agreed that some advertising should be carried on, but suggested that the form of advertising might be changed. He noted that the different municipalities, as well as the tourist operators, contributed toward getting out the tourist booklet, the county's share payable for the distribution.

The county's share of the cost of publishing the booklet last year was in the neighborhood of $600, councillors were told.

Reeve T. J. Allard, Tweed, suggested that possibly the tourist operators could do a better job of advertising their own business and that if the county wished to continue its activity the purpose might be better served by making a contribution to the various tourist associations.

No action was taken on the matter and it was tabled for further discussion.

SALVATION ARMY GRANT

Neither was any immediate action taken on a grant request from the Salvation Army which included a grant of $150 for headquarters in Toronto. Council will likely refer the matter to the local branches of the Salvation Army and have them give the usual grant of $150 to headquarters had been dropped.

All councillors were in agreement that the Salvation Army was a very worthy organization. Reeve West of Stirling urged that council not refuse requests very carefully. Grants should not be made unless a financial statement of the organization was presented. The request was referred to the finance committee.

In answer to a resolution passed by the Ontario Association calling for a change in the regulations which demanded a minimum of three acres for building lots under the V.L.A. Plig. G. Rutherford, director of the veterans' department on housing, wrote that no change in the act was contemplated at the present time. Council had asked that the acreage requirement for veterans building homes under the V.L.A. be reduced so that water frontage

Show Organizer, James L. Irwin, To Be Honored

The name of the late James L. Irwin, former chief dairy grader for Central Ontario, who did much to organize the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and the British Empire Dairy Show being held this week in Belleville, is to be perpetuated by cheese makers in the organization.

A handsome trophy, the J. L. Irwin Memorial Trophy, has been purchased by the Association with the assistance of contributions from friends in the cheese industry, and will be up for annual competition, the winner to be the maker with the highest average score and who has shown the best workmanship during the year.

The trophy is an electric clock on gold standards with a model of a dairy cow. The winner's name each year will be engraved on small blocks fashioned after the cheesemaker will receive a gift from the Association to keep permanently.

The idea did much in getting the British Empire Cheese Show organized and served as its honorary president for many years. Until his death this year he took an active part each year in planning the cheese show.

The trophy, and this year by Howard Andrews, of Lakefield, will be presented to the winner at the closing banquet Wednesday evening.

Hunter Lucky He Did Not Call Moose

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—The effectiveness of a duck call used by Dr. Ralph Lyle Call exceeded his expectations.

Call had settled in a willow blind and when a flock of ducks circled overhead, he sounded his duck call.

After a few toots, the band came in for a landing. One of the large Mallard drakes peeled off, flew straight into the blind and landed on Call's lap. The astonished hunter grabbed the bird and with the help of two companions dispatched it.

Ford Suing 12 Companies For $905,101

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Claims totalling $905,101 are involved in legal actions launched at Toronto today on behalf of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, against 12 insurance companies. They arise out of a strike in December, 1951, when strikers forced a shutdown of the company's power house, which provides essential services, including heat, to Ford of Canada's plants and offices in Windsor. All Ford's buildings were left without heat during a period of cold weather and extensive damage to pipes.

Two actions have been instituted against each of the 12 insurance companies with which Ford of Canada is insured, making 24 actions in all. One set of actions claims indemnity for property damage loss, totalling $317,478, and the other for loss resulting from the interruption or interference with the company's business amounting to $587,623.

The actions hinge mainly upon the interpretation of the "riot" clauses of the policies.

Killed in France, RCAF Officer Known in Trenton

TRENTON—S/L George Aitchison, 33, killed in a road accident in France last Friday, served a tour of duty here at Station Trenton, before proceeding overseas with the R.C.A.F. in May of this year. His wife, Cecile, followed him to the continent a month after he left here. He was well known in officer circles with distinguished service in World War II. He leaves a widow and no children.

Quick-Thinking Driver Escapes Crossing Crash

TRENTON. — (Special.) —With a big diesel-engined freight train bearing down on the car, he was driving Mrs. Rose Wallace, 35, of Trenton, the mother of three daughters kept a cool head last night, saving herself and two companions by stepping on the gas pedal instead of the brake. Mrs. Wallace was riding home from work downtown were travelling north on West Street, crossing the C.P.R. tracks. Mrs. W. A. Yateman was sitting beside the driver while Mrs. Vincent Stone rode in the back seat.

"It was dark and foggy and I was driving slowly because of the poor visability," related Mrs. Wallace. "I looked up and down the tracks and didn't see anything. I remember thinking that an airplane was flying low overhead. Then I remember I turned my head and saw the headlights of the train a few feet away from the side window. Something told me to tramp down on the accelerator. The car lurched ahead and then I heard a gringing crash and the car started to swing around facing the train. The three of us sat still in the car until a man from the train ran up shouting: "Who's hurt. Who's hurt." When I assured him all were well he remarked: "You don't know how lucky you are."

Mrs. Yateman praised Mrs. Wallace's driving ability. "Rose is a really good driver," she said. "I never really felt we wouldn't make it. I was lucky she didn't freeze and put on the brakes or we'd have all had it. I didn't realized I was scared until I began to shake when I got out of the car."

The train struck the right rear fender of the car causing only minor damage. Fred Ellis of Toronto, was driving the diesel.

Assessment Court Opens Hearings On Many Appeals

TRENTON (Special) — Of the great number appealing assessment notices only a few appeared last night before the opening session of the Court of Revision.

Some 200 ratepayers have appealed for readjustments since receiving notices under the Manual of Assessment for the province instituted this year.

With board member V. R. Ryan presiding at session, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Aziz asked for a lower rating on their McColl Street apartment house as a residence. Mr. Aziz pointed out that the residence requirement means that he can now only realize 3.3 per cent on borrowed money and maintain rents at present levels. He told the court he was charging $80 and $85 a month for his dwellings.

There was some misunderstanding about the size of the Aziz apartments, whether they were five-roomed or four-roomed living quarters. Assessor Charles Roberson held that a living room and dinette adjoining were classed as two separate rooms. Mr. Aziz felt the combination should be rated as one room. The court agreed with the Assessor's decision. The apartments were assessed under the new arrangement at $15 per room.

Mr. Aziz was asked to name a comparable property. He indicated his place had been built from plans of the Weaver apartment block on Henry Street. He brought to the attention of the court that this particular Weaver building had been assessed as four-roomed apartments. The assessor noted the difference, indicating to the court that necessary adjustment on the Weaver property would be investigated.

The court decided that no adjustment could be made in the Aziz assessment figures, suggesting that Mr. Aziz take his appeal to higher court if he was not satisfied with the decision. The chairman explained that the manual adopted by the town council had been approved by the province and that the Court of Revision had no power to change the manual.

NATIONALISM AND THE REDS

Ho Chi Minh, leader of the Communist rebels in Indo-China, is reported to have offered to negotiate an armistice.

Anti-Communist nationalist leaders in the Indo-China capital are described as indignant and panicky. Many are demanding a break in relations with France.

Much of their opposition may spring from well-grounded fears as to their own safety in any regime which makes a truce with the Communists.

But it seems reasonable to suppose that their nationalism, as well as their anti-Communism, is a factor in their opposition.

Here we see a curious situation, which faces the world not only in Indo-China but also in many other Asian nations — and which will almost certainly be matched, at some time in the future, by a comparable situation in Africa.

At a time when the forces of events is turning many of the more advanced nations towards internationalism, (when, for instance, the efforts to establish a European Defence Community foreshadow an eventual United States of Europe such as that of which Briand dreamed), the more backward nations are being swept by ever-rising tides of nationalism. This is the inevitable result of the colonial policies of the white nations. There appears little hope that the movement can be short-circuited, that those nations which so recently were controlled from overseas will consent to forego that full control of their own affairs which at last appears within their grasp.

This has created a complicated situation for the Communists. Nominally Communism is an international revolutionary movement. But the nations of Asia, while ripe for revolt, are not ripe for internationalism. In some countries Communist leadership has been accepted in spite of the nominal internationalism of the Reds. In other lands some of the nationalist leaders have rejected Communist help in spite of its revolutionary character.

This nationalist sentiment may, in the long run, paradoxically prove to be the West's strongest ally against the Red tide in Asia and Africa. It may be argued with validity that the leaders of so-called international Communism are not themselves entirely slavishly nationalist. This is true, but their nationalism does nothing to endear them to the nationalist leaders in Asia, for it is Russian nationalism. Furthermore, the once backward countries now seeking their independence are opposed to internationalism, but doubly opposed to domination by another nation's country.

Incidentally, Asiatic countries are not the only ones in which a rising tide of nationalism has featured recent years. Canada has been considerably affected by it. Fortunately here it is tempered by the internationalism inherent in membership in the British Commonwealth of Nations. Moreover, Canada's position serves as a most useful purpose. It acts as a bulwark against too close an integration of our way of life with that of our great neighbor to the south. Under different circumstances such an integration might be highly desirable, but the United States is actually one of the most highly nationalistic countries in the world and any nation of Canada's size seeking to merge itself with the U.S. would merely be submerged.

That this country has been in no danger from United States nationalism is due to the unique willingness of U.S. nationalists to permit other nations to go their own ways. To a large measure this indifference was founded in isolationism. Isolationism, although not dead, is fast dying in the U.S. It is not at all certain that a truly internationalist outlook will replace it in time to avert some troubles for the U.S. and the world. Too many people like Col. Bertie McCormick, Chicago millionaire, have a violent distrust of internationalism, the British Commonwealth of Nations. And even within the Commonwealth nationalistic sentiments are, in some lands, becoming dangerously strong.

ONE MAN'S MEAT

Margaret Southwick of the Slough Research Station in England has one of the strangest jobs in the world. She helps to cultivate blowflies.

Most of us know bluebottles and few of us like them. But certain types of flowflies are raised for human consumption. They have dined off them exclusively for as much as five years and have enjoyed excellent health. That is why Margaret Southwick raises them.

These interesting facts were revealed on a recent BBC program, when Alec Green described the intensive research into blowflies being carried out at the Slough Research Station.

Blowflies' eggs hatch into maggots within a day, feed for a few days and then encase themselves in cocoons where they turn into chrysalids. The adult fly emerges not more than three weeks later and the cycle begins anew. The Zoo shortens this process by buying maggots from the dealers who breed them as fishing bait. When the maggots become pupae they are stored in a low temperature to retard development so that they can hatch at the exact moment required and ensure an adequate food supply throughout the year for the Zoo's insect eating inmates.

The flies are kept in box-like cages covered with mosquito netting and when feeding time arrives a test tube is inserted through a sleeve opening made of netting and as many as two hundred flies at a time are scooped up. Some are flung on the surface of the water, so that they can be snapped up easily by the amphibians waiting eagerly for their meal. Others are netted, which temporarily disables them and allows them to be caught while they are struggling to dry themselves.

Despite the fact that blowflies are such delicious provender to some creatures these little scavengers are highly injurious to man for they contaminate his food and carry disease. Ground glass in the fact that enough much can be done to combat them by the use of chemicals the first and most effective line of defence against blowflies is adequate hygiene.

During last summer he was concerned with experiments in which scientists released some thirty thousand blowflies which had been fed on radio-active material so that when trapped and brought back to the laboratory they could be detected with a Geiger counter. About three hundred thousand flies were caught, amongst them two hundred radio-active ones, and the sound of one of these was recorded and broadcast in the program. The radio-active blowflies proved that even in a densely populated city where they had no need to travel, they migrate at least a mile a day, visiting food shops, canteens, hospitals and houses, giving an indication of the rate at which fly-borne diseases can be spread throughout a city.

GOOD SAMARITAN REWARDED

An advertising man told a group of friends recently how he and his wife had played the Good Samaritan and as a result—quite without intending it—had found themselves in the midst of the largest advertising job ever given them.

The advertiser's wife was having lunch one day in a restaurant when at the next table a woman fainted. Along with others the advertiser's wife made herself useful, and after the sick woman had been revived learned that the fainting had been induced by anxiety and fatigue. What was she worrying about? She had invented a product to be used in beauty parlors, and after a year or two of energetic promotion, had been compelled to admit that she was deeply tested.

The advertiser's wife inquired a few questions. Was the product any good? Of course it was good, the woman replied with some superiority. Well, the upshot of the whole matter was that the wife of the advertiser persuaded her husband to do a little planning of the product. Within a year the product caught on and became popular. The inventor-lady was made and toppled over in a faint and it became a source of lucrative income to the advertiser.

Playing the Good Samaritan had paid off, to use an expression of O. Henry's a woman and her husband cast their bread upon the water and after many days it came back to them in the form of cottage pudding with wine sauce.

TELEPHONE ADORER

When you telephone to me,
Should you strangely answered be
With a flood of words a mother only knows—
In a telephonic race
I have finished second place—
You are hearing little Margie's "ladies."

This I'd have you understand:
She is swift of foot and hand;
The receiver she will be the first to reach.
'Tis a babble strange you'll hear
As she pours into your ear
What a two-year-old imagines to be speech.

Never trust her to receive
Any message you would leave.
Just be patient 'till a calmer voice replies.
Little Margie thinks the phone
Was designed for her alone,
And I'm one who wouldn't have it otherwise.

Ottawa May Control Roads

(By Austin F. Cross, Writing From Ottawa In The Financial Times, Montreal)

Do not be surprised if the federal government finally takes over the highways of Canada. Right now the cabinet is wrestling with the problem of how to do it with any business, and on the Trans Canada Highway.

Legally the government is supposed to have jurisdiction over interprovincial highways. Since the railway strike in 1950, the trucks have started operating coast to coast on a large scale. I am told that if you motor from say Windsor to Regina at night you may find very little passenger automobile traffic, but you will discover a great number of trucks. These will be truck loaded down with freight from Montreal. You will also find another group with a light cargo which they may have picked up in North Columbia or in some town in between point.

It does not take too much imagination, therefore, to see the federal authorities some of these days taking over the Trans Canada. They will start off with a foot in the doorway by acting through the back door, in the case, of course the federal authorities will have the real power.

Too long have the provincial governments been petty politics and have thought only in terms of provincial roads. I can give three examples:

Quebec has not agreed to build a highway from Montreal to connect the highway No. 17 that comes down from Ottawa via Hawkesbury — that Ontario has not bothered to pave the Trans Canada, to make a good road from Toronto to Montreal via Kingston and Cornwall.

Alberta for years let the east-west road from the Saskatchewan border to Edmonton remain in layers of dust. But they made sure they paved as much as they could of the road between Edmonton and Calgary.

Mind you, this can be justified provincially because there is no railway awareness nor interest in a Trans Canada paved road.

Well don't be surprised if the feds move in.

The manner in which the provinces seem to be letting the Trans Canada Highway down by default is indicative of their insatiable. I expect that, not only will the Trans Highway get under exclusive federal jurisdiction but that, in time, the Ottawa people will move in and develop feeder roads to the main highway.

Alcoholic Amoebas?

(Winnipeg Tribune)

For many years scientific researchers have been able to suspend life in vinegar worms, chick embryos, muscle fibres and other living tissues by cold freezing. When these living tissues were thawed out, they became just as lively as ever.

But the amoeba, probably too busy with long division, stubbornly resisted this treatment. When the amoeba was frozen as hard as a brick, the matter how fast or how hard, it simply up and died.

Understanding this worried the researchers. But there was not much time to worry about it because they noticed when a couple of them had a brain wave. They brooded over the amoeba's resistance to freezing and concluded that the two were related. Why the amoeba did not come back to life when thawed out was because of its high water content.

They decided to try dipping the amoebas in glycerine before subjecting them to the freeze. The dipped amoebas were frozen as hard as bricks and, after a decent interval, thawed out. And, behold, the excited critters came through the ordeal with flying colours. When amoebas lurching all over the place.

Let Her Write

New York Times.

It is hard to see why, with so many people writing to the million females 14 years or over in the United States, the Navy Department should be confronted with a shortage of WAVES. The whole group were to write only two letters per week, affixing a three-cent stamp to each, in the course of a year the stamp sales would amount to more than $180,000,000. As every male knows, however, the feminine sex writes more than two letters per week; just how many more we have no idea, but clearly the total is one that boosts stamp sales, and postal revenues, by near-astronomical amounts.

Slow Driving Has Its Joys

(By "A Naturalist" In The London Times)

Brought up mainly on bicycles for boats, and on my own feet I consider myself fortunate that I was usually travelling slowly and able to absorb what I saw in the English countryside. I could get off, or stop aside, or explore easily— and I did. So to this day I can recall the smallest detail of a fortnight I spent cycling through north Wales 30 years ago. I could, for instance name the very wild flowers I passed in the hedgeside near Llanberis.

But tours by car in later years have left no such legacy of visual detail. I have a blurred impression of unrecognizable villages merging into each other, country sides mixed up like the colors running on an untidy child's paint box lid, old churches linked in my recollections with the wrong villages. I went to see them, it is all in property, and by "fast" I mean anything over the legal speed of 25 to 30 m.p.h. On this count alone, then, motoring stands condemned in my eyes as a good way of seeing—really seeing, in all the meanings of the word, of this land of ours.

The motorist who waits to travel slowly today is, I find, a "menace" on the roads. He gets the "raspberry" from the fast driver. He slows up the traffic flow, and now that the police, roads and have a few lessons is good driving so that I can keep my wits about and stand—the pace. On those unbeautiful creations of the planners called arterial roads, the fast and the traffic lanes—slow, medium and fast—are 30 m.p.h., 40 m.p.h., 50 m.p.h. still glared at and tooted at because I dare to travel at 20 to 25 m.p.h.

It is all very sad, because there is so much to see if we travel slowly. I am, in fact, becoming a "lane driver." I like to potter along inside through the lanes of Surrey and Hampshire the other day by myself, and found it a joy. I was undisturbed by the racetrack tactics of the typical motorist. I suppose I occasionally got a smile in this. Let them smile—this is the way I like to travel. It is the best way to have any recollections that will mean anything to me.

I could tell you the stuff men use for their cottage roots there, the names of the local builders, and the design of their stiles, the birds I saw, the kinds of trees, the flowers in the cottagers' gardens . . . and a great deal more. Just that one lane, I was in no slow coach. Maybe after all I had better get a bicycle again—or just walk.

Personal Health Talks
By DR. WM. BRADY

ASTHMA AND THE HOME CLIMATE

A reader gave me a good scolding the other day because I said that in my opinion whatever benefit an invalid may derive from a change of climate depends, I forget whether I said mainly or entirely, on the time the invalid spends out of doors. In other words, the best climate for wheat-ever ails you is the climate where you can and will spend the most time out of doors—comfortably, of course.

Now, please, Mr. and Mrs. Wise-acre, don't cite cases which prove I am wrong. The reader who scolded me has already taken care of that. She thinks I said more than I said. I should be able to understand.

The reader's brother-in-law, a St. Louis restaurateur who also carried a line of hosiery, drugs and light hardware, had suffered for years from asthma. Finally his wife persuaded him to spend a month or so in sunny San Diego, California, to see what change of climate would do for him.

It did so much for him, by George, that, although not yet 65, he decided to sell his business and retire to Elysium. But, first he and his delighted spouse had to return home to wind up business, pack their belongings, furniture and—

Alackaday, a few hours after they arrived home that horrible smog closed in on them and the poor fellow had one of the worst asthmatic bouts in years. What's more, he was in the throes of the most of the time after the attack passed, for the six weeks it took them to make their getaway. And within a few days after they returned to southern California the man was so free from asthma you'd never know he had a single cheek trouble at all. Eight months later he was playing golf several days a week and nary a wheeze.

Now, I hadn't a better inability my advisory and misleading teaching about the remedial value of change of climate.

No, Ma'am. The circumstances in this case suggest that the patient is allergic to something about the home she stays in. St. Louis dog or cat hair, canary feathers, goose feathers, down, bedbugs, mice, mohair, silk, horsesfleshers —goodness knows what!—though there are many individuals who are allergic to those things. Allergists call it the rational explanation for the distress certain people feel if, or when a cat is present, even though the cat be hidden.

Must Prepare For Million

(Vancouver Sun)

We're afraid City Engineer John Oliver is right in his forecast of more than a million population for Greater Vancouver by 1980.

We're afraid from the fact that Vancouver isn't preparing for its destiny. We foresee that within the next 20 years this community will scarcely be worth living in unless there's a great deal more being done than there was in the past 26 years of jungle-type expansion.

Mr. Oliver's estimate of 1,112,300 persons by 1980 was made in a speech to engineering organizations about the urgent need for sewage extensions to 200 square miles of the lower Mainland.

But an immediate start is also needed badly on a system of motor freeways to relieve the congestion around the same area.

Without the unified sewage system recommended by Mr. Oliver this district will smother in its own pollution.

And without the expressways it will strangle in its own traffic.

Japs Invent New 'Strike'

(Sudbury Star).

Some of the union leaders who are slightly on the wild-eyed "let's strike" side might take a tip from the Japanese.

Japanese railway engineers want a raise. They decided to call the matter to the attention to their request—blow the whistles of 4,000 locomotives for one full minute.

The National Railway Workers Union said 5,000 locomotives blowing would be enough and that would cost the government the equivalent of $1,500.

This novel way of blowing off steam means no lost time, no jurisdictional disputes and no measures for unpaid debts and no hardship to anyone.

With the co-operation of the firemen the Japanese engineers could probably synchronize their steam-blowing so that the steam that would escape would creep through the safety valve would "blow off" through the whistle instead.

This system would save $1,500 and the public wouldn't pay for what otherwise wasted steam.

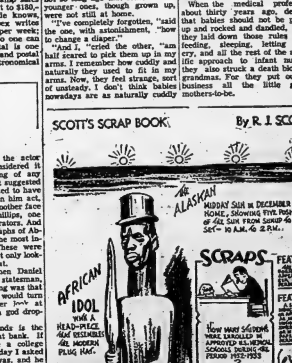
THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK.

The old fashioned grandmother is to be found farther and farther back from the railroad tracks. Two modern grandmothers were drinking tea in a home recently, and their conversation shook me.

"Am I exhausted!" cried one. They left young Joey with me on Tuesday."

"You poor thing" "consoled the other, "I had my two last week-end-weight. And I haven't recovered yet."

They were referring to their grandchildren. Modern ladies have raised three children of their own, not so long ago that their children's children, though grown up, were not still at home.



The grandmother forgotten, "said the one, with astonishment, "how to give a baby a diaper."

"And I, "cried the other, "am half scared to pick them up in my arms. I remember how cuddly and naturally they used to fit in my lap. They feel strange, and out of unsteady. I don't think babies nowadays are as naturally cuddly as they used to be. Maybe all this new system of feeding and rearing by the book has changed the feel of them in your arms . . . "

My own impression is that it is the grandmothers who have changed. When these modern grandmothers were themselves infants, the small girls of the family were already studying to be grandmothers. It was the normal duty to look after the babies in the family and in the immediate neighborhood. They were told to cuddle and fondle the babies; it was expected of them and demanded of them. They had to rock the babies, wheel them in the prams, run upstairs and soothe the screaming babies.

When the medical profession about thirty years ago, discovered that babies should be picked up and rocked and dandled, when they laid down rules about bottle feeding, sleeping, letting them cry, and all the rest of the strict life approach to infant nurture, they also struck a death blow at the grandmother. It put an end to business all the little grand mothers-to-be.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOOK LIKE SOMEBODY!

Pope said that "the proper study of mankind is man." Of all God's creations, man must remain as his greatest. We have more to say and write about which to make this study, for among all the millions of human beings not even two are exactly alike, so we should never form any final opinion of a man or woman merely because of his or her looks.

There is a great deal, however in the way a person carries himself. Faces are a fascinating study. A man has become a habit to publish the picture of a person in connection with any story in a newspaper or other publication. People like to see what a favorite writer looks like. There is a certain writer whose words I always delight to read. I often wondered what he looked like. Recently I discovered a photograph of him, and it wasn't anything like the face I had long imagined.

When in college I had hung be-fore me the picture of the actor Edwin Booth, for I considered it one of the finest looking of any faces I had ever seen. It suggested nobility of character. I also had one of my father, who had seen him act, tell me all about him. Another face that I admired was that of Abraham Lincoln, one of the most interesting faces in history. I studied the faces of men who not only looked great, but were great.

I also had with me when Daniel Webster, the American statesman, lectured on the Constitution. The face of his that people would turn around on the platform to look at him, thinking he was a god dropped down among them.

One of my best friends is the vice-president of a great bank. If you should look at him, a college man, he does. But one day I asked him if he had ever been to a ball and he replied: "I never went to college!" No matter what your station in life may be, look like somebody and people will think you are one!

CHAPTER 9.

In the year of our Lord 38 Paul returned to Jerusalem.

The tale of what had happened in Damascus had died down in the capital, but Peter and the other Christians who had died for who had crept back again to the city were aware that their old persecutor was alive, planning only God knew what.

They were all afraid of Saul. St. Luke reports, "not believing that he was a disciple."

But one man refused to give way to fear and suspicion. Barnabas of Cyprus, young, clear-headed, refusing to judge that he himself be not judged, heard the news trickling from Christians working in the Damascus camel trains; word that Paul had come out of the desert and was on his way south.

Paul, scourge of the Christians, now one himself? Barnabas stood in the Council and replied the three-year-old riddle. Was that too much to believe about the power of God? If the dumb and the deaf and the blind of body could be healed, why healed might not God heal deafness of the heart and the blindness of a man's soul?

One thing Barnabas reminded them, Paul had always shown an uncompromising zeal for what he had believed to be the truth of the Law and the Prophets. If such a firebrand were to see in Jesus Christ the universal truth, the fulfillment of the Law and the Prophets, then the Church would have a new member of incalculable value.

There were no cries of welcome when Paul rode through the Sheep's Gate into the city several days later, before, he had occupied an honored and dignified place. Now his cloak was wrapped high above his chin, so that he would not be recognized by the Temple guards before he could get to Peter and offer himself to the cause.

But it was not easy for a stranger to find Peter. Are you a Christian? Were you a man to whom he put that question drew back and spoke the truth. To admit to being a Christian in the city of Annas and Caiphas was suicide. Do you know Peter, the fisherman from Capernaum? We know him not. These people on the Jerusalem streets dared not utter their own surety — or Peter's.

But Paul was recognized, and secret word passed to the Cenacle that he was looking for Christians. Then Barnabas spoke his mind. What if Paul were truly converted? Would it not be a sin to slay him?

His listeners were saints, but they were also human beings, with a man's memory and a man's capacity to hate. Paul-Saul! The names were a stink in their nostrils. Saul, the murderer of their lovable Stephen, smiling under the long hand of stones, praying for the forgiveness of his killers even while he was dying!

But if Stephen could forgive, Barnabas insisted, could they refuse forgiveness?

Amid a startled silence, Barnabas left the Cenacle. He walked carefully through the throng, searching every face. And presently he saw the stalwart, little figure, face shrouded, riding a donkey head.

"Come!" he said, with scarcely a movement of his lips, as, seizing the rein, he led Paul toward the Cenacle.

The saints assembled, sitting on their heels, looking at Paul and Barnabas, to hear the Damascus story.

They listened, because Barnabas had convinced them that they ought to reserve judgment until Paul had stated his case, on this wintry afternoon, in the candlelit room of the Last Supper. On the way there he had hastily gathered the facts from Paul; now he, and not the illustrious convert, told the events — the only time in Paul's life that someone else did the talking for him.

"In Damascus he dealt confidently in the name of Jesus," Barnabas announced.

Not much had been heard lately from the Damascus brethren. At first, there had been in the fugitive, hasty messages sent by deserters and converted merchants, much talk of Paul. But after he escaped in the basket, here came almost nothing. Now incredulous Christians heard that occasionally Paul, in disguise, had returned from the desert to Damascus and worshipped with the faithful, who had found him worthy to be one with them and yet felt it wiser not to mention him in letters that might be seized by Roman or Jewish guard.

Barnabas made Paul's case so clear that everyone received that here indeed was a Christian of Christians, who was also proud to be a Hebrew of Hebrews.

Peter, the towering fisherman, stepped forward to welcome Paul openly and fully. Two wind-burned, callused hands settled on the convert's shoulders.

Then Peter's withdrawal helped the Church. With Paul no longer in Jerusalem, those who had given assent to the Sanhedrin as an illustrious convert, there was a truce in the persecutions.

"Now the Church had peace," St. Luke reports. "Peace throughout all Judaea and Galilee and Samaria, and was edified, walking in the fear of the Lord, and was filled with the consolation of the Holy Ghost."

And Paul went about his trade in Tarsus. He was to wait humbly, in prayer, study, work — unwashed Christ of his own soul's blindness, as he realized that he had lived in this very city while Jesus lived and died — and had never known the Truth.

He had much to learn from Peter and James the Less!

But Paul, in his turn, must tell them of his years in the desert, of his unutterable vision of paradise, of all that the Spirit had taught him in the wilderness.

All too short, the fifteen days they had together, a time of feverish talk and shared prayer, of spiritual excitement and earnest plans for the future. Then they were abruptly and sadly separated.

Reports were getting to Annas and Caiphas about this stranger who visited Peter. Moreover — and this tendency made even one of the apostles uneasy — Paul had been speaking to the Gentiles and disputing with the Greek-speaking Jews. The Temple was falsely a plot to murder him — and that would mean more persecution for the rest of the Church! Clearly Paul, in the moment was not ripe for Paul's ministry. Paul must wait. He must command his ardent spirit to sit still in obscurity.

Nothing harder could have been asked of him. On to the port of Caesarea Paul went, to the ship that would take him to the place where Peter had told him to wait.

And where was that? It was Tarsus! He must go back to his boyhood home and his trade of tentmaking. Instead of launching the missionary efforts of which he had dreamed!

Paul went home, to face the cold shoulders of old friends and teachers in the plain little gymnasium — an apostle without a calling, a missionary with no field. He had gained the depth and the height of spiritual experience, he had been accepted as a brother soldier by Peter — and for what? To be hurried into oblivion, to live in the world as a banned, unwelcomed either by old friends or by new? The Church was moving on, and it seemed that Paul was being left far behind; too far, some undoubtedly thought, ever to catch up with it again.

Yet Paul

60PC. of Women Newfoundland Bake Own Bread

TORONTO (CP)—Sixty per cent of the women of St. John's, Nfld., bake their own bread, while only seven per cent of the women of Toronto perform this homely task.

This is just one of scores of bits of information about the buying habits of Canadians which may be gleaned from 202 pages of tightly tabulated material in the Canadian consumer survey of 1953, compiled by Canadian Opinion Research and published by Canadian Daily Newspapers Association.

The survey is based on replies from varying numbers of people in 25 cities and towns, according to usual public-sampling techniques.

The figures cover replies dealing with usage of 250 classifications of products bought by individual consumers.

Brandon, Man., racks up the highest percentage of margarine users, with 91 per cent; but, as in the case of all such percentages, this doesn't indicate the amount they consume or how much butter they use.

CATSUP GENERALLY USED

All Canadians pour on the catsup, with French - language users at Sherbrooke, Que., the lightest at 72 per cent.

Whatever the reason, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., seems to be the biggest buyer of chest rubs, at 25 per cent, and Belleville, with 76 per cent, also uses more than the fairly heavy users of the Atlantic seaboard.

The women of Quebec province use most lipstick, at 88 per cent, and British Columbia the least, at 78. A minority of women acknowledge carpets, ranging from Quebec province's 41 per cent to British Columbia's 15. Brassieres range from 89 per cent in the Maritimes and Newfoundland, to 77 in British Columbia.

The men of Windsor and Sarnia conduct the most valiant battle against the receding hairline, if 51 per cent usage of hair tonic indicates anything.

North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie claim the biggest headaches with 36 per cent purchases of headache remedies.

The 1953 survey is the fifth in a series of biennial studies. CDNA said: "Its press statement that it is the 'unique piece of research in the North American continent."

St. John Ambulance Brigade Lauded by Inspecting Officer

The annual inspection of the St. John Ambulance Brigade was held at the Canadian Legion Hall, in the absence of Provincial Nursing Officer, Mrs. Ethel Anderson, of Toronto, who inspected the brigade.

Among the guests were, Mr. Nutt, area commissioner of Western Ontario. Mr. R. D. Adams, recently decorated as officer Brother of the St. John Ambulance, who is in charge of First Aid at the Canadian National Railways; Superintendent, Mrs. McKibbon and members of the Picton brigade; representatives from the Red Cross, Canadian Legion, Girl Guide Association, and, Mrs. Enid Ponton, former superintendent of the Belleville Division.

A demonstration of the actual handling of a first aid post was put on by members of the nursing division with assistance from Dave Thompson, Percy Clapp and Miss Nancy Richards. This display was inspected by Mrs. Ethel Anderson, provincial nursing officer and the guests.

Certificates in first aid and home nursing were presented by provincial nursing officer, Mrs. Ethel Anderson to Mrs. Cora Richards, Mrs. Edith Anderson, Mrs. Ethel Liddle, Mrs. Trula McCaskills.

Label and pendant cards for efficiency in the re-examination in first aid and home nursing were presented to Mrs. Annie McCaskie, Mrs. Lillian Ashley, Mrs. Nellie Reid, Miss Vivian Hannah, Mrs. Mary Boyd, Miss Patricia Nicholls, Mrs. Barbara Haynes, Miss Elizabeth Buckley, Mrs. Alice Reid, Mrs. Miriam Marriot, Mrs. Lily Vickers, Mrs. Mildred Wood, Mrs. Cora Richards, Mrs. Lillie Martin, Mr. Percy Clapp, Mr. Alex Hannah.

Mrs. Ethel Anderson complimented the brigade on the grand display of first aid and home nursing, and said it was one of the best inspections to be held in Belleville.

Mrs. Annie McCaskie, superintendent of the Belleville division, welcomed Mrs. Anderson, and complimented the brigade on the fine drill, and, also, on the first aid and home nursing display.

Mrs. McKibbon, superintendent of the Picton division of St. John Ambulance praised the girls on the inspection and stated she had taken particular notice of the 100 per cent trip to England to find the

Mrs. H. Giffin Talks To Tabernacle M.B.

The weekly meeting of Tabernacle Mission Band was held in the Sunday School auditorium on Friday with about 22 in attendance.

The Scripture was read by Lorna Godin and the offering taken by Garry Coe, and Andy Hamilton and Ivan Hamilton. It was said by Maureen Kilbank.

Mrs. H. Giffin, of Foxboro, was introduced to the children by Mrs. N. Howard. Mrs. Giffin was the "guest story-teller." She told the ever-beautiful story of "The Birth of Christ," and illustrated it with flannelgraphs.

Lorna Godin graciously thanked Mrs. Giffin on behalf of the Mission Band.

Mrs. E. Collins, everyone joined in a circle to say the closing credo.

Designer Shows Flair for Use Of Jersey Cloth

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—A young designer with a flair for creative use of jersey has become the 12th member of London's "inner sanctum" of fashion.

The successful candidate, Scotsman Ronald Paterson, 33, joined the "big 11" through being elected to the exclusive Incorporated Society of Fashion Designers.

Paterson started in from scratch just over 4½ years ago, and rapidly won a reputation among couturiers, especially for his dazzling use of jersey.

As a young man waiting to enter Edinburgh University, Paterson's career has changed by winning first prize in a design competition run by Schiaparelli, the famed Parisian fashion maestro.

He went to Paris where he quickly learned, to his dismay, that he could not enter the world of dress designing without some basic training. He returned to London to enter a school of design, and had just finished his course when the war came.

RETURNS TO DESIGNING

After 6½ years in the army, Paterson returned to London to begin serious work on designing theatrical sets and costumes. But on a vacation in Paris he saw two dress collections, and these awoke his youthful dream of designing dresses alone. He took a job sketching for the top French magazines while he studied the art of dress designing. During this period he met his wife, better known as Stevie Stephenson, a Canadian fashion journalist.

Together they came to London and started their own business in February, 1949.

Rev. C. Fitzpatrick Gives Interesting Talk on 'Education'

Approximately 60 members of St. Michael's High School Alumni were present at a communion breakfast held in the Knights of Columbus club rooms Sunday morning following the 9.30 mass.

The president, Mrs. R. Barrett, introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Holy Rosary parish in this city, who gave an interesting and inspiring talk on "Education." Briefly he said, "we are forever in the process of learning, whether it be in grade school, junior high school or university. Even on graduation day, as we sat with the squared cap and scroll in hand, thinking to ourselves that at last we were finished with books forever after so many years of intensive study, some learned professor would jolt us by saying 'ladies and gentlemen this is but the beginning. In other words, what you have been studying, all these years is merely a stepping-stone, a preparation for the years ahead'".

Throughout the course of his address Father Fitzpatrick, with his witticism and eloquence, kept the audience interested and entertained. Being in Belleville only a short while, he expressed pleasure at having the opportunity of making so many new acquaintances.

At the conclusion of his address, a vote of thanks was tendered the guest speaker by Dr. Boyd Upper.

Plans for the January meeting were announced, and on behalf of the members Mrs. R. Barrett expressed her appreciation and thanks to Miss Mary McDougall and members of her committee for having provided such a delicious breakfast.

CANDE BIRTHPLACE

The true breed of Newfoundland dogs originated in Belle Isle, an island off the Newfoundland coast.

Fashion Flashes

Sure to steal plenty of admiring glances and comments is a black velvet turban inspired by the headdresses worn by Sicilian bandits of old. The rich velvet is draped in a deep profile line and finished with a deep, wide, dramatic bow over one ear. It is head-hugging.

Look inside for interesting linings in many of the new coats and suits, with the lining adding either a strong color contrast or a good material story. Deep gray oxford cloth makes a wide-collared greatcoat cut on slim, easy lines. Its big surprise is a cozy lining of Orlon fleece in soft pink-warm and ever so pretty.

The soft touch of fur on soft woolen is the trademark of the season, and it is nicely expressed in a suit made of oxford gray wool jersey with a Peter Pan collar of ermine, edging the pants.

There's plenty of news in furs, such as, for instance, the new fur combinations. A coat of Canadian beaver, mink and sable makes a tuxedo fronts of long-haired caracul pelts, making for a new and lovely look.

Just filled with color is the word on resort clothes soon coming into the stores. Chinese red, bright gold, blue, red and lime make up the color range for a silk suede sheath with a draped halter neckline. With it a sweepstitch jacket of wool flannel that picks up one of the print colors.

There's nothing so effective and so wearable as a well done silk suit for theatre or smart informal evening wear. As in days of yore, taffeta, and there are delightful suits of tapestry silk brocade, in ivory and soft pastels, the fine fabric simply handled.

A bit of glitter, well placed, can make an evening dress a shining success. A floor-length dress of tulle, with low back and high front, is trimmed across the bodice with an appliqued garland of silver roses with a little knot of the roses appliqued on the bodice further down. Silver balls and sequins form buds, leaves and stems.

It's easy to bring color into the costume with a print blouse and there are some lovely ones coming along from California. A butterfly print in lawny browns, lime, green orange and black, on ecru silk crepe, makes up into a soft blouse, with gentle shoulders, cuffed sleeves and big, bow-tied neckline.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SAD MEMORIES ARE UNHEALTHY COMPANY

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 38, I have been a widow for two years, my husband having been killed in an automobile accident.

During all this time, I have never gone out with anybody until recently, when one of my girl friends asked me to go on a double date. I liked the man who was my date very much, and he has asked me several times since then to go out with him again, but I have refused, because my mother feels it is too soon for me to date again.

I loved my husband devotedly, and wouldn't for the world do anything to dishonor his memory, but it is very lonely staying home all the time. Do you agree with my mother that it is too soon for me to start a social life?

Mrs. R.N.

Dear Mrs. R.N.:

There is only one answer to that question, and that is, that you should accept any opportunities you have to go out with men and get back into normal social life again. You have stayed home living with your sad memories far too long already, a very unhealthy thing to do.

Since this man you met on your double date shows an interest in you, I would say the door was open to start living again in the way a young woman your age should be doing. You cannot afford to live in the past indefinitely, and I hope you will take all the social opportunities the present has to offer you.

THIS CHAP IS KIDDING HIMSELF A LITTLE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young man of 19 away at college and have a girl back home who is 18.

Am I doing the right thing in taking girls from the college to dances and other events? I feel that to do this is a real test for finding out if I really am in love with my steady girl back home.

Bill H.

Dear Bill:

There's no need for you to think up fancy reasons for justifying your very natural desire to take girls at your college to social affairs. Don't kid yourself that you are going out with them as a scientific test of your feelings for the girl at home. You just want to have normal good times like any other boy of your age, and it seems very foolish to me, anyhow, for an 18-year-old to hitch himself up so completely to one girl that he goes out with no others.

It would be a little dishonest, however, to let your steady girl friend believe you're not going out and I think you should have an understanding between yourselves that you both are free to do this.

An Electric Table Grill For Light Housekeepers

By Mary Moore

We have a new electric table grill and griddle to experiment with.

Pete's first reaction was to lament not having it during the summer when he prepared his own breakfasts at 6:30 a.m. You see he reads the morning paper as the Frenchdo, with hot pungent orange sauce.)

when the eats alone and it was a nuisance jumping from breakfast table to stove to serve hot cereal or bacon or eggs or French toast or whatever huge breakfast he was currently eating.

This grill makes it possible to sit still through the whole meal and merely keep one eye over the edge of the paper to watch cooking progress. It's slick. At one sitting prepare four eggs and eight rashers of bacon, for the cooking surface measures 12x8 inches.

Of course, you can cook almost any top-of-stove item on it including the cereal in the double boiler and the coffee in the percolator, but the reason I am enthusiastic about the thing is the terribly evenly golden pancakes it turns out. Have you ever watched that Mamsey-like demonstrator flip pancakes at a Fall Fair? Everyone is evenly golden. Never a burnt one and no sign of fat on the griddle. This electric plate does just that and here's the recipe. Now just because the batter is thin don't change it. It is exactly right.

GRIDDLE CAKES

One and one-half cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder (2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder), 3-4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 1-4 cups milk, 3 tablespoons soft butter or shortening, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Sift the dry ingredients together. Beat egg and soft butter or shortening and beat, add milk. Add dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Transfer to a pitcher and stand this on a plate on the table. Heat the grill for 5 minutes at No. 4 setting. I pour-ed on the batter about 4-inch rounds and made three cakes at one time. As soon as they were full of bubbles I flipped them over. The evenness of the golden brown surface was a delight to behold, and the second side was just the same. Pete ate eleven. I had three. What they did to a plate of butter and a pitcher of maple syrup you can guess, and don't count the calories.

Plans are afoot in the Moore household to have a dessert party and serve Crepes Suzette made on this grill where the drooling guests watch. (Crepes Suzette are rolled thin pancakes served,

QUESTION:

I am writing again and this time will try and give a few details (of husband's ulcer diet). We certainly do expect a lot of you to be a mind reader along with all the help.

For meats on my husband's diet he can have roast beef, lamb and chicken, boiled beef, steak well broiled, scraped beef balls, broiled liver, stewed lamb or chicken. I have tried broiling fish (or have never had any success. It always has such a hard outer crust, that George never liked it. He can also have fresh fish except salmon. The vegetables are potatoes, carrots, cauliflower, spinach, squash, vegetable marrow, parsnips, strained peas or strained string beans, beet, asparagus tips. Milk puddings, such as rice, sago, tapioca custard, junket, bread puddings, blancmange, gelatine such as Bavarian cream etc. It is mostly the meat that I would like help with. . . It is too bad they don't have a cookbook for ulcer patients. They send you home with a sheet of paper stating what you can and cannot eat, and I must admit I'm not that good of a cook yet.—Doris W.

ANSWER:

There is such a book Doris: "The Special Diet Cookbook" by Marvin Small, Greystone Press, N.Y. It contains a chapter of 43 pages on The Bland Diet, which is frequently prescribed in treatment of peptic ulcers. In school we were taught to broil calves' liver cut in 1-3 inch slices like this: Brush 2 inch slices with 3-4 teaspoon melted butter mixed with 3-4 teaspoon lemon juice. Place 1 inch from very hot broiler and broil on both sides until juices are just set—never overcook until surface is crusty. Serve this on mound of noodles cooked in chicken broth or diluted canned consomme. It's a delicious dish. My best advice is to buy the book I mention. Actually your husband's doctor has allowed him a fine variety of food, for his ailment.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHRISTMAS CARD TO MINISTER AND WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I address the envelope of our Christmas card to our minister and his wife? He is a D.D.!

Miriam W.

Adress the envelope to: The Reverend Dr. and Mrs. John Good

Or, if you prefer, use the more formal form:

The Reverend Dr. John Goode and Mrs. Goode

FORM OF NAME WHEN JOINING THE CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife, Katherine, wishes to join the church during the coming holiday season. She and I would like to know if she should give her name or mine to the minister when she asks her name. I tell her to give him her name—Katherine Smith, for example—because that is the name that probably would be on the church book.

T.D.S.

When your wife consults with the minister about joining his church he will tell her the form of name he wishes to have her use. It may be her formal name . . . Mrs. Theodore Dale Smith . . . or her informal name, Katherine Williams Smith, the form sometimes used. It is best not to use the form "Mrs. Katherine Dale Smith," less this form is customarily used in this church.

WEDDING PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am to have only two bridesmaids. No maid of honor. Would it be correct to have them dressed in gowns of identical design and color? If not, would it be correct to have the gowns of the same color but of different styles? Any other suggestions?

2. Should wedding cake be made several months in advance, like Christmas cake?

I.R.

I. I like so much the charming and effective harmony of having bridesmaids, whether two bridesmaids or ten, wear dresses of the same design and color.

Since your two bridesmaids will have the same importance (neither to be an honor attendant), you really should have them dressed exactly alike. You may have them walk together, or singly . . . if singly the one closer to you in relationship, the one who would be the actual witness, should walk directly in front of you and your father, or whoever is to escort you.

2. Not necessarily . . . and not customarily. (Often the small top tier, of fruit cake, is stored away to be cut on the first wedding anniversary.)

PRE-NUPTIAL LUNCHEON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should one bring a gift to the bride-to-be when one is invited to a pre-nuptial luncheon given for her? Should a member of her family (her mother, sister, etc.) bring a gift?

M.S.

If this not a shower-luncheon (as I judge it isn't), it would not be necessary for a guest to bring a present to the guest of honor. If the other guests aren't expected to bring presents, it is not good taste for a member of the girl's family to bring a present, for this might embarrass the other guests, might seem to suggest that they too should have brought presents. (Presents from her family, such as engagement presents, should be given to the bride-to-be at some other time.)

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

PROMINENT COLLAR BONES

This girls with prominent collar bones are frequently envious of those who can waltz around in bare top formals obviously not designed for them. They can't realize, poor dears, that it is not always smartness that makes collar bones prominent but their own deplorably bad posture. By pulling up their backbones, tucking in their tummies breathing deeply so the chest lifts they could rid themselves of those unsightly bones.

Then, they must bow their shoulders forward and what happens? The chest falls inward instead of lifting. Instead of a neat flat back, as every slender girl should have, the shoulders are rounded.

For the perfect silhouette the throat should be slightly thicker from front to back than from side to side. The lower portion should curry a slight indentation. From that point downward there should be a gradual slope of the chest to the breasts, the breasts forming the cover part of the line.

If today's subject is your special beauty problem, make a test. Stand before a full-length mirror. Let your shoulders and arms fall down ad. Then come to order, taking the soldier's position. Place your finger tips of your shoulders, pull your elbows back, then drop your hands at your sides. Pull yourself up full height. Keep your head balanced. You will then be presenting the picture of your ideal one with slouchy carriage, one maintaining correct posture. The latter picture will be spirited and graceful. And where are those collar bones about which you have been complaining? They have disappeared.

Develop the chest muscles by by doing arm swinging exercises, one arm at a time. Fold your fingers in the palm of your hand, push the hand forward, then high and far out at the sides, then far back as if you were swinging a lantern.

Massage may help, if continued faithfully. Use a heavy cream, making rotary motions over the chest, especially along the line of the collar bones. Do that at bedtime after you have creamed your face. In the morning turn the cold spray on your chest to stimulate circulation.

MARMORA

C of C Holds Monthly Meeting

The former spoke of the causes of successes and failures befalling enterprises of individual chambers. Mr. Walsh carried his hearers in thought to England and countries of Europe, recently visited by him and their conditions then and his experiences.

R. E. Neal, president, welcomed those in attendance. Little business was transacted. A committee was appointed to carry out the decoration of a tree on Forsyth Street for Christmas. It comprises Charles H. Buskard, Charles Leach and Granville Mathlejohn.

Churchill Has Seen Nearly 60 Years of Continuous Action

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—All who want to live into their 80th year should take a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of living in our time. Why? It can be put into one word—Guts.

"All babies look like me," he quipped once. And he has retained the qualities that mark all healthy children—imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up.

Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battlefield of life Churchill has seen nearly 60 years of continuous action—and at 79 is still going at a gallop.

Churchill has never been afraid to be greatly right—or of being greatly wrong. He has never run from death or hesitated to confface fear. He has undertaken mighty responsibilities, not as irksome duties, but as welcome adventures.

POWER A BLESSING

"Power, for the sake of lording it over fellow creatures or adding to personal pomp, is rightly judged base," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his goals too lightly or himself too seriously. He has never lost his sense of humor.

"If Hitler invaded hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the devil in the House of Commons."

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He wrote fine history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

Churchill has played and worked with equal fervor all his life, and yet is a stout defender of the afternoon nap.

"The rest and the spell of sleep in the middle of the day refresh the human frame far more than a long night," he wrote. "We were not made by nature to work, or even to play, from 8 o'clock in the morning till midnight."

So if you want to live a rich, full life like Churchill's, enjoy your work as much as your play—and get that afternoon nap.

Nothing else to it. Except ability.

Railway Unions Ask for Officer To Settle Issue

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian railways and brotherhoods representing non-operating employees have been unable to settle contract differences and have asked for appointment of a federal conciliation officer, it was announced Monday.

The announcement was made jointly on behalf of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

Representatives of the railways and the brotherhoods started discussions last week on terms of a new contract to replace one due to expire today. The brotherhood sought "fringe benefits" rather than an increase in salary.

The brotherhoods, representing some 130,000 men in shops, stations and offices of the railways, asked for improved pay for work on statutory holidays and Sundays, extended paid vacation and more generous sick-pay provisions.

Youth Arrested

KITCHENER (CP)—A 20-year-old Linwood youth was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving Monday night after police said he pushed a car through the nearby village of St. Clements at 65 miles an hour.

Police said Frank Friedman pulled up behind Gordon Schlueter of Heidelburg just outside St. Clements and pushed Schlueter's car through the village at 65 miles an hour. Schlueter burned out his brakes trying to stop.

When they reached the other end of the village, Friedman drove down a side road.

Bail set at 5,000 property or 1,000 cash. He will appear in court Dec. 8.

PICKED WRONG VICTIM

LONDON (Reuters) — Truck driver Frederick Fajithi learned Sunday he had picked on the wrong customer to do out of a load of coal. He was sentenced to nine months in jail for absconding with five tons dispatched to Scotland Yard.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Walton Ligsey Jr., and his father flushed a covey of quail while hunting. Walton cut loose with his double-barreled shotgun and dropped a bird. Seek to Inform U.S. Tourists Of Firearms Law

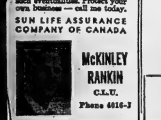
OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's tourist experts decided Monday to study new methods to inform American tourists of laws governing the possession of firearms.



D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian government travel bureau, told the federal-provincial tourist conference he has received complaints from Americans fined for illegal possession of weapons. Many entered Canada without knowing they must have special permits to carry rifles during the summer. Others purchased the required permit when they entered Canada but ran afoul of the law when they visited another province.

L. H. Taylor of the customs division of the revenue department said booklets on firearm regulations are placed in racks at points of entry. However, customs officers were not permitted to distribute them.

The conference decided to investigate the possibility of poster displays at border points outlining regulations.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH!

It takes all kinds of people to make up this wacky old world. But then it would be totally wacky if everyone was perfect.

For instance, there are some people in the city who have a definite misconception of the senior "B" hockey situation here.

Some of them are of the opinion that the Memorial Arena Commission took over the franchise purely through mercenary motives. In fact one business man, who ordered an advertisement in the club program cancelled it when he learned that the city was sponsoring the team. "The city gets enough taxes," he is alleged to have said, "why does it need money?"

Others, for the same reason, have refused to attend the games in which the senior club plays.

For their information, the operation of the hockey club by the Arena Commission is as far from city business as an Eskimo igloo from glamorous Bali-Bali.

This department contacted Alderman Bruce Smith, appointed manager of the team after its sponsorship was taken over by the Arena Commission. And here is his statement. It speaks for itself:

"Late in the autumn of 1953 the sponsorship of the Belleville Memos senior "B" hockey club was taken over by the Memorial Arena Commission. It was given the post of manager with power to act without outside interference.

"There is, however, one point I would like to clear up and have distinctly understood by every hockey fan in the city and district.

"The Arena Commission took over the sponsorship of the club only because no private sponsor was available. The city did not seek at any time, to obtain the job. It took it over for one reason only, and that was to give hockey fans of the city and district senior hockey this season.

"The Arena Commission waited until the last moment before acting, in order to give any private individual or association the opportunity to exercise the franchise. This was not forthcoming a few days before the deadline for entries, and the commission acted.

"I have been given to understand there are some people who misunderstood the commission's action in taking over the club. They believe, or did believe, that the object was an entirely mercenary one. This is definitely not the case.

"Meanwhile, I with the members of the commission, have endeavored to do the best we can to bring to Belleville a team of which it will be proud. We went far afield in search of senior calibre of hockey, and it came to a satisfactory arrangement with the players as a whole, and I firmly believe that by playoff time the Memos will be up there with the leaders.

"The calibre of hockey produced thus far by the teams in the group indicates that Eastern Ontario senior "B" hockey ranks with the best in the province, Oshawa, Peterborough, Kingston and Orillia are far stronger clubs than in 1952, and this has made for exciting hockey entertainment. And it will improve as the season progresses.

"I sincerely trust that all hockey fans of the district will support the Memos and in this way help them in their efforts to bring a championship to Belleville."

AT LONG LAST!

With all their faults, you cannot call the Memos "boomers." They have won three games and five of them have been on foreign ice. They clipped the Oshawa Trackmen 4-3 in Bowmanville, dunked the Peterborough Petes here 8-1 and last night made the Kingston Goodyears say "uncle" to the tune of 4-3 down in Reddenville's Community Centre.

And the victory is all the more impressive since it was the Memos' third game in four days. They apparently had something in reserve for they roared back into the behind to take the lead and ultimate victory. It was another of those typical Kingston – Belleville ice battles, featured by a quarter-staff rehearsal between Gabby White and Roy Taylor, which resulted in major and match penalties for both, incidentally the first penalties of this nature to be handed out this season.

And with the Memos on the short end of the score at the time prospects for a victory took on a darker hue with Taylor being banished. However, the Memos hitched up their britches and Peter Jones, along with Doug Bastedo, tied up the count midway through the third best. "Puke" Doran proved the hero of the piece when he blasted home the winner on a play with Jake Wade and Ed Duncan.

With a minute or so to go "Red" Doran got the gate and the Goodies swarmed in the attack, but the Memos' defence held up and they skated off with the most-desired scalp in the senior "B" tribe dangling at their collective belts.

Ti-Cats Picked 'Better Team' With Winnipeg's Jack Jacobs Getting 'Best Player' Accolade

By The Canadian Press

The sports writers were virtually unanimous Monday on that Grey Cup post-mortiem: Saturday's East-West final was one of the greatest in the history of the annual football classic.

They picked the champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats the better team and Indian Jack Jacobs, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' quarterback, as the best player.

Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson thought the Bombers, defeated 12-6, "wasted valuable seconds in long huddles when they seemed to be debating tactics among themselves."

"About 40 seconds of that last speeding minute were used up in huddles, when plainly, their weapon was the Jacobs pass. . . Briefly we think that three of the four eastern teams could have beaten the Bombers' game and tenacious as they were. . . "

Ira Dilworth (Toronto Star) Dunnell described Jacobs' 28 completed passes as "a terrific afternoon's work, one that will be remembered long after the Indian is gone from football."

Ivan (Hamilton Spectator) Miller said it was a "tremendous thrill to watch a game, hard-fighting bunch take an early lead, wrest leadership once after the score had been tied and then stave off a desperate last-day flurry by a brilliant foe, the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, in the final seconds. It was a superb ending to a battle between teams that fought with all the resources, perhaps, but which fought the good fight, going all out every second the way it should. There were many striking features. . . One that impresses us most is that (Hamilton) coach Carl Voyles proved himself right on so many counts."

Dick (Montreal Gazette) Carroll said the Tiger-Cats won because "they were just a little more versatile than the Blue Bombers, especially in getting off to a speedball, but Jacobs didn't make enough use of him."

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick said Tiger-Cats "conceded in advance that Jacobs at his best would propel an aerial offensive of most spectacular proportions. He did that, and a little more."

KICKING LACKING

Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve said one thing was lacking "and that was good kicking. The reason for that was fairly obvious. Jacobs had as much to do and big (Merle) Hapes had his line-smashing chores so it was a wonder to us that they got the ball away at all."

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara said of Jacobs' performance: "You won't see anything like that again in our football. If you live to be as octogenarian. Still you wonder if he didn't overdo that phase of the game. Why didn't he cut Casey loose in the first half as he did in the third period? Why place so much reliance on (Gerry) James, use him so so much in running attacks?"

Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Vipond said Voyles "accomplished the coach's dream of a lifetime when he brought his team to peak efficiency at the right time. That's an achievement all the more amazing when it is recalled that he was beset with tremendous grid difficulties at the outset."

Tommy (Ottawa Citizen) Shields: "In future years football fans will get around to talking about Grey Cup games, they probably will refer to the 1953 final as the outstanding Canadian final in gridiron history. Personally, this one was the best of them all that it has been our privilege to see."

Jack (Winnipeg Tribune) Matthews: "... the Blue Bomber fans didn't bring up (after the game) was the weak defensive play on their own line in that first quarter. The best line in the West was a poor second on the field, and Tiger-Cats charger were picking up a lot of yardage. The promising explosion was bound to occur when Huffman and Mazza came to grips with anything like a good rusher. . . "

Bob (Winnipeg Free Press) Moir: "Everyone, Dick Brown, Vito Ragazzo and Ray Truant in the Hamilton backfield all played well. Their line, led by the two guards, definitely outplayed Winnipeg's dreaded wall over the route."

Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan: "Two factors which contributed most heavily to the 13-6 Hamilton victory were line play and pass defence. The Tiger-Cat line has long been raised one of the finest, if not the best, in the East."

Maryland Named Top American Football Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Maryland, the only United States college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the emblematic 1953 national collegiate football championship from undefeated but once-tied Notre Dame.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and bested in a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, earned the coveted O'Donnell Trophy in the Associated Press poll of the season.

The 22-inch trophy, donated by the Notre Dame Mongram Club in honor of the late Jerry O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the basis of The AP poll.

Maryland succeeds Michigan State as holder of the trophy.

Michigan State, last year's champion, finished third. The Spartans were followed by Oklahoma, UCLA, Rice, Illinois, Georgia Tech, Iowa and West Virginia.

Major Leagues Take 13 Players From Minor Loops

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The major leagues dipped into the minor league talent pool for 13 players at an investment of $132,500 Monday in the annual sale that opened winter baseball meetings.

Baltimore Orioles, helto to St. Louis Browns' No. 1 pick, took second baseman Vinicio Garcia, a .305 hitter at Shreveport in the Texas League. They also took 20-year-old outfielder Chuck Diering, former Giant and Cardinal, from San Francisco.

Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago White Sox and Baltimore each took two players and Philadelphia Athletics one for a total of nine by American League clubs. The National League picked only four, one each by Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis. Seven clubs passed when their names were called, including the World-champion New York Yankees and pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers.

Five pitchers, five infielders and three outfielders were selected, two more than the 952 draft of players for $100,000.

Branch Rickey, Jr., of Pittsburgh picked a bright young New York Giant farm hand, Outfielder Gerald Lynch. Lynch led the Pirates' Hollywood farm with a .300 mark at Norfolk last season and had 9 home runs.

CLAIM "NEVER ER"

Cleveland may have grabbed a "never" in Outfielder Jim Piersall. however, a New York Giants farmhand off their Minneapolis list.

The Indians also went down class A to get the infielder, who played with Minneapolis in 1952 at the Eastern League last year and batted .285. Cleveland's other selection was right-handed pitcher Don Fracchia, a 15-12 performer in the Texas League.

The Dodgers lost two men when Pirates plucked Jim Hunter from San Forest Jacobs from Montreal Royals and Cincinnati took right-handed pitcher Jim Hearn from St. Paul. Jacobs played at Fort Erie, Ont., before the Dodgers Brooks, moved him up to Montreal.

The other player taken was the only big business of the day. The International League failed to solve the problem created its 1954 setup after listening to representatives of Havana and Richmond.

The meeting was adjourned until Wednesday.

The Calvert Sports Column

by Elmer Ferguson

Once again, another Grey Cup football classic has been written into the colorful saga of one of Canada's most picturesque sports events, an epic struggle that annually stirs ever-flung millions to pride and wider interest in these Dominions than perhaps any other sports event, possibly including the Stanley Cup finals.

And once again, this column raises a plaintive voice to enquire why and on what grounds the football populace of Canada should, and a large proportion of the same hardy breed in the east, are excluded by mandate from viewing any part of this gridiron spectacle.

The answer to this is likely to be that Toronto's huge Varsity Stadium, with its 29,000 seating capacity, is the only stadium of any real size in Canada. If that's the answer, it isn't a good one because it contains two holes through which you could shoot a 250-pound line.

The first gap in this line of thought, presuming it exists, is that in giving Toronto the monopoly on this game, several hundred Canadians, west and east, who couldn't afford a trip to Toronto, and probably couldn't secure a seat for the game if they got there, are shut out.

And these several thousand are the folks who, by giving their whole-hearted support to the teams of the Western Conference on the Prairies, and the Big Four in the east, make the Grey Cup spectacle possible.

The second yawning gulf in the answer is financial. If the Grey Cup is to remain a medium-sized meeting, the ultimate in dollars, then its practical proponents are missing a bet. If it were played on the same general basis as the baseball World Series, or the hockey Stanley Cup, two ends would be served. Those who believe the series pattern would see the games, and the receipts of, say, a 3-game series, one east, two west, and vice versa in alternate years, would more than equal the returns from a single game.

There are those who urge that this is Canada's most gaudy, glittering and colorful sports drama of the year. We agree.

But we don't agree to the argument that it should be limited to one game, one city, or to the theory that it would cheapen the Cup finals to broaden the scope. It hasn't cheapened the world's baseball series or the Stanley Cup series in any noticeable way, and those give the fans who paid all season a chance to view not only the prologue, but the final drama. So it should be with the Grey Cup.

Memos End Four-Game Losing Streak With 4-3 Win Over Kingston

The 'Duke' Blasts Home Winner After Squad Roars from Behind In Thrilling Senior 'B' Clash

KINGSTON — Two goals scored in a space of 34 seconds, turned an impending defeat into a 4 to 3 victory last night in the Community Memorial Centre when the Belleville Memos scored the OHA Senior B group form chart and edged Goodyears, the white almost 1,000 fans looked on in disbelief and amazement. It was Belleville's third triumph in ten starts and Goodyears fifth reverse in eleven tests. The result could not be faulted; these Memos earned the points.

Goodyears, who lacked the payoff punch, outshot the Memos by 36 to 26 but rebelled repeatedly by Ron Barrett, the cool and acrobatic custodian of the Belleville net. The visitors had played at a consistently fast pace, feeling was running and there were occasions when it was feared the goings on would get out of control.

GET MATCH PENALTIES

In the second period Jack White and Bert Taylor engaged in a mix-up, both swinging sticks with rare abandon and each received a match penalty. The referees, however, permitted only the use of substitutes at the end of five minutes whereas the rule states that an alternate will be eligible as a replacement only after the offender has served ten minutes.

The visitors provided a surprise when they led by 3 to 0 after the first intermission but they faltered slightly in the temperamental middle session and were outscored 2 to 0. Goodyears clung tenaciously to their 3 to 2 advantage until Pete Jones, aided by Jake Dumas, put the winner in the net at 10.34 mark in the final dash and before the cheering had subsided Duke Jones added an insurance. Bastedo and Ervin Duncan, fired the winning goals the first time up effusively and pushed with telling

The Memos, who didn't look like a team that had engaged in a sparkling effort against opponents who appeared to be resting for festive cautions. When Goodyears elected to launch ganging attacks they threatened to break the game wide open but Vernon Goyer, Taylor, Wade and Bastedo offered stout resistance and ably supported their eagle eyed goalkeeper.

The paid attendance of 2900 was far short of the mark set but it is considered that the Memos had lost 7 of 9 previous engagements and that weather conditions were unseasonal.

Tommy Goodfellow paced all goal-getters when he flashed the puck past Darnell in the early sessions. He was also effective defensively and rushed with telling effect. Don Harrop got the other Kingston counter while Ken Parris, Johnny Myke and Ted Nicholson each earned an assist. Flashy George MacGregor had several good chances but was thwarted by Darnell.

The Duncan twins, "Duke" Doran and Pete Jones were Belleville's successful wingers. The Duncans and Doran also formed the most effective forward line on either team. Wade and big Vern Goyer, stout defenders, were also prominent operators and enhanced their usefulness by steering clear of the penalty bench.

Goodfellow was serving a sentence when Edwin Duncan scored the first goal at 8.22 in the first period. Goodyears evened the count at 11.40 and appropriately enough, Goodfellow was the marksman and Ken Parris the assistant. Late in the period Ted Nicholson, known as "Red" Doran, who was in the clear and a penalty shot was awarded to Belleville. Goyer missed the shot, however, and Nicholson was sent to the penalty box. He was still there at 18.32 when Ervin Duncan, assisted by Edwin Duncan and Taylor, shot the Memos into the lead.

TEMPERS FRAYED

Tempers became frayed at the edges in the middle session and during the excitement a scrap broke out in the stand Sarrault drew the first sentence for tripping Jack McKown nine seconds after the session opened and it was served by Jake Dumas. Bert Taylor drew minors for high sticking at 4.30, Parris drew a minor at 6.02 for fouling Don Murray. Then Taylor and White tangled and were mysteriously handed match penalties, with the proviso made that their seats would be replaced at the end of five minutes.

MacGregor led some dangerous assaults but shot wide of the target twice in a row, Jack Wardhaugh was penalized but Memos did not waver until at 12.51 Clint Tinkess clicked in a three way attack with Myke and Murray. Bob Londry was penalized for using a broken stick at 16.42 as during his absence Goodfellow got his second counter and Nicholson an assist.

Goodyears outplayed the Memos by a considerable margin during the middle session but the second period but found Sarrault a stumbling block. Then the Belles struck at 19.34 with Pete Jones sagging the twine and in another 24 seconds "Duke" Doran fired the winner past Ken Johnson. Both teams missed chances before Gerry Dwyer muffed chances for the visitors at 18.25 Johnson was replaced by an extra forward but was rushed back when a face off was called near the local net.

At 18.30 a great cry arose that "Red" Doran should be penalized for holding MacGregor and Referee Jack Leeworthy obliged when he waved the visiting coach into minor circles. In the end, there was the curtain fell and blotted out Goodyears last hopes of forcing a deadlock.

Letter To Sports Editor

Senior 'B' Hockey

Dear Sir:-

I would like to take up the matter of our Senior "B" Club, and first, I would like to say, it is not the person or persons responsible for the present schedule. It is totally unfair to both fans and players. Last week-end for example the Memos played games on Friday, Saturday and Monday. I don't feel that one night is better than another as for attendance goes, and situated the way we are regarding distance, there is no reason why Kingston and Peterborough should not play mid-week games.

As far as the team goes, I admit the defence is strong per but I think it is quite apparent from the last few games that we lack a scoring punch. "Red" is going mainly with two lines and I think it is only fair to suggest that we lack a scoring line to bring out the best of anything to be gained by trying to get and to be a contender this year, now is the time before the attendance falls off and we can no longer afford that.

Contrary what I hear Mr. McNevin was totally responsible for the added strength we have this year. He was given what he asked, without doing something, or can't they see the writing on the wall.

Signed: F. Jones.
15 Graham Street.

Ed. Note—Mr. Jones has "heard" wrongly. Alderman Don McNevin had absolutely nothing to do with the acquisition of the Memos imports this year. Secretary Dwyer and Coach and Manager Bruce Smith with information from outside sources, undertook the responsible for the boys coming here. Those two men were appointed by the Arena Commission to handle all affairs of the team without any interference whatsoever either by the commission or members of council.)

Wilson Succeeds Brundage As Olympic Prexy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Avery Brundage retired Monday as president of the United States Olympic Association, after serving 25 years in the post. Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, commissioner of college football's Big Ten conference, was elected to succeed him.

Brundage told a press conference he was giving up the American post to devote his full energies to the International Olympic Association. Brundage was elected president of the international group last year and will serve in that capacity until 1960.

Brundage, 66, withdrew from the race for president of the USOA for reason that he wanted to forestall any possible charge of bias in holding the two jobs at the same time.

Wilson, who formerly held the USOA presidency from 1928 to 1935, association, was elected unanimously. Asa Bushnell of New York was re-elected secretary.

Douglas F. Roby of Detroit, who retired as president of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, was chosen vice-president. E. Nax Ritter of Philadelphia was named treasurer.

'Mike' Weichel Re-Elected Head Of O. M. H. A.

O. M. Weichel, D.C.M., and recent recipient of the Coronation Medal, has been re-elected president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, it was announced today. When nominations for officers in the O.M.H.A. closed, it was disclosed that the president, three vice presidents, secretary and treasurer had been returned by acclamation, but that ten hockey enthusiasts would contest the seven seats on the executive council.

Re-elected by acclamation in addition, to the popular Kinsita war-veteran, were vice presidents Fred Norman of Simcoe; Bert Hig of Lindsay and Jack Oakes of Strathroy; secretary J. L. Christie and treasurer Dr. Leon Hipwell, both of Toronto.

Nominations to the present executive committee are standing for re-election. They are Frank Doherty, Thorold; Ted Dineen, Galt; Jerry Simmons, Gravenhurst; Ken Hamilton, Wallaceburg; Jim Austin, Stouffville; Alex Watkins, Peterborough and Doug Patterson, of Stirling.

Newspaper reporting entry to minor hockey's governing body are Tom Loftus of Kingston; Gordon Bishop of Hamilton and W. Kurelo, president of the Oshawa Minor Hockey Association.

Howe, Lindsay Lead Scramble In National Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP) — The five-time champion Detroit Red Wings have set a new record for the fastest start in National Hockey League record when they scored 13 goals in their last two games to take over the leadership from Montreal Canadiens.

In both games the lowly Chicago Black Hawks were at the humiliating end. Detroit blanked the Hawks 9-0 Saturday and came back Sunday to hand the cellar-dwellers a 9-4 decision. Thursday, Detroit blanked Toronto 2-0.

It was the greatest scoring spree of the season.

The Wings boosted Detroit's point-total to 31, one more than last season's Stanley Cup winners. Toronto Maple Leafs, runners-up in third place with 27 points, three more than the improving Boston Bruins. New York Rangers are fifth with 17, while the Hawks have 10.

Official NHL statistics, released today, show that Howe and the Wings still leading the individual point parade. He has 16 scored goals and assisted on two to increase his total to 18 points, four more than Montreal Canadiens' Elmer (Bill) Lidstone, who remains in second spot.

Howe's 16 goals also tops the league.

RIDES IN FRONT

Lindsay has seven goals and 18 assists, Geoffrion and Dutch Reibel, the Montreal duo, the Howe-Lindsay line, are tied for third position with 30 points apiece.

Another Detroiter, top-scoring defenceman Red Kelly, picked up eight points, three goals and five assists, to move into a tie for fifth with Boston's Eddie Sandford. Both have 19 points.

Ted Sloan of Toronto dropped from a third-place tie with Geoffrion to fourth position, a point behind Kelly and Sandford.

Gerry McNeil of Detroit recorded shutouts over Toronto and Chicago in successive games to boost Montreal's Jacques Plante with most shutouts among goalkeepers. Both goalies have four.

Bill Gadsby and Gus Mortson Chicago defencemen, are the most penalized players with 44 minutes in the cooler each.

Leo Gravelle Tops Scorers In Quebec Loop

MONTREAL (CP)—Leo Gravelle of Ottawa Senators remains in the lead in the Quebec Hockey League's individual scoring race, but his position is by no means firm.

Official QHL statistics show Gravelle with 27 points—14 goals and 13 assists—one point more than Jean Guy Gendron of Montreal Canadiens includes 10 goals.

Roy Perreault of Chicoutimi holds fifth place with 23 points—five goals and 18 assists. Seven players are tied for sixth spot with 21 points apiece.

Quebec Aces are first in the team standings with 26 points, two more than the second-place Montreal Royals. Sherbrooke and Chicoutimi are tied for next position with 20 points each. Ottawa has 22 points, Springfield Indians have 18 and Valleyfield Braves 16.

Ray Fredericks of Ottawa is tops in the shutout department for goaltenders. He has three shutouts here. The Senators also have the best defensive team with 33 goals scored against them in 21 games for a 2.52 average.

Johnny Lattner All-American May Join Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province said Monday that all-American half Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame is "an odds-on bet" to join British Columbia Lions football club next summer.

In a dispatch from Los Angeles, the Province also says Tom Mickoloff, big Southern California end, has been offered a provisional contract with the Lions, stated to join the Western Interprovincial Football Union next fall.

The story says Lions' coach Annis Stukus and Don MacKenzie, player committee chairman, are on a scouting trip in California and refused to comment on the report.

The newspaper says Lattner, ranked the top backfielder in the U.S. amateur professional when his college career finishes next week and will discuss terms with the Lions before talking to other clubs. He was reported to be anxious to play in Canada because he felt he would have a better chance to get a good job.

Herman Stops Brian Kelly

BROOKLYN (AP) — Freddie (Babe) Herman of Los Angeles stopped Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., at 2:26 of the ninth round in a scheduled 10-round professional boxing bout here Monday night.

Herman weighed 139; Kelly 137

Herman had the opponent down for an eight-count in the eighth round with a left-right-left combination to the head. In the ninth Herman dropped Kelly twice for eight counts and he was bleeding from the mouth and nose.

Referee Mark Conn then stopped the fight.

Kelly, an 8-to-5 favorite, started out fast in the first round, but the more experienced Herman found the range in the third.

Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts May Withdraw from Junior Hockey

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Record said Monday that Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts may withdraw from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The record said in a newspaper story that none of the club's executive would comment on the report, but that a reliable source indicated the third-place team would not last the week.

The club was purchased recently by Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. Representatives of Quebec Junior League clubs were said to be in Kitchener Monday making arrangements to obtain players when the Greenshirts folded.

The story says the Greenshirts have lost money steadily since they joined the league in 1951.

In Montreal, George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said he has had no official notification of the Greenshirts dropping out. Dudley said the Canadiens "apparently" would not violate CAHA regulations if they chose to train Kitchener-Waterloo players to Quebec junior teams.

Webber Defeats Gagnon In Non-Title Bout

QUEBEC (CP)—Don Webber of Roanoke, Va., Monday night won a split decision over Canadian bantamweight champion Fernande Gagnon of Quebec in a 10-round, non-title bout.

Webber weighed in at 118½, one-quarter of a pound more than the champion.

There were no knockdowns. Webber held an advantage almost throughout as he slammed home hard body punches and made full use of his longer reach in the jab exchanges.

Webber scored a unanimous decision over Gagnon about two months ago.

Hartwig Trims Tony Trabert

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's Rex Hartwig defeated United States champion Tony Trabert 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2 today in the quarter-finals of the Victorian tennis championships.

The defeat of the second American ace within 24 hours cast a dark cloud over U.S. hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup from Australia later this month. Wimbledon champion Vic Seixas was beaten by George Worthington Monday.

CLEARS RECORD

LONDON (CP)—Harry Llewellyn leading British equestrian who has just returned from riding in Canada and the United States, has agreed Monday to clear up his views on the relative abilities of Ottawa's Jack Bittenger and Thomas and Britain's Pat Smythe.

In a letter to the Daily Telegraph, he emphasized that he had not described Miss Thomas as the best rider. What he had said was that her horse, White Sable, was.

Then, to take the sting out of that statement, he added:

"Miss Thomas is young and inexperienced and shows considerable promise, but I would rate her in the same class (with Miss Smythe at the present moment)."

Llewellyn was quoted on his return from riding at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto as saying that Miss Thomas was the world's best lady rider. He said in his letter that he had been "misheard" and wanted to stand by his numerous previous tributes to Miss Smythe as the top woman rider.

SIGNS WITH CHISOX

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Marty Marion, who managed the last-place St. Louis Browns in 1953, has been signed as coach of Chicago White Sox, it was announced Monday night.

Marion, who had piloted St. Louis Cardinals to a third-place finish in 1951 before joining the Browns as a player-coach the following season, was dropped by Baltimore Orioles after they inherited the Browns last month.

Roger Creamer, who coached the White Sox last season, was dropped to make room for Marion. Cramer has been offered another job in the organization but has not yet made his decision.

Marion's salary was not disclosed but it will fall far short of his $35,000 salary with the Orioles. It was expected that the Baltimore club will make up the difference.

DISCUSS JOINT SKED

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The American Association Monday discussed a proposal for an interlocking schedule with the International League but took no action due to the uncertain condition of the International League makeup.

It had been proposed that each club take one swing around the eight cities of the other triple A league. A league spokesman said, however, it probably would be impractical if Havana should be granted membership in the International.

Under the proposed interlocking schedule, each American Association team would make one swing around the International League.

Sport in Brief

BIG OLYMPICS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Australian ambassador to the United States predicted Monday that the 1956 Olympics "down under" will be the greatest ever staged in the modern movement involved in the preparations.

Sir Percy Spender, in a speech before a banquet meeting of the United States Olympic Association, simply spooked the extravagances of athletics in relating the difficulty the Australians confronted in turning the renowned Melbourne Cricket Ground into a field for Olympic competition.

"So hallowed an Australian sporting shrine had the MCC become," he said, "there was hesitation at one time to convey the need to regrade for the Olympic Games the historic turf where Sutcliffe and Bradman once smote the English bowling."

In the end, Spender added, "it was decided that there was no alternative but Melbourne so admirably suited for the Olympic Games as the turf and the surface activities was made."

Spender explained the Australians' concern in regard to disturbing the MCC by asking "How American baseball fans would feel if the diamond of Yankee Stadium, where Babe Ruth once trod, must be given up to stage an international cricket match."

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two young actors, one a night club comic and the other a specialist in film villainy, are filling the celebrated shoes of Abbott and Costello.

The lucky players are Buddy Hackett, 29, and Hugh O'Brian, 28, an actor who is known as the eager beaver of the Universal-International lot. He is so anxious for film roles that he even allowed his head to be shaved for a part as a treacherous Indian chief.

The pair fell into their good fortune as the result of some bad luck for the veteran comics. Bud Abbott and Lou Costello. A couple of weeks ago, the strain of doing movies, live and filmed TV, benefits and other appearances finally struck Lou, who only a few years back was in bed for a year with rheumatic fever. Doctors now say his heart will not allow any activity for three to six months.

This threw U-I in a tizzy. The studio was all set to start "Fireman Save My Child." Location scenes had already been shot in San Francisco, and Spike Jones and his music-wrecking band had been signed. At first the picture was indefinitely postponed.

GIVES: GO-AHEAD

Then studio officials mulled doing the film with other teams. O'Brian and Hackett were tested, and the new team was given the go-ahead signal by producer Howard Christie.

"I'm still catching my breath," said handsome Hugh. "I tested only a week before the picture started. I wasn't told to report for work until the morning the picture started.

I asked Hackett how he felt to be filling Lou Costello's shoes.

"I'll tell you a story," said the pale-pudgy funnyman, who speaks in the unmistakable tones of his native Brooklyn. "When I started out as a comedian six years ago, the first review I ever got compared me to Lou Costello. Ever since then, I have worked hard to avoid being similar to him."

MARMORA

Trent Valley Pre-Season Loop Gets Under Way

MARMORA — The Trent Valley pre-season league set the puck a-rolling on Friday evening at the Marmora rink as Point Anne and Batawa, and later Marmora and Wellington played a double-header.

In the first fixture Point Anne won comfortably by 10 goals to five.

Batawa led at the end of the first period by 3-2. Foster, Reid and Rankin scored for Batawa, while Wardaugh and Adams replied. In the second Hull and Jacklin each tallied for Point Anne.

Point Anne's line-up got on the scoring early in the second. J. Goyer tied the score on Mulholland's pass. Jacklin broke through again unassisted and seventeen seconds later scored another on Gilmour's assist. The latter player took the puck at the passed from Jacklin to Strahan and made the score read 6-3 at the end of the second.

Jacklin got his fourth goal on assists from Strahan and J. Goyer early in the third. Reid retaliated for Batawa on assists from Mitts and Rankin. Further goals were registered for Point Anne by Mulholland on J. Goyer's assist and Hunter and Williams unassisted. With two and a half minutes to go, Carey got the final goal for Batawa.

The second game wound up with Marmora and Wellington doing 2-2 after ten minutes overtime. The game was evenly contested, Hatfield for Wellington got the sole country in the first on Hunt's assist. Marmora did all the scoring in the second period. Trumble registered on assists from Leonard and Maynes and Parsnuk put Lovelers' pass to good account.

In the third, Pettingill on Greer's assist made the score even with two minutes to go.

Each International Club would make a similar trip. All games would count in the league standings.

What you say you would do with your actual hand to win a hand at bridge is not always the same. This has been proven over and over again with hands that are played in a duplicate match.

East was dealer. All west players got to seven hearts. But not all reached there in the same manner. Some bid them. Some tables found south in a final contract of seven spades.

Some got doubled, at seven hearts and redoubled. Most of them redoubled aroused the suspicions of opponents. Those who got to the final spade contents took out the redouble to seven spades.

Those who shot right to seven hearts at the first opportunity were not even doubled. Or they scared opponents into seven spades that Seldom is it wise to go seven hearts at once.

Since east is dealer with nothing, the first legitimate opening is by south. What west does will influence south's bid on the opening used by south. West then has a wide choice.

South might open with one spade or two spades or three spades or even four spades. The correct opening is two spades. This is a forcing to game signal that will keep the bidding alive.

In either case, a clever player will not bid hearts at once with the west hand. Almost anything but hearts at first will come to a better end. Then, seven hearts will probably be doubled.

What bid other than hearts could rest? Diamonds, clubs, a takeout double, an overcall in opponent suit, direct scuffling of a forcing nature that will conceal the heart holding.

Such is the course that would be followed by a very skillful player. Such an stuff up their ears to such advice.

Blackmore Comes To Defence Of McCarthy

OTTAWA (CP)—John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) Monday completed a defence of Communism which he said was a defence of Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

His was the latest to an attack made by David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) last week against "McCarthyism" and "McCarthyites." Mr. Blackmore was still speaking at the 10 p.m. adjournment Friday night and completed his speech Monday.

Mr. Blackmore said Senator McCarthy is a "dynamic" personality," a man of "great courage and sincerity" with a great "emotional capacity" and "understanding of world affairs."

Because of McCarthy's work, Communist symptoms were "gnashing of teeth" and screaming."

Another reference to Senator McCarthy was made later in the three-hour speech debate by John Decore (L—Vegreville), who said the senator is like ventriloquist Edgar Bergen, whose dummies are named Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd.

"In Canada he has little McCarthys—Charlie McCarthys—and there's a Mortimer Snerd for good measure."

Average Price Of 30 cts. Pound For Burley Crop

CHATHAM (CP)—At a meeting of the directors of the Burley Tobacco Marketing Association here Monday, the association's special committee agreed upon an average price of 30 cents a pound for the 1953 burley crop. The price has been accepted by the marketing board.

The negotiated price is half a cent a pound below last year's crop years price and it is expected to bring an amount an acre slightly more than the 1952 return, because of a higher yield.

J. Fred Thomson of Malden township, Essex, chairman of the board said the 1953 crop was of excellent quality, better than it had been during the last 18 years.

Prices for the various grades per pounds computed from the negotiated average price are as follows: CR 2 41.20; CR 3, 36.94; C 3H, 31.99; C 3F, 31.99; C 4H, 26.99; CR 7, 24.15; CB 8, 21.31; CB 9, 19.18; and CB 10, 17.05.

Growers still have authorized by members of the board to refrain from stripping tobacco until the crop is sold so they can meet with requirements of various buying companies. Directors have set the poll levy to association members at half cent a pound to take care of operating expenses, which is a quarter cent lower than a year ago.

Market for members will open Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Gen. Pearkes Claims Reserve Forces Are Weak

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich) said Monday in the Commons that Canadian Army and RCAF reserve forces are so weak they could not be relied upon in an emergency.

He urged buildup of army and RCAF reserve manpower. RCAF reserves didn't have sufficient personnel to fulfil their given role. The 12 auxiliary squadrons were not equipped with the latest planes and thus would not have the required technical training in case of Soviet air attack.

The Progressive Conservative military critic also said Defence Minister Claxton in his speech to the Commons last week had not outlined what steps, if any, were being taken by the government to maintain army reserves.

The free economy could not place intolerable strains on their economies by maintaining armed forces to match the Russian Army division for division. For this reason, the government must keep emphasis on reserve army manpower.

IGNORE RESERVES

It had been traditional Canadian policy for years to regard the reserve as the backbone of land forces. But "very little attention" had been paid of late to army reserves.

Gen. Pearkes said Mr. Claxton had given no assurance that all joint defence agreements with the United States had been put into force.

The minister had made a "half-hearted response" to President Eisenhower's call for action on all agreed measures for joint defence.

If any agreed measures had been held in abeyance, such as standardization of [illegible] ment, the government should give reasons.

MARMORA

Ritchie Wells Acclaimed Reeve At Nomination

MARMORA—Contrary to some expectations, there will not be a contest for the reeveship of Marmora village this year, since Ritchie Wells was given acclamation at the nomination meeting held in the town hall on Friday evening, under the chairmanship of E. C. Prentice, village clerk. However there is a possibility of an election as five were nominated for the four seats on the council.

They are John Reynolds, William D. Lavender, Carl Heath and W. A. Shannon, retiring councillors and Sam Davidson, a new aspirant. Two are nominated for the office of Hydro commissioner, namely Fred R. Wells, retiring commissioner and Ralph E. Neal, ex-reeve of the village. The three retiring members of the Public School Board namely: Donald P. Marett, Thomas J. Masterman and Roy Wright received acclamation. A short meeting followed the close of the nominations. The new joint of interest was the speech of Councillor William A. Shannon, who touched upon the report of R. V. Anderson and Associates Limited on the cost of sewage and sewerage systems in the village a proj[illegible] is large number of residents would like to see accomplished.

New Yorkers Without Major City Newspaper

NEW YORK (AP)—News-hungry New Yorkers were without a major city newspaper today as the Herald Tribune suspended publication in sympathy with the six big dailies closed down by a photo-engravers' strike.

The shutdown of all the principal newspapers was the first in the city's publishing history.

Representatives of the AFL photo-engravers union and of the publishers of the six affected newspapers scheduled resumption of negotiations this afternoon.

When negotiations were recessed Monday night, a federal mediator said there was no change in efforts to settle the dispute over wages and other issues. Union and publisher representatives had no comment on the course of the talks.

Photo-engravers on the six newspapers walked out early Saturday, but the Herald Tribune was not affected because it has its photo engraving done by a commercial plant. The six dailies were closed down because members of other newspaper unions honored the picket lines of the 400 engravers. More than 20,000 employees were left idle.

The Herald Tribune, which published a streamlined eight-page edition Monday, announced Monday night it is suspending until further notice.

TRIB'S ANNOUNCEMENT

The newspaper's announcement, saying in effect that it would not let itself be used as an instrument to force a strike settlement on the other newspapers, read in part:

"We take this action because it is clear that the compulsory publication of The Herald Tribune is being used as an instrument to obstruct normal collective bargaining.

"In this connection a responsible union official involved in the current strike was quoted as saying: 'If The Herald Tribune is publishing and The Times is closed, it won't stay closed long.'

"This newspaper . . . feels that the other publishers have done everything possible to reach a fair agreement, including two offers to submit the issues to an impartial arbitrator or board of arbitrators. . . .

"All members of The Herald Tribune organization are expected to report at their usual hours and to handle their regular work so that it will be possible to resume publication without delay."

The Herald Tribune did not identify the union official it quoted. However, the New York Times Saturday attributed the same quote to Denis M. Burke, president of striking Local 1 of the International Photo-Engravers Union (AFL).

The Times and Tribune are close competitors in the morning newspaper field.

SEEK PACKAGE INCREASE

The photo-engravers, who make the metal plates from which newspaper pictures and illustrations are reproduced, went on strike in support of their demand for a package increase of $15 a week including wages, pensions and welfare benefits. The publishers, represented by the Publishers Association of New York City, offered a $3.75-a-week package. Current wages are $120 a week for day work and $131 for night work.

Most New Yorkers, lacking newspapers with a combined circulation of almost 5,500,000, had only their chewing gum to occupy them on the subway going to and from work today. Luckier New Yorkers and many commuters had copies of largely-regional suburban newspapers. Thousands of news stands were closed. Newspapers from other cities were in heavy demand at the few midtown stands which feature them.

Radio and television stations increased the length and frequency of their news broadcasts.

The loss of Christmas advertisements of the stores struck the newspapers a heavy financial blow.

Liberals Favor Hospital Health Insurance Plan

TORNTO (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Liberal House leader in the Ontario legislature, said Monday night his party stands for a provincial hospital health insurance scheme.

Speaking in a series of free-time political broadcasts over a CBC Ontario network, he stressed the importance of a province - wide health plan and said Ontario "should not delay longer, but follow where other provinces have led and provide for the citizens of Ontario an over - all protection against the cost of sickness."

Mr. Oliver said hospital grants have not kept pace with increased costs. The Ontario Liberal party would meet Dec. 11 and 12 to discuss policies to come up at next April's leadership convention.

Good Strapping Is Recommended For Juveniles

TORONTO (CP)—A "woodshed" attached to courts would solve the juvenile deliquency problem, CCF House Leader W. J. Grummett told the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions Monday.

The woodshed, for obvious purposes, would eliminate the glory that seems to hang over youths who have spent time in jail, Mr. Grummett said.

"When these boys get out of jail they return to their gangs and tell tall stories of how they acted in jail," he added. "There wouldn't be any talking if they were given good strappings."

Professor G. E. Reaman of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and a former head of the Bowmanville Boys' Training School agreed with Mr. Grummett. He said public opinion is in favor of corporal punishment for young offenders.

He urged legislation to permit magistrates to order strapping and said juvenile courts are hamstrung by a lack of discipline in homes.

Mysterious Fracas

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas McDermott, 26, Monday was charged with shooting with intent after a mysterious fracas in a schoolyard.

Earlier McDermott told police he had been assaulted and shot in the foot. However, police claim Mr. Dermott fired shots at an assailant, or assailants, who overpowered him and he accidentally shot himself.

William McGraw, 25, held as a material witness, told police he was attacked at the same spot.

Churchill Lands At Bermuda For Big Three Parley

Sir Winston Greets Crowd Waiting at Gander Airport

Seller's Market in Fish Trade 'Giving Way'

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual review of the fisheries department says the seller's market of 1940-51 is gradually giving way.

The report, tabled Tuesday in the Commons, said: "Supply seems to have to be paid to quality of product." The fish trade, like others, was reacting more sensitively to supply conditions.

The report, covering the 1952-53 fiscal year, says: "A pattern of international agreement is being built up that covers all the fishery resources in the oceans adjacent to our coasts and gives hope also for the Great Lakes. Canada now has a series of treaties and conventions more complete probably than any other country in the world."

Canadian fishermen landed 1,- 000,000,000 pounds of fish in 1952, worth 110,000,000. This was some 100,000,000 pounds and $22,000,000 below the annual average.

RCAF Searchers Find Wreckage In Whitby Area

WHITBY (CP)—An RCAF crash boat, searching for a Vampire jet fighter plane missing since Sunday, Tuesday picked up small pieces of wreckage in Lake Ontario.

RCAF officials refused to comment on whether the wreckage came from an aircraft until they had studied it.

Earlier reports of an aircraft found in 20 feet of water 500 yards from shore were denied.

The search for the missing jet, lasting for 80 miles around this town were looking for the plane in which Flying Officer Richard Hall, 30, of Toronto, disappeared Nov. 29 while on a training flight.

Young Lieutenant Is Awarded VC

LONDON (Reuters) — A young British lieutenant, credited with leading a "charge of the "Glorious Glosters" in the regiment's famed stand at Imjin river in Korea, was awarded the Victoria Cross, it was announced today.

The VC has been given posthumously to Lieut. Philip Kenneth Edward Curtis.

Lt.-Col. James Carne of the Gloucestershire Regiment, previously was awarded the VC for bravery during the Korean campaign.

The citation said Curtis was ordered to dislodge enemy troops in counter-attack in the first phase of the battle of the Imjin river in April, 1951.

The platoon finally was pinned down, but Curtis ordered his men to cover him and charged the enemy strongpoint alone with grenades. He was wounded and dragged back under cover, but broke free from the men wanting to restrain him and again charged the enemy. He was killed in a few yards of his objective.

The citation said Curtis' action "had a great effect on the subsequent course of the battle."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Strengthening southerly winds in the Great Lakes area promise to bring milder air to Ontario tonight and Thursday. However rain they will also produce. It will be cloudy and mild today. Cooler air moving down from the Prairies is expected to reach the White River area by mid-afternoon Thursday. Forecast temperatures down to close to 20 in sharp contrast to the forecast of close to 50 in the south. The rain expected is part of a general area ending late Michigan this morning. Ile eastward advance has been held up about a day due to the development of an Atlantic storm which temporarily slowed the movement of weather systems.

Churchill Greets Crowd Waiting at Gander Airport

HAMILTON, Bermuda, (Reuters) — Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill landed at nearby Kindley field today in the giant airliner Canopus bringing him here for the Big Three conference.

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — The Stratocruiser carrying Britain's Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill to the Big Three talks at Bermuda took off from Gander at 8:55 a. m. NST (7:25 EST today).

The plane remained here about an hour for refueling.

A few minutes before the big airliner taxied out to the runway Sir Winston made a brief appearance.

Puffing the omnipresent cigar, he stood in the plane's doorway for about a minute and about 200 airport workers and passengers from other aircraft.

10-YEAR ABSENCE

The crowd cheered as Churchill made the familiar V-sign.

"I have been away for 10 years," he said. "Best of luck for the next 10."

His last visit here was on one of several wartime Quadric crossings to confer with the late President Roosevelt.

The crowd cheered again. Some shouted: "Congratulations on your birthday," Sir Winston was 79 Monday.

Then he turned and went back inside the plane. The door was closed and the aircraft headed out to the runway.

Despite a heavy work schedule in preparation for the Bermuda talks with President Eisenhower and Premier Joseph Laniel of France, Sir Winston was relaxed and alert. He wore a black homburg and heavy brown overcoat on the early morning chill.

Others of the 28-member British delegation, including Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer Lord Cherwell, remained aboard the plane.

The Stratocruiser touched down here at 7:53 a. m. after a flight from London and Shannon, Ireland. It was the plane's fastest trip in eight days.

Last Tuesday the British Overseas Airways Stratocruiser brought the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh over the same transatlantic route to Bermuda.

The big blue and silver aircraft ran into headwinds over the Atlantic. Her planed here was about 1½ hours behind the original schedule.

THRONE SPEECH DEBATE ENTERS HOME STRETCH

Back-Benchers Speak Their Piece Tuesday

OTTAWA (CP) — Back-benchers are carrying the throne speech debate down the home stretch.

Once the debate is out of the way, perhaps by Thursday night, the Commons can start consideration of government legislation. The debate started Nov. 16.

A dozen back-benchers from all four parties spoke their piece Tuesday.

Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) said the Canadian Army should include more armored units. Otherwise, the infantry would be exposed to needless casualties in event of war.

Col. Churchill, machine-gunner in the First War, was the commander of a carrier regiment in the Second, and army makeup is out of balance. It had only two squadrons of armor. More tank strength would mean increased mobility.

URGE NATIONAL FLAG

Raymond Brunelay (L — Glengarry-Prescott) urged consideration of a national flag to symbolize establishment of a federal youth development.

William M. Howe (PC—Wellington-Huron) said the government should give more attention to industry would realize the advantages of operating in smaller communities.

Alexis Caron (L—Temiscouata) urged the Quebec government for turning down federal grants to universities.

"The citizens of the province pay their share of these grants, and because of the provincial government's attitude all other provinces are benefiting from Quebec money."

N. C. Schneider (L—Waterloo South) said agriculture should be able to travel on the railways for holidays in areas where their transportation is not paid by the farmers.

Dr. Owen C. Trainor (PC—Winnipeg South) said if a halt weren't called to spiralling costs and increased subsidies, the government might have to consider subsidies for all Canadians to help them pay their taxes.

Attach No Blame In Woman's Death

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury Tuesday night found that 32-year-old Dorothy Kelver died Sept. 25 in a Toronto hospital after an acute kidney infection and attached no blame to anyone for her death.

At the same time, the jury recommended "strongly that in the future any person re-examined for disability and found seriously ill be returned to the same hospital where he lives for continuity examined for treatment.

Miss Kelver died in police custody, two days after she was examined by an intern at one hospital. Police said she died of "chronic alcoholism and an alcoholic. Dr. Chester McLean, assistant coroner, said she died of "uremia, a disorder of the blood which sometimes follows kidney failure. She had suffered the disease several days before death.

Allied Explainers Rebuffed By First Group S. Koreans

By MILO FARNETI

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Thirty passive South Koreans unanimously chose communism in today's opening round of Allied efforts to win back 331 Allied war prisoners who haven't returned.

The recorded strains of South Korea's national anthem played in the background as 27 men and three women listened quietly to South Korean officers read a plea to come home. Then each walked out the door leading back to communism.

It appeared possible that the Allies drew from a stacked deck. The first group was chosen by the prisoners themselves in the Communist-dominated camps. Observers speculated that each of the 30 might be a confirmed Red.

20 PER DAY

Thirty more South Koreans are to be interviewed Thursday. Original plans called for 20 each day. Reason for increasing the daily total to about 11 days before 22 American, Australian and Britons are called, but a high American officer said the increase is "no indication" of indicating the non-Koreans might be called sooner.

The 30-2 group gives the Reds a propaganda theme to take some of the edge off the U.N. Command's beating they took in their interviews. They got less than a third of the 5,500 Chinese and Koreans.

This was the first total blank.

The Communists, however, met with a flurry of success Tuesday, calling a compound at a time with no chance for special groups to be interviewed, and the first interviewed twin.

FEAR RED "JOKER"

Meanwhile, in a negotiation hut nearby, the Allies all but rejected a Red proposal for a Korean peace conference after a day of studying a Communist plan offered Tuesday. The two sides meet again Thursday.

United States delegate Arthur H. Dean told the Reds there are two basic points on which both sides could agree, but he accused them of dragging their feet by suggesting a "joker" into the conference by calling for Russia to attend as a neutral.

The prisoner interviews were highly calm compared to the wild, brawling sessions the Reds had with the Chinese and Koreans.

The blue-uniformed prisoners walked through the maze into the five explanation tents on a bare hillside and sat quietly.

The South Korean explainers read their statements, scarcely deviating from the text.

PARDONS PLEDGED

They promised the prisoners that if they repatriated the government would give them promotions, rewards, medical treatment and pardons for any crimes they might have committed in North Korea.

A Korean girl explainer, her hair in pigtails, propped her head in one hand as she listened, facing the men.

"I believe you have had a hard time during your captivity," she replied.

"The Korean people should consider their own country.

"I see no Koreans controlling the country—but American capitalists. And I see no freedom in South Korea. . . . I want to fight for the death of the last American. . . .

"I have been behind barbed wire for about three years. I must say you that the Americans are responsible for my imprisonment."

Then, apparently in a slip of the tongue, she said:

"I have no place to go—if or I go to South Korea."

But the girl chose communism.

Unity Among Free Nations Only Hope Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, backing up State Secretary Dulles' blast at Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.), declared today that unity among free nations "is our only hope for survival."

Like Dulles, Eisenhower did not mention McCarthy by name. But the president's press secretary conference he is "in full accord with the statements made Tuesday by Secretary Dulles."

Dulles had asserted that criticism such as that fired by McCarthy attacks the very heart of United States foreign policy.

Eisenhower had anticipated questions about the speech and announced he had prepared his views in writing because, he said, he would have to say on the subject. The president also has a sharp issue with McCarthy on another subject—repeating that he believes the Republican congressional election issue will be out of the picture by the time congressional elections occur next year.

McCarthy told a community-wide rally in Appleton, Wis., last night a week that Communism would be an issue and that the question of continuing his hunt for subversives would be the main issue in the election of a Republican congress.

Dulles refused to say he was talking about McCarthy, but he said some of the statements the Republican senator's own words and this left no doubt as to his target.

500 Employees Of Can Company Leave Work

TORONTO (CP)—Five hundred employees of three Continental Can company plants here left their jobs today although a strike vote was not authorized by local officials of United Steelworkers (CIO-CLC).

The walkout came several hours after the company and the United States announced a strike against Continental and American Can plants. Both are parent companies of the Ontario firm.

Employees here are included under a master contract covering 12,000 employees. Bowmar Ontario Labor Relations Act, a legal strike cannot be called until the dispute has been submitted to conciliation.

Management said only the three plants here and one in Vancouver are involved. The American strike against Bowmar Montreal is covered under a separate contract, he said.

LONDON (Reuters) — James G. Gardiner, Canada's minister of agriculture, made an unscheduled stop here Tuesday night while on his way to Rome to attend the conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Mr. Gardiner is in bed in a London hotel with influenza. His condition is said to be not serious and he hopes to fly on to Rome Thursday.

Mr. Gardiner was 70 last Monday.

SENATE PROBERS MEET TO DECIDE ON GOUZENKO

Not Likely to Press Issue on Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unified States Senate spy hunters meet today (at 11 a.m. EST) to decide what to do about questioning Igor Gouzenko, after disclosing that the FBI reported information from the former Russian code clerk in Ottawa had resulted in the identity a U. S. scientist as a Soviet agent.

Chairman William E. Jenner (Rep., Ind.) of the Senate internal security subcommittee, indicated Tuesday that the group is not likely to press the issue in view of Gouzenko's reported refusal to being questioned. Jenner said "I don't want him to County if he feels ill will endanger him and his family."

Gouzenko, who once expressed willingness to testify in investigators, said Tuesday in a copyrighted article written for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Toronto Telegram that he decided not to take the interview for reasons of personal and family safety. He has been living in Canada under police under an assumed name, under Canadian government protection.

The Senate internal security subcommittee, in releasing excerpts from a 1945, FBI report, declined the name of the scientist. The report said he is a wartime consultant to fleet admiral Ernest J. King, U. S. commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet.

The FBI said, as quoted by the subcommittee, that Gouzenko indicated the scientist may have been working for the Soviet espionage unit in Dr. Allan Nunn May, British scientist who confessed to 1946 in passing atomic secrets to the Russians.

REASON FOR QUESTIONING

This portion of the FBI report was revealed by the sub-committee as one of the reasons it wanted Gouzenko questioned about the Soviet embassy in Ottawa in September, 1945, and tipped Canadian authorities to a Russian spy network reaching into the U. S.

The report was described as part of the 71-page report which Gouzenko turned over to Canadian authorities.

Jenner said the group to sell if the United Kingdom can buy, he said.

The minister said he isn't worried about Canada's wheat surplus.

"The chief sources of worry to western Europe have always been that there might not be a crop. We've had that now for big crops in a row—and wheat will keep."

Police Believe Man Found In Car Murdered

Autopsy Shows Huntsville Man Died of Broken Neck

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Police said today they believe a 23-year-old Huntsville man whose body was found on a little-used side road here Tuesday was murdered.

The body of Kenneth Second, married and father of a 10-month-old child, was found lying on the seat of his car. An autopsy showed he died of a broken neck. Police said the injuries did not seem to be accident and there were no marks or bruises on the body.

Officers suggested the death was foul play. Second was a handyman who toured this district 60 miles south of North Bay doing odd jobs for farmers. At first it was thought he died of a heart attack or carbon monoxide poisoning.

An officer of the criminal investigation bureau of the Ontario provincial police at Toronto was expected here today to investigate the man's death.

Apple Growers Have Hard Time Selling Crops

LONDON (CP)—Canadian apple growers have had more trouble selling their crops than any other farm group in Canada, agriculture Minister James G. Gardiner said today.

The federal minister, who arrived Friday en route to the Food and Agriculture Organization meeting at Rome, said Canada's other main exportable crops—wheat and wood—can be sold in world markets.

Gardiner left today for Rome after being confined to bed with a slight attack of gastric influenza. He did not confer with British government officials about Canadian food surpluses.

"Canada has the food to sell if

Pickering Girl Killed When Struck by Auto

PICKERING (CP)—An 11-year-old girl was killed and her 10-year-old companion seriously injured Tuesday when they were struck by an automobile whose driver was blinded by the lights of another car.

Police said Lorraine Boddy of Pickering was killed. Her playmate, Loretta Annaby, suffered severe head injuries.

Thailand's King Was Murdered Court Decides

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters) — The Thailand government announced today that young King Ananda, who was found dead in his bed in 1946, was murdered.

The court sentenced to death two royal pages for the bedchamber, Nai Chit Singhaseni and Nai Butr Pathamasiddhi, as accomplices in a plot to "eliminate the monarchy."

The court also accused Nai Chalieo Pathumrora, a former page secretary to the young King, also of being involved in the plot. It said that it had heard from "testimonies and circumstantial evidence" that the two pages had "accomplices in the murder."

A government communique at the time of the King's death said it was an accident. Inquiries were launched in 1948 when a military coup established a new government.

Farouk's Cousin Given 15 Years

CAIRO (Reuters)—Prince Abbas Halim, bemoncled cousin of exking Farouk, today drew a 15-year prison sentence for treason, although he claimed to be a strong opponent of the deposed monarch.

The revolutionary tribunal granted the prince a stay of execution pending the outcome of his appeal.

Prince Abbas Halim, who pleaded innocent and conducted his own defence, told the court that Farouk was the great lover he was supposed to be. He said Farouk posed as a Don Juan but actually was impotent.

The court laughed as Prince Abbas insisted that Farouk had an infertility complex with a normal sexual manic."

Pakistan Plans To Tell Moscow To Stop Threats

KARACHI (AP)—Pakistan officials said today they are preparing a note to Moscow requesting the Kremlin to stop making threats against the predominantly Moslem country.

That was the reaction here to a Soviet note protesting that Pakistan clarify press reports that Karachi is negotiating with the United States to trade air bases for arms.

A government spokesman said Pakistan has no aggressive intentions toward any power and added: "As far as any alliance, Pakistan will act according to her own lights and she will not tolerate any interference with her domestic or foreign policy from any quarter, whatsoever."

GOVERNMENT ANNOYED

Government circles were reported extremely annoyed over the Soviet note, delivered here on Monday, and added that a counter-protest is being sent to Moscow asking the Soviet Union not to indulge in threats.

The United States has said the use of bases in Pakistan is not involved in current negotiations with Pakistan on possible U. S. military aid.

Forecast Co-Ed Gets 'Early Vacation' For Masquerade at College Dinner

OXFORD, England (Reuters)—It's an early school "vacation" for pretty Felicity Cooper, a co-ed who titillated this tradition-bound university city by posing as a young Frenchman and sneaking into dinner in a forbidden men's college dinner hall.

Felicity's identity remained gallantly concealed until Tuesday. Her host, Jeremy Rundell, had been suspended by Oxford University authorities for having an unidentified woman in his all-male college after 7 p. m. But Rundell caught up with her, and university officials ruled the co-ed should share Rundell's fate and be sent home for the rest of the term.

Her escapade included darned slacks and used eye-shadow on her face to give it a "five o'clock shadow." She is a student in one of the university's all-female colleges.

To preserve her role as Rundell's French cousin, she asked that her dinner table neighbors repeat their jokes to her in French. But her reaction to the singing of bawdy songs in the undergraduate hall after the meal eventually gave the girl away.

MAY FLOWERS BLOOM IN DECEMBER

The lovely little hepatica, harbinger of spring, apparently has been prematurely awakened from its winter sleep, for this morning as Mrs. J. F. Avery, Benjamin Street, was hanging out her clothes, she noticed a little pinkywhite flower with its face turned to the sun.

On closer view she found that it was the hepatica which had been dug up last spring from the woods and planted in her flower garden.

The vegetable kingdom, along with the other things of this fast moving age, has, it seems, been caught up in the mad whirl and skipped a few leaves on the calendar. Perhaps this is one of the signs of an 'open winter.'

Prizes Presented, Directors Chosen By Cheese Makers

Prize winners of the 26th Convention and British Empire Dairy Show of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association were presented with their awards and the report of the nominating committee naming directors for 1954 was received at the evening session in the Hotel Quinte Tuesday night, it was announced by Clark Lackner, district director of dairying for the Province of Ontario, spoke of the downward trend, of the dairy industry since the end of the Second World War. Attributing the decline to the loss of the British market, the speaker said that things now look brighter for the cheese makers with the recovery of this market. He told the gathering that at the present time there is no surplus of cheese in the country since the export quota of 36 million pounds of cheese.

Mr. Lackner also said there had been more improvement made in cheese factories this season than in any other year he could recall. However, he advised there were many more improvements which still could be made. "After all it said and done," the director stated, "the best market we have is our own domestic market."

Greetings were extended to the Central Ontario cheese makers by Russell Mastin, Western Ontario representative of the Cheese Makers' Association and by Albert Belanger, Eastern Ontario representative of the Cheese Makers' Association. Both men congratulated the group on the excellent line o' exhibits.

That portion of the evening session was J. P. Robinson, who stressed the need for action by the welfare committee in improving the lot of the cheese makers. He said he felt some approach in the marketing board should be made in an effort to gain more security for the cheese makers.

The nominating committee reported the following men to serve as directors or the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association: Bert Jones, Milford, Ont.; Carl McNeil, Moscow, Ont.; Harold Kingston, Napanee; Roy Huffman, Corbyville; Murray Heath, Campbellford; Herb Atherton, Milford; and Delbert Rowe, Holloway.

Refreshments were served following adjournment.

Speakers Praise Dairy Show In Opening Annual Convention

More than six tons of the world's finest cheddar cheese received a standing ovation at the opening session in the Hotel Quinte Tuesday night of the 26th annual convention and British Empire Dairy Show.

But while the world's finest cheddar was displayed in tons, there was not an ounce to eat. Onlookers had to be satisfied with the sight and smell of prize winning exhibits, which were displayed on four long tables.

The convention heard addresses of welcome from Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Q.C., M.P.P.; Reeve Harold A. McLean Haig; Warden of Hastings County, Jack Kincaid, and Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P.; an address by Association president, Bert Jones, Milford, Ont., and major speeches by W. O. Coon, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association and D. M. Beattie, Associate Director of Marketing Services, Ottawa.

Reverend Duncan McTavish, Bridge Street United Church, invoked a blessing on the convention and the work of the Cheese Makers' Association.

MINUTE OF SILENCE

President Bert Jones, before making his address, called for a minute of silence to honor the memory of three of "the cheese industries best friends" who died during the past year. They were C. L. Irwin, organizer of show, Dr. E. G. Hood, Chief of the Dairy Department of the National Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and Sidney Dawkins, well-known city accountant for a long time associated with the Ontario Cheese Makers' Association.

In his presidential remarks Mr. Jones stated that the 1953 British Empire Dairy Show was "one of the best ever put on."

"It is not as large as some shows we have had," he said, "but the quality of cheese shown and the British buyer, and the cheese are displayed to better advantage than at any previous show."

Mr. Jones noted a general improvement in the calibre of cheese shown throughout the province and stated that they were responsible to a great degree for "keeping the industry alive."

He commended the Ontario Marketing Board for selling ten million pounds of cheese to Great Britain, describing it as "a shot in the arm to the cheese industry."

Mr. Jones noted with sadness that fewer young men are learning to be cheese makers.

"What will happen to the factories if cheese makers are not available," he said. "Cheese makers are the key men in this industry, and as cheese makers we would be happy to discuss with the factory owners any problems that confront the industry as a whole."

Mr. Jones expressed the thanks of the Association to all those who exhibited or in any way contributed to the show this year.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

In his welcoming address Mayor Haig said that "we consider the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association synonymous with Belleville. On the borders of the world, mention Belleville and cheese is associated with it. The cheese industry has established a standard of quality that is unsurpassed and Belleville has become associated with that standard."

"Your convention," he told the members, "means more to Belleville than any other. If ever Belleville should chose a new escutcheon then certainly cheese should have a place on it", he said.

He complimented the Association on the improvements made in the quality of cheese and on behalf of the citizens of Belleville wished them future success.

Jack Kincaid, warden of Hastings County Council was proud to have a show of such outstanding quality in this district. He congratulated the Association and wished it every success.

SPEAKERS THANKED

Earl McNeil of Moscow, Ont., thanked Mayor Haig and Warden Kincaid.

Elmer Sandercock M.P.P., stated that dairying was one of Belleville's biggest industries. He noted that more than $40 million worth of cheese had passed through the storage facilities of this city since the Cheese Producers' Association was completed here in 1951, and mentioned that all factories in this area would through the Belleville banks.

He urged the industry to seek out new markets for its product, emphasizing that with a steady growth of the population within the province of Ontario could become one of the best markets.

He stated that "the grade of cheese is about as high as you can get it", and lauded the cheese makers and their instructors, for the valuable work they are doing in the country.

At intervals throughout the afternoon session there were drawings for five-pound boxes of cheese and cartons of ice cream.

Mack Robertson, of the Belleville Creameries, spoke briefly at the conclusion of the afternoon and congratulated what he described as his "fair and courteous competitors" in the cheese industry.

Robert Burkitt Attends Chicago 4-H Club Parley

Robert Burkitt, R.R. 2, Frankford, is the representative from Hastings county at the National 4-H conference being held in Chicago November 30 to December 6. Contestants for the trip are chosen on their all-round participation in 4-H and Junior Farmer activity.

Robert has been active in 4-H club work since 1947 and during that time has completed nine 4-H clubs, representing calf, swine, grain, field corn and forestry projects. Two years ago he was a member of the Hastings 4-H grain team in inter-club competition at Guelph and this year placed second as member of a swine team in provincial competition.

He has been active in grain and livestock judging and was this year's winner in judging competition at the C.N.E. He has been active in the organization and is president of the county junior Farmers' Association. In 1951 he was president of the Sidney Junior Farmers.

Time of Year For Pedestrians To Be Careful

"Now is the time of year for all pedestrians to watch their steps more carefully than ever," Police Chief Walter Probert of the Belleville Police Department, warned this week.

"Especially dangerous for the person on foot is the evening rush hour because of early darkness and reduced visibility. Motorists and pedestrians alike take too many unnecessary chances in their hurry to get home as quickly as possible."

"Last" November in Ontario, there were 418 traffic accidents involving pedestrians. Thirty-eight died or their injuries. There were 13 people killed at intersections and 13 more lost their lives attempting to cross streets in built-up blocks. One of the most dangerous of pedestrian habits, that of coming from behind parked vehicles or other objects, caused 37 accidents.

"Anyone who must walk on the highway in rural areas should always walk on the left side of the road, facing the traffic and be sure to step off the pavement when vehicles approach. During the hours of dusk or darkness this is especially important. Even if the good advice of carrying or wearing something while is being followed by 50 per cent of pedestrians can see oncoming vehicles much sooner and more clearly than the drivers can see the pedestrian. There were 37 accidents during November of last year involving people walking on crossing highways. Nine people were killed."

Police Chief Probert emphasized the fact that pedestrian accidents can be avoided by everyone obeying common sense rules and developing safe walking and driving habits.

"When visibility is poorest, between dusk and dark," said the Chief, "make sure the motorist sees you, or you don't enter into his path. The right to live is surely more important than the right of way. Don't walk yourself to death. And one thing more, please don't scuttle across the street after sundown, when the errand you are bent on can wait, and they can't be harmed by traffic if they are kept away from it."

Producers' President Predicts Cheese Industry 'On Way Back'

W. O. Coon, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, predicted that the cheese industry "is on its way back again" after the two hazard years, in an address to the 26th annual convention that the British Empire Dairy Show of Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association Tuesday afternoon.

Relaxing of dollar restrictions in the sterling area, the possible reburn of cheese business to the British cheese trade, the increase in the number of dairy cattle in Canada, and the "settling down of an over-expanded powdered and canned milk industry" were cited as reasons for his prediction.

He also credited the sale of ten million pounds of cheese to the British market in the latter part of October with "relieving the pressure on home industry by clearing out a threatened backlog of cheese."

He stated that in the past two years, the poorest in the history of the cheese industry, there have been substantial increases at the end of the year to jeopardize future production.

ACCEPTED LOSS

In the October sale to the British market the Cheese Producers voluntarily accepted a loss of four pound loss on all surplus cheese, or a total loss of $250,000.

Mr. Coon stated that this was done to get cheese back into the British market, which was absent for two years.

"This is a traditional market," he stated. "Almost six full months of negotiations were conducted with the British Ministry of Food trying to get them to release dollars for the purchase of cheese. After two refusals, they consented to convert sterling. With a chance to participate in the British market and prospects of increased trade with Britain, producers took it on themselves to make the deal."

SOME DISCUSSION.

Mr. Coon also said that there had been much discussion on whether the cheese industry alone should bear the brunt of the loss or whether the rest of the dairy industry should come to its assistance for the good of dairying as a whole. He told convention delegates that the "rest of the dairy industry is trying to have legislation passed for the establishment of a surplus fund to be set up by the entire industry to take care of just such a situation as this."

Should such a fund be established the industry as a whole would absorb losses and not the cheese industry alone.

Mr. Coon said that the powdered and canned milk industries had "overexpanded during World War II". He predicted that a gradual settling back to normal would be more apparent in the coming year.

An increase in the number of dairy cows in Canada, with an increase in total milk production, would rebound to the benefit of cheese industry alone, Mr. Coon said, "It is generally agreed that cheese can handle surplus milk to the best advantage of everyone in the dairy business."

He concluded by stating that in his opinion, "the cheese industry was on the upgrade."

SHOULD EAT MORE CHEESE.

In his preliminary remarks Mr. Coon urged the Cheese Makers' to try and bring about an increase in the per capita consumption of cheese in Canada, which he described as "the highest priced market in the world." Such an increase, he stated, would be better for the producers and the entire industry.

In discussing the specific problems of the cheese industry Mr. Coon congratulated the makers on the high standards they have achieved with the new sanitation program. He said various factors in the boxing, and weighing of cheese had also to be improved, and suggested a conference be called to seek solutions to these problems.

He congratulated the makers on their convention and show.

IN MEMORIAM

POWELL — In loving memory of Jessie Powell, who passed away December 2nd, 1942.
God took him home, it was His will
But in our hearts, he liveth still.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

SMITH — In loving memory of dear father, William Smith, who passed away December 2nd, 1951.
Our days are filled with sorrow,
Our years with vain regret,
For those we love we cannot see
And those we met with God.
Each time I look at your pictures
No smile, no loving, no true,
That's how I remember you.
Though dear father you're gone from our home
Always remembered by your son Percy.

Chief Instructor Reviews Season, Prospects for Future

A review of 1953 cheese operations and prospects for the future, and technical discussions on the "Cheese Waxes" and extraneous matter in cheese, occupied the Wednesday morning session of the 28th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association.

J. M. Bain, chief dairy instructor for Western and Central Ontario, gave a complete review of this year's milk production operations and made some predictions about the problems in the industry.

D. H. Bullock, a representative of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, gave a review of research work being done at O.A.C. on the relative merits of paraffin and micro-crystalline wax, and blends of the two in regard to their ability to retain moisture in the finished cheese, retard mold growth on the rind, prevent sticking of cheese rolls and preserve the cheddar flavor.

He also gave a brief summary of the preliminary work being done at O.A.C., in regard to the development of a machine for milk cheese with a distinctly cheddar flavor.

REPORT ON RESEARCH

Cliff Swett, technical director of the National Dairy Company, Chicago, gave a brief report on his company's work with different types and kinds of wax and the problems which his firm is trying to solve in the development of better wax products for the cheese industry.

H. M. Ward, government of Canada grader, Montreal, gave an address on "Some Aspects of Cheese Extraneous Matter."

He noted that of the 250,000 samples which his department has analyzed in the two-and-one-half years since his laboratory was established, that 84 per cent of extraneous matter in cheese has been vegetable matter—hay, straw, grain and weed seeds, and particles of ensilage.

Other types of extraneous matter included metal particles, insect parts, grit and dust, and mud dust and carbon.

UP TO OPERATORS

Mr. Ward stated that control of extraneous matter is up to the operators at the plants. He pointed out that numerous Ontario cheese plants have established a record of 90 per cent acceptable class, and that the plant and in 270 samples without a reject over a six month period.

In summing up he stated that marked progress has been made, and is being made" in controlling extraneous matter in cheese. He concluded by saying that the elimination of vegetable matter is the most important problem in the production of an acceptably clean cheese.

A complete address by the association is quoted below.

RATEPAYERS' MEASON

Trent Hills Council has enjoyed a very satisfactory season of business, making from a quality standpoint. Approximately 116,000 boxes of cheese were graded from the 1952 make with 96.2 per cent first grade.

"No serious outbreak of and one defect was encountered and the second grade cheese were of the usual variety, with fruity and rancid flavors predominating.

"Milk quality was not equal to that of the 1952 season as determined by the sediment test. This was reflected in the extraneous matter tests of cheese and Central Ontario had only 58.6 per cent of passable discs compared with 72.7 per cent in 1952. It might add that Western Ontario has a decrease in passable discs also, as it was due to the general condition throughout the two districts.

Factory conditions are much improved due to the new sanitary code adopted this year. While a number of plants have not yet complied with the regulations, the great majority have and will commence operations even better conditions than ever before. I might add that the board decided to hold the regulations entirely will be, except to do so before opening in 1954.

DECLINE IN FACTORIES

As stated there has been a gradual improvement in conditions at the existing factories. There has been, however, a constant decline in the number of factories operating. This year 56 factories in this area offered cheese for grading. Compare this with 70 in 1952 and 121 in 1942. Cheese production was 116,215, 127,035 and 226,853 boxes respectively and an average of 2,000 boxes per plant in 1953 compared with 1,800 boxes in 1952.

This trend to fewer plants and larger volume is probably a blessing. The quality of the cheese has not suffered and more economical production is possible. Probably the most serious threat to the industry at the moment is the looming shortage of qualified makers. Modern factories and equipment are steps in the right direction but it is becoming increasingly evident that some drastic change in the working hours will have to be made. It is a difficult problem and the only solution appears to be more remuneration for the operator who in turn could hire additional help, thereby allowing time off for emergencies during the week. I mention this only because I am sure that it will be an important factor in the cheese factory operation of the future. Only a small percentage of dairy school students are cheese minded and experienced help is becoming more and more difficult to obtain.

REQUIRE MORE LABOR

The cheese factory of the future will require more labor if present trends continue. More types and sizes of cheese will be made to satisfy the trade and the consumer.

More labor and care will be needed and more sanitary control will be a necessity.

"Curing rooms will require more and better humidity control medium to eliminate mould growth and aid firm dry rind formation, and waxing of cheese at the place of manufacture will be standard practice.

"Deterioration of rinds in storage is a serious problem at present and could be largely overcome by proper handling prior to boxing. Boxes should be stored far enough in advance to assure dry heading and veneer.

"I have mentioned the factors which I consider most important at the present time for the consideration of this meeting.

"Serious problems will develop within the cheese industry unless we to learn how we will demand clear thinking and sound judgment on the part of the cheese makers and producers alike. Both groups are involved and harmony should exist at all times. Some difference of opinion will always be expected but, in my opinion, a healthy circumstance and frank discussion always brings about better understanding.

"It is believed that when final estimates are available for 1953 a new high in production will have been reached. Process cheese sales are approximately twice those million pounds over the same period of 1952. Cheese in its natural form is holding its sales as better merchandising is practiced.

Existing factories should have good years ahead providing: (1) that sanitary conditions are kept on a par with all other food processing plants. (2) that sizes and types of cheese are made to suit consumer demands, and qualified men are available to operate the factory."

Problems Confronting Cheese Industry Discussed at Meeting

An explanation of the amendments in the marketing scheme for cheese, and a report received on various problems confronting the cheese industry, took place at a special meeting of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association held at Central Canada School, Tuesday evening.

W. C. Gordon, chairman of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, explained the proposals and details of the negotiations and the final deal with the British Ministry of Food for the purchase of Canadian Cheddar cheese. His explanation was reported as part of the Tuesday afternoon session of the 28th annual Cheese Makers' Convention which can be found elsewhere on this page.

Mr. Frank Perkin, chairman of the Ontario Farm Marketing Board, made a few brief remarks.

He stated that his department was concerned with the industry acceptance of the new license fee which had been raised from three hundred pounds to two cents per pound to provide the funds necessary to finance the $450,000 estimated cost in the sale of 10 million pounds of cheese to Great Britain.

INTERESTED IN COLLECTING.

"My interest in this matter is the collection of the money and the payment of it and the administration of the act," he said. "I will take the production of 10 million pounds to pay off the liability incurred in the sale to Britain."

He noted, along with Mr. Coon, that the sale of cheese to Britain had strengthened the entire dairy industry. The price of butter fell due to the increased milk plants had increased by 12 cents per hundred weight during 1953.

They also noted that a hold over of 25 million pounds of cheese and that payments for this stored cheese would commence sometime in the spring of 1954.

Roscoe Robson, M.P.P. for Hastings East, sounded an encouraging note for the industry for the future. He congratulated the Marketing Board for what he termed "a splendid job in selling cheese to Britain."

BEST ADVICE.

"All I know is that the cheese industry get on its own feet and not depend on government to do it," he said. "The best advice we have come to realize that government can help but the best advice is the best advice after all."

Mr. Robson also commented the hope that the rest of the dairy industry, fluid milk and butter, be strengthened by the action of the Cheese Producers, would see fit to aid the cheese industry in meeting its liability.

"If we fail to turn surplus whole milk into a saleable product then the whole industry should jump," he said.

Mr. Robson expressed doubt however that the cheese industry could continue to produce cheese at a minimum price of 30 cents per pound, and urged the industry to aim for higher prices.

The law of supply and demand dictates that when a commodity is scarce it commands a higher price. "We have milk, cheese scarce in this country," he said, "in which case the price should go up."

BUYING POWER GREATER.

"The buying power of the public is greater than it was in 1951 when the industry was getting 38 cents for its cheese. Wages are up. Farmers are asked to pay more than $3,000 for a combine but they are urged not to ask 36 cents for cheese.

"This is propaganda by the trade", said Mr. Robson. "They feel that if the producers get 36 cents they will want 40. I hope Hoodoonery won't fall for it."

C. E. Lackner, director of dairying for the province of Ontario, told the meeting that government handouts are only of a temporary nature and that your association has taken a permanent step that it will be an important factor in the cheese factory operation of the future. Only a small percentage of dairy school students are cheese minded and experienced help is becoming more and more difficult to obtain.

REQUIRE MORE LABOR

The cheese factory of the future will require more labor if present trends continue. More types and sizes of cheese will be made to satisfy the trade and the consumer.

More labor and care will be needed and more sanitary control will be a necessity.

"Curing rooms will require more and better humidity control medium to eliminate mould growth and aid firm dry rind formation, and waxing of cheese at the place of manufacture will be standard practice.

"Deterioration of rinds in storage is a serious problem at present and could be largely overcome by proper handling prior to boxing. Boxes should be stored far enough in advance to assure dry heading and veneer.

"I have mentioned the factors which I consider most important at the present time for the consideration of this meeting.

"Serious problems will develop within the cheese industry unless we to learn how we will demand clear thinking and sound judgment on the part of the cheese makers and producers alike. Both groups are involved and harmony should exist at all times. Some difference of opinion will always be expected but, in my opinion, a healthy circumstance and frank discussion always brings about better understanding.

"It is believed that when final estimates are available for 1953 a new high in production will have been reached. Process cheese sales are approximately twice those million pounds over the same period of 1952. Cheese in its natural form is holding its sales as better merchandising is practiced.

Existing factories should have good years ahead providing: (1) that sanitary conditions are kept on a par with all other food processing plants. (2) that sizes and types of cheese are made to suit consumer demands, and qualified men are available to operate the factory."

Exhibition Here Top Cheese Show In Dominion

"This is the top cheese show in Canada," D. M. Beattie, Associate Director of Marketing Service, Ottawa, told delegates to the 36th annual convention and British Empire Dairy Show at the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association's meeting held in Belleville's city hall on Tuesday afternoon.

"The August cheese of T. O. Aitken of Bloomfield, that has scored 98.45 is the highest scoring cheese of any exhibition in Canada in many years. The finish on the cheese here was marvelous. The block class of cheese is also receiving with good success," he said.

Mr. Beattie went on to discuss several aspects of the cheese business of particular interest to the makers. He stated that cheese blocks must have a protective covering which is free from dust. He suggested that sanding of the boxes would make them cleaner and more presentable.

In discussing the packaging of cheese he said that "the day of selling cheese over the counter by bulk is a thing of the past" and that in the retail trade it is a specialty or in cheese specialty shops.

PACKAGING IMPROVED

"Wholesale deals in natural cheese have made great strides and its improving the packaging of cheese," he stated. "The whole industry should be grateful for what has been done in the way of small packages of cheese for ready sale. The retail grocer prefers to buy cheese from cheese than from other packages. Retail grocers want cheese in adequately packaged they will not handle it."

He urged the makers to produce the best flavored cheese for packaging.

Mr. Beattie also noted a change in the public's taste for cheese. "People want a sharp, tasty cheese, while the younger generation seems to ask for milder, flavored cheese.

"The trend should be towards production of milder, mellower cheese," said Mr. Beattie. "If we are to make a success of creating a mild,mature cheddar, we must check on the mild grades, the factory procedure, and a time-consuming storage period to bring about uniformity of taste, mellow consistency. There can be no short cut methods."

ONTARIO LEADS

Mr. Beattie then quoted figures from all the provinces in Canada showing the increased production of first grade and premium cheese, and a "splendid improvement in the quality of Canadian cheese." Ontario dominates the cheese picture in Canada, he said, with 96.2 per cent of Canada's production being graded in Ontario.

He noted that his department, in regarding 1952 cheese, had found a quality control in the rural districts of Canada cheese due to rind deterioration and defective finish. Reasons for the decline in quality were prolonged storage in cheese factories, heavy mold due to lack of waxing facilities.

He urged the manufacturers producing for the export market to install waxing machines and to produce cheese with a firm surface to withstand long storage and to reduce rind growth. He predicted that regrading would become standard procedure for his department.

He noted that the department was trying to standardize the width of wrapping cotton at 14¾ inches with a tolerance of ¼ inch. If acceptable the new wrapping would eliminate the 13 inch widths now being produced and would reduce the re-lapping required in the regulations.

He also spoke about the possible standardization of wooden cheese boxes and the incorporation of sanitary requirements in the marketing regulations.

ing that the men on the job in the factory are the ones who make the money, regardless of the price of cheese.

"Some men can make money on 50 cent cheese and others can't make money on 50 cent cheese," he said.

Stan Joss, president of the Black Diamond Cheese Company, spoke for the buyers, when he congratulated the producers on their "courageous decision and I think a wise one," in selling to Britain.

A vote of confidence in the executive of the Cheese Producers' Association was moved and carried.

At the conclusion of the meeting the regular Belleville Cheese Exchange meeting was held.

Fences and Poles Issue Under Discussion in Council

TRENTON (Special)—Attention turned from curbs to fences and poles at council meeting last night when fences on W. Lacey road and a letter from lawyer R. Gregory Butler representing G. H. Westlake, Water Street, Trenton.

The lawyer asked for action on a letter he had written council July 4 earlier this year.

Mr. Westlake complains about his next door neighbor, Arnold Radway. He wants council to enforce the obstructions by-law providing Radway is encroaching on town street allowances without permission.

Mr. Westlake lives on lot 56 on the east side of the street. He claims Water Street is 66 feet wide. He maintains that Radway living beside him on lot 57 has fenced in 12 feet of the street in front of his house hindering cutters and ingress and actually cultivates a certain portion of the street limit although the street allowance is known to him. He asked to be informed if council had granted authority sought to Mr. Radway.

PREPARED TO PROTECT RIGHTS

Mr. Butler states that his client is prepared to take the necessary steps to force the issue. "If Radway has gone ahead on his own without permission then clearly the street should compel the removal of the fence," he said.

The letter points out that Radway claims he had permission from the town to erect the fence.

Commenting on the Westlake complaint councillor R. Smithrim suggested waiting for the report from the committee investigating street allowance. Councillor Ellen James felt that the town solicitor should be consulted.

The street allowance committee comprises members of the Planning Board and the Traffic Committee and the town engineer. The enquiry opened after Senator W. A. Fraser pressed for removal of certain curbs on McColl Street found to be erected on the road right-of-way.

ORDER WITHDRAWN

An order that the curbs be taken down was withdrawn pending the opinion of the investigators.

Mayor R. E. Whitley told council he was given to understand that ex-Mayor W. J. Coach had granted Radway permission to build the fence.

Council dealt with the proposed removal of a hydro pole causing a traffic problem at the corner of McColl and Henry streets across from the Weaver residence.

Claiming that the obstruction created a great hazard to motor traffic Councillor Ellen James marked: "It's a wonder somebody hasn't cut it off before this."

It was decided to request Hydro to remove the pole.

DISABLED CLUB MEETS.

The Quinte Disabled Club organized by Mrs. Norma Gee of Trenton meets in Queen Elizabeth School at 7.30, Wednesday, December 9, for the purpose of electing officers and choosing craft the club members would be interested in following.

MIGHT HOLD HIM UP.

John Savard, an extra gang worker for the C.N.R. hopes to be home in Montreal for Christmas. There is only one thing that might hold him up, and that is a charge of stealing $53.50 to pay a second offence fine for imbibing too much liquor in Trenton.

Magistrate T. F. Wills gives Savard the alternative of digging up the money or spending Christmas in jail.

Meanwhile, a third offender, the court claims drinks too much for his own good, was fined $10 and on the list of county jail celebrants. She had no difficulty raising the cash to pay the Belleville lock-up for one month.

MAGISTRATE CATCHES FIKE.

Magistrate T. F. Wills believes in the saying if there is one "the late bird also farns very well."

It was decided to request Hydro to remove the pole.

CHURCHILL—A SHINING EXAMPLE

Sir Winston Churchill marked his 79th birthday Monday.

The Associated Press) reporting that fact, stated that he bears "on his bowed shoulders the rising hopes of the British people for a lasting peace with Russia."

We fail to understand why the hopes of the British people should be rising. If anything, signs seem to point to a bear market for peace.

But that is really beside the point. The fact is that Churchill still retains some hopes.

That should be a lesson to all of us. It is at one and the same time an example and a form of guarantee. It teaches us that we should keep hope alive—and it assures us that there is some reason for hope. For, as the outstanding realist in world politics, Churchill would not still nurse a hope, no matter how much he loved it, if he did not believe there was some possibility of it growing up into a reality.

He has nursed other hopes in his day, including what appeared the wholly absurd one that Britain, alone, could withstand the assault of Hitler's stukas, U-boats and panzer divisions. He must have a reason to hope—and has given us reason to follow him whenever he sets an example by hoping.

THE POINT AT ISSUE

Controversy rages in Bermuda.

Two-thirds of the population is colored. But no colored person was invited to a state dinner in honor of Queen Elizabeth.

J. E. Pearson, a supporter of the government, has replied to critics by stating that if there had been a colored person of enough prominence he would have been invited.

We suggest that statement is the simple truth.

The government, therefore, can hardly be fairly criticised for failing to invite colored persons to the dinner.

But, if this statement is true, why is it true? Why if two-thirds of the population is colored, has none of them been able to gain sufficient prominence in the affairs of the island to warrant an invitation to the state dinner? Are they themselves solely to blame? Or is it not much more likely that the white section of the population—and the government—can be quite fairly criticized for permitting such a situation to exist?

ANOTHER SHAVIAN JEST?

British courts are to be asked to decide whether George Bernard Shaw's request for the study of a 40-symbol alphabet is a practical proposition.

One can almost hear a Shavian chuckle issuing from the grave.

The courts indeed! Deciding if the proposition is "practical!"

Well, let him chuckle. We have faith in the courts.

They will not upset the old routine of learning ABC's.

They will not throw headline writers into a tizzy just when they have settled down into a comfortable rut of writing UN, CIO, AFL, USSR, PoW and the like.

It's all very well for Shaw's ghost to chuckle. At this late date nobody is going to attempt to translate GBS into some new alphabet, even if GBS invented it.

MERELY A MISUNDERSTANDING?

Bill Boss, the well-known Canadian Press war correspondent, is in Moscow. He is going to endeavor to interpret Russia to the Canadian people, a difficult task.

Amongst the first efforts has been a report on traffic conditions in Moscow. From his description they are chaotic. Everybody jay-walks. Apparently there are no rules at all.

But this just does not make sense. In a society where everything is planned, surely Stalin and his successor have not overlooked traffic? No, we refuse to accept the report at its face value. What must have happened is a sudden change in the party line on the rule of the road, just as Boss was in the middle of the street.

MORE TROUBLE COMING

Jordan plans to strengthen her defences against Israel.

This bodes ill for the Near East.

The decision, of course, is the natural result of the Israeli attack on the village of Kibya in Jordan, when 53 Arabs were killed. Israel's contention is that this attack was in the nature of a defensive move against frequent border incidents. But that as it may, it has certainly added to tension in the Near East.

In an area where nationalist passions run so high, the existence of well-armed forces is not a guarantee of peace but a threat to it.

SOURCE OF STRENGTH

It could be we are fashioned weak
That we may strength and courage seek
And out of mortal sin and strife
Grow fit to gain eternal life.

Since from the ground the roses grow,
Into the soil their roots must go,
That bud and leaf and flower and stem
May draw their nourishment from them.

Had man been truly perfect made,
He'd not have looked to God for aid.
'Tis from the depths in which he lies
To soul perfection he must rise.

As roses climb to the sun, so
Man seeks for strength 'till life is done.
'Tis from the clay and from the tomb
The soul eternal comes to bloom.

Horse's Wage Is 33 Cents

(Rural New Yorker)

Although Old Dobbin has waged a losing fight with the machine age, he is still a useful servant on some farms.

Economists at Cornell University have recently reported on what it costs to keep a team of horses in operation today. According to their figures, it takes $34 a horse, or $282 a team, for maintaining both animal and harness annually.

About half of the cost of keeping a horse is for feed and bedding. Each horse is fed an average of 2.7 tons of hay, oats, barley and corn, or about 600 pounds of grain in a year.

Next to feed and bedding, labor is the highest single cost item. It requires about 100 hours of labor throughout the year to keep a horse and this labor is valued at $50. The average amount of time in a year during which the surveyed farm horses were used was 424 hours per horse. The cost was a little over 33 cents an hour.

All of which means that, at current feed, bedding and labor prices, a good farm team costs 66 cents an hour for every hour of work. Can you afford to use horsepower on your farm?

THE HANDS WON'T TURN BACK

Looking back over the past forty years, nothing amazes me so much as the startling change that has come over the average American businessman in his attitude toward religion.

When I was a boy I am quite sure that practically every businessman considered religion one thing and business something else again—and very decidedly they could not be mixed. Anyone who at the turn of the century talked about putting Christian principles into operation in business would have been laughed at as a fool and a dreamer.

Today the prevailing attitude is precisely the opposite. I hold in my hand the report of a great company. There is more religion on some of these pages than is encountered in most of the religious journals. The president of this company, a hard-boiled businessman who was a colonel in the Official in the Navy, talks like a clergyman. To him the Spirit of God and the teachings of Christ are factors that every business must take into consideration.

I remember the day well when an employee of this company was a factor of production. But today it pays anyone tried to make him such. the labor leaders would find the leaders of industry standing shoulder to shoulder with them in protest. Nobody would stand for turning back the hands of the clock.

There are many things to discourage us on the modern life, but there are many things, thank God, over which we can rejoice.

Letter to the Editor

'Splake' First Planted In Banff Park Lake

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

As an ex-Bellevillian (I think that's the proper word), I take much pleasure in receiving a copy of your paper when it arrives. I have for years thought it was the country's finest.

On Tuesday, November 17, your paper carried a picture of a hybrid fish called "Splake." This fish is a cross between an Eastern Brook Trout (our local native speckled trout) and the Lake Trout. The picture was captioned "Ever Catch a Splake?", and the accompanying article went on to give some details. Later in the year, till the present time there never was such a fish.

Well, you were nearly right, but this hybrid fish was first planted in a small lake in the Banff National Park, only a few miles from Lake Louise. I can not recall the exact year they were planted, but last summer, on July 1, 1953, this lake was opened for fishing, and the first Splake were caught. About three weeks ago you published a Canadian Press release on this fish, but you will be pleased with it I am sure you will see that they were first successfully tried out in Western Canada.

The wardens at Banff will tell you that on opening day last year, hundreds of tourists and local fishermen were lined up at the lake, and all got their limit of five fish. Fishing was not allowed in the summer, on two occasions, I caught some myself, I seemed to catch them as almost any kind of lure, from dry flies to spinners, and they are a fine fish. They hit very hard, and are excellent fighters. They are also excellent eating locally, your Fish and Game Association should see that they do have some of these fish planted. They will never regret it.

Just thought you would like to keep on the right track.

Norman Shaddock,
600 Medical Arts Bldg.,
Calgary, Alta.

Thank you, Mr. Shaddock, for your generous comments regarding our paper and also for giving us the up to date information on the Splake. We expect the Fish and Game Association will take up this matter at their earliest opportunity.—The Editor.

Few Veterans Are Criminals

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

The quite general opinion that military service teaches men to be heedless of human life is unjustified, according to a statistical study by James V. Bennett, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons. Recently, addressing the 83rd Congress of Correction of the American Prison Association, Bennett bluntly stated that a veteran of the armed forces is no more likely to get into serious trouble with the law than a man without a military service background.

While statistical analysis of this kind is necessarily complex, it does not establish that war service makes men more law-abiding. But the figures in Bennett's estimation indicate that a man who served in the armed forces in the Second World War was less likely after the war to be sent to prison for federal crime.

Going further, Bennett "reports that not only were fewer veterans sent to prison but those committed, having engaged in less serious crime, were easier to rehabilitate and more likely not to become repeaters. This may be partly due to the more careful screening of volunteers and draftees at the outset, and partly to the fact that military life, with its inculcating a sense of responsibility, is beneficial to many. But violent crimes is that the offenders are decidedly lacking in discipline, self-control or sense of responsibility.

In our limited observation of the courts, it has been a rare thing for a man who was once in the armed forces to appear on a criminal charge. The so-called soldiers convicted usually were those who are undisciplined and otherwise, almost without exception, unfit for use in the armed forces as they were in civilian life.

Also the armed services are undeservedly blamed for the misdeeds of a few who were constitutionally and temperamentally unable to integrate themselves with military life.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALL LIGHTED UP

A reader has suggested an editorial about Christmas. He writes to me that it would be a wonderful thing if all churches during Christmas week could be lighted up, so that one might not only inspire all during this sacred celebration of the birth of the child Jesus. Just think of the thousands of people who would remark about such a sight on the part of churches all over this country, from the smallest community to the largest cities. It would be like the light of hope shining out into a troubled world! I hope there may be many churches that will do this.

I have never liked the idea of one-day-a-week churches, anyway. There is a warmth about a lighted church. It whispers a welcome and a promise of peace and good will.

Whenever I see a home all lighted up it suggests a happy home in which there are family recreations, reading, games perhaps, and friendly greetings being celebrated. As has been demonstrated, over and over again, "there is no place like home." After the labor of the day, it's to the home that the happiest people wend their way. Nothing else will ever replace the home.

How all is changed as the lights on our streets are lavishly lighted, too, like those in heart when glad tidings are received, or when contentment is given unexpectedly, or when some act of unusual thoughtfulness is performed. When the soldier, after, a long period in war, returns to his own home and loved ones, everything in that home reflects light and cheerfulness.

At the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the invention of the electric light by Thomas Edison, arranged by Henry Ford as a tribute to his old friend, and held at Dearborn, Mich., the scene of that invention was recreated. The great hall was lighted by candles, but as Edison in his restored laboratory repeated his original experiment, the entire hall immediately lighted up with electricity. It was a dramatic event.

Through the genius of Edison the whole world today is a blaze of lighted buildings. One of mankind's great greatest benefactors!

Canadians Invest at Home

(St. Catharines Standard)

Future generations of Canada are not going to pay tribute on the foreign dollar invested in Canada. Canadians are showing faith by their investments at home and have become the big buildings in the remarkable growth and development of their own country.

From Newfoundland to the Prairies, Canadian businessmen are reinvesting the bulk of the cents of every dollar invested in Canada's post-war expansion in our Canadian origin. It certainly is a fact worth repeating—and our investment of better than 90 per cent of the gross national product in each of the past-war years is a feat worth repeating.

When Times Were Worse

(Christian Science Monitor)

Times have been worse—and we have come back from them.

As recently as 70 years ago a man going only a brief distance from one community to another might often find that he had skipped several months in one hour's travel, or arrived at his destination before he had set out.

Up until November 18, 1883, were standardized time zones agreed upon by the United States and Canada—an agreement which led to the time zones observed today as Eastern, Central, Mountain, and Pacific, respectively 5, 6, 7, and 8 hours behind Greenwich time (G.M.T.).

We join feelingly with the American Society of Civil Engineers in celebrating and celebrated the 70th anniversary of that date) in recognizing this issue of standardization.

Anyone who has ever had to plan a journey on trains or steamships still use standard time after most communities have changed to summer daylight saving time knows the complexities of vagaries in time.

Prior to 1883, the ASCE points out, "a traveller from Portland, Maine, arriving at Buffalo and trying to match his watch, which read 12:15 p.m., with the Buffalo clock, which read noon, would find, on reflecting the time of the New Haven Railroad, which was the second, owned by the Lake Shore Railroad, stood at 11:28 in the same room. And the Buffalo local time was 11:40."

Even the puzzles of daylight-saving time now look trivial compared to what we have escaped.

IMPROVING BABY'S DISPOSITION.

Dr. Brady

New Hampshire mother reports that her two-year-old is a different child since she began giving him daily with the six nutritional essentials which are lacking in the refined diet of most children, and adults. The American infants, their writes:

"Before, a fretful baby was quarrelsome and restless, didn't eat at all at night, had bow legs, chipped and ragged fingernails and toenails. Now, after three months of getting calcium, vitamin D etc., she had a good disposition, sleeps well, her toenails and fingernails are perfect and her legs have grown straight. To say that I am thankful . . . .

(Signed) Mrs. . . . .

Being a dreadful old curmudgeon, I must comment here on what the doctors too often call being "high strung." That's just a variation on the old Yankee bunkem "bad nerves." Take it from me, folks (this isn't at all the word I want to use, but anyway I hope you know my favorite epithets), when the doctor quizes your trouble is just "bad nerves" or "nervous exhaustion" or your "delicate" or "high strung"—yes, you had better watch out, for if you let the quack get away with such a phony diagnosis you'll be a barbiturate habitue before you know it.

A physician can hardly "diagnose" either the baby's or the mother's ailment from the descriptions in this letter, but even so, I'm sure the advice I give in the pamphlet above mentioned can do no harm in any circumstance and evidently did mother and child good.

There are countless infants, children and adults in America who certainly are not as well as they should be but are perhaps not ill enough to require or seek medical attention. Even if or when these individuals come under medical observation the nature of their ailment is likely to escape recognition, because only a few practising physicians have learned to look for and weigh the significance of the early manifestations of nutritional deficiency.

Taffy-Pulls Were Popular

(Windsor Star)

During Quebec's historic "Fete de la Ste. Catherine" some celebrants enjoyed the old sport of a taffy-pull. That is a term of the past, prevalent on this continent which is now is seldom found.

The real reason for the taffy-pull, of course, was during the maple syrup season in the spring. Some of the syrup would be allowed to simmer until it reached a consistency half-way between the syrup and the sugar.

Then clean spot of snow would be found, and the liquid dumped upon it. As it cooled, it would become sticky and strong. Then pieces of it were lifted from the snow in spatulas and pulled and twisted. It could either be eaten as a sugar candy or it could be placed in the snow to become hard candy.

It was good, though sticky, fun. And the taffy or candy would be excellent eating. In some occasions all the young people of the community would assemble at a taffy-pull in the sugar bush.

There were also taffy-pulls at other seasons of the year, usually in the winter, in the homes. This could be done by boiling down some of the maple syrup from the season before, or by making a substitute from sugar or other ingredients. The atmosphere of the sugar bush, on a crisp, clear night with the moon shining through the branches, was best.

Public Opinion Has Changed

(By R. K. SANDWELL in The Montreal Star)

In New York one day last week Alice Witt, 18, and Frank de Chirico, 21, reported sick to their respective employers and went to bed with congenial symptoms. A television camera picked them out as the most telegenic (I think that I have invented that word and that it is useful invention) of the store's customers of that day. They were seen on the screen by the new customers to whom they had reported sick.

Alice was fired by the trust company for which she worked. Frank was congratulated and given a raise by his instrument manufacturing concern. Alice immediately got a new job with a sportswear company. The value of Alice, of which $50 was cash; the rest is still due.

The only reason I relay this little tale is that it was perfectly obvious, from the manner in which all the newspapers handled it, that public opinion was entirely on the side of the romantic young cheaters and entirely against the one rightful moral character in the comedy, the trust company. In 1853 the trust company would have been the hero of the piece. Today it is an old meanie, scowling at love's young dream.

A friend of mine was on a train that jumped the rails not long ago, and while there was no loss of life, the shock and injuries suffered by crew and passengers were mostly minor, there were sundry hair raising experiences which the passengers are not likely to forget in a hurry. My friend was in his berth in the sleeping car when the accident occurred was thrown from his bunk, rolling, addressing the 3rd Congress of Correction of the American Prison Association, Bennett bluntly stated that a veteran of the armed forces is no more likely to get into serious trouble with the law than a man without a military service background.

While statistical analysis of this kind is necessarily complex, it does not establish that war service makes men more law-abiding. But the figures in Bennett's estimation indicate that a man who served in the armed forces in the Second World War was less likely after the war to be sent to prison for federal crime.

Going further, Bennett "reports that not only were fewer veterans sent to prison but those committed, having engaged in less serious crime, were easier to rehabilitate and more likely not to become repeaters. This may be partly due to the more careful screening of volunteers and draftees at the outset, and partly to the fact that military life, with its inculcating a sense of responsibility, is beneficial to many. But violent crimes is that the offenders are decidedly lacking in discipline, self-control or sense of responsibility.

In our limited observation of the courts, it has been a rare thing for a man who was once in the armed forces to appear on a criminal charge. The so-called soldiers convicted usually were those who are undisciplined and otherwise, almost without exception, unfit for use in the armed forces as they were in civilian life.

Also the armed services are undeservedly blamed for the misdeeds of a few who were constitutionally and temperamentally unable to integrate themselves with military life.

Food From The Sky

CHAPTER 10.

In this precarious springtime of the Church, Peter was a tireless visitor to all communities of Palestine. From one end of the country to another he walked, meeting the various groups, and counseling with them.

On one such journey he came, trampling along the hilly roads in his worn sandals and faded robe, to the town of Joppa. News of Peter's power of healing had preceded him, and he was met by two men with faces full of urgency and faith. They were friends of a young woman named Tabitha, or Dorcas, a charming and good woman who had just died.

She was lying on her bier, the corruption of death beginning, when Peter came to her. He stood and looked at her. He saw not merely Dorcas, the corpse; he saw one of the new women who were soon to bring to the Church their feminine gifts: their devotion and motherly sympathy, their nurses' hands, their sewing and weaving and scouring and baking — Priscilla and Lydia, Julia and Susanna, Chloe and others, who would open up their homes to the group meetings of the faithful.

Dorcas of Joppa was to be the first of them.

The mourners were weeping, but "they all being put forth, Peter kneeling down, prayed; and turning to the body he said, Tabitha, arise." And she opened her eyes: and seeing Peter, she sat up.

"And giving her his hand, he lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, he presented her alive."

"And it was known throughout Joppa; and many believed in the Lord."

Peter lodged during his prolonged stay in Joppa with a tanner named Simon, who made sandals, girdles, and bags of leather. The proudest fact in Simon's life was that Peter was a guest under his roof.

Peter was to have a vision on that roof that would turn the tide of world thought.

This singular story did not begin in Simon the tanner's seaside house but farther up the coast in the port city of Caesarea, home of a Roman military officer named Cornelius, a centurion. Though himself a Roman, he had lived in Caesarea long enough to learn of the Jews' devotion to the one true God. He had never asked to be received as a Jew; he had not contemplated being circumcised and was therefore not a member of the congregation of Israel. He was simply one of a number of Romans who in those days were drawn to the coast by God and so became known as halfway followers. These people adopted certain Jewish practices, and were even permitted to attend some services in the synagogue.

Cornelius had a special reputation as a man of deep faith and good works. Up and down the streets of Caesarea and out into the suburbs, he was known for his charities. "Cornelius prayed always," as Luke reported; and any man who prays, although he may be in darkness, will find the light.

In the middle of the afternoon, "about the ninth hour of the day," Cornelius saw an angel of God, coming across the yard, past the olive bushes, and into the house. And he heard the voice of an angel call his name.

"Cornelius!"

That battle-scarred veteran of many a colonial campaign was seized with fear. Scarce able to form the words, he whispered:

"What is it, Lord?"

"Your prayers and your alms are ascended for a memorial in the sight of God. And now send men to Joppa and call hither one who is surnamed Peter. He shall tell you what you must do."

The angel vanished. Cornelius leaped to his feet. At his command three of his most trusted servants left for Joppa at once.

By donkey, it took the three men nearly two days to make the journey.

As they trotted into the city, Peter might easily have seen them from the roof if he had not been wrapped in prayer. For it was then "the sixth hour," noontime, and the sainted fisherman of Galilee had climbed to housetop of Simon's dwelling, as was his habit every day, to pray.

And this particular morning, Peter, having finished his prayers, had fallen into a trance.

In his trance, Peter dreamed a dream that was to sow violent dissension in the early Church and create an issue which had to be decided before true Christianity could grow in its full potency. Dreams of the food that fell from the sky.

Luke described it:

"He saw the heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending as it were a great linen sheet let down by the four corners, from heaven to the earth. Wherein were all manner of four-footed beasts, and creeping things of the earth, and fowls of the air.

"And there came a Voice to him. 'Rise, Peter; kill and eat.'

"But Peter said, 'Far be it from me, for I never did eat any thing that is common and unclean.'

"And the Voice spoke to him again the second time, 'That which God hath cleansed, do not thou call common.'

"This was done thrice: and presently the vessel was taken up into heaven."

When Peter opened his eyes the memory of his vision troubled him deeply.

Peter knew that the Law of Moses, the words of the Prophets, all the Scriptures of Israel, were blood and bone of Christ's message. But in the old Law there was great religious exclusiveness that shut out others—that sought to remain pure in separation. That old segregation of the Law had carried over into the Christian Church. Many of the faithful in Jerusalem, passionately devoted to the memory of Christ and His teachings, still considered the Church He had founded something for Jews and Jews alone. Peter knew this fact well. Yet he also knew that Jesus had never excluded anyone; that in a Roman centurion, a Gentile, Christ had found greater faith than in all Israel. Peter was deeply troubled.

He heard a knocking at the gate of Simon's house. Looking over the parapet, Peter saw three strangers standing on the three-hold, their donkeys tied to a nearby sycamore tree. Simon, the house owner, opened a window, and the tanner's voice was cross as he asked who was there and what was wanted.

"Is one Peter lodging there with you?" one of the servants of Cornelius called.

And Peter, listening from the roof, knew that this was a divine call, a signal beyond misunderstanding. No Galilean voice had just asked for Peter; no Judaean from the south had spoken, but a traveler, a Roman by the voice of him — an outsider, a Gentile. And in the same instant that he saw them, the everlasting Voice, the Spirit of God, the Holy Ghost, spoke again to Peter:

"Behold, three men are looking for you."

"Yes, Lord. I see them."

"Arise, therefore!"

"Yes, Lord." And Peter, hands on the railing, pulled himself up from his knees.

"Go on down to them. Go with them — doubting nothing: for I have sent them."

Peter hurried down the stone steps to the gate. His host, Simon the tanner, stood respectfully beside him.

"Behold!" said Peter, a hearty grin of welcome shining through his beard. "I am he that you are looking for. What is the cause? What have you sought me out for?"

"Cornelius the centurion, sent us," said the orderly. "He is a just man. He fears God — the one, true God. He has a good reputation in all the synagogues of the Jews. And Cornelius the centurion, whose servant I am, was told by a holy angel to send for you. He wants you to come as a guest in his house and to hear words from you — he wants you to explain the faith of Christ to him and perhaps to his family."

Peter heaved a great sigh. These men were uncircumcised foreigners, with whom a Jew was under orders to have no traffic. Yet the Voice had said, "Go, Christian, doubting nothing."

Not speech but action proclaimed Peter's decision. His hands raised in blessing welcomed the emissaries, and Simon the tanner had them quickly indoors, showed them a room with decent beds, clean linen, accommodations for three, and bade them be lodged there for the night.

"And on the morrow, Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him."

That was Peter's answer to the first Gentile who sought to be a

But Peter was hardly prepared for the eager reception awaiting him at the house of Cornelius.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONALS

Mrs. K. G. Pitt, of Trenton, is enjoying a vacation in Florida.

Mr., Mrs. Peter Vos Feted by Community

The home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Vos was the happy setting recently for a community party doing honor to the marriage of their son, Peter and his wife, the former Shirley Stapley. The party was sponsored by two neighbors, Mrs. Elmer Urch and Mrs. Clare Horton.

After the large crowd had assembled, short program was held consisting of a humorous reading entitled, "Sweetheart Girl," by Mrs. Percy Reynolds, music by the senior pupils of the school and duets by the Vos family.

Shirley and Peter were then called to the seats of honor and a suitable address was read by Beverley Urch, after which they were presented with a beautiful floor lamp. Both the bride and bridegroom expressed their appreciation and thanks for the gift.

Refreshments were served and a social hour brought the evening to a close.

Fashion Flashes

New lines mark the latest imports, dresses chosen to be trailblazers or to remain individual because of their intricate cut. Beautiful and original is a dress of black and white silk satin jacquard, white dots on black. The neckline crosses from shoulder to shoulder in front with a deep U at the back. At the hips the full skirt is built up by a bustle puff. Below-elbow sleeves. Street-length skirt.

No matter the season, the topper is tops. This Fall, the topper has come better than ever, especially in the popular Eisenhower length. This is the length of a topper fashioned of cross-dye bouclé wool. Its tuxedo fronts and wide slashed cuffs are marked by hand stitching of silk. Modified fullness makes it a natural for a slim skirt to add up to a smart costume. Beautiful beige or rose.

Christ Church Parish Sponsors Successful Christmas Bazaar

Christ Church parish hall was the scene yesterday afternoon, in every nook, window sill, and granny, nestled fragrant balsam boughs, while here and there among the tiny branchlets, gleaming, blue candles, and red poinsettias peeped forth. The tall pillars, too claimed their sprays of poinsettia, and on a far wall, a pretty mural depicted a Christmas scene with Santa in his red sleigh, drawn by five reindeer, sailing over the countryside, while little children sang Christmas carols, aided by their little fox terrier, whose black muzzle was pointed to the sky.

GLOWING DECORATIONS

In the entrance hall and at the outside door were little Christmas trees, each decked with pretty Christmas cards and gleaming tinsel; while up stairs in the large auditorium, color reigned; on stage stood a great and glorious Christmas tree, glowing with globes in silver, gold, crimson, green and blue, and laced about from branch to branch with the silver ropes. Here, also, the tall pillars were entwined with metallic green or crimson bands, whose fringed edges shone with glistening tinsel-cones, and in between the pillars were more metallic sprays of leaves and leaves in paleat greens, gold and mauve.

Into this atmosphere, pungent with the spirit of the Yuletide season, the thronging guests, friends, and patrons were received and welcomed by Mrs. J. B. Creegan, wife of the rector of the church, and Mrs. L. G. Lennox, president of the Contact Club, to the Christmas bazaar and tea, sponsored by the combined efforts of the church and the parish, which was officially opened by Archdeacon the Venerable J. B. Creegan, rector of the church.

After duly passing the customs officers, Mrs. L. Lennox, Mrs. P. J. Drury and Mrs. N. C. Reid, the guests were either free to wander at will among the attractive booths, upstairs, or to enjoy a delicious cup of tea at the request of the tea hostess, Mrs. R. Boulet.

A CHRISTMAS IDYLL

The tea room with its evergreen bedecked windows; its poinsettia adorned pillars; its little quartet guss; tables, each centred with a miniature snow block lighted and ed with reindeer moss, coppersplashed with Christmas tree flowers, and accented by the folded Christmas napkins; the long tea table with its snowy damask, centred with the little hamlet scene nestling among the snow-capped hills and half hidden among the frosted evergreens; the Christmas carol singers beneath the old-time street lamp; the little church upon the hillside, and flanking the whole, like two sentinel were the huge twisted red candles, whose orange flames flickered gently back and forth, made of this a charming Christmas idyll.

Those who presided over the silver services were: Mrs. G. G. Wright and Mrs. A. Page; Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. W. Robinson. Mrs. S. Halbert and Mrs. F. Beeby replenished the tea table and services, while those who served included: Mesdames W. Mills, E. J. Saunders, L. B. Silver, S. Wiggins, G. Adams, W. Jackson, F. Symons, A. Bongard, G. Wonnacott, H. Amos, C. Patterson, J. Pugh, R. Lane, F. Murray, J. Cooke, F. Ethier, E. Mossman, J. Goettler and L. Watson.

Replenishing in the kitchen: Mesdames L. Blaker, J. Fletcher, J. Bunnett, L. MacInnis, H. Clarke, W. Bass, C. Anderson, R. Rutter, W. McCormick, and D. Boyce. Those who attended in the nursery were: Mrs. J. Sweet, Mrs. F. Huson, Mrs. W. Neal, Mrs. W. J. Wood and Mrs. L. Alleston, and welcoming the guests to the bazaar were: Mesdames G. Colling, B. Bottum, D. Stewart, F. Welch, E. Hickey and H. Thompson.

The various booths in the upper assembly room were placed around the room, while in the centre quadrangle were the booths of the children's wear, the novelty and fancy work and the white elephant and plant tables.

MEN'S CLUB

The first booth was that of the Men's Club. Here were handicraft works, including two hand-painted silk, depicting a winter scene and an autumn scene, respectively; nice fretwork, wallbrackets of stairs and newel post with the star and crescent at the side; bird housed; dog food rack; children's purses in leather in the form of rugby balls; hand-carved birds of unknown origin, with tail and wing spread, showing a fine degree of craftsmanship; wooden puzzles; little doll cradles in blue, pink, yellow, with doll and blanket; a cretonne-covered hope chest, and some gift balls, assembled, short program was held consisting of a humorous reading entitled, "Sweetheart Girl," by Mrs. Percy Reynolds, music by the senior pupils of the school and duets by the Vos family.

Shirley and Peter were then called to the seats of honor and a suitable address was read by Beverley Urch, after which they were presented with a beautiful floor lamp. Both the bride and bridegroom expressed their appreciation and thanks for the gift.

a miniature Christmas tree which had long objects, and various objects all wrapped in white; balloons and white pencils, while at the foot stood a smiling Santa Claus just beaming happiness. Mrs. F. V. O'Connor was in charge of this attraction. Not to be outdone by the ladies, the oldera had a magic barrel from which dangled long strings, each string attached to a gift—for 25 cents—hidden deep in the receptacle. Mrs. L. V. Mason was the convener of this treasure barrel.

STUFFED ANIMALS, DOLLS

Another attraction was the booth of the stuffed animals and dolls in charge of Mrs. W. Ashton, assisted by Mrs. H. MacLaren, Mrs. A. Chaplin and Miss A. Ashton, members of the Guild. There were fat pussy cats, cuddly teddy bears; dignified penguins; a snow-white Peter rabbit with blue ears; a stocking doll; a black Scottie spaniel; an ornamental bed doll with voluminous yellow-orange skirt; rag dolls and dolls of al lnations; Topsy was there with her black, kinky hair, and Sambo; dressed dolls; rubber dolls; dolls with knitted outfits, and many others.

The dolls were convened by Mrs. Mary Eastman, assisted by Mrs. Mary Vanner and Mrs. Edward Follwell, also members of the Guild.

The novelty and fancy work booth displayed dresser duffle, embroidered pillow slips; boxes of fancy handkerchiefs; chair sets and chesterfield set; crocheted doilies; oven mitts; shopping bags in pretty cretonne; basket-kerchief holders; cushion tops; pillow slip lace edging in rainbow hues, and hand towels, and many other dainty articles, so nice for gifts. Convening this booth was Mrs. W. C. Pepper with co-convener Mrs. W. Clegg, assisted by Mesdames W. Collyer, W. Bean, Jr., H. Armstrong, M. Quirt, J. Collins, F. Askey, E. Button, members of St. George's Guild.

DAINTY LITTLE DRESSES

The children's wear booth was a delight with its dainty little dresses so beautifully smocked; lovely knitted carriage sets, with its pink and blue satin bow; little red, green sweaters; white rompers; crocheted bonnets; mitts in pink and blue angora in white and pink; petticoats, lace edged; leather mitts in green; tiny vests and a host of other articles, pretty and durable. The ladies assisting and in charge included Miss F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. W. Kempston, Mrs. C. Ling, Mrs. E. Reeves, Mrs. R. Weir, Mrs. R. J. Rodgers, members of the Guild.

Like all white elephant tables with its bevy of oddments seeking new homes, this also displayed a collection of many things —useful and otherwise— there were ornamental and useful pitcher vases; costume jewellery, including shell brooches, earrings, cuff links; cigaret lighter; motto picture; plastic grey purse; silver-plated cacti plants; African violets; tiny pepper and salt shakers; pink lamp shades, and what-have-you. These were convened by Mrs. A. W. Jordan and Mrs. W. Fitzgerald, assisted by Mrs. J. Noakes, Mrs. R. Orne and Miss I. Orne, also members of the Guild.

Mrs. R. Blaker was in charge of advertising, and the treasurer, Mrs. M. B. Button.

A lovely banner and delightful tea, bringing much appreciation to the conveners, Mrs. M. B. Button; to Mrs. Bruce Bottum for the lovely decorations, and to all others whose willing hands assisted in making it such an outstanding success.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE WANTS TO KNOW IF SHE'S IN LOVE

Please give me your opinion—am I in love? If so, why do I hesitate to say I am engaged when I am asked?

My story is that my boy friend is overseas and, before he left, he asked me to go steady. I am 18 and he is 21, and we have known each other about two years.

A few months after he left, he wrote and asked me if I would marry him when he came home, and I wrote back and said yes.

Now, sometimes, I wonder if I did the right thing. Sometimes I feel like writing to him and breaking off, and then again, when other girls tell me how handsome he is and his sisters praise him because he is so good to them, I feel quite a heel for even thinking of such a thing. He still has one more year to serve.

Another thing is that sometimes he writes to his sisters but doesn't write to his family, too. I am not even he writes to the he always writes to his family, too. I am not a jealous type, but I do not like to feel left out.

What I am trying to say is: when a girl is engaged, is she supposed to feel that he's the right one?

No, I don't think that every engaged girl is dead sure all the time that "he's the right one." In fact, I strongly suspect that every girl who has ever been married spent moments of pardo beforehand. After all, marriage is a pretty fixed business—or at least most normal people consider it so—and it's perfectly natural to be nervous about getting your own future in the hands of one person.

BE CERTAIN

Don't fo think my girl who feels that way should be very careful not to get married while she's conscious of really disturbing uncertainty. Fortunately, since this isn't her friend will not be home another year, that will give her time to do some thinking in advance, and I would strongly advise her also to wait awhile after he does home before setting her wedding day. After being separated for a long time, people need to get reacquainted all over again, and I don't believe these two can possibly and of their feelings until they have renewed their friendship in person. Either one of them, or even both of them, may change their during the separation and, to be on the safe side, they should give themselves the opportunity to make certain whether or not they have changed toward each other.

The reason why this girl hesitates to tell people she is engaged, of course, is just because she does have, at present, this "really disturbing uncertainty." But if, despite this uncertainty, she prefers to continue her engagement, I think right and fair that people should know of it, in order to avoid the possible misunderstandings that only other young men.

EXPLAIN FRANKLY

On the other hand, she might write her fiance and explain frankly what she feels extremely unsure of herself and that perhaps she was too hasty in agreeing to marry him. It is pretty hard on a boy to have his girl turn him down when he is overseas, but it is true, that, in the same time, it is even harder to come home and be turned down then, after having been allowed to dream dreams and make plans for the future while so far away.

All things considered, I'm afraid the 18-year-old is going to have to make up her mind whether she likes this boy enough to stay engaged to him and see how things work out after he gets home, or whether she is so confused right now that she would rather be free to go out with other young men in the meantime.

So far as the letters are concerned, it sounds pretty risky to me for her to feel she ought to have a letter every time this boy writes his family, or that he shouldn't always write his family when he is writing her. So long as he writes her often enough to make her understand that she is very much in his thoughts, I can't see why she should "feel left out," whatever he does about writing his family.

And one more thing. Naturally, it's very pleasant for her to hear her fiancé being praised by her friends and his own family. But that, in itself, is no reason for marrying him or for feeling "like a heel" if she should break up with him. The only basis on which she should make her own personal feeling about him, not how anybody else says, or what anybody else says, about him.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

LET'S ALL JOIN THE CRUSADE

Please write "Christmas" in your Christmas messages. Please don't buy a Christmas card with "Xmas" printed or engraved on it . . . either on the cover or in the greeting.

It's good news, very good news that there is a flourishing crusade against the use of the abbreviation "Xmas." This crusade has been going on for the past several years, and this year, I've noted happily, there is an extremely heavy decline in the number of cards with "Xmas" on them. And there are far, far fewer enclosure cards, fewer gift-tags, fewer wrapping papers carrying the abbreviation.

Most of the publishers of Christmas greeting cards have joined the crusade against using the abbreviation "Xmas," either in the design or in the message. Surely all of us . . . all who love and all who sell . . . have time to give full honor to this good and great word — Christmas. The word is not Christmas . . . the beautiful, the exalting, the inspiring, the sacred word Christmas!

NO EXCEPTION AT THIS WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

We are to be married with a ceremony by the minister. After the ceremony there will be a wedding dinner for the families only. Although we will not be in a position to invite our friends to the dinner, we would very much like them with us at the church ceremony, and this is where our problem come in. My fiance believes that an invitation only for the church ceremony would indicate to the receiver that a wedding present is in order. I have no definite plan to litigate our friends, nor do I want them to go to the expense of gift-giving. What I do want is their attendance at the ceremony. I would very much appreciate your thoughts as to what is the proper procedure in this circumstance.

A.

Dear A.: There is not right in his point of view . . . an invitation only to the ceremony would not necessarily mean to the receiver that a wedding present is "in order." As a matter of fact, there are no rules at all concerning the giving of wedding presents. A wedding present is not at all an obligation for a guest who accepts an invitation, either to the ceremony or to the reception. Naturally, members of the families and intimate friends give presents. Others give presents or not, as they wish.

In your case the important thing is that you invite your friends to the ceremony by word of mouth, or by telephone if you prefer . . . so that you can straightforwardly explain that there is to be no reception, but that "Bill and I want so very much to have you two dear friends with us at the ceremony." Please say that you will come so that we will have this pre-ceremony assurance . . . (I hope you and your bridegroom will plan to receive your guests in the vestibule of the church after the ceremony.)

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

The mushrooms are so white and firm at this time of year that mushroom addicts can have a heyday.

My two balms were invited to Pete's girl friend's home for Sunday dinner, because Marianne had stayed with Zeni overnight after the out-of-town football game. It seems that Zeni's mother is an excellent cook and that I had better look to my laurels. Pete said she served a turkey platterful of fried chicken and breaded veal, and passed a mushroom sauce the like of which he had never tasted. "Make a mushroom sauce like it, will you Mum?" I'm supposed to be psychic.

BREADED VEAL CUTLETS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

To serve 6 buy 2 lbs of veal cutlet sliced 1/2-inch thick. (Veal cutlet comprises to the round steak cut to best.) If you like veal chops—even shoulder —may be done in the same way. Dust the meat into 6 pieces. Mix together 3-4 cups fine dry breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Beat 1 egg and add 2 tablespoons cold water to it. Dip each piece of meat in the crumbs, then in the egg, then the crumbs again. Have ready for frying pan 2 tablespoons butter and brown the breaded veal in it for 5 minutes. (Loose cutlet veal and all loin veal chops will be cooked sufficiently in this fashion in 8 minutes.) However if you are cooking mature veal or shoulder chops, add 3 tablespoons water to the pan after chops are browned, cover and simmer over lowest possible heat for 15 or 20 minutes or bake 1-2 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Remove cutlets to hot platter. To sediment in pan add 2 tablespoons butter or enough butter to make fat in pan up to 4 tablespoons. Add 1-2 lb. washed and sliced fresh mushrooms and stir over low heat until they wilt a little, then add 1 teaspoon grated onion, 4 tablespoons flour and stir until flour is soaked with fat, then add 2 cups boiling water and stir until thick. Now add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or mushroom ketchup, teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Pass at table. Do not pour this over the cutlets—it spoils their golden-brown appearance. This mushroom sauce is a wonderful gravy or crier for a common meat loaf. Use the fat left in meat loaf pan as you would the sediment in the cutlet pan for making the mushroom sauce.

STUFFED BAKED APPLES

Use Cuirlands or Spys for this just now. Wash large apples and remove cores and fill centres with this mixture (enough for 6 apples): 6 tablespoons brown sugar, 1-4 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon chopped nuts or preserved ginger or candied orange peel. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 30 to 40 minutes—time depends on size of apple. This hot dessert makes apples break open and puff. Serve warm with ice cold pouring cream.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

THE EYES HAVE IT

Such countless references have been written about "alluring glances," "starlit eyes" and the "modern downcast look"—to say nothing of the beguiling comeblither twinkle—that there can be no doubt about the importance of the eyes from a purely aesthetic viewpoint. The eyes alone can create an effect of beauty, which quality places them far above the finer features of the face. They dominate the countenance. The girl who has beautiful eyes need never worry if her nose is a bit too short or her mouth a little larger than she would have have ordered, had she had anything to say about it.

The beauty of the eyes is not only a matter of color and contour, but of expression. The bright, interesting look is the product of high mind, good nature. Physical Dora—has dull eyes while Laughing Laura has the boys at her heels. Dora finds it difficult to live with herself; Laura finds herself content.

What's to be done about dull eyes, lusterless or lifeless, one's spirits? They are benefited by periods of rest. Harmony is the key on the job every waking moment. When you have been reading, sewing or typing for a long time. Then pause for a few minutes. Stand at a window, look far away, thus changing the distance of vision.

Morning and night the eyes should be bathed with warm water, then with cold. When drying, do not press against your eyes. They are about the most wonderful pieces of mechanism ever designed and should be treated gently.

Use an eye lotion if your eyes have been subjected to dust, although ordinarily the eyes need little attention of that kind, as they have their own washing and oiling systems.

See an eye specialist if your eyes are inflamed. Pus is a bad sign and a slight infection can develop into a more serious one. Economize on such matters. Professional attention at the start of its own accord.

trouble pays in the long run.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Miss Jean Gordon (Mother of 3)

Grab-bag goodies, a plastic bottle filled with interesting toys inside, a rough grab-bag when other toddlers come to visit your tot. And children love colorful soap bubbles.

A tip-top appetite. You'll love the way baby's appetite grows when you give him good-tasting foods he likes and needs. Gerber's Cereals, Strained Fruits, Vegetables, Meat-Soups and Desserts. Made by the folks who make "babies their business . . . their only business" and guaranteed to please, extra-appetizing in color and provide the solid nourishment your growing youngster needs. All are pre-cooked, ready to serve.

Very often babies at the six or seven months old mark show a certain indination to shy away from the sandman. Parents who face this predicament might profitably induce sleep by remembering these pointers:

1. Soft bullabies (on or off key) are relaxing, do encourage sleep.
2. A well-fortified tummy does much to help close little eyes.
3. Non-restricting sleeping garments are a must. Excitement is taboo.
4. Cuddling a favorite soft toy often works magic.

Share and share alike. If you've any tips you'd like to share with other mothers, send them to me: Box 17, Toronto 18, Canada.

Dessert delights definitely concocted to please a toddler's palate. Gerber's junior fruits and puddings are so delicious with their delicate flavors. Nice variety for baby too—choice of Apricot Applesauce, Applesauce, Peaches, Pears, Pear Pineapple fruit desserts and Fruits with Tapioca, Chocolate, and Pineapple puddings. Try them! Junior's bound in clamor for more.

Duets by Anne Dorland and Shirley Cunningham were well rendered, "Juanita" and "I Believe" with Barbara Dick, Pat Ward and Colleen Yandt tap dancing in the chorus. Miss Carley Cleave favored with some lovely piano selections while they were getting the stage ready for the final act, a one act comedy, "Dance for the Duelling", put on by seven of the students. Hyatt Bryant, the father; Beatrice Casstra the mother; Theodore Foster the son; Shirley Cunningham, the daughter; Annie Dorland, grandmother; Bill Pettengill, son's friend and Helen Foster the maid. Mrs. Colin Lane and Mrs. S. Tripp looked after the fancy work table on which were many useful articles, lovely embroidered pillow slips, table covers, children's aprons, nighties and pyjamas, hand-knitted socks and mitts and many other lines.

Mrs. Will Thompson had charge of the apron table which was loaded with aprons of all sorts, sizes and colors. These were nice and all were made by the ladies.

The "touch and take table" was loaded with mysterious looking packages of all sizes and was taken care of by Miss Orlene Mollard and Miss Jean Guernsey. This was a popular place for both the old and young and was soon all sold out.

COUNTRY STORE

Mrs. Evans and Miss Ruby Nash had charge of the country store table which held potatoes, carrots, canned goods and lots of other things for sale.

Mrs. A. Fraleigh had a table full of lovely African violets for sale. These went quickly as did some other small plants that were on the table.

The tea tables were filled not once but many times and were looked after by Mrs. Joe Lavender, Mrs. (De) Dales with Mrs. Craig Platt, Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth, Mrs. Harold Fitzgerald and Mrs. Ed Bailey assisting them.

BIGGEST ARMY CAMP—Work has been started at Camp Gagetown, 11 miles from Fredericton, where Canada's biggest army camp will be located. To cost $40,000,000 and cover 436 square miles, it is expected to be ready for troop accommodation by 1956. One of the main sewer ing work is under way. (CP Photo).

Camp Gagetown Will Be Ready to Occupy in 1956

FREDERICTON (CP)—Contractors are aiming at Jan. 15 as the date when 4,000 acres of bushland will be cleared on the site of headquarters for Camp Gagetown. Work will start in the Oromocto area 11 miles from Fredericton.

Canada's biggest army camp, to cover 436 square miles and cost 40,000,000, is expected to be ready for troop accommodation in the spring of 1956. It will be equipped to handle 15,000 troops.

After the first phase of land clearing, construction work will start next spring. The triangular-shaped headquarters site will include administration, mobilization and training buildings. Lines have been marked for streets and avenues, yet to be named.

OPERATIONAL CENTRE

Construction of one building has started in the administration area. It's being erected by Defence Construction, Limited, as an operational centre for the camp buildings.

Sept. 1 was the deadline for evacuation from the huge area expropriated for Camp Gagetown but an extension was allowed to permit crop harvesting. Most residents have left and the remainder plan departure before the year-end.

Families in the area when negotiations started for their removal numbered 435—about 1,900 persons—mostly engaged in farming and dispersed through rural communities. Some of the expropriated properties had been owned by the same families for five generations.

Few displaced residents left the province. Some settled in the dairy belt of Kings county and others moved to Carleton county but most are re-establishing themselves in nearby Sunbury and Queens counties.

Duke of Windsor Pays Churchill Birthday Visit

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Windsor made a birthday pilgrimage to one of his best friends and staunchest allies—Prime Minister Churchill.

The two chatted for 30 minutes at 10 Downing St., Churchill's official residence. Then Churchill, who was 79 Monday, saw the duke out to his car.

The duke wished Churchill bon voyage on his trip to Bermuda for the Big Three talks.

The duke and duchess arrived here unexpectedly Monday for a short visit.

Cold Shoulder Given Offer To End War

SAIGON (AP)—Bao Dai, Viet Nam chief of state, turned a cold shoulder to a purported offer by Communist leader Ho Chi Minh to negotiate for an armistice in the seven-year-old Indochina war.

A statement from Bao Dai also appeared to criticize the French, saying Ho's armistice proposals seemed to be in reply to feelers "that weren't formulated by Viet Nam officials."

The ex-emperor said the only way to end the war is to inflict a decisive military defeat on Ho's Communist-led Vietminh rebels.

The Stockholm newspaper Expressen published a cable Sunday in which the Vietminh chief was quoted as saying he would be ready to meet an armistice proposal from the French. He demanded an end to hostilities and that France "really respect the independence of the Viet Nam."

FEAR WITHDRAWAL

The French cabinet refused to comment pending a study of the statement, but it infuriated many anti-Communist nationalists in Indo-China. These leaders fear the French, weary of the costly war, will negotiate a peace which will leave the way open for the Communists to take over Indo-China.

On the fighting front, Vietminh troops brought Dien Bien Phu, in northwestern Indo-China, under mortar fire today as French and Viet Namese forces dug in for an expected battle.

A French Army spokesman said the mortar barrage came from circled hills north of the area when it was captured Nov. 20 by 1,000 Viet Namese and French paratroopers.

ONTARIO NATIVE DIES

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—Funeral services were held Sunday for Miss Hilda Mathilda Mooney, 64, who died Thursday at a nursing home here. Born in Strathroy, she had resided in California, Stratford, and Vancouver before coming here eight years ago.

Jap Prisoners Of Russians Return Home

MAIZURU, Japan (AP)—Laughing and waving, 811 former Japanese soldiers who were captured by the Russians trooped ashore Tuesday from a ship which brought them from Soviet prison camps.

Some had been prisoners in Siberia 14 years.

The highest-ranking officer among them, Lt.-Gen. Yoichi Hiiomi, who commanded the 135th Division of the Kwantung army in the Second World War, reported a tremendous build-up of Soviet jet air power in eastern Siberia.

Hiiomi said 80 per cent of the aircraft now flying in the area of Khabarovsk, north of Vladivostok, are jet fighters similar to the MiG-15, and bigger twin-jet planes.

He said there also is a vast jet base at Ivanov, 180 miles northeast of Moscow, which he believes is for the direct defence of the Soviet capital.

NOT INDOCTRINATED

Unlike Japanese prisoners freed by the Russians several years ago, the repatriates appeared not to have been indoctrinated by the Communists. There were no red flags and none sang the "Internationale."

Won't Endanger Help from Allies By Blustering

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles, in an extensive report to Senator Joseph McCarthy, said Tuesday President Eisenhower had "do not propose to throw away" the assets of Allied cooperation "by blustering and domineering methods."

Dulles did not mention McCarthy by name but he said he was commenting on widely publicized criticism to the effect that the United States speaks in too kindly a manner to its allies and has sent them "perfumed notes instead of using threats and intimidation to compel them to do our bidding."

McCarthy used the words "perfumed notes" in criticizing administration foreign policy in his radio-TV address of Nov. 25.

REJECTS METHODS

In a press conference statement, Dulles called the administration rejected "arrogant" methods and the use of demands which the United States would turn down if such demands were made upon it.

He said bases shared with allies make possible the peace-keeping threat of atomic retaliation by the United States "against the vitals of Russia."

The secretary of state said he spoke with the support of the president who was aware of the statement he made.

Dulles had a conference with the president at the White House only an hour or so before his meeting with reporters.

SITTING DUCKS.

When talking of U. S. bases abroad, Dulles said that without them and without Allied warning systems, such centres as Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Milwaukee would be "sitting ducks for atomic bombs" in event of war.

On another aspect of McCarthy's speech, Dulles announced that career diplomat John Paton Davies whose continued employment under the Eisenhower administration has been attacked by McCarthy, is undergoing a new security investigation which will be completed in about a month.

Davies is a long-standing target of attack by some Republicans for his connections with U. S.-China policy during the Second World War and more recently because he allegedly recommended that the central intelligence group make use of certain Communists.

MARMORA

MARMORA — Bob Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen, had the misfortune to break his arm at the arena last Sunday afternoon when he fell in collision with another lad.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Empey spent last week-end in Bronte with their daughter, Mrs. Lyle Fluke, and Mr. Fluke.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gazley visited relatives of Mr. Gazley in Weston over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. O'Connor spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Keating, in Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Verna Maurer, of Wainwright, Alta., spent last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Connor. Mrs. Maurer is a niece of Mrs. O'Connor.

Dulles also said the United States is anxious to have a Big Four foreign ministers meeting to discuss some world problems including Germany and Austria, but does not grab at any Russian proposal without reading all the fine print.

He said the whole problem will be discussed at the Big Three conference in Bermuda, which starts next Friday.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was eating her grapefruit dirt with her hat on this morning, proving she was going downtown, and she said to pop, William, I've lost my pert ring. I've looked high and low, but it has disappeered into this smoke, and you skoff, William, but when I go into the Zipper Tea Room for lunch today, I'm going to ask the new jipsy tea leaf reeder to help me find my pert ring, she said.

Yee gods, pop said, and ma said I know you would skoff. You're a proverbial Doubting Thomas, and I dont expect you to change your spots. But that new jipsy woman has proved her mystick powers a dozen times to my nolledge, and I defy you to name me a single intelligent reason why I shouldn't ask her where my perl ring is.

I'll give you several reasons, pop said. In the ferst place, your jipsy is just an orderly woman with a dark skin and a bandanna hankerchiff, and if it wasn't for a lot of other orderly women filling for her racket, she wouldn't have enough mystick power to tell where her next meel was coming from, he said, and ma said, Now William, that's far from being an intelligent reason, because it is based on a complete ignorance of the facts.

Then I'll base my 2nd reason on purely factual information, pop said. Your perl ring is in the bathroom cabinet directly behind the aspirin bottle and slitely to the left of the shaving brush, and if you continue to leave your shabby on the washstand, werd will get around among the criminel element, and some dark nite the bathroom will be robbed, he said.

Not being quite the end of the sub-ject.

TLC Asks for Parliamentary Committee to Study Plan For National Health Insurance

OTTAWA (CP)—A parliamentary committee to study National health insurance was the major proposal of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in its annual legislative submission to the cabinet.

The 300,000 - member congress today established a national committee at this session is the heavy lobby the government can expect after receiving a new mandate to "proceed with a broad program of social reform and the furtherance of economic and national security."

"Canadians generally," the congress said, "want a national scheme of health insurance. . . . We therefore urgently request the government to set in this session of Parliament with plans the earliest practicable beginning of a government-subsidized, contributory national health insurance scheme covering the entire population of Canada and which will include medical, surgical, dental and optical care, hospitalization, artificial limbs where necessary, payments for maternity cases, competently supervised mental homes."

OTHER PROPOSALS

Health insurance headed a long list of proposals from the congress. Others asked, and largely, were covered to the cabinet in a 5,000-word brief. All were the outcome of policy resolutions adopted at congress conventions this year and in earlier years.

Some of the major ones:

1. Extension of unemployment insurance benefits to cover workers who become sick on the job. (Insurance was provided this year for workers who get sick after starting to draw benefits.)

2. Reduction of the waiting period for the start of insurance to 5 days from the present five after an employee is put out of work.

3. Increase to $2,400 from the present $1,200 in the amount of annual government annuity that can be bought.

4. A royal commission to investigate the "declining condition" of Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet, employing about 2,000 men. (The cabinet recently refused to recommend an operating subsidy for the fleet.)

5. Housing legislation that would provide a down payment of no more than 10 per cent and longer mortgage payoff terms, plus low-rental housing controlled by the government where necessary.

6. Shifting of immigration to the control of the labor department, along with an immigration commission to include labor representation.

7. Legislation to make the checkoff of union dues mandatory on employers when authorized by the employee, and to end the bargaining agent.

8. Extension of the provisions of the federal labor code to all federal employees, who would be given the right to bargain collectively with the government. Also, a five-day, 40-hour week for all federal employees.

9. A statutory two-weeks' vacation with pay and nine holidays with pay annually for all workers in industries under federal jurisdiction.

Dealing with taxation, the TLC renewed a demand that the personal income tax exemptions be raised to $2,000 for married persons and $1,500 for single persons. Present levels are $2,000 and $1,000.

OPPOSES SALES TAX

The congress also registered objection to "all forms of sales taxes."

On provisions for old age—the congress urged the establishment of $40 a month be increased to $65 and the present qualifying age of 70 be lowered to 65 for men and 60 for women. There should be no means test, as now exists for the $40-a-month pension for those between 65 and 70.

Dockers Returning to Work At New York After Stoppage

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen were returning to work today after a one-day stoppage Tuesday which marked the start of commission control of the harbor area.

Regular gangs were reporting for work in routine fashion while hundreds of others were checking in at waterfront union-longshore-man centres to receive casual assignments.

ALLIED SPOKESMEN SEEN

The commission, which was established to rid the harbor of racket abuses, predicted there would be a rapid return to normal except at some upper North River piers where Tuesday's stoppage originated.

The refusal to work started early Tuesday as the two-state employment supervision program became fully effective.

Many longshoremen, refused employment registration cards by the commission because of criminal backgrounds, set up picket lines outside the piers. Many registered longshoremen joined the picketing men in sympathy, and others with cards refused to cross the picket lines.

The shipping association charged the picketing was violative of the Taft-Hartley injunction issued Oct. 5 which ended a strike on the waterfront. The injunction restrained any strike during an 80-day period starting Christmas Eve.

Federal district attorney J. Edward Lumbard said: "There has been a deliberate work stoppage . . . there is a possibility that the court's injunction has been violated and this possibility is being actively investigated by this office."

William V. Bradley, president of the independent International Longshoremen's Association, said:

"I have called no strike for any time. On the contrary, I am trying to get the men back to work. No order for a general strike has been issued and no order will be issued."

The ILA was ousted from the AFL recently for failure to cleanse itself of crime and rackets. It is backed in a member recruiting campaign by the new waterfront union established by the AFL.

Pearson Replies To Question On Gouzenko

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday that except for the case of Igor Gouzenko he knew of no other time when FBI agents questioned Canadians in Canada about matters of United States security.

Mr. Pearson was replying in the Commons to a question by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre), although he did not say other similar instance. he would check further to see if there had been any.

Mr. Knowles' reference was to the former Soviet embassy code clerk here whose disclosures led to the 1945 exposure of a Russian spy ring in Canada. Mr. Pearson said last week that Gouzenko had been questioned several times by the FBI for information which might help U.S. security investigations.

Ferrying of Sabre Fighters Across Atlantic Nearly Over

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) —Operation "Becher's Brook"—the ferrying of 400 Canadian-built Sabre jet fighters across the north Atlantic—is just about finished.

The air ministry expects the last of the swept-wing fighters to cross safely by the end of December. It hopes to wind up the complex, year-long operation, which became necessary when the Royal Canadian Air Force know-how and "co-operation" left Britain's aircraft industry.

Trials and tribulations of Becher's Brook are recorded in an air ministry report, paying direct and indirect credit to the RCAF whose personnel conceived the transocean fighter transport system using refueling stopes at Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Scotland.

Pilots were given special training in Canada, completed in just over a month "thanks to excellent co-operation from the RCAF."

And 12 RAF-piloted Sabres left Busytville, Ont., late in December last year, with the RCAF in operational control and the United States Air Force providing communications and other facilities.

ONE CRASHED

Three of the 12 were left behind en route to Britain and a fourth crashed. The RAF decided to reorganize operation "Becher's Brook" from the ground up.

More pilots were added. They were given among other training a special seven-day survival course in Labrador. The RAF moulded a new system based on the RCAF's leap-frogging of ground crew to maintain and refuel the fighters.

Says the report on "Becher's Brook": "Almost as much fabrication was done on the Canadian side of the Atlantic, England's part was largely confined to the provision of airfields and the organization of the ferry service."

"The new organization had to be flexible enough to control aircraft and mesh spread over 2,000 miles of sea" to cope with the frequent communications blackouts caused by magnetic storms. It must not only train its pilots for the specialized flying, but build them up to withstand the mental fatigue and frustrating delays caused by weather and other factors.

Subsequent flying time has averaged about 6½ hours, although some flights took as long as 10 hours between St. Hubert, Que., and Goose Bay, Labrador; Blue West One, Greenland; Keflavic, Iceland and Prestwick, Scotland.

375 MADE CROSSING

The survival training hasn't been called into use. The air ministry doesn't say how many planes crashed so far, but unofficial sources estimate four or five only were lost, most in Scotland. More than 375 of the original 400 have made the crossing.

The RCAF completed "Leapfrog" without losing a plane. It now has a successor named "Random." It will supply the spares and replacement craft for the four fighter wings—one in England, one in France and two in Germany.

It will also handle the all-Canadian Sybre, equipped with the Orenda engine, which is scheduled to replace the planes now used by the fighter wings. Shipment is expected to begin after Christmas.

Sheriff's Requests Will Be Considered by Finance Com.

Requests from jail inspectors of the department of reform institutions for new locks on doors to corridors at E. Hastings county jail, for purchase of a new electric stove for the jail kitchen, and for the installation of a new main to increase water pressure at the jail, will be considered by the finance committee of county council.

Sheriff T. W. Solmes addressed county council on the first day of the present session making known the requests from the jail inspectors.

He quoted the inspectors as declaring that locks on doors in the jail corridors were outmoded and in need of replacements. A new electric range was needed for the place the present coal burning range and immediate action was needed in installing a new water main to increase water pressure at the jail.

On recommendation of reeve of Deloro Arthur Hall, seconded by the finance committee was authorized to procure the lunch money requested by the jail inspectors which was deemed expedient.

REEVES ASK QUESTIONS

Reeve Hall of Madoc township, wanted to know how long the present locks on the jail doors had been used if they had ever been broken, while Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Tudor and Cashel, wished to know if it was a request or a demand which had been received from the inspectors.

"I would consider it an order," declared Sheriff Solmes. "The locks are outmoded. . . . After all you wouldn't want to close with a 'glow 100 years old.'"

Warden Kincaid said he was responsible for the county council.

"I don't know if locks at the jail have been tampered with, but if someone got out of jail it would be our responsibility," he said.

Sheriff Solmes said the special committee on reform institutions which visited the Hastings county jail this fall had been well pleased with jail conditions, while Warden Kincaid noted the committee had complimented jail officials on the fine condition of a building which was very old.

WILL PROVIDE CHAPEL

The warden said the committee had asked regarding provision of a chapel in the jail in which to hold religious services for the inmates. He thought such a room could be provided at small expense.

Sheriff Solmes noted that a room for detention of juveniles had been provided in the basement of the jailer's residence. The room was not practically ready for use as yet, he stated. Previously there had been no suitable provision for detention of juveniles outside of the main jail.

24 SHARED BATH

TORONTO (CP)—A charge that 24 persons, including 19 children, shared one three-piece bathroom in a rooming house here was upheld Monday by Police Ambrose Shea. He dismissed the appeal of the Inglewood Construction Co., which owned the house, against a fine of $10 and awarded costs of $25 against the firm. The charge was laid under the Public Health Act.

Fishing Through Ice Ratified By Department

Residents of North Hastings will be able to fish through the ice in lakes in their own municipalities this winter, members of county council learned yesterday.

At a previous session council had passed a resolution calling for the ban on ice fishing in certain northern municipalities to be lifted. Northern reeves claimed that ice fishing did little to deplete the fish population, while in many instances the only time residents had to fish was during the winter months.

Yesterday in council a communication from the game and fisheries department indicated that ice fishing would be allowed this winter. However, the regular closed season for fishing from October 6 to November 5 would remain in effect.

Reeve Claude Rollins, of Wollaston township, moved that the county clerk write to the department expressing thanks of council members for re-opening the northern lakes to ice fishing "at our request."

COLLEGE HEAD DIES

HALIFAX (CP)—Rev. Canon A. Stanley Walker, 63, president of University of ing's College died unexpectedly here early today.

County Assessor Reports On Re-Assessment

Re-assessment of municipalities within the county is progressing favorably, members of Hastings County council were told Tuesday afternoon by Cecil Geen, county assessor.

Making his final report of the year to council, Mr. Geen noted that in addition to the municipalities in the Centre Hastings High School area, the townships of Sidney and Tyendinaga had been re-assessed this year, while work in Sidney being virtually completed. Thurlow also would be finished early next year, while the village of Frankford was nearly to commence early in the new year.

Some of the northern townships of the county would also commence re-assessing next year.

Mr. Geen gave a resume of his activities during the year, noting that he had visited many different municipalities, giving assistance to local assessors.

Reeve William Davis, of McClure, Wicklow and Bangor, wanted to know what records had been where disputed assessments had gone before the county judge. He was told by Mr. Geen that the county judge with his changes seldom varied very slightly. Owners had still not been satisfied.

STORK WINS RACE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Windsor father, unable to find a doctor early Saturday, returned home to find Mrs. Stork had got there by the living room floor. Joe Griffin then carried the new baby, wrapped in a blanket to the hospital while his wife, June, 20, walked along beside him.

Premier Frost's Intervention Fails to Break Deadlock Existing in Miners' Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost intervened directly for the first time Tuesday in the union-management negotiations to end the strike of 1,200 miners at the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd.

The move brought no immediate results. The disputants remained deadlocked but agreed to meet again Friday.

Jules Timmins, Hollinger president, sat down at the bargaining table for the first time since the strike began Sept. 24 over wages and the issue of union dues checkoff.

Mr. Frost and Labor Minister Dana Porter met with Mr. Timmins and C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL). Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel for the union, was at the talks.

The discussions switched to the premier's office after a morning session in Mr. Daley's office. The meeting included Mr. Timmins, Mr. Millard and Mr. Goldberg to meet Mr. Frost.

The morning discussion was a resumption of the talks last week with Mr. Daley and Labor conciliation officer, Louis Fine. Mr. Timmins did not attend the earlier sessions nor the one Tuesday morning.

Except for Mr. Daley neither Premier Frost nor the union and mine representatives would comment on the discussions.

HOPE PATTERN SET

The negotiations were called by the hope that a settlement of the Hollinger dispute would set a pattern for ending strikes of seven other mines in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec which have left more than 5,000 miners idle.

Mr. Daley said he still hopes a settlement can be reached, although the problems are complicated.

There was a possibility that the premier and the labor ministers may hold private talks with both sides before Friday's meeting.

Mr. Daley said the premier stepped into the picture because "this is almost a provincial matter that affects a whole area. He said the premier made no suggestions towards a possible settlement.

Profit $233,307 On Goods Made In Ontario Jails

TORONTO (CP) — Deputy Reforms Minister Hedley Basher told the select committee on reform institutions Tuesday that articles manufactured by prisoners in Ontario jails during the year ending last April brought the department a profit of $2,307.82.

He said the figure would have been at least $236,534 if the firms that brought the products had been charged the same prices they would have had to pay to outside companies.

Except for Mr. Daley neither Premier Frost nor the union and mine representatives would comment on the discussions.

Standardization Of Hose, Hydrants Is Progressing

TORONTO (CP)—A provincial campaign to standardize fire hose and hydrant connections was outlined Tuesday to the Health League of Canada convention here by Ontario's fire marshal W. J. Scott.

He said there has been success in standardizing around London, Ont., where at one time there were 31 different types of thread on fire hoses and 36 different sizes and shapes of hydrant caps.

"The hoses of London's industrial plants had four different threads apart from those of the fire department. There were even two different kinds of hydrant nuts and a fireman had to have two different wrenches in his hands," he said.

To last of standardizing in London and district is scheduled to be completed next week. The area includes the six surrounding counties.

WESLEY DISTRICT

Wesley United Church W. A. Sponsors Attractive Bazaar

WESLEY DISTRICT—On Wednesday a successful bazaar and tea was held in Wesley United Church, Trent Road, under the auspices of the Women's Association. The church took on a festive air with the decorations of pine boughs and candy canes, lighted Christmas trees and gaily decorated windows.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The pretty, Mrs. W. Denyes and Mrs. R. Middleton welcomed the guests.

The tea table was most attractive with its lace tablecloth centered by silver branches and colored Christmas balls and flanked by lighted candles.

The Rev. R. Middleton introduced the guest soloist, Mrs. Doug. Fisher, who sang "Bless This House" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. M. Pratt. Mr. Middleton then spoke briefly, extending a welcome to the visitors and declared the bazaar open.

The guests were invited in the tea tables by Mrs. F. Windover and Mrs. R. Middleton and Mrs. Fred Sexton, presided over the silver tea services for the first hour, and Mrs. Moore and Mrs. H. Rutter for the second hour.

Mrs. A. E. Downer the tea table convener, assisted by Mrs. Saylor who had her pretty table of lace, while Mrs. M. Wilson, Mrs. F. Leach and Mrs. Moore took care of the tea making.

The aprons and fancy work table, presided over by Mrs. H. Rutter, assisted by Mrs. Rush, Mrs. W. Drew and Mrs. Gunn was a big attraction.

The ever popular home baking table did a flourishing business. It was well stocked with delicious pies, cakes, cookies, doughnuts and homemade bread. Everything was quickly disposed of. This table was convened by Mrs. B. Burnett assisted by Mrs. F. Denyes and Mrs. C. Wesley.

HOMEMADE CANDY

Another favorite was the table laden with homemade candy and a beautiful display of plants, capably convened by Mrs. H. Wright assisted by Mrs. Wallis and Mrs. K. Lowe.

Nestling under a gaily decorated Christmas tree were the beautifully wrapped surprise packages where for 25 cents one could get anything from the proverbial "pin to an elephant."

The Christmas corsages worn by all the workers were made by Mrs. J. Stewart, who was also in charge of all finances of the W.A.

Special thanks are due to Mrs. J. Stewart for the beautiful decorations; also to Miss Mary Burnett who assisted her.

The success of this bazaar was due to the untiring efforts of the convener Mrs. E. Windover and her helpers. A vote of thanks is extended to all who helped.

Sixty Stitches Are Required To Close Wounds

DANIA, Fla. (AP) — William McLellan, 30, knows how it feels to have his head caught between an alligator's jaws.

McLellan had the experience Monday while wrestling an alligator at an after-all show.

Orman Dennis, master of ceremonies, and William's younger brother, James, 17, leaped into the pit and pried open the jaws to rescue the injured performer.

Sixty stitches were required for the cuts on McLellin's face—40 for the deep gash on his left jaw and 20 for the cut on his right cheek.

The injuries apparently resulted when the alligator clamped his jaws shut on McLellin's head and rolled over while the wrestler struggled to free himself.

En route to hospital, McLellan said he will go back to wrestle the 'gators again.

Kitchener Greenshirts Move To Block Transfer Of Players To Quebec Loop

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NO HOLDS BARRED!

This senior "B" group is liable to develop into a dogfight of the bulldog type before the playoff begins sound the "charge."

True, thirteen points separate the Oshawa Truckmen basking comfortably at the top of the heap, from the slowly strengthening Orillia Pontiacs, who can look only one way and that is "up."

Twenty-four games have been played in the circuit since the opening of hostilities, not including last night's Orillia-Oshawa clash, and a look at the results verifies early-season predictions that there is not a team in the group that can come under the classification of "pushover."

As a matter of fact, and despite some of the early-season scores, this department doubts if there is a closer-matched group in Ontario, and that goes for the senior "A" wherever it is.

That may be hard to believe but the statistics should remove doubt from the minds of the sceptics.

Take the Belleville Mems, for instance. And there has has been a lot of carping criticism from a number of radio-4 chair coaches as to their shortcomings, but little praise of their achievements on not a few occasions when a break or two coming their way might have swung the pendulum of victory.

They have been defeated seven times to date. And five of their defeats have been by one-goal margins, if you can count one when the goal was scored into an empty net with seconds to go.

To be more specific, they have met the Kingston Goodyears four times and have dropped three of the decisions. Each game had a margin of victory of a single goal, and to date the Memos have scored 18 goals against the Goodies, while the Kingston crew have tallied twenty. And when you consider the Goodies are sitting pretty in second place it is not being at what is called closely-matched, then Malenkov will testify to the witch-hunting committee in Gouzenko's place.

In the over-all picture, nine games with a single goal margin have been played. Three games with two-goal margins are in the books, and get this, two of these games saw goals scored in the dying seconds after the losing team's goalie had been withdrawn in favor of an extra forward.

One shutout has been recorded and this goes to Lee Colvin of the Oshawa Truckmen in his team's 6-0 victory over Orillia on November 10. There has been one tied game, that 7-7 affair between Orillia and the Peterborough Petes shortly after the curtain had gone up on those 1952-53 hockey dramas.

Only thrice has a winning team hit double figures. These occurred in Oshawa's 10-5 and 10-2 victories over Peterborough and Orillia and Kingston's 11-7 victory over the Pontiacs. The rest of the games range from three to five-goal margins.

But while it would appear by the standing that the Oshawa Truckmen are making more or less of a runaway of the group lead at the moment, the road is getting tougher all the time. The rest of the teams are gradually hitting their stride and the powerful contingent from Oshawa, which has adopted Bowmanville as its permanent home, has had to go all out in its last few games to snatch the latest wrests of victory. It has been defeated once, and guess what team did it?

In their last two of three appearances against Kingston the Truckmen eked out 4-2 and 6-5 victories. The first tilt between the teams ended 4-2 for the Truckmen but they had to go to overtime to do it. In the first game with the Memos it was all the Truckmen could do to squeeze out a 4-3 verdict.

In the game between Oshawa and Peterborough Petes last Saturday night in Bowmanville, the issue was not decided until 19.59 of the third period when the Truckmen bounced in the winning goal to get a 4-3 decision.

Orillia Pontiacs, who have lost four and tied one, are gradually fighting their way into the picture. They have recently been strengthened by the return of Bruce Bennett, who was eagerly sought by the Owen Sound Mercurys, and the player's presence has bolstered the team no end. They have won twice, both games at the expense of the Memos. In the second game the Pontiacs they have been handicapped from lack of ice in their home arena due to mechanical defects, but since that has been remedied, the Pontiacs are beginning to make themselves felt.

If you look at the standing as of yesterday, you will see that only one point separates the cellar-dwelling Pontiacs, the fourth-place Memos and the third-place Petes. Practically every game from here out will affect the standing unless one or another team goes on a wild winning splurge, and that is extremely doubtful when you consider recent performances of all the squads.

There are fans in the city who are not satisfied unless the team goes out there, makes monkeys out of the opposition and roars through to an easy victory by a lop-sided score. That is their idea of hockey. Some have "warned" about the attendance falling off unless something is done to bolster the squad's offensive strength. While another fast forward or two wouldn't hurt, they can't go along with the idea, this year at least, that the attendance would drop off to nothing if "something wasn't done." The real fan, who knows his hockey, won't stay away from such exhibitions as that staged between Kingston and Memos last Friday night. It was senior hockey at its best and the unfortunate part was that the Memos emerged on the short end of the score.

And it wasn't so long ago that a Belleville senior team went through the schedule undefeated, and "who happen?" They were knocked off in the first round playdowns.

We have talked with coaches and managers of all the teams in the group, and regardless of the standing at present, all are confident that there will be the dangdest dogfight for playoff berths ever seen in the history of senior "B" hockey in the district. And unless something unforeseen happens, all indications point to just that.

Request OHA to Take Action To Find New Sponsors for Club; Ten Players Already Moved

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league council has made a move to block transfer of 10 players from Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts to four clubs of the Quebec junior loop and at the same time keep the local team from disbanding.

The council Tuesday night forwarded a recommendation to the OHA executive seeking it to halt the transfer of Greenshirt players, take steps to find new sponsors for the club so that it will not fold and also see that the team plays the two remaining games scheduled this week.

Greenshirts played Toronto Marlboros here Tuesday night and dropped a 12-4 decision.

It appeared most of the 10 players had already departed for Quebec. Only one of the 10 scheduled for transfer played. He was centre Claude Bolieau.

CHECK LINESUPS

The OHA council had asked that line-ups of Tuesday night's game and this week's other two Greenshirt games be checked. If all three are played with an understrength line-up, the results will stand. If the full team is used one and an under-strength team the others, all three games will be replayed at the "Gate."

The meeting also agreed to ask the OHA to rule that all players connected with Greenshirt games be stricken from the records if the team withdraws from the league and that the club be obliged to pay Quebec Canadiens $500 for failure to fulfil obligations there.

Citadelles have said that much of a $5,000 guarantee to have Kitchener play four games in Quebec. Two have been played.

Greenshirts were sold last week to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League after losing money since they entered the league in 1951.

LOST $1,000 WEEKLY

Walter Weber, Greenshirt president, said the team was losing as much as $1,000 a week "with no visible means of support."

C. B. Pequegnat, a Greenshirt director, said Clarence Mitchell, manager of the club, said they were in favor of the team withdrawing from the league.

The council decided it would take over the Green birts until a new operator could be found or at least until the end of the season. However, a telephone call to Frank Selke, general manager of the Canadiens, quashed that when he refused any such deal.

Montreal has sponsored the Kitchener club for the last three years.

Involved in the proposed transfer are centre Doug Vaughan, leftwinger Bruce Jones, rightwinger Glen Greenwood and defencemen Ivan Tennant and Gordon Onotsky, Jonquiere, rightwinger Graham Joyce, to Montreal Royals; centre Claude Boileau and defenceman Lloyd Hillman, to Montreal Candiens; centre Grieg Hicks and defenceman Beryl Clarck, to Quebec Frontenacs.

Stoddard Gets Winning Goal

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jack Stoddard whipped in the winning goal at 7:50 of a 10-minute overtime as Cleveland Barons defeated Providence Reds 3-2 Tuesday night in an American Hockey League game.

The Reds took an early lead on two goals by Chuck Scherza, but Eddie Olson matched these for Cleveland in the second period.

Royals, Aces Share Lead In Quebec Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals clambered up into a first-place tie with Quebec Aces in the Quebec Hockey League as a result of a 6-5 victory Tuesday over Chicoutimi Sagueneens.

Sherbrooke Saints edged Valleyfield Braves 2-1 and took over second spot, one point behind Royals and Quebec.

At Montreal, Orval Tessier was Montreal's big gun, scoring two goals and assisting on three others. Lou Jankowski scored three times in the first two periods for Chicoutimi. Buck Buchanan and Sherman White got the other Chicoutimi tallies. Claude Blaise, Paul Mazzuck and Lorne Davis also scored for Montreal.

At Sherbrooke, a goal by Earl Johnson with only seconds remaining in the final period gave Saints their 2-1 win over last place Valleyfield. Moe Irving gave Sherbrooke a 1-0 lead early in the first period but a goal by Jean-Paul Bisaillon in the middle frame put the teams on even footing.

Sailors Scuttled By Bulldogs; Mercs Nip Tigers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fans who follow Windsor in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series have yet to see the Bulldogs lose a game in Windsor.

Bulldogs won their ninth home game of the season Tuesday night as they bounced Sarnia Sailors 8-4. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen did the best of any visiting team when they managed an 8-8 overtime tie against the Bulldogs.

Owen Sound Mercurys squeezed out a 2-1 victory over Hamilton Tigers in Owen Sound in the other league action.

Meanwhile Northern Ontario Hockey Association Pembroke Lumbers Kings downed Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 6-4 in Sault Ste. Marie.

The Bulldogs moved into first place. Five goals in the first period carried them to the victory.

Earl Keyes scored two goals for the winners. Wall Farquharson, Dick McLagan, Gord Haidy, Gary Gordon, Johnny Hancock and Ron Ellis rounded out the total.

Clarence Jaster counted twice for Sarnia. Jerry Horton Pembroke attack, scoring two goals. Real Toward, Emil Dagenais, Bruce Giesebrecht and Ken Shale netted singles. Pete Barbuti tallied twice for the Indians with others going to Laurie Peterson and Ron Rubic. Kitchener meet the Maroons in Chatham for the only OHA game tonight. Novotnik takes on the Greybounds in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in NOHA action.

Majors Draft 52 Players From Minors

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The minor league draft mill ground out a total of 52 selections for $171,550 Tuesday as both commissioner Ford Frick and George Trautman, head of the minors, held closed hearings.

Only dribs and drabs of information leaked out for public consumption.

Trautman appeared in the press room, carrying a full dozen charts to explain with graphs how the minor league picture had changed since 1948. He had told the same story to the 38 minor league presidents and representatives of the 16 major league teams at a joint dinner meeting Monday night.

The charts showed a strong swing away from ownership of minor league clubs by the majors to working agreements. In 1949 majors owned 24 per cent and worked with 32 per cent more. Last season they owned, only 18 per cent but had working agreements with 40 per cent.

I Remember
the first game I ever refereed!
BY MIKE RODDEN

"My debut as a senior referee in Sault Ste. Marie thirty years ago was memorable in the extreme. The famous Soo Greyhounds were 'entertaining' the illustrious and hard-bitten Sudbury Wolves in the inaugural test of another season and feeling was running high. Referees worked alone in that era, unaided by linesmen, the fans or team officials. I was a stranger in the roaring Soo and for that I was thankful. That game in the Soo left little to be desired with the sole exception that the howling Sudbury Wolves bore down and whipped the Greyhounds 8 to 3. A great silence prevailed when it was over—but I was not badgered or molested. The following morning, however, I ran the gauntlet of bitter fan criticism until Bill Phillips, whom I did not know or recognize, intervened a bit forcibly on my behalf."

Chicago Hawks Still Looking For Someone to Plug Nets In Place of Injured Rollins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The dismal showing of Chicago Black Hawks and their goaltender problems had fans around the National Hockey League circuit wondering today where it would all end.

The last-place Hawks, who meet New York Rangers in the only National Hockey League game tonight, apparently have no goaltender who is well. And that goes for Jack Gelineau who is reported as saying he wasn't up to scratch when he made his big-time comeback attempt last week-end.

It all adds up to trouble plus in the Hawk camp. They haven't done a thing since netminder Al Rollins came down with chicken pox last week.

Gelineau, the McGill University graduate who won the NHL's rookie award with Boston Bruins three years ago and was scored on 18 times by Detroit Red Wings last week-end, was quoted as saying by the Chicago American Tuesday that he was not in "physical condition to play hockey."

For two weeks I've been troubled with strained tendons in both hip joints and I also suffered a sprained ankle," the story said.

SAYS SERVICES FORCED

Gelineau was reported as saying Chicago vice-president Bill Tobin was told about the situation last week but pressed him into service anyway.

Chicago coach Sid Abel charged Gelineau played one of the worst games "I've seen in years."

A win for the Rangers tonight would give them 18 points, five behind the fourth-place Bruins.

While the Black Hawks were trying to unravel their problems, Montreal Canadiens were going over their injury list to see who would be in shape for the Toronto-Montreal game at Montreal Thursday night.

A doubtful starter is Elmer Lach, who is having trouble with a slashed ankle. Others out are centre Dickie Moore and Jean Beliveau.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

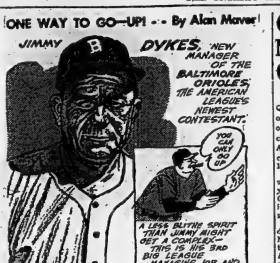
NEW YORK (AP)—If it were possible to find a finger on the hardest hitting human in the world today, how much do you suppose he would weigh? Make a guess and the chances are you'll be as wrong as anew in the Sahara.

The correct answer, according to a man who says he knows, and probably does, is approximately 190 pounds. Above that weight is lighter slows down and hits with less impact, he says. A 200-pounder, now he just pushes an opponent around, speaking comparatively.

Our authority is Dan Golomb, president of the Everlast company, largest supplier of boxing equipment in the U.S. He and his associates made the surprising discovery that middleweights actually hit harder than heavyweights during scientific research into the cause of boxer fatalities.

"If you will think back on the fights you've seen," Golomb said, "you'll realize that practically all the one-punch knockouts you saw were delivered by the smaller fellows—very few by men over 190. Well, our tests show that they do hit harder. Not just pound for pound, but harder."

DEATHS FROM FLOOR



The next thing the experiments disclosed, and this of far greater importance, was that the hardest blow a man can be struck in the ring carries about one-seventh of the impact it does when delivered when the back of his head strikes the floor.

"It is to be doubted that any boxer ever has been killed by a punch," Golomb said. "Our findings, as well as those by examining physicians, indicate that death invariably has been caused by the head hitting the ring floor. Once we learn that we knew it would be possible to eliminate the ring death-entirely."

Looks like they might have succeeded, too. No fighter has yet been killed on a padded floor. Golomb says, in any ring equipped with a special (and expensive) under-the-canvas padding perfected by his company called Ensefor.

We have no idea what goes into the stuff, but Golomb inserts it with rather magic qualities. It is somewhat like a rubber sponge, but drop a steel ball on it and the ball doesn't bounce even a little bit.

The base has been mandatory in three states—New York, Illinois and Missouri—for about 18 months, Golomb said, and no boxer has been badly hurt in that time.

Greenshirts, Minus Eight Regulars Beaten 12-4 by Toronto Marlboros

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts, with only eight regulars in the line-up, were beaten 12-4 by Toronto Marlboros in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series game in Kitchener Tuesday night.

With most of their players labelled for Quebec teams after Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey league purchased the Kitchener franchise, the Greenshirts were forced to bring up several junior B players for the game.

St. Catharines TeePees strengthened their hold on first place by trouncing Guelph Biltmores 9-4 in St. Catharines. Netminder Les Binkley was a standout in Quebec as Gali Black Hawks moved into third place by blanking Quebec Citadelles 1-0.

The Dukes opened with four goals against Kitchener in the first period and notched six more in the second after the Greenshirts fired their first. Kitchener outscored Marlboros 3-2 in the final period.

Bob Duncan scored three times for Marlboros. Dave Sanderson and Billy Harris each counted twice and Tom McCarthy, Al Larose, Dave Jackson, Mike Nykoluk and Wally Maxwell added singles.

Ed Matska, Paddy Horne, Doug Palby and Bill Wharmsby were the Kitchener marksmen.

Hugh Harlow scored three goals to pace St. Catharines. Will Roberts and Jim Collen scored two each and Brian Cullen, who collected five assists, and Pete Koval tallied one each.

The last-place Citadelles were watched by 4,000 fans as the opened their game to the Hawks. Pete Kawalchuk tallied the winning goal about three minutes after the game started.

A Toronto doubleheader tonight will see Kitchener against St. Michael's and Barrie Flyers against the Marlboros.

Grecian Queen Named Filly Champ for '53

NEW YORK (AP) — Grecian Queen, a handsome dark bay owned by Mrs. Ben F. Whitaker of Dallas, Tex., is the unanimous choice of the Thoroughbred Racing Association board of selectors as champion three-year-old filly for 1953.

The daughter of Hellopolis-Banks, who won seven of 12 races this year including the $100,000 New Castle Handicap, earned $229,375 in 1953. Five victories were in stakes.

Grecian Queen went out of her division to beat older mares in the New Castle Handicap. She also took the Princess, Coaching Club, American Oaks, Gazelle Stakes and Monmouth Oaks.

Providence Gets Two Players

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Providence Reds Tuesday announced acquisition of centre Ted Campeau and goalie Jerry Cotsonis and they will join the club in time for tonight's American League game in Buffalo.

Both were obtained from Sherbrooke in the Quebec Hockey League, Campeau purchased outright, and Cotsonis on a two-week loan.

Campeau, 28, has played for Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League and with Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Cincinnati in the AHL. He has been with Sherbrooke the last two seasons.

Cotsonis, also 28, played with Victoria in the Western Hockey League last season.

Name Foster Girls' Coach

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec branch of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation has nominated Ab Foster of Toronto as coach of the Canadian girls' track and field at next summer's British Empire Games in Vancouver, it was announced Tuesday.

Foster has been coaching girl athletes for a number of years. At the same time the Quebec branch nominated Jean Collier of Montreal as manager of the team.

Gaudaur Retires From Football

HAMILTON (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, offensive centre with the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats, said Tuesday night he is retiring from football after 14 seasons with major league teams.

Gaudaur returned as an active player this season after acting with the executive of the Hamilton team last year. He has played on all Big Four clubs except Ottawa Rough Riders.

Coach Carl Voyles disclosed that he has signed four players for next season, halfback Hermie Curtis and three Tiger-Cat juniors, centre Wes Nikoruk, fullback Red Huddleston and end Jack Sampson.

Ottawa May Get Crain

OTTAWA (CP)—There is some speculation here that Geoff Crain, freshman quarterback with Winnipeg Blue Bombers this football season, may play in Ottawa next year.

Geoff, used by the Western Interprovincial Football Union team for quarterbacking duties along with Indian Jack Jacobs and Joe Zelenki, is returning to Ottawa Lilton Winnipeg next week to work for his father's firm, George A. Crain and Sons, Ltd., contractors.

"It was always understood that Geoff would be back with us," his father said Tuesday. "I spoke to Geoff in Toronto last Sunday and he mentioned that he would mind playing a little more football next fall."

Jim McCaffrey, Ottawa Rough Riders president, said the report of Geoff's return here "is news to me."

Hockey Coach Shows Boss He Is Wrong

CLEVELAND (CP)—Pat Egan playing coach of Providence Reds, got the rule book out Tuesday night to prove that general manager Jim Hendy of Cleveland Barons was wrong in an argument over overtime.

The Reds and Barons were tied 3-3 at the end of regular play in an American Hockey League game when a dispute broke out between Egan and Hendy over whether the overtime period should be 10 minutes sudden death or 10 minutes straight play.

Egan threatened to take his team off the ice if the Reds scored first. But when Hendy told Egan it would cost Providence a $500 fine if the Reds left the ice during the overtime, Egan gave in.

Cleveland's Jack Stoddard scored the winning goal at 7:30, and the teams played the full 10 minutes.

Later a rule book was located, and proved Egan right. The overtime does end with the first goal by either side.

Vessels Gives Money to Kids

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimo halfback Billy Vessels, winner of a 1,000 award as the outstanding Canadian football player of 1953, plans to turn some of the money over to Edmonton junior football clubs, it was reported.

Vessels, leading ground-gainer in the Western Interprovincial Football Union this season, has left for his home in Oklahoma City. He will re-enter the University of Oklahoma before reporting to the United States Army in June.

Sport in Brief

ATHLETES PROTECTED

OTTAWA (CP) — Intercollegiate athletics in Canada now are well protected against any taint of "professionalism," Professor D. M. Jemmett, chairman of the athletic board of control of Queen's University, Kingston, says.

Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union affairs now are controlled by the universities themselves he told the Ottawa branch of the Queen's Alumni Association Tuesday night. Faculty members were in key positions of the CIAU.

There were abuses of CIAU regulations following the Second World War, he said. Some schools were suspected of bringing in athletes who were not bona fide students, but this led to a revision three years ago of the CIAU constitution.

(Vic Obeck, athletic director of McGill University, charged during the football season that there are "some Canadian universities" were selling around rules governing athletic eligibility of some students.)

UNIVERSITY CONTROL

The universities themselves got together to stop the bad publicity, Professor Jemmett said.

Now the CIAU board of management had three representatives from each of the four major universities in it—Queen's, Toronto, McGill and Western. One of these representatives from each university must be from the teaching staff. Smaller universities had two representatives, one from the faculty. The smallest schools had one faculty member representing them.

Thus, Professor Jemmett said, the universities control CIAU regulations.

LL SHIFT COLLAPSES

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Plans to move Richmond from the class-B Piedmont League to the triple-A International League fell through Tuesday night.

Eddie Mayer, owner of the Richmond franchise, spiked the proposed move when he rejected a $200,000 offer for the franchise and his real estate property. Harry Seibold, a wealthy Richmond industrialist, had wanted to buy the club and move it to the International League.

The International League meets today to try to set up an eight-club circuit. The league now has seven clubs and Havana is ready to move in, having received approval of the Florida International League for the move.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, DEC. 2, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Feverish haste, extravagance and overmedicated action are today's don'ts. Think carefully, slow down to a sane tempo, thus preventing misjudgment, mistakes.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Mildly good; don't overreach or overtax your capabilities—especially in financial matters. Late in the day unique and ingenious ideas will be worth trying.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your planets not in auspicious position for other than routine, daily duties. Outlook does not favor money or business gains or quick turnovers. Practical matters best.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—New, untried ventures involving heavy financial risks are not favored. In fact, most money matters are under adverse influences, so be on guard. Don't indulge in ill feeling today—or any time.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—It may take unusually clever thinking and managing, plus patience, to put over your ideas, perform tasks today. Be adroit, gentle and thus get worthwhile cooperation, results.

Million Workers In Britain Stage One-Day Strike

LONDON (AP)—More than 1,000,000 engineering workers today closed British auto and aircraft factories and shipyards in a strike shops in a 24-hour token strike for more pay.

It was Britain's biggest labor tie-up since the general strike of 1926.

From London to Glasgow and Belfast the hum of machinery ceased. Work benches were deserted.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, an organization with 39 affiliates, called the "show of strength" walkout in support of a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase.

Industries involved estimated the production loss would reach £15,000,000.

Strikers guarded the gates of factories throughout the country as strikers gathered for mass meetings and protest marches, but there were no reports of disorders.

All public services operated normally. Government plants such as ordnance factories and power stations also were exempt.

Workers affected included fitters, boilermakers, pattern makers, electricians, foundrymen, coppersmiths, draftsmen, laborers and tens of thousands of semi-skilled and unskilled categories.

Originally the confederation planned to pull out 2,000,000 workers. However, individual local unions were given an option of coming out or staying on the job.

By mid-day it was estimated that at least 60 per cent of the 2,000,000 had observed the strike call.

Will Hold Vote On Arbitration In Paper Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—AFL photoengravers today will vote whether to arbitrate the four deadlocked issues in a strike which has closed down all seven major newspapers in the city.

Publishers of six strikebound newspapers agreed to arbitrate the four remaining issues, and union negotiators said they would submit the proposal to their members.

A membership meeting of Local 6 of the International Photo-Engravers Union was called for 11 a. m. Union officials said only the membership had authority to approve a strike settlement.

The Herald Tribune, only major paper in the city not on strike, suspended publication Monday night in sympathy with the other dailies. THE Herald Tribune's photo-engraving is done by an outside commercial firm.

The issues before the striking engravers were wages and welfare benefits, hours, the number of annual holidays and the duration of a new contract.

Judge Reserves Judgment In Motor Car Sale

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Decision was reserved by Judge Ian MacRae Tuesday in a county court action brought by Joseph W. Carter, Woodstock barrister, against Arthur Bailey and Bailey Motor Sales, of Rockford, and W. Ian Spencer of Oshawa, for recovery of his car and 500 damages.

Carter left his car on consignment with Frank Stevens, Guelph used car salesman, in March of this year. In April Stevens purported to have sold the car to Bailey Motor Sales, who in turn sold it to Kazimiers Jurck, of Fruitland.

The car was returned to Bailey Motors by Jurck and later repossessed to have been sold to William S. Spencer, Oshawa. The plaintiff claimed the Spencer sale was fictitious and no transaction was ever made. The vehicle is still held by Bailey Motors.

Groups Must Get Out and Sell In British Market

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Tuesday Canadian farm groups must get out and sell their products in the United Kingdom and foreign markets.

Clarence A. Milligan of Napanee told the Elgin County Federation of Agriculture that Canadian farmers must not depend on government and governmental agencies to sell their products.

He said that during his visit to the U.K. last summer he was convinced that Canada could have been selling surplus cheese, bacon and other products if the right steps had been over there to do the selling.

He sai dthe British farmer is in a tremendous position to help Canadian farmers because he is organized and has co-operative understanding with the government which makes a definite policy. The British farmer knows what he is going to get for his farm products before they are produced.

Action Against Imperial Oil Is Dismissed

LONDON, Ont (CP)—A $10,000 action against Imperial Oil Limited, of Toronto, was dismissed here today by Justice A. M. LeBel in Supreme Court here Tuesday.

The suit had been brought by James W. Baxter, Woodstock, who claimed that the beginning construction of a motel and service station near Eastwood in early 1950, Imperial Oil agreed to take a $10,000 mortgage on the building but backed out.

Mr. Justice LeBel said he was satisfied the mortgage had contract never passed the negotiation stage. Evidence was that the oil company refused to finalize the agreement until Baxter proved he had the financial ability to sponsor the project. Company officials said he failed to do this.

Imperial Oil's claim for $372 against Baxter was allowed along with costs. Mr. Woodcock had counsel had obtained gas, oil, tires and other products to this amount under a credit card.

General Public May Be Using Flu Vaccine

TORONTO (CP)—The development of an influenza vaccine by the Connaught Laboratories of Toronto may someday make it possible for the general public to be inoculated against the virus.

Although it is not yet ready for general use the vaccine has been used on armed services. Results are still being assessed.

Last winter Dr. George Dempster who is responsible for the production of the vaccine at the Connaught Laboratories, inoculated 100 nurses and 80 medical students who had volunteered for tests. The 180 persons showed an appreciable increase in the antibody levels of their blood but because there was no influenza epidemic in Canada this year Dr. Dempster was unable to make any important assessment of the protection afforded by the inoculation.

The Connaught Laboratories have been producing the vaccine since the epidemic outbreak of influenza in 1918-19. Latest factor in the fight against the flu is the haemoglutination test. The test shows the antibody count of the subject's blood.

Research in the production of a vaccine for influenza is subsidized by defence research board grants. Last winter the laboratories provided enough vaccine to inoculate 3,000 persons, most of them in the RCAF and the navy.

But production of the vaccine is limited. Maximum output of the laboratories during the last war was 3,000 doses a day. Production is also limited, lasting, at best, for about one year.

To Start Talks With Prisoners Who Joined Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP) — United Nations interviewers start talks Wednesday with the first of the Allied prisoners-of-war who have refused repatriation. The South Korean non-returnees are first on the list.

It is expected explanations to the 325 South Koreans will take about 21 days. Then the Allied teams will face the 22 Americans, and one Briton, who have elected to remain with the Reds.

The Communists would have only about three per cent of the 2,359 Chinese and Koreans they have interviewed — a humiliating propaganda walloping.

How many Allied prisoners will return is anyone's guess. Speculation based on information from some already reclaimed indicates a high percentage will choose home.

Barring some last-minute restrictions on the part of the prisoners themselves, nothing stands in the way of the talks beginning as scheduled.

The Allied move confirmed predictions made more than a month ago that explanations would start about Dec. 1.

We want all of the prisoners listed as pro-Communist to have freedom of choice," a UN command spokesman said.

GIVE FREE CHOICE

"We want people all over the world to understand that the UN command is willing to give these prisoners a free choice—even if they choose the Communists."

The Allied effort will open with five South Korean interviewers, one at each of the five explanation sites requested. The Communists used up to three men in each explanation tent, but the repatriation commission allows the Allies only five at any one time.

These South Koreans will face the nerve-wracking job of making calm, persuasive, discomfiting talks to prisoners undoubtedly primed by Red leaders to ridicule and vilify them.

Some of the prisoners are known to be dedicated Communists who will never return.

Former Prince Says He Had Way With Women

CAIRO (AP)—Former Prince Abbas Halim has told a revolutionary court trying him for treason that he never had any trouble taking a woman away from his cousin, former king Farouk of Egypt.

The cocky, outspoken 49-year-old Halim pleaded innocent after the prosecutor read an indictment accusing him of conspiring with foreign powers to harm Egypt.

Then, apparently unconcerned over the fact that he could get the death penalty if convicted, he told the three-man revolutionary court about his experiences with Farouk, the deposed Egyptian monarch.

"Farouk had an inferiority complex with women," Halim said. "This is why he ran so much after them. He wanted to show he was tough with the fair sex."

"I WON OUT."

In answer to a prosecutor's question, Halim replied: "Whenever we were competing to gain a lady's favor, I won out without difficulty."

Halim, in a joking mood throughout the hearing, said that with women "I believe I am more successful than Robert Taylor." The American screen star is in Egypt now to make a film.

Halim, an open admirer of the Axis in the Second World war, was arrested last year in connection with an arms scandal involving purchases of weapons for Egyptian forces in the 1948 Palestine war. A civilian court found him and others innocent, but he was re-arrested last September and held for the revolutionary court.

King of Buganda Arrives by Air In London

LONDON (Reuters)—The King of Buganda, his leadership over 1,000,000 subjects in the African colony revoked Monday by the British government, arrived by air Tuesday.

Banishment of the king (Kabacka), Mutesa II, was announced in the House of Commons by Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton.

Lyttleton said the 29-year-old African ruler had repudiated his obligations, under an agreement of 1900 which provided for his "loyal co-operation" with the British administration, by backing an independence movement.

FEARS BLOODSHED

The colonial secretary said there would be "very grave danger of bloodshed" in Uganda's Buganda province if the kabaka remained, now that Britain has withdrawn her recognition of him.

A state of emergency has been declared in Buganda.

Lyttleton said he would be willing to see the kabaka if the ex-ruler desires.

IN SECOND EXILE

The kabaka is the second African leader exiled by the British government in recent years. Seretse Khama, banished chief-designate of the Bamangwato in Bechuanaland, went into exile in England in 1950 after his marriage to a white English girl had split his tribe.

The kabaka is accused of having opposed the British government's policy by demanding a self-governing status for Buganda, independent of the other three provinces of Uganda.

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret came face-to-face with herself in Piccadilly, and liked the encounter.

At the exhibition of the Royal Society of Portrait Painters she examined long and approvingly a portrait of herself painted by the society's vice-president, Simon Elwes. In person, Margaret was wearing a cerise-colored fitted coat and black velvet hat. In the picture she was wearing a black evening gown.

Queen Mother Elizabeth accompanied the princess, and among portraits they saw was one of the Queen Mother painted by Edward Halliday.

Laniel Will Ask Britain And U.S. For New Pledges

Long-Term Support Promise Is Price for European Army

By STANLEY JOHNSON

TUCKERTON, TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—France's Premier Joseph Laniel arrived today for the Big Three Bermuda conference, determined to press for new long-term pledges of support in Europe from Britain and the United States.

Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were at Kindley Field to meet Laniel, his foreign minister Georges Bidault, and a team of 17 experts from the French foreign office. President Eisenhower will arrive tomorrow for the five days of conferences.

Laniel was reported also ready to tell Britain and the United States that France is prepared to examine any peace offers made officially by Red China, the Moscow-educated general who has been directing the long war in Indo-China against the French.

To the Americans, the major task of the conference is to prod the balky French National Assembly into ratifying the European Defence Community pact. It provides for a unified West European army including troops from France's long-time enemy, Germany.

NO PROMISES

Laniel can promise nothing because the assembly alone must resign Jan. 17, a month after France's new premier is elected. But he was understood to have a number of conditions which French sources say must be met before there is any chance for assembly approval of German rearmament.

These include:

1. British-U.S. agreement to prod the West Germans into agreeing that the Saar basin, rich in coal and steel, will remain politically autonomous but linked economically to France. The Saar went before the Second World War, and the Germans want it back.

2. British and U.S. assurances that they won't pull their troops out of Europe and leave France to face resurgent Germans alone.

3. Continued U.S. help against the Communist-rebels in Indo-China, or failing that prompt negotiation and settlement with Ho Chi Minh's forces.

4. Negotiation of an agreement to Moscow's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers conference.

Of these, only the Saar seems a major stumbling block, as reserved by Eisenhower so far has given no sign of concession.

MATTERS DISCUSSED

Otherwise, the British-U.S. position shapes up this way:

1. The British are ready to assure the French that the United States will maintain troops in Germany as long as the continent, if not necessarily the present number of troops, is divided.

2. Britain will co-operate with the European army and will consult with its top command before shifting troops from the continent, but will not agree to maintain any definite number of soldiers in Germany.

3. The U.S. will continue its help to France under the mutual aid program, but half of the billion-dollar annual cost of the war. The Americans, however, feel that the best hope for negotiations with Ho Chi Minh may be some gesture of concern that the French forces have gained a military advantage.

4. All three of the Western powers are agreeable in principle to meet Russia for a foreign ministers' conference.

Three Suspects In $3,600 Payroll Snatch Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto police today arrested three suspects in Wednesday's street snatch of a $3,600 payroll from two women employees of the Ontario Boys' Wear Company.

They are Harold Hancock, 38, Miles Simpson, 39, and John Fields, 26, all of Toronto, charged with robbery and theft of an automobile.

Mrs. Georges Newnham and Miss Virginia Aboud were taking a payroll from a bank to their office when a man jumped from a car and grabbed a briefcase containing the money. Mrs. Newnham fought for possession of the case and the man threw her to the ground.

Police recovered a stolen car abandoned a few blocks from the scene. Bystanders said they saw three men in the car as it sped away.

Hancock and Simpson were arrested at gunpoint in their beds and Fields was taken after a brief awakened the householders at 3:30 a. m. before locating him.

Police said they recovered about $2,500 of the stolen payroll.

Kindness May Have Caused Man's Death

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Police speculated today that a man whose body was found Tuesday may have been killed by well-meaning friends trying to revive him.

The body, a Kenneth Secord, 22, was found on the seat of his automobile, dead of a bullet wound.

Police said there were no marks or bruises on his body.

Medico-legal experts from the attorney-general's office in Toronto were expected to be called in to determine whether murder or kindness caused the death.

Police said friends found Secord in the car and tried to revive him, thinking he had been overcome by exhaust fumes from a defective muffler. They said his neck may have twisted and been broken as they tried artificial respiration.

Secord, married and the father of one child, was a well-liked young odd jobs for farmers in this area 60 miles south of North Bay.

British Paper Urges Eisenhower Recognize China

LONDON (Reuters) — The Daily Mirror today urged President Eisenhower to agree at the Big Three talks in Bermuda to recognize Communist China and to hold talk with Russia.

This mass-circulation newspaper declared: "Much American policy dismays us. Your buddies, Chiang Kai-shek and Syngman Rhee, scare us, the daylight out of us. Senator Joseph McCarthy and his boys turn our stomachs.

"We say recognize Red China. Give the Far East a new look. Let's have frank talks to get the measure of Malenkov."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A broad current of southerly winds caused by a deep area of low pressure in the central states is bringing very warm air toward the eastern provinces and there will be about 50 this afternoon in southern Ontario, and some 5 to 10 degrees higher on Friday. This current will also bring some showers, most likely in the morning. In northern Ontario and the west it will be forced to ascend over cooler air, precipitation will be more general in the east and northern the precipitation will probably be in the form of wet snow.

VOTES EXPECTED LATE TODAY ON TWO MOTIONS

Hees Critical of New Housing Regulations

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons' throne speech debate today enters what is expected to be its final day after three weeks of speeches on the state of the nation.

Seven back-benchers took part in the debate Wednesday, carrying it toward votes expected late today on two opposition motions of non-confidence in the government. A CCF non-confidence motion was defeated last week 156 to 36.

The end of the debate will clear the way for consideration of government legislation. One proposed measure, described by Liberals as temporary, is Wednesday by George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview).

Mr. Hees said the main weakness in the proposed legislation is the requirement for a down payment of 25 per cent on the first $8,000 and 30 per cent on the remainder of the cost of a new home.

This would make the down payment at least $1,400 on the cheapest house available under the National Housing Act, Mr. Hees said, across the board moderate incomes.

He suggested the down payment should be 10 per cent on all houses up to $10,000.

LOWER INTEREST

The Mr. Hees said low-rent housing could be provided by private industry if the National Housing and Housing Corporation loaned the necessary money at 3½ per cent interest, the same rate given to subsidized housing projects.

One such plan proposed by private builders in Toronto could provide two-storey brick homes at a rent of $58 a month.

The government's proposed amendments to the National Housing Act are expected to be introduced in a week or 10 days.

Another speaker in the debate, James A. Byrne (PC—Kootenay West) said it was "regrettable" that Ontario's labor laws do not permit the labor voluntarily revocable checkoff of union dues.

The checkoff is a major issue in the present strike in northern Ontario gold mines.

Mr. Byrne felt the government could not function if taxes were voluntarily paid by taxpayers' payments. Similarly, a union could not function if dues were collected from members. He said he could not see the employers' argument against collecting these dues from union members who agreed to it.

Police and Dock Workers Keep Constant Guard

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Firemen, police and dockers kept constant fire guard on the St. John's waterfront today as 15,000 tons of cotton spread over the harbor. No smoking was allowed, and the fire engines were ready to leak in hose lines at the United States Air Force dock in the city's east end, where the U. S. naval tanker Yoni was discharging.

The Norfolk and Albania, SS, apparently was unnoticed for several days.

The gasoline was a rapidly evaporating type but the emergency plan was expected to last most of the day.

Burma's Prime Minister Accuses U.S., Britain, Russia of Insincerity

RANGOON (AP) — Burma's Prime Minister U Nu Wednesday accused the United States, Britain and Russia of insincerity in their professions of defending democracy.

"All are bedding up their secret affairs," he declared, without concluded.

Denouncing a University of Rangoon convocation, N Nu said:

1. The United States is guilty of supporting colonial imperial systems which are most loathsome to Africa. In Spain, also, the American support the Fascist Franco regime, Malaya, Kenya, Britain is helping and encouraging French colonial rulers who are creating favorable more to all the Indo-Chinese."

Of Russia, N Nu said: "Soviet Russia, which has been most vocal about freedom from imperialist occupation, during the war became Britain's ally, herself occupying the small states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. She was also guilty of aggression against Finland."

Of Britain, the prime minister said: "If you look at Britain, their policy in Malaya, their policy for democracy, respect of human rights and salvation of civilization. That is one side of picture. The other side is provided by Malaya, Kenya, British Guiana, Malta and the Gold Coast.

"Britain has set up one of these colonial possessions up to now. In Malaya natives who wanted to go back to their own lands have been subjected to bombs and machine-gunning."

Gifts from Canada totalling more than $3,000,000 have been contributed to Holland Flood Relief, according to the Canadian Red Cross Society. In Toronto harbor the Prins Willem III, a Dutch ship, is loaded nearly half a million dollars in Canadian gifts, mainly farm machinery. This is the loading scene and official presentation attended by Canadian and Holland government officials. — Central Press Canadian.

British Labor Organ Calls Eisenhower Disillusioned Man

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Herald, a Labor party newspaper, told its readers today that President Eisenhower is a sad and disillusioned man who has thrown away the leadership of the American Republican party out of political ignorance.

Two other London newspapers, The Daily Mirror and The News Chronicle, expressed dim views of Eisenhower's leadership on the eve of the Big Three conference in Bermuda.

SAYS IKE ILL-ADVISED

Arthur Webb, the American correspondent for The Herald, said Churchill "will get a shock" when he meets Eisenhower. Webb added:

"Ten months in the White House have destroyed the bouncing enthusiasm of the general who staged the great crusade in Europe. Its politics simply has gone overnight to plan for a man who was a planning genius in war. It is true he has been ill-advised. He is handicapped by his own ignorance of politics and government.

"But if he had taken command during the first three months, he would not now be on the defensive against the attacks of senators McCarthy, Jenner and their supporters."

FEARS PARTY DIE-HARDS

Webb said Eisenhower will not dare "add to his troubles" by agreeing to meet with Soviet Premier Malenkov, as desired by Churchill. He "fears that one agreement is reached to meet the Russian leader, he will be denounced immediately by his own die-hards."

Western European papers hailed Eisenhower's stand Wednesday in backing State Secretary Dulles' blast at the Wisconsin senator.

In Britain, the Conservative Daily Mail declared, "The Ikes Way on McCarthy." Lord Beaverbrook's Independent Daily Express said "Ike Snubs McCarthy Again" and the Labor Daily Herald topped its story with "Now Ike Hits Out at Senator McCarthy."

The Liberal News-Chronicle headlined a story: "And Now Ike is Slapping Joe Down."

Pretty Mother Is Released Unharmed by 2 Kidnappers

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Pretty Mrs. Gloria Bullock Weaver, 32, mother of an infant son, is safe at home today and FBI agents are hunting for two men accused of her kidnapping her Tuesday.

Found unharmed on a downtown street near the Chattahoochee river bridge Wednesday night, she said she was released by her kidnappers on the Alabama side of the bridge.

Her husband, Arthur H. Weaver, a building contractor, spotted her in the Georgia side police car shortly after she telephoned home from a drug store near where she was released.

NOT HARMED

Mrs. Weaver said an unidentified man entered her home in her husband's absence Tuesday night and ordered her to an automobile parked outside. She said he did not use force.

She related that she got into the back seat of the car with another unidentified man and the steering wheel. While one held her arms, the other blindfolded her with her handkerchief.

While they rode for what seemed to her like hours, they told her she would not be harmed if she made no outcry. Finally she was put in a room of a house. The men supplied an adjoining room, she said.

After darkness, she was blindfolded again and put back into the automobile.

$12,000 DEMANDED

The blindfold was removed when they reached the outskirts of Phoenix City, Ala., just across the river from Columbus, and the men let her out with instructions to go home.

Weaver received a telephone call Wednesday from an anonymous man who demanded $15,000 for her return. But no ransom was paid.

The FBI declined comment.

Conceals Family In Lumber Load To Escape Reds

LINZ, Austria (Reuters) — A Czech lumber merchant made his own "wooden horse" escape from Communism by hiding his family in a space for his family inside a load of lumber crossing the Austrian frontier, American sources said today.

Martin Cech, 30, his 26-year-old wife, Drahomira, his father and his two children, aged seven days concealed on a railroad flat-car carrying goods consigned to Trieste.

The husband, wife and the father, Friedrich Cech, were hidden in a hole in the centre of the load. For his two children, Ladislaus, 4, and Vlasta, 2, the merchant built a trapdoor in the floor.

Record Highs For December Are Expected

TORONTO (CP) — Bland air from the central United States held sway in southern Ontario today and may push temperatures toward record highs for December.

The public weather office said temperatures in the area may be about 50 this afternoon and some 5 to 10 degrees higher on Friday. The record high for Dec. 4 in Toronto is 64 degrees.

"Very mild" weather was forecast for Friday over most of the province, with cloudiness in the south and wet snow in the north. Rain, it said, further to the forecast was for a high of 50.

LIVING COSTS MAY BE DOWN IN NEXT INDEX

Softening in Prices First Drop Since Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—Lower food prices may soon halt the steady, ever-month climb in living costs.

The consumer price index for October likely will be published Friday and indications are that it will show a softening in food prices, the first general decline since last spring.

Based on 1949 prices equalling 100 the yardstick of living costs reached a 16-month high in September, rising half- a point to 16.7 from 116.2.

An upsurge in food prices coupled with lesser increases in a large group of other items, brought living costs up 1.5 points below the all-time high of 118.2 in December, 1951.

The index climbed a total of 2.3 points in five consecutive months. Price boosts for a wide range of foodstuffs pushed the food column up 1.5 points to 115.5, highest in 15 years.

Prices rose for butter, eggs, pork chops, fresh fruits, fresh tomatoes, lard, shortening, oranges grapefruit and canned fruits.

These offset declines for potatoes, chicken, beef, canned vegetables except corn, cabbage, onions and turnips.

Two records were made. The shelter column, including rents, mounted to a new high of 124.5. The household operations column edged ahead by one-tenth of a point to a record 117.5.

The miscellaneous column, called "other commodities and services," crept up by one-tenth of a point to 118, highest since last January.

Clothing was the only column to show a down-trend—dropping a point to 110.3—lowest since last June.

Question Sailor About Clothing Stained by Blood

MIDLAND (CP) — Police said today they are holding a man for questioning regarding the finding of the blood stained clothing of a woman in a park near Thorold Tuesday.

Provincial police tried to find the owner of the clothing in the Niagara peninsula Tuesday.

Police said the clothing was found near an automobile, believed owned by the sailor.

One of Siamese Twins Dies

LONDON (CP) — Doctors separated the Nigerian Siamese twins here today but one child died after two hours of desperate effort to keep it alive.

The child collapsed following the operation. Doctors attempted to restore it by means of heart massage but the attempt sustained life for only a short while.

The second baby was reported to be in "good shape."

The twins were flown to London from Nigeria last month in a bid to save their lives.

Persons Worried About Heart Trouble May Just Have 'Anxious Heart'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Worried about your heart?

There's a good chance you just have "anxious heart," which nobody actually wrong with the organ despite pains in the chest, doctors say.

This anxiety heart disease was described today in a paper before the American Medical Association by Dr. Jackson A. Smith, department of medicine at Washington University College of medicine here.

Many soldiers of the First World War "had this trouble. The emotional ogue became clearer when the trouble cleared up within a few days," Dr. Smith explains.

Fear and anxiety cause it. In the civilian as well as soldiers, it the person focuses attention on his heart. The fear and anxiety about it's created or helped along when during a heart examination the doctor says or does something making him think he believes his heart is really physically in trouble.

In "anxious heart," a person becomes aware of his own heart beat or pulses in his head or throat. He finds it hard to get to sleep or seem to rkip beats, and he fears his heart has gone bad. It will not. Often he complains of being breathless or short of breath.

The personality type likely to have the complaint is one who is tense, nervous, conscientious, sensitive to opinions, indecisive, overconscientious and trying to live by standards which are realistically too high, the physicians said.

It is true, he said, that one-third of Americans now succumb to diseases of the heart and blood vessels. But despite this, many people who have heart trouble live to respectable physical disease. The anxious heart disease does not signify early increase, the incidence of real heart disease.

Assembly Voices 'Grave Concern' At Red Atrocities

Calls for Condemnation Of Actions by 42-5 Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The UN General Assembly today expressed its "grave concern" at Red atrocities in Korea and approved an American call for stiff condemnation of such actions.

Over Soviet opposition, the assembly approved a Western-sponsored resolution of condemnation by a vote of 42 to 5 with 10 abstentions.

The balloting followed three days of vitriolic debate in which Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of the United States accused the North Koreans and Chinese Communists of killing nearly 38,000 UN soldiers and civilians in Korea as a part of high Kremlin policy.

The five negative votes were cast by the Soviet bloc. The 10 abstentions were mostly by Asian and Arab nations.

THE RESOLUTION

According to terms of the resolution, sponsored by Britain, the U.S., France, Turkey and Australia, the assembly specifically:

"1. Expresses its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman procedures in the treatment of soldiers of forces under the United Nations command in Korea and of the civilian population in Korea.

"2. Condemns the commission by any governments or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, starvation or other atrocious acts against captured military personnel or civilian populations, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

LIBEL, SAYS VISHINSKY

Vishinsky said he and his allies voted against the resolution because it was "libelous, spurious and reactionary."

Before the vote, a heated debate had lashed out at accusations of Red atrocities by Western members and counter-thrusts from the Soviet bloc. Lodge declared in a speech that U.S. and South Korean troops are the strongest perpetrators.

The result was a verbal duel between the chief U.S. delegate, Lodge, and Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Union foreign minister.

At the end of the debate, Lodge charged that North Korea's Communist commander, Gen. Nam Il, masterminded the bloody Kojedo prison riots during the armistice negotiations at Panmunjom. Lodge also challenged Russia to let an international Red Cross commission make an unfettered check of the U. S.-alleged Red atrocities in Korea.

In retort, Vishinsky angrily denounced the charges as "absurd" and unsupported by facts. The Russian called the U.S. challenge for a Red Cross probe "an all-hour approach, obviously of a demagogical nature."

Lodge had urged the investigation after Vishinsky labelled the atrocity charges "bosh."

MAY BECOME MATOR

PORT DOVER (CP) — Harold Schneider is expected to be elected mayor of Port Dover when it becomes a town Jan. 1. Now a reeve in the town's first year, Mr. Schneider was given an acclamation.

Senator McCarthy Remains Firm In His Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep, Wis.) stuck to his guns today in his disagreement with the administration on foreign policy, but said any contention that he is challenging President Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican party is "both ridiculous and untrue."

In a prepared statement, McCarthy said: "I will continue to give my utmost support to the Republican party now and in the future." But he emphasized:

"This does not mean that I will refrain from criticizing my party when I think it is making mistakes."

He praised both Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles in the statement, but said he still thinks the U.S. should refuse dollar aid to the Allied nations shipping any goods to Communist China so long as a single American remains in a Communist-held land-shipping prison."

On this matter Secretary Dulles and I are in complete disagreement," he said.

"In a republic such as ours there must be room for honest difference of opinion. I respect the honesty and sincerity of purpose of Secretary Dulles."

END IN SIGHT

Obituary

REV. JAMES P. HENDERSON
(Contributed)

Many communities in Ontario and Western Canada will be saddened to learn of the passing of Rev. J. P. Henderson, to many a beloved friend and pastor. He entered into rest at his home in Bethany on November 21st.

Born in Halton County, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson, he attended high school in Georgetown; model school in Milton and Normal School and taught in that neighborhood before attaining his Master of Arts degree from University of Toronto. While attending Knox Theological College he held mission fields in Northern Saskatchewan and Southern Alberta. He enlisted and a breakdown in health and he was forced to leave his church calling for a time.

He farmed at Dawson Creek for three years and then took up the acute shortage of ministers, he felt constrained to re-enter the service.

He then carried the gospel tiding to Bethany and Nestleton for a number of years before retiring to Oshawa.

ON MANY CHARGES

He served on the Horton — Cobourg charge near Renfrew, the Bethany charge, the Redeerville charge and was at Wainwright when ill health forced him to retire.

For many years the victim of a weak heart, Mr. Henderson was indeed "faithful unto death."

Choosing at his text, "Be ye faithful unto death and I will give you a crown of life," Rev. B. Armstrong Port Perry, an old college friend, spoke of the high Christian ideals of Jim Henderson and of his unfailing faithfulness to those ideals.

Taking part in the service were, Rev. Prosser, Pembroke; Rev. James Hampson, Greenwood and Rev. L. Thomson, Bethany.

Pall bearers were: Mr. William Donaldson, Fenelon Falls; Mr. Orville Lamb, Acton; Mr. A. Watson, Bethany; Messrs. Howard and Ralph Malcolm and Ray Robinson, Yelverton.

Friends from near and far attended the service held in Bethany United Church and filled the body to its last resting place in Yelverton cemetery.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. J. P. Henderson, Bethany; three sons, Gordon of Trenton; John of Buckingham, Que., and Murray, at home; two sisters, Esther Kennett (Mrs. Ray Robinson) and Ruth (Mrs. Ralph Malcolm), both of Yelverton; one granddaughter, Judy and Clare Robinson and Cynthia and Kerry Malcolm; three sisters, Miss Annie Henderson, Miss C. Henderson, Acton and Mrs. Thomson, Que., one brother, George, British Columbia.

British Market Could Develop 100 Million Pounds Per Year

If the British per capita increase in the consumption of cheese comes back to the wartime rationing level, and if there is no rapid increase in the price of cheese to the British consumer then the market could develop by 100 million pounds per year," W. C. Cameron, assistant Deputy Minister of Marketing, Ottawa, told delegates to the 20th annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers in the business session Wednesday afternoon.

Russian purchases of butter and cheese in eastern Europe have removed surpluses in those commodities, consequently removing possible European competition for the British trade. An expanded market for Canada in North America, together with brighter prospects for 1954 in the British market, should provide favorable signs for the cheese industry in the immediate future.

Mr. Cameron emphasized the work of the dairy branch of the 15th dairy industry exhibition at other branches.

FREE DEHUMIDIFIER FLOW

"Price determines the flow of milk and with the diversity of products now being made, the flow of fluid milk will be responsive to price than ever before. This complicates the task of operation and the trends of production," he said. "To meet the future, dairying industry to build a flexible production system to fluctuations in milk flow in the market.

Mr. Cameron told the delegates that total milk production in Canada in the first eight months of this year had increased 3 per cent over 1952 production for the same period. Cheese making has increase were a larger cow population, increased production, a drop in beef prices with subsequent enlargement of milking herds, and weather in all parts of the country due to U.S. embargo on the import of Canadian cattle during the hoof and mouth epidemic.

This five per cent increase in the volume of fluid milk is significant. Most of these increases have been noted in the previous 10 years.

TURF TO DAIRYING.

In western Canada increased milk production has followed the failure of grain farmers to market more than three bushels of wheat per acre. They have turned more to dairying to realize a profit.

This increased production has resulted in five per cent increase in production of fluid milk and its cream, and by greatly increased one production of concentrated products (evaporated milk, etc.).

An increased consumption of milk, milk products, and by-products by Canadians was noted. This was said to be due to an increase in the number of meals, increased earning power. As a result there was a need for more products for export.

Whole milk powder and condensed milk have found an export market in Europe, Cameron said. Cameron predicted that this market will continue to expand.

Skim milk powder is used as production, in the early part of 1952 was being used in the Children's Emergency Food and feed powder was also exported to the United States. When these two markets dried up, the Canadian government purchased 10 million pounds of skim milk powder which it sold at cheap prices elsewhere or gave away to countries suffering floods and natural disasters.

STABLE PRODUCTION FIGURE.

This export, along with a 27 per cent drop in the production of milk powder in bread, has resulted in less increased production and a fairly stable production picture for the future.

He concluded by stating that an understanding of trends in the branches of the dairy industry is essential to producers in any one particular field, and urged all dairy products producers to establish flexible production methods for their mutual advantage.

Dr. A. G. Gibson, superintendent of the Eastern Ontario Dairy

City and County Relations Seen Much Improved

Appreciation to county council for the fine relations which exist between the county and the city of Belleville was expressed by Hastings county councillors Wednesday by Reeve A. M. Haig.

Addressing county council for what he said would be his last time in the official capacity of first magistrate of the city, Mayor Haig expressed his best wishes to council and noted that in retiring from public life he was leaving behind a great improvement in the relations between the county and the city.

"We can well be proud of that record," Mayor Haig said. "And I think that the feeling had also improved between the citizens. I personally take some pride in that."

Warden John Kincaid agreed that the feeling between the county and city was at an all time high. He said Mayor Haig had done a good job for the city, and thanked him for his co-operation from council this year.

Mayor Haig took look back on 1953 as one of the highlights in our lives," he said.

Farm Products Surpluses Are Discussed

Farm products surpluses, which were said to be forcing down prices, came up for discussion at Hastings county council Wednesday, when a resolution from Grey county, petitioning the Ontario Department of Agriculture to adopt a vigorous policy of marketing farm products was read before members.

After some discussion in which it appeared that all councillors did not think the matter could be acted upon by the resolution.

Speaking on the discussion on the motion Reeve Irwin McCoy of Farmers township said he did not think there was too much surplus of farm products outside of wheat. He said prices of farm products had said there was a surplus only because of insufficient capacity of processing plants. "The market is there for the milkand cream," he said.

Deputy Reeve Theodor Connor of Rawdon and Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc felt otherwise. Sager claiming there was a surplus and threat of surplus. Reeve Verney Heath of Hawkesbury said in his opinion there was a "vast" surplus of farm products.

"The trouble is that we are a producing country, not a consuming country," he said.

Reeve Chas. Buskard of Deloro thought that the government had already put a lot of thought into the farm products surplus problem. The reason Canada could not export all it might desire was that farm products could not be exported at a price which people in other countries could pay.

In the meantime he suggested that every effort be made to develop the domestic market. He cited an example of what could be done along this line in refrigerated lockers. He said the dietetic cheese factory where the maker was manufacturing many different types of cheese.

Reeve Francis of the Campbellford cheese factory provides a market which farms in the district would not otherwise have," he said.

FRENCH TRAWLER SEIZED

DOVER, England (Reuters)—The minesweeper Marlene on Wednesday arrested the French trawler Pierre Anita and brought her into Dover. The Pierre Anita was said to have been fishing illegally in British waters.

Hastings Council Declines to Urge Health Scheme

Hastings county councillors do not wish to get involved in any thing which might be a "political football."

This was made evident Wednesday when councillors decided to take no action on a Grey County resolution calling for immediate action on the part of the Federal government in setting up a national health scheme.

"This looks like a political football to me," said Reeve Bushard, of Tudor, as he moved that no action be taken.

Neither was any action taken on still another resolution from Grey County calling for compensation of the Dundas Livestock Sales Ltd. for its work in selling Ontario hogs.

Reeve Clarence T. Graham, of Tweed, observed he was pleased to see council withhold its praise of United- Livestock Sales Ltd. until such time that they have operated under normal sales conditions. He said it is difficult to sell anything that is in short supply," he observed.

SHEEP LOSS PROBLEM

Council concurred in a Perth County resolution asking for amendment of the Livestock Protection Act to allow municipalities to retain all dog taxes until the end of year and then pay sheep losses on percentage basis, according to the money in hand. Any surplus of dog tax would be carried over to the next year.

The resolution noted that sheep losses in Perth county were heavy and to pay losses dog taxes had been increased and even the until rate had to be raised.

Reeve Earl Sager, of Madoc, stated that in his township sheep losses were getting heavier but they had not raised the dog tax.

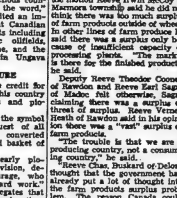
"I think that sheep owners have some responsibility in looking after their sheep," he said, "but as long as they get paid full value for losses, sheep owners do not seem to care, as they will get full value anyway."

Reeve Anderson of Faraday thought that if the dog tax was raised it would mean that dogs would be kept. He said that a lot of dogs were running around that were no good to anybody.

BLAMES WOLVES.

Deputy Reeve Connor of Rawdon did not think sheep losses were due to the hilldog law. Wolves were causing more trouble than dogs in his municipality.

Deputy Reeve T. Conroy suggested Hastings "go along" with the Perth resolution, noting that it would not affect this county.



Council also concurred in an Ontario county resolution asking for a separate institution in which female delinquents not convicted of any criminal offence might be committed.

Reports of various committee chairmen were read to the session, including that of the Juvenile and Family Court; the Administration of Justice committee; agricultural and reforestation committee and the report of the property committee and the county home committee.

Council Requests Oil Company To Submit Plans

TRENTON (Special) — Councillor R. Smithrim questioned a payment to three members of the Police Department seeking remuneration for working statutory holidays. They should be paid if they did not get the days off," he said, "but if they did get the days off they are not entitled to it." Hearing a fellow member of council give his assurance that the policemen were on duty on the days designated in the request for extra pay, Mr. Smithrim remarked: "There is actually no way of checking."

Council requested the Trinidad Leasehold Company of Toronto to submit plans for a service station they plan to erect on Front Street just north of the C.N.R. footbridge crossing where the old frame terrace formerly owned by the Macnab estate now stands. The Ontario Company of Trenton are the present owners of the property.

It has been town policy to discourage buildings on the waterfront. However since there are no zoning laws in effect council is considering the request encouraged picking up all available waterfront property with the idea of beautifying the west bank of the river as a tourist attraction.

Removal of the terrace will see the disappearance of another landmark reminiscent of early days along the River Trent. Originally the terrace was built by an American named Loomis who operated a stave mill further up the river. Earlier Charlie Crowe used the property for a coal yard and had docks for boats to unload cargoes of coal.

Council recommended that a retain wall be constructed at the river's edge as a protective measure against possible erosion.

Wharf Street Debating Club Gives Municipal Candidates Hectic But Happy Evening

(By THE OBSERVER)

The forty-third annual fun-feed of the Wharf Street Debating Club was held last evening. The newly enlarged hall was crowded to capacity and the fun was fast and furious, for no quarter was given and none asked. Gulps were hurled—barbs were returned. But there was no loss of temper—it was all good fun. In any other atmosphere than the precincts of the Old Club one could imagine that there could have been grave faces as criticisms and accusations were hurled at aspiring candidates to municipal office. But all took it with a merry smile, for loud laughter almost lifted the roof. However one missed the quiet sallies of the late Harry Knott, who was never venomous. His old partner, Harry Rollins, came across with much sparkling comment—which made the evening pantomime.

Chairman Eddie Jeorge called the meeting to order at 8.30 and introduced ex-Mayor George Tice who complimented the club on the wonderful turn-out. As usual, George had to mention the history of Zwick's Island — had he not he would have been quickly reminded. He hoped that the difficult 'Ds' would never again appear. His advice was "Get out and vote next Monday in your respective guilds."

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES

John Both was the next speaker. He mentioned that it was his first bid for office. He had lived in Belleville for many years and he would give his experience as a contractor to fill the office. He felt capable of performing the duties should he be elected. He felt capable of sending out to the electorate a good service and would go all out for the lowering of the tax rate, which should be $8 mills or less.

Charles L. Hyde then took the stand and went on to say that from earliest manhood he had an obsession to see this fellow name. He was proud to say that Zwick's Island was being improved and within five years there would be 35 acres of parkland in evidence. He promised to give his whole time to the mayoral office should he be elected.

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATES

Bill Argue mentioned that he and 17 others claimed credit for the wonderful job done in Victoria Park. He stated that as a property owner in Foster Ward he naturally was intensely interested in its welfare. He had a few new suggestions to offer. However, he promised that the ward system should be a major question for council to settle and should be put to the electorate. Belleville has some new industries in the east end which will see that Belleville is a good place in which to live."

Art Keegan said that he withdrew from contesting the office of mayor because he felt that "the village of Belleville should start from Foster Ward." Many well known citizens now make their abode in Foster Ward. As a member of the Fire Department he was able to bring in four new playgrounds. The new fire hall site was questioned—and the present location was the result. He was glad that the old dump had been discontinued. If re-elected, he would take off his coat and hat and do his best for Belleville in general and Foster Ward in particular.

NO HOPE FOR TAX CUT

Bruce Smith spoke briefly by stating "Let my two years' service speak for itself and put me back in the fore for another term." He saw no hope for reduced taxes.

Robert Temple stated there were 8,000 motor vehicles registered in Belleville and more production must be given to the children. The school system has been put on — and $12.00 per guard is a good investment if but one child's life is saved.

Claude Tice explained for his fifth return to Aldermanic office after his eight years in council. All things given him he had been fair and public money judiciously spent. "If elected I will still think. I have done a good job, they still owe me a debt and we will still be good friends. Claude took credit for having school guards in the city.

M. C. Burgess admitted that it was his first initiation to the Wharf Street Club. He had lived in Belleville for a good many years and had previous Municipal experience as chairman of finance of Napanee.

Eric Cooper stated that he had not one thought in mind when appealing to the electorate and that was to serve the people of Belleville to the very best of his ability.

NOISY RECEPTION.

George Devaye had a noisy reception but good natured he took it. He strongly criticized the Industrial Commission. And he went on to say that the public washroom situation was a disgrace to the City of Belleville from a sanitary standpoint. The council be promised, if elected, he would work strongly for the further improvement of Zwick's Island and the abolition of the dump.

Ralph Graham had prepared a speech — but prepared speeches are taboo at Wharf Street so he had to do without it. Until the gathering all that he hoped to accomplish were he elected, for he had lots of time to give to city government. He is of the opinion that no fewer civic cabins should old Belleville. He strongly urged the council meet during the evening to enable ratepayers to be present at their meetings/sessions. And there is lots of room for the expansion of Belleville — so let's expand, he concluded.

RESIDENT 43 YEARS.

Bert Robinson stated he had been a resident of Belleville for 43 years and had much time to give to the city should he be elected to office. He would work to see Belleville grow for there were great opportunities for industrial expansion.

Ben Sale sent his regrets through not being able to attend the meeting owing to indisposition.

Quite a few who were not attending the Aldermanic honors were invited to speak. Chris. Leeder, George Forfar, Leonard Reid and wee Jamie Clark had their say.

Percy McQuire, a candidate for the Utilities Commission thought that a great deal of misunderstanding shown than for years past. He had been for many years on the Board of Education and four years on the Utilities Commission. He solicited the support of the citizens for the Commission.

"Sandy" Lummiss offered himself for the Utilities Commission and that if elected he would do his best to serve to the limit of his powers.

CITY SOLICITOR HAS SAY

Bob Pringle, city solicitor, in a brief but interesting speech which brimmed over with naturalness and originality, dictatorial practice by himself or Harold Bateman, the city comptroller. With quips quipped and barbs shot, Bob really brought down the house with his clever repartee and smiling argument.

Harry Mallaby, as always, was the butt of much good natured raillery. He came back at 'em with a smile. Lloyd Symington about a rear when he stated that if he had a rear he'd be up to see mayor. In conclusion, he said, "On Monday next, go to the polls—all of you—and vote as your conscience dictates.

Maurice Callaghan gave a reasoned speech on the freedom of speech. He went on to state that the old dump had been removed to Zwick's Island — and a beautiful job it is too. Indeed there—why could it not be used when it was the site of Foster Ward. He criticized the Department of Works because many men were employed who were not residents of Belleville. But no matter what you think, "Get out and vote," he concluded.

And finally Joe Seams had his say—and it was an uproarious finale to a memorable evening.

And the National Anthem brought to a close another Wharf St. show after which refreshments were served and everybody was happy.

Aerial Photo Of County Home Is Presented

A handsome aerial photo of the new Hastings county home on the Trent Road, the gift of James Holt, representative of Holt Bros. Metals and Roofing, will grace the walls at Shire Hall.

At Wednesday afternoon session of county council Mr. Holt made the presentation of the framed picture of the county home and farm. Warden John Kincaid thanked Mr. Holt for what was termed a "very kind gesture, while Reeve Clarke Rollins of Wollaston, chairman of the county home committee said the gift showed the interest of Mr. Holt as a citizen of the county. Mr. Holt was asked to convey the appreciation of council to his company.

The company which Mr. Holt represents supplied the roofing for the county home and farm buildings.

QUEEN GETS A HOLIDAY

Queen Elizabeth began the longest vacation of her public life on Monday as the S.S. Gothic sailed from Panama for the Fiji Islands. The Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, since their wedding six years ago, have been almost constantly in the public eye, travelling to distant parts of the Commonwealth and undertaking a heavy schedule of personal appearances in Great Britain. Many of these duties have increased even more in February 1952 when they were recalled to London to assume the duties of the monarchy on the death of King George the Sixth.

Being continuously at the demand of the public, even though the public takes the greatest care to organize its meetings and gatherings so that distinguished guests suffer the least amount of strain and inconvenience, is probably one of the hardest jobs imposed on anyone. One only has to reflect on the last time he or she was asked to read the minutes of the previous meeting to the Ladies' Auxiliary or the local service club, or to move a vote of thanks to the chief speaker to realize the nervous attrition associated with public functions. A schedule of constant public presentations would undoubtedly disturb the digestion, sleep and peace of mind of most of us.

To contemplate the schedule of major engagements that confronts the Royal couple is fatiguing in itself. No amount of training, enthusiasm and goodwill can prevent inevitable physical and mental exhaustion. To maintain Royal dignity without loss of emotional release of a reply to critics is doubly harrowing.

The four-month schedule of activities awaiting Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in New Zealand and Australia, might appear as a romantic episode to some but it will require the discipline of a hermit, the stamina of a marathon runner, the diplomacy of a roving ambassador, and the dedication of a stevedore to complete this itinerary without endangering the physical health and the mental dispositions of the Royal travellers.

The therapeutic value of the Pacific voyage has been well-advertised and it is to be hoped that Their Royal Highnesses will derive all the benefits to be obtained from 17 days on the high seas in the attitude and comfort provided by a luxury liner. A seventeen-day respite is, after all, little reward for the punishing schedule of the past, and barely adequate to meet the exigencies of the future.

A DISTURBING THEORY

Belatedly we have run across a report of some remarks by Senator Joseph Bradette anent Beverley Baxter.

The former member of the House of Commons for Cochrane seems to have some strange ideas.

He is reported to have said that no outsider is entitled to criticize Mr. Baxter did, the election choice of Canadians. He also objected to Mr. Baxter saying that "the French supply the babies and the prime ministers, the rest of Canada pays the taxes."

Mr. Baxter, a Toronto-born member of the British House of Commons is a personage with whom it is impossible to find fault. The editorial "pen" just fades out of the picture as soon as Mr. Baxter enters it. The writer therefore wishes to report that Mr. Baxter does nothing to earn the confidence of the Province of Toronto, but makes him increasingly grateful to the British House of Commons which has so thoughtfully provided him with a resting place outside of Canada.

But what is it that has been said or we find we must come to Mr. Baxter's defence and to the defence of his right to say whatever he likes about the election choices of Canadians.

One of the rights which we vigorously cherish is that of being critical about the election choices of people in a number of countries which make the front of the globe including those who selected Mr. Baxter for a seat in the Mother of Parliaments.

Now, however, we stand to surrender this right because some Liberal, newly made a Senator, has not yet acquired a fitting state of immunity to Mr. Baxter.

FATHERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE!

Up to now we have always had a rather high opinion of Australians. They are tall, tanned, pleasant men, possessed of more than their share of the great plains of the interior of their beloved island-continent.

Or, at least, that is what we thought.

Now, however, we read of Ernest Hendrigh and this character has called Santa Claus an "ugly old scoundrel." Our own Canadian, Dr. Brock Chisholm said something of the same sort, but for strikingly different reasons. Dr. Chisholm wished to purge Santa on account of the circumstances of his birth and his present social position, Mr. Hendrigh's opposition is based on the outrageously based on the old gentleman's sex, and that alone.

A fatty queen, he maintains, is much to be preferred to a fatty gentleman. A fatty queen is fully fatty is a much greater delight for a child than a hug from a big man with hairy hands.

This is the sort of subversive movement which needs to be nipped in the bud. What's wrong with a hairy hand — or even a hairy lip? Who wants a generation of children who believe that those Christmas joys come from 20-year-old models of the opposite sex?

Fathers of the world unite! You have nothing to lose but your hairns. (If the linotype operator misspells that "hairns" we hope he looks like a fairy queen come Christmas morn.)

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1933

Marmora and Lake township council for 1934 was elected by acclamation. Following are the members: Reeve, L. E. Neal; councillors, Jesse McCoy, Thomas Hepburn, Chas. Kelly and William Long. The latter is the only new member; he takes the place of W. D. Hicks, who retired owing to lack of time to devote to the business of the council.

The post office building. Here is interesting information from our file copy at this time in the year 1883. Instructions have been received by the local customs officer to the effect that they are to transfer the customs department for the port of Belleville from present location to the offices now ready in the government building. The post office, which is now located on the north side of Bridge Street, between Front and Pinnacle streets, will not be transferred until next week.

The late Nelson Parliament, of Toronto and Prince Edward County, spent the week-end here with friends.

Mr. Jack Trunisch was home from Toronto to spend the week-end.

30 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1923

Here is an item from our file copy at this time back in the year 1873: "During a discussion in the county council, Mr. Billa Flint, the warden, gave a laughable account of his experience as a school teacher. A number of years ago he was elected to that honorable position and was appointed secretary-treasurer. He furnished the school house with a stove and pipes and engaged a teacher. This individual taught for one week and then disappeared taking with him the stove and pipes. This disgusted Mr. Flint so much that he resigned the office shortly afterwards. (Note—Mr. Flint was a prominent and progressive citizen of Belleville for many years and later became the Hon. Billa Flint, a member of the Senate.)

40 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 3, 1913

At a meeting of Oak Camp, Woodmen of the World, No. 162, the following officers were elected: Past consul commander, E. Howe; consul commander, E. Bunnett; adviser lieutenant, James T. Bunnett; banker, H. Hall; clerk, Charles Ramsey; escort, A. Moon; watchman, Robert Smith; sentry, Ed. Howe; managers, James T. Bunnett, A. Howe and E. Howe; delegate, Charles Hanna.

Little black "Doc," a dog owned by the Rev. A. L. Geen, died at Woodlo Cottage as a result of old age. The small dog was well known by many citizens and was a great favorite with lovers of dogs.

Miss Wilkinson, of the D. and D. Institute, is spending a few days in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

DECEMBER 2, 1903

At a meeting of the West Hastings Liberal Conservative Association in Marmora, Mr. E. Guss Porter, M.P.P., of that city, was elected as the candidate to contest the riding in the next Federal elections. The following officers were elected: Hon. president, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Henry Corby and A. W. Carscallen; president, J. Earl Hallisell, Stirling; first vice-president, Wm. Ketcheson, Tweed; second vice-president, N. Baldwin Falkiner, Belleville; treasurer, W. S. Herrington, Belleville; secretary, William Carscallen, Belleville.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, of this city, was selected as Conservative candidate to contest the riding of East Hastings at the next Federal elections at a meeting of the East Hastings Liberal Conservative Association which was held in Madoc. The following officers were elected: Hon. president, Sir Mackenzie Bowell; second hon. president, A. W. Carscallen, Marmora; president, W. J. Allen, Madoc; secretary, W. J. Moore, Madoc; treasurer, A. E. Richardson, Deseronto.

The Parry Sound item is from our file copy at this time in the year 1883: "The town council has decided that the new lower bridge is to be of iron construction and is to be the upper bridge. The present piers at the lower end will be used. It has also been decided to revise the plans for the footbridge, the latter proceeding with its construction.

Weaker and Wiser Sex

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

Many of the amenities of polite society are based on the absolute assumption that the female is a wonderful toy, fragile and feeble to open a door, carry a package, move a chair, or climb unassisted into a vehicle. The custom of paying extra honor to females on feminine frailty persists, though women have shown in many ways that their weight and size they are as tough as men.

Russia's Potato Crops

(Ottawa Evening Citizen)

Russian scientists this year have developed two crops of potatoes in the course of experimental planting both in spring and summer. The process must involve a great deal of work. It seems a pity that the results could not shortly be put to work on collective farms, where two crops of potatoes would keep them far too busy for mischief.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD'S BIG BEN

In our family we have a kinsman who has just entered upon his 100th year.

You say this is great length of years? Not when viewed in the vast expanse of history. If this man lives to be 100 years old, his life will not be even one second on God's Big Ben. In laboratories they breed animals and get a number of generationals every year. God has been watching the stream of history go by the divine reviewing stand now for millions of years. The man who reaches the century mark may be a second on God's Big Ben; you and I are even less than that.

So the time is short for every one of us. The Bible calls human life a day of grass. We are all cut down in the midst of a battlefield or sent us in from the side lines to get into the game, and Job has said to us as we go, "See what you can do with this situation." At the end of the day, every one of us is bruised and wounded. No matter how hard we play the game, we had to pay a big price for every point we win. And if we do not fight and play our hardest, the battle will sound and the battle will be over, the whistle will blow and the game will be at an end.

We have the second of less on God's Big Ben. That is not much time to prepare ourselves for an eternal destiny.

Dentists Not Ogres

(Galt Evening Reporter)

Dentists who attended the Eastern Ontario Dental Association convention at Ottawa made a valiant attempt to dispel the notion that they are terrifying ogres in white coats. A convention display showed mouses being taken to overcome the fear of the patients who shrink down deep in the dentist's chair. But, short of the elimination of tooth decay, there will be little doubts about the success of such measures.

As an antidote for the nervous, manufacturers of dental equipment are designing their products in delicate pastel shades —soothing and relaxing. Chairside settings can be so constructed so that the patient can glimpse only such innocuous things as water tap and air blowers. The myriad picks, gleaming drill-heads are carefully cached behind sliding doors.

When added incentive for other techniques, manufacturers might introduce bowls stocked with colorful tropical fish — a constant delight for the patient. Or a mechanical device to overcome the pain newsfor the day, modelled after the New York Yankee pitcher in Manhattan. Again, ultra-soft music might do the trick.

Actually, more definite prefers more direct methods of rendering the patient blissfully unaware of palating the horrors to come. They might hit upon the use of anesthetic of clamps, cotton wadding and picks, then fire penetrating questions at him on the subject of world affairs. These queries require considerable cogitation although it is impossible to come up with any reply but a muffled mono-jumbo as an answer.

No matter what the manoeuvre, though, the dentist is still the patient's chair is difficult to distinguish. Such things begins the fearsome buzzing or the pliers hover overhead, even tropical fish would be of little avail.

Professionals Not Immoral

(Vancouver Sun)

Canada needs a new definition of the word amateur as applied to athletes. Chief Justice W. R. Scott of the Supreme Court sharply criticized the system by which a player is considered to be "paid" when he is given and added a few words about "expenses".

Perhaps most sports followers will think these remarks too harsh. They concern an 18-year-old goaltender who transferred from a Canadian junior hockey team to another in a different province. The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ordered him to go back to his old club instead of playing senior.

The lawyer for the first hockey club insisted that the goaltender but also maintained that clubs which invest considerable money in developing players are some protection. Other evidence showed that the young goaltender had been offered a job at $75 a week by the first club and $75 in another by the team in question.

There's nothing wrong with a young man accepting money for his skill with a hockey stick or football any more than for his skill with a carpenter's saw or his brain. But a player who sells his sporting skill ought to be the proud to admit it and admit it. There's nothing immoral about professionalism.

Either that or the definition of "amateur" ought to be revised. Why should amateur mean a player who doesn't work? A full-time at his sporting trade.

Fred Rose Takes Baths

(Montreal Gazette).

Fred Rose, released from prison two years ago after serving most of a six-year term for espionage, is now in Communist Czechoslovakia, "taking baths for health reasons." An electrician by trade, Rose apparently is finding work seeking business contacts in that country. While there he will take advantage of the "health centres and baths specially suited for the treatment of rheumatic cases."

There are also baths, health centres and electrical firms in most other countries, of course, especially in the non-Communist countries. Rose does not choose to find either health or business in those countries.

Is he planning to remain bathing the Iron Curtain, where his wife and daughter might join him at some later date, or will he return to Canada? It is difficult to say why Rose's reply to that.

If Rose were an average Canadian citizen investigating business opportunities in some foreign country, this would mean that Canadian business would have those opportunities shaped up. But Rose is not an average Canadian citizen. He is a spy who acted, for many years, as a leader in the Communist Party, who was convicted of obtaining secret files in Canada and giving them to the Soviet Union.

He has devoted his entire life to the Communist Party in 1927, at the age of 20, that it is Russia, not Canada, which commands his loyalty. He has given Russia all he has to give, and now he has changed his attitude.

Perhaps his attitude when he was released two years ago, he told reporters, "I did say I have nothing to say. I have nothing to say about any plans."

His plans may still be made by someone else, as they were made by Soviet spies in other countries. The "baths" in Czechoslovakia may not be for health for Canada as they are for Rose.

Are 228 Ships In Whale Hunt

(London, England Recorder)

Seventeen factory ships with 211 catcher boats will take part in the Antarctic whaling season, it is stated. Nine of the expeditions are Norwegian, three British, one South African, one Dutch, one Russian, and two Japanese. The "Olympic Challenger" expedition is sponsored by the Greek shipowner A. Onassis. It is not participating in the season. Norway is sending two more expeditions than last year, and Britain one fewer than in 1952. The couple of new entries between these countries is unchanged.

To preserve whale stocks, the combined catch this season is limited to 15,000 blue whale units or their equivalent, which is the same figure as last year. The whaling companies have also agreed that the number of catcher boats used by each expedition shall be limited. Expeditions are participating compared with last winter. The number of catcher boats will not exceed 211 compared with 232 last winter. The season will open in mid-December and will end on January 16.

The whale oil production of the Norwegian expeditions has been sold in advance for about 2,000,000 pounds 5 shillings a ton (three tons being reckoned as one factory ship's average). With an estimated production of about 160,000 tons, the Norwegian expeditions should earn about £1,000,000 (£2,800,000 U.S.) with each one operating an expedition in the Antarctic. The total catch is said to be around 1,000,000 pounds.

The nine Norwegian expeditions will employ slightly fewer men than and Norwegians will also work on the British and South Africa whaling ships.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

HAVE YOU HAD YOUR BIRD SEED TODAY?

Dr. Brady

Even some of you young'uns can remember the imported birdseed in the pretty package that virtually a wild or crude uncalled a t-é-d kind of seed similar to flaxseed, though superior to flaxseed as pot practice, tea or deodorant. It was called psyllium seed, and when prescribed by specialists of distinction it set the buttoning back a pretty penny. But that's the way Yankee Wisdoms like it.

In order to save time let me say that you may as well stop reading this and turn to something else if you are not in the habit of interfering with the automatic regulation of your body.

Automatic-self-governing, self-regulating. That's the way nearly all bodily functions are regulated, you know, or I should say by the Creator. But you don't know anything about physiology couldn't be expected to. Many such a slave to physic and/or enema.

Even after many years of mischievous interference — that is, taking physic of various kinds when it takes only a week or ten days to restore automatic regulation — if you stop the habit of interfering habit has sufficient intelligence to voluntarily refrain from interference, or if we can forcibly deprive him of the means of interfering.

This is so simple that most physic or enema users reject the idea as absurd. Perhaps we can't blame them, considering the kind of indoctrination to which they have been subjected.

The kind of indoctrination I mean is on the order of this paragraph quoted from a charlatan's half-page bid for customers:

"Many medical authorities state constipation may be the cause or forerunner of cancer, polio, premature gland failure, nervous collapse, psychiatric problems — in fact, practically all the ills of mankind."

The truth is that aside from discomfort and worry, constipation causes no health disturbance at all, as many thousands of persons testify.

You poor geeks know so much which isn't so about autointoxication and all that morbid bunk which was so profitably marketed by the late Dr. Kellogg of Battle Creek Sanitarium. One of the Sage's many books I quote this remarkable reversal:

"It is impossible to have constipation without intestinal autointoxication. The fact that the symptoms of toxemia" (poisons in the blood) "do not occur is no evidence that they are not present."

Ever hipped can a person get about imaginary "poisoning" of the system?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Everyone has the right to do the best he can for himself under our present economic system. Only when and paralyzing strikes tie up whole communities, many of us are inclined to grow a little impatient with the employers, who are contributing if not risking the capital, the machines, the premises and the carefully built organization for handling, distributing and selling the product, are not as free to do the best they can for themselves as are the workers. They are burdened with all the responsibility and material of industry. The worker has no such burdens, too, but they are more flexible.

However, now and again some employer gets as irate and indignant as any striker. In one of our thriving smaller Canadian cities, a manufacturer of machine tools has been caught within the gist couple of years between two pressures. He has had frequent disputes with labor, while at the same time he has encountered very stiffer competition from European-made machine tools. No labor leader could get any more indignant over social justice than he has. Within the past couple of months in Europe, and from what he has told me, in perfectly practical conclusions: Every man is free to do the best he can for himself. He has pitched on as an imperfecter of the European machines, has cut his prices to what is necessary to complete orders already taken by his staff, and the closing of his plant will coincide with the first shipment from Europe. His sales staff has already been called in from all across Canada and have been briefed on the new imported machines.

"By this act," said one of his employers, who is a strong union man," you have furthered the cause of socialism and communism. It should be nobody's right to close industries like this."

"You closed it, more than once," replied the manufacturer. "If and when communism comes, you won't be free to do the best you can for yourself. Then, of course, you are one of the leaders."

They part, on this uncertain ground.

The Caliph's Pipe Dream

(Minneapolis Tribune)

The makers of pipes did dream a fine dream, a dream of prosperity in three dimensions and glorious color, they dreamt of a high tariff wall against which a flood of briar pipes from Italy and France would break in vain, a tariff wall of foam.

Then did the great Caliph Eisenhower say unto the makers of pipes, "Behold, this is but a pipe dream."

Now it came to pass in the land that the makers of pipes were gone unto the Caliph crying aloud, "It profiteth us not to have pipes of foam unless there be as much as the makers of pipes from across the sea do manufacture at all every turn. Do thou raise a great tariff wall against them."

Then the Caliph did call for his wise men to advise him. And they did go after the fashion! Total sales of briar pipes have fallen off from nearly 21 million in 1948 to 14 million in 1953; annual import of such pipes from across the sea has increased only two millions. Therefore, it seems that the pipe makers of course must blame for their ill fortune, not the invasion from other lands, but the obstinacy of the people who do not wish to smoke pipes. Nevertheless, the Caliph Eisenhower did say to the makers of pipes, "Behold, but I will not raise the tariff; for that would not cure your sickness."

And the makers of cheese and the makers of textiles and the makers of automobiles and divers other products did wonder among themselves. "Do we think of the Caliph Eisenhower mean that we, too, must content ourselves without higher tariffs to stem the tide of cheap goods from across the seas?"

And well may they wonder.

'No Respecter of Persons'

CHAPTER 11.

By two days' journeying, with an overnight stop at an inn, they reached Caesarea before high noon. The harbor city in all its roaring traffic and commerce was a busy place that morning. People rushed through the narrow streets, and no one had time to stop and greet the returning ambassadors of Cornelius; none to stop and stare at Peter with his shepherd's lay staff and his tumbling beard, nor the brethren from Joppa following behind.

In its way the house of Cornelius was as crowded as the streets, having no doubt of Peter's answer, the centurion had invited relations and friends to come and hear about the wonderful new faith; of Christianity from its first purely human leader. Not one was too low or ailing to come. There were men and women in every nook and corner of the vaulted stone house of Cornelius.

His home might have been the model for the wise men's places in Jesus' parable of the two houses; the one whose door now opened to admit Peter, like the Church itself, was built upon a rock, and the winter rain could never wash it into the sea. It had large rooms with tall ceilings and was surrounded by thick walls; the arches of the roof rested on strong, massive pillars.

At the gate stood Cornelius in his rich red robe, hands clasped eagerly together as he smiled upon his approaching guest. The moment Peter's foot appeared inside the front yard, the centurion fell to his knees before Peter, "and worshipped him," as Luke puts it.

"Then with those strong boatman's arms, he seized Cornelius by the shoulders and lifted him to his feet."

Peter, taken by surprise, moved back a step and vigorously shook his head. Then, with those strong boatman's arms, he seized Cornelius by the shoulders and lifted him to his feet.

"Stand up!" he said, almost gruffly. "I myself also am a man."

Peter was tired and dusty from his long journey. He would have liked a bath and bed and lunch. But there was no time. The kinsmen and friends of Cornelius had kept a long vigil, waiting hopefully through the day and night. Peter agreed to speak to them at once.

And immediately he made his social and religious position clear to them. Jews, seeing him in the house of a Gentile, would say that he had no right to be there. Now Peter announced.

"You know how abominable it is for a man that is a Jew to keep company or come unto one of another nation; but God has shown me to call no man common or unclean."

A thrill ran through all the listeners, and with good reason. They had just heard a dogma that would end the separation and exclusiveness of races under the new dispensation. Without doubt, here was the most important utterance made by any man since Jesus had ascended into heaven.

From the dietary images of his dream and the call that followed instantly after, Peter had realized that the Old Testament distinctions between clean and unclean, in food and in race, no longer were valid. For two thousand years sincere followers of Christ, in the midst of general hypocrisy and ignorance, would try to remind the world that Christ wanted all men to love each other. At the beginning the Jews wanted to exclude the Gentiles; later, the Gentiles scorned and excluded the Jews. All that time there was needed is the spirit of brotherhood that Peter was now, in the house of Cornelius, trying to practise, in obedience to God's direction.

"Therefore I came unto you," Peter resumed, "I come without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for. I ask therefore of you what intent you have sent for me?"

Cornelius rose from his gilded chair and strode toward Peter, facing his relatives and friends. Mildly, carefully, he retold the story of the angel's appearance to him.

Then Peter said: "In very deed I perceive, that God is not a respecter of persons. But in every nation, he that feareth Him, and worketh justice, is acceptable to him."

And in brief, but eloquent words, he told them about Jesus Christ, who died, and rose again, Lord and Saviour.

As Peter's voice died away in the stillness, there came into the room, into the air they breathed, into every heart, present a mysterious and beautiful elation. It was the same feeling that had fallen upon all the saints as they had waited in the Upper Room at the feast of the Pentecost.

On this day in Caesarea, there were no visible cloven tongues of fire, but the gift of tongues, of speech in foreign languages and with the fervent peace known only to those in the presence of the Holy Ghost came to the men and women assembled in Cornelius' house.

The brethren who had accompanied Peter from Joppa were dumbfounded. They were good Hebrews, "of the circumcision," as Luke put it afterward. Tightlipped and full of doubt, they had consented with Peter; they had insisted on coming with their leader on this mad expedition, once at all approving. They had not yet grasped the revolutionary fact that Christianity was for everybody in the world.

Now they stood in profound and gasping wonder. Here before their eyes was God's own seal of approval on what Peter was doing.

Peter's voice roared out in the midst of the inspired group a challenge to his brethren's persistent orthodoxy.

"Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized who have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?"

And answering his own question, he baptized Cornelius, his kinfolk, and his friends.

Peter and the Jew and his circumcised brethren remained in the house of the Gentile Cornelius for many days.

He had told Cornelius that God was no respecter of persons, a favorite phrase, thereafter, with him. Now the Gentiles were in the Christian movement. The Holy Spirit had reached every man, woman and child in the house of Cornelius.

"And," says Luke, "the apostles and the brethren that were in Judaea heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God."

When Peter got to Jerusalem "they that were of the circumcision contended with him."

These other apostles — all of them, like Peter, good circumcised Jews — demanded and explanation. They went for him like a grand jury investigating

Woman Named To Be Mayor At Kentville

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Gladys M. Porter, who becomes mayor of this Annapolis valley town with the new year, is going to take a rest before "starting things cooking" at town hall.

Defeating Mayor Roy W. Rottler by 128 votes in Tuesday's civic election, the 58-year-old Mrs. Porter returned to the position she held as chief magistrate for two terms starting in 1946. She will be the only woman mayor in the Maritimes.

The campaign was quiet, unlike the hectic battle in 1950 when Mrs. Porter was defeated by Mr. Rottler, previously a member of her administration.

"Neither side made any promises but stood on their record," said Wyman Porter, husband of the mayor-elect who says he'll have to start calling himself "Mr. Gladys Porter" again. He is a newspaper man.

The vote Tuesday was 903 for Mrs. Porter against 775 for Mr. Rottler.

COUNCILLOR THREE YEARS

Mrs. Porter, who served as councillor for three years before winning the 1946 mayoralty contest, says she doesn't consider herself a "great leader" or "great executive."

"I don't want to be either. I do want to serve Kentville. I have tried to do that in every way possible."

Aside from all that, tall, gracious Mrs. Porter also manages to hold her own as a cook and dressmaker.

Her interest in municipal affairs comes from her family. Her father, the late Wallace Richardson, became the first mayor of Sydney and was re-elected six times. Her uncle was a member of the Nova Scotia legislature.

Senator Fallis Wants More Senate Women

OTTAWA (CP)—A veteran woman senator Wednesday said in the upper chamber that the government's appointment of three more women senators isn't the last word on that subject.

Senator Iva Fallis (PC—Ontario) a member of the Senate since 1935, said during the debate speech debate that she will continue her campaign for more women senators.

The Peterborough senator noted that the government raised the number of women in the 102-seat chamber to five from two with the appointment this year of Senators Amaranthe A. Wilson, Fodolin, Muriel McQueen Fergusson and Nancy Hodges. They joined her and Senator Cairine Wilson (L—Ontario)

Shown above with Rev. Sister Mary Lenore, M.A., principal of St. Michael's High School, are three winners of Catholic Women's League scholarships awarded by the Belleville school.

Standing in the front row with Rev. Sister Lenore is Bill Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson, Belleville, who won $75 for second highest aggregate in Grade 13 for 1953. He is attending St. Michael's College, Toronto.

In the back row are Helen Brunelle and Rosemary Ross. Miss Brunelle won $25 for highest standing in Grade 12. Miss Ross won $10 for highest standing in commercial training. She is presently a nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Peterborough.

Absent from the picture are: Pat Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kelly, Belleville, who won $100. for highest aggregate in Grade 13, and Ernest Poirer, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Poirer, who won $25 for third highest aggregate in Grade 13. Both boys are attending St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto.

a member of the Senate since 1930.

She said the appointments are a good beginning and a sign that there is an awakening to the value of women.

TWO DEFECTS

During recent years, she said, she called attention to two defects in the Senate. One was the small number of Opposition senators and the other the small number of women.

She said she regrets that circumstances had not permitted a remedy to the former. But a beginning had been made on the latter. The present Senate standing is 81 Liberals and eight Progressive Conservatives.

Senator Fallis urged that the government give some younger women, regardless of political affiliation, an opportunity to observe and train in international affairs.

She made the suggestion in referring to the activities of women in the United Nations. She said it seems only logical that women have equal representation at every international meeting.

Perhaps in the next few years, if her suggestion is followed, Canada will have her own Eleanor Roosevelt or Madame Pandit, she added.

CENTENARIAN DIES

SUTTON (CP) — Mrs. Rachel Critterden, 100, died Sunday night at her home here.

Delightful Christmas Festival Sponsored by Holy Rosary Parish

The spacious assembly room of Holy Rosary School was filled last evening with the glad trebles of children's voices, and to the strains of the piano they sang as they gathered in groups to chat or wending their way to the various booths so attractively arranged along the eastern and southern walls on this, the Christmas festival, sponsored by Holy Rosary Parish.

Welcoming the guests into the prettily decorated hall with its clusters of red and green, its evergreen branches at every window, and at the far end, the gleaming Christmas tree with its holiday trappings, were the gracious receptionists, Mrs. H. Brown, president of Holy Rosary Society; Mrs. A. Ryan, convener of the festival, and co-conveners, Mrs. D. Huffman.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

From the opening of the doors till the closing of the same, lovely Christmas carol music formed a most pleasing background, on which many being provided by Messrs. Carl Harris and Joel Trudeau on their guitars; by the string quartet of the Byrom family.

Santa Claus arrived amid shouts of joy by the little tots, and distributed the many gifts from the tree, adding zest and happiness by his over-brimming "joie de vivre" to all a "Merry Christmas."

The lunch room departed from the customary procedure by serving meals a la carte, from menu cards in the form of Christmas bells which occupied a prominent position on each snow white covered quartet table, with its centre piece of balsam and gleaming colored globes. A courteous waitress came and received the order, which was filled to perfection in the adjoining kitchen. Those who waited were: Mrs. A. Windsor, Mrs. D. Eves, Mrs. Wilmon, Mrs. Lorenzi, and Mrs. McQuaid. The convener was Mrs. W. Smith, assisted by Mrs. T. Hopkins and Mrs. T. Baker.

FISH POND.

A fish pond with many strange kind of fish kept the young fry employed, as did the game of darts with its wheel of fortune, and the dart board which lasted the un-erring aim of many a dart thrower, winning for the fortunate, a teddy bear, a dog, or any one of many stuffed animals and toys, as did the wheel of fortune. Convening this was the game keeper, Mrs. B. Thompson, assisted by Mrs. R. Mossman, Mrs. E. Thompson and Mrs. J. Robert.

At the country store with its adjacent post office, one might find a variety of every kind of pickle, relish, cheese, apple, pies, onions, canned goods, groceries, cereals, sugar, jelly powders, and creamettes. The storekeeper was Mrs. J. Hogan, assisted by clerks, Mrs. McHugh, Mrs. Farrell, and Mrs. O'Connor. Parcels were numerous at the post office, and redeemable by 25 cents per parcel.

RELIGIOUS ARTICLES.

One of the most interesting booths was that of the religious articles, under the conversership of Mrs. M. Walsh, assisted by Mrs. McGuigan and Mrs. J. O'Grady. This booth had an assortment of paper weights having a glass globe which housed the picture of some saint, the whole placed amid a foundation of Italian shells. When disturbed, a snow storm was set in motion, Christmas cards, candles, rosaries in white, green, and other pastel shades, cut-out books, lovely wall plaques depicting the Sacred Heart and the Virgin, rings, bracelets, lapel pins, sick call sets, little stand-up cards depicting the Christmas scenes, and a lovely arrangement of the Nativity with the kind, the shepherds, the Holy Family, the stable and the lambs, with one "ship of the desert" standing near by. These sets were so cut as to be arranged in a three-dimensional effect, and were very attractive.

At the candy booth with its little Christmas tree as a centre piece, there were delectable varieties of maple creams, chocolate fudge, chocolate nut loaves, chocolate cakes deep in chocolate frosting and dotted with whole walnut meats; cookies, tarts, relish and jellies, assisted by Mrs. L. Donovan and Mrs. P. Brennan.

FANCY WORK.

Among the fancy work display were cute stocking dolls with pom-pom decorated hats, coat, and pants; children's bereiz, in various shades, all knit; doll berets in white, brown, and beige; a lovely set of jersey pyjamas with pink paper weights having a glass globe which housed the picture of some saint, the whole placed amid a foundation of Italian shells. Convening there was Mrs. R. Loveless, assisted by Mrs. Tomaso, Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Bannon.

DELECTABLE FOODS.

The homecooking booth was conversed by Mrs. L. Haley, assisted by Mrs. J. Colligan, Mrs. F. Daley and Mrs. J. Eliard. Her sale were delectable lemon meringue pies, cocoanut cream pies, looking as if they would melt in the mouth; fragrant mince pies, pale and rich loaves, chocolate cakes deep in chocolate frosting and dotted with whole walnut meats; cookies, tarts, relish and jellies.

For those who must needs both eat and drink, a soft drink booth was provided and did a flourishing business under the capable oversight of Mrs. Tompsh, assisted by Mrs. J. Hogan.

Several articles were on view for draws, as a delightful little doll bassinet in white marquisette over pink, completed with quilts, and doll, doll's wardrobe, and comforter. Mrs. Rolston was in charge of this. The quilt was conversed by Mrs. H. Ryan.

LUCKY TICKETS.

Those holding the lucky tickets for the various draws were: for the quilt, Mrs. J. Morrell, Belleville; basinet, Joe [illegible], Park Street; cushion, Miss W. Lynch, Church [illegible]; No. 39, toy rabbit, Lawrence Baker, Foxboro; angel cake, Don Lee, North Park Street; Christmas crib, A. Rowe, Corbyville; chicken, Mrs. Frank Short, Moira Street; 1st door prize, hamper of apples, went to No. 120113; 2nd door prize, anti-freeze, to Mr. Ed Schreder, North James Street.

Mrs. J. Snider and Mrs. Braden acted as treasurers for the evening.

A charming festival, worthy of much commendation with appreciative thanks going to the conveners, to Mr. Don Lee for the attractive decorations, and to all who assisted in making it a success.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE ARE TOO MANY INTOLERANT PARENTS LIKE THESE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My parents have forbidden me to go out with the boy I love because he is a different nationality from ours, though of the same faith. He is 20 and I am 17.

I have tried to talk this over reasonably with them, but they won't listen. I have never done anything behind their backs, but I am afraid that, in order to go out with this boy, I will have to start doing this now.

I would appreciate your help very much.

J.A.H.

It is pretty hard to understand parents being as intolerant as this, but unfortunately many girls your age have the same problem.

No doubt parents of this kind would insist that they believe in a world of brotherhood and "charity for all." They don't start toward creating such a world, each one of us must set bravely to issue around us in a spirit of brotherhood and understanding. Just so long as any of us are intolerant and narrow minded toward anyone else, we are responsible for holding back the development of world peace.

Just how you are going to make your parents come more enlightened about this boy is hard to say. Possibly it might help if you did everything he could to make friends with them. If he spoke to them himself about taking you out, in a courteous, respectful way, it would seem hard to believe that they would not take the same attitude toward him. Anyway, I think it would be worth his while to try this, if he hasn't done so already.

I wonder if it would help if you spoke frankly to the boy's mother, or got him to do so, and the three of you tried to figure out some way the two mothers might become friends. Think this over and decide whether or not you feel there might be some merit in the suggestion.

I can hardly advise a girl of 17 to act contrary to her parents' expressed wishes, and I am afraid that if you really did start going out with this boy without their knowing it, it might eventually bring about a bad situation between you. Whatever you do, don't force the issue with them, but try and work it out gradually. If there is any chance at all that they may change their attitude, they will be much more likely to do it if you don't create a crisis.

ARE THEY TOO YOUNG TO MARRY? — YES!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Both the girl I want to marry and myself are 18 years old. We have known each other about six months and are sure we are in love.

I have a job and so has my girl, and we would like to get married now, but while her parents are willing, mine are not. They think I am too young.

However, they say that if you agree with me, they will give us their approval.

Harvey T.W.

I am sorry to disappoint you, but I'm afraid I agree with your parents.

I realize that boys and girls as young as you two have been known to marry and made a success of it, but I think this is only possible when they have known each other a great deal longer than six months. It takes far longer than half a year for any person to become thoroughly familiar with another person's character, habits, likes and dislikes, and two people who marry without having relatively long-time information about these things in each other, are all too likely, after marriage, to get some disconcerting surprises.

If you are wise, you will wait at least six months more at the minimum, for safety's sake.

GIVE A LIVELY LIFT TO YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD SIGNATURE

You can have fun making your signature-and-message on your Christmas cards sing a bit of Christmas song. Rather than just signing your name on your cards, it's so much more fun to make a personal send-along to your friends. All you need is a few high-hearted words. For example: "Hello, Hello! It's Christmas! And here come Peter and Polly to sing happily to you, "May your Christmas be merry and bright!" Or: "Here come the Clarks, joyously saluting you at Christmas time—Jack and Julie, and Tommy and Timmy, too!" Or: "Your friends here—The Thompsons Two—are singing Happy Christmas and Happy New Year greetings to our beloved friends there, Nancy and Philip." "UP COME, ALL" TO A CAROL-SINGING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My husband and I and our three children moved to this delightful and friendly town last June, and everyone has been so kind and hospitable to us. We love to sing Christmas carols, and we've been thinking that as a return gesture for some of the hospitality given us we'd give a general invitation to us friends and neighbors to come to our house on the afternoon before Christmas to sing Christmas carols, as was our custom "back home" If you approve of this idea, please suggest how we should write the invitations, to include also the children of the family. Also have you any suggestions for the singing-party?

Flora M.

It would be a charming idea, I think, very festive and friendly, to write the Carol-Singing invitations on your Christmas cards. For example, on the inside page opposite the message, write: "The Five Martins—Fred and Flora, and Florence and Marie and Freddie —joyfully invite you and your children to come to our house on Thursday, December 24th, from four to six o'clock, to sing Christmas carols with us, and to have new Christmas cookies. Please let us

Production-Line Cookies

By Mary Moore

You amaze me. I've told you before that I have yet to ask for an elusive recipe without getting a response. For the Miss Ellis-beth Cake recipe I have received dozens. All pretty much the same cake too. Some of the more venturesome and knowing cooks have changed it a little to suit their individual tastes. Thanks all of you.

Some of you are such experienced—cooks I wonder if you shouldn't be writing this column, then I could write you letters. Would I ever ask you some puzzlers!

But we must get down to serious cookie making this week because we're in December and they could be made and put away for the Christmas rush.

THREE-WAY REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

Refrigerator cookie dough keeps well. The unbaked, unsliced dough should be chilled, wrapped, overnight, and will keep several weeks. This virtue of it induced me to try a big batch with three variations: Walnut Roll cookies; Pinwheels; Chocolate Almond Slices.

If you like to do your work production-line style to save time and conserve fuel, this will appeal to you. One of our readers is making refrigerator dough with fancy variations and giving it as Christmas gifts with instructions to leave wrapped and keep cold until sliced and baked. You could use this recipe for that idea, wrapping rolls in wax paper, then in different shades of cellophane, attaching storing and baking instructions.

TRIPLE-RICH REFRIGERATOR COOKIE DOUGH

Four and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoons baking soda, 2 1-4 teaspoons salt, 1 1-2 cups soft shortening (part butter), 3 cups granulated sugar (or 1 1-2 cups each granulated sugar and packed brown sugar), 3 eggs, 3 teaspoons vanilla (or 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract). Sift together the flour, soda and salt. Mix together until creamy and smooth the shortening, sugar, eggs and extracts. Gradually add the flour mixture and mix well.

For variations divide dough into three equal parts.

Variation 1: Shape one-third of this dough into 3-inch rolls and roll them in 1 cup finely chopped walnuts. Wrap tightly in double thickness of wax paper, twist ends and store in refrigerator to chill.

Variation 2: Add 1-2 or 1 cup chopped blanched almonds to another one-third of the dough, work them in well, then shape into 2-inch rolls, wrap tightly in double thickness of wax paper, twist ends and store in refrigerator to chill.

Variation 3: Add 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, to another one-third of the dough, work it in carefully until dough is smooth. Turn out on sheet of wax paper, and chill dough to make it hard enough to roll. (The addition of the chocolate makes this dough soft.) Then when it is cold roll it in finely chopped almonds when 2-inch rolls are made, and wrap them in double wax paper and chill.

FINISHERIES

This is still another variation and requires plain white dough and plain chocolate dough, so you could leave some of your dough untreated with nuts. Between sheet of wax paper roll a piece each of light and dark dough 1-4 inch thick. Peel off the top sheet of wax paper from each and turn chocolate circle of dough over white circle of dough, and peel off the wax paper, which was on the bottom and which is now on the top. Roll up like a jelly roll, with the help of the one remaining sheet of wax paper. Roll tightly. Wrap. Chill.

To Bake—Heat oven to 375 deg. Fahr. Slice chilled dough with very sharp knife to 1-8 or 1-4 inch thickness, slicing off only what you need. Place on ungreased cookie sheet, and bake about 10 minutes.

If you make this triple batch you will have about 15 dozen 2-inch cookies in all.

If you plan to mail these cookies as gifts, wrap each one in a separate square of wax paper before packing them, and further cushion them in the box, with crushed wax paper.

I will give you more Christmas cookies next week.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

LEG EXERCISES

Feminine gams come in an infinite variety, and jocky is the girl whose legs are trim and slender, of graceful contour. It means nothing to her if fashion should decree skirts to the knees.

There are thick and thin ones, and short ones, those that are bowed and those that are knock-kneed. What is to be done about them? Both thick legs and thin ones can be normalized, claim the leg-ular specialists whose modeling and molding salons are crowded with women who seek figure-changes.

The heavyweight, of course, must join the ranks of the calorie counters. The featherweights must make up on food elements that build adipose tissue. How legs can be straightened in early childhood if proper shoes are worn. But the adult with knock-knees just has to suffer the anguish that comes to any beauty seeker who can't quite make the goal.

Strangely enough, the same exercises that reduce fatted calves will fill out legs that need curves where curves should be. The purpose is to strengthen the muscles. Fat cells cannot live on resilient muscles. And thin legs require muscle development.

If you have a notion that a little leg improvement wouldn't do you any harm and might do you a lot of good mentally as well as physically, try this exercise:

Stand tall, chest up, head on the level, feet ten inches apart. Extend your hands out at the sides straight from the shoulders, palms down. Lower the torso slowly until the buttocks rest on the heels. No fair touching the floor with your fingers. Up on the toes slowly. Down again, up again, half a dozen times. Relax and repeat.

Large calves can be reduced by massage, but the going is slow. If you start on that kind of a campaign, take careful measurements of knees, calves and ankles, and don't expect results for some time. Adipose tissue was a long time forming and you can't expect to send it into a state of dissolution in a hurry.

Anoint your hands with a heavy cream, pick up the flesh and roll it between fingers and thumb. Use heavy pressure. After a few minute pinching and thumping treatment, have an ice friction. Do that every day.

Algoma Woman Presented With Wolf Killer's Badge

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Algoma's top woman wolf-killer is eagerly awaiting the day she can add another notch to her rifle butt.

Mrs. Roy Beharriel, trim blonde whose appearance belies her age (she's a grandmother) is looking for wolf No. 5.

"I'm just now beginning to get out and enjoy life," says the sharp-shooting farmer's wife.

Known throughout this northern Ontario countryside for her prowess in killing wolves, she doesn't go hunting for them. They seem to come to her, with fatal results.

WOLF KILLER BADGE

The Canadian Tourist Association presented her with a wolf killer's badge following her third wolf kill Oct. 12. She is one of the few women so honored. Oct. 29 she got her fourth wolf in a nearby field as it attempted to prey on the Beharriel sheep flock.

"I never shot anything bigger than groundhogs and squirrels before these wolves," Mrs. Beharriel admits.

The former Agnes Draper, born at Iron Bridge, first learned to shoot as a girl of 10. At that time her father had a maple sugar bush where the children shot squirrels while he was making sugar.

Mrs. Beharriel shot her first wolf back in March of 1951. She spotted the sneaking predator through a dense fog behind the farmhouse and stopped him cold less than 100 yards from the barn.

Her second wolf, shot in March of 1953, gave her a "real scare." Her young adopted son Wayne called out that he could not shoo the big grey "dog" off the road. She ran out to find a wolf on the road with the child. Grabbing her 30-30 rifle she fatled it with one shot, and dragged the supposed dead animal into the house. The wolf, revived by the warm kitchen, began growling and snapping. In the present hubbub, Mrs. Beharriel grabbed a hockey stick which was handy and clubbed it until it stopped moving.

THREAT TO FLOCKS

The Beharriels live on a 160-acre farm near Dead lake. They have about 70 sheep on their flock. With a thoroughbred ewe costing $75 three wolves must be shot at the present bounty of $5 in order to pay for the loss of one ewe.

Hungry wolves have played havoc with their flock.

"The few I have killed still do not cover our losses to these hungry, prying bears," Mrs. Beharriel said.

What does Mr. Beharriel think about his wife's hunting? "All this publicity is bunk," he exclaims. But his proud grin and a twinkle in his eye show he really thinks his wife is a remarkable person.

With housekeeping and farm chores, Mrs. Beharriel doesn't find much spare time. An enthusiastic equestrienne in her younger days, she says she's less has let wolf-killing take its place.

The Beharriels have a 22-year-old married son beside Wayne. Mrs. Beharriel has also provided a home for two orphaned girls.

ATTRACT BUSINESS

LONDON (CP)—A pretty girl with a confident air robs the dentist's chair of its terror—that's the theory behind a special course now turning out 24 qualified dental assistants a year here. For many years dentists have been training their own assistants.

Woman Wolf-Killer

Mrs. Roy Beharriel, a Blind River, Ont. grandmother, is known throughout the Algoma district of northern Ontario for her prowess in killing wolves. She is after her fifth wolf but she doesn't have to go far to hunt for them. They are all shot on the Beharriels' 160-acre farm. The Beharriels have a young adopted son and a 22-year-old married son. — (CP Photo.)

OVER PASSING YEAR

In these, the last days of the year,
Time hurries on in swiftest flight,
Oh! precious seem the days, and dear,
As silently they slip from sight;
Some days that lured us on to tread
The unseen ways with courage true,
Without a thought of fear or dread,
Life's untried pathway to pursue.

And now the year has nearly run
Its course, and as the days go by,
We think of what we might have done,
What kindly deeds were ours to try;
O, stay thy steps, departing days,
And take not what we hold so dear—
The gladsome memories of thy ways,
The joys thou brought, departing year.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—With the closing days of the year, we are inclined to review the past. While it is practical to recall pleasant memories, and so enjoy roses in December, it is not advisable to dwell with regret and remorse on the past. Evidence or this is seen in the words of many prominent writers. One has said, "Our vices we can frame a ladder, if we will but tread beneath our feet, each deed of shame." And quoting Longfellow:

"Destin not the irrevocable past
As wholly wasted, wholly vain,
If rising on its wrecks at last
To something nobler we attain."

Mr. Glendon Sanders, of Toronto, spent the week-end at his home in Wellington.

The Board of Trade held an auction sale of donated articles in the arena with Mr. George Baildey, auctioneer. A good sum was realized.

Mr. Thomas Boyle suffered a severe stroke on Thursday and is now in Picton hospital. Mrs. Boyle is with her daughter Mrs. Martin or Cherry Valley and visits Mr. Boyle daily.

Advent Sunday was observed in the United Church, on Sunday, Rev. Mr. Foulter beginning a series of sermons on the subject. A male quartet favored with a fine vocal selection. A printed program added much to the interest. The program concluded with the following poem, a sermon in itself:

"Have you any old grudge you'd like to pay,
Any wrong laid up from a bygone day?
Gather them all now and lay them away
When Christmas comes.
Hard thoughts are heavy to carry, my friend,
And life is short from beginning to end;
Be kind to yourself, leave nothing to mend,
When Christmas comes."

MRS. RUFUS HOWE

Mrs. Nancy Howe, widow of Rufus Howe, passed away in Belgina on November 18. A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot Nethery, she was a resident for many years of Prince Edward County before removing to the west. Mrs. Howe possessed a bright and happy disposition and made many friends by whom she will be kindly remembered.

Surviving is a son, Mr. Lance Howe, of Regina, and two grandsons, also a brother, Mr. William Nethery, of Picton. Arriving in Wellington on Saturday, the body of the deceased rested at the Ainsworth funeral Home, the funeral cortege proceeding to Christ Church, Hillier, where the service was conducted by Rev. C. P. Heaven, B.D. Interment was made in Hillier cemetery.

The bearers were four nephews Col. W. A. Davern, Frank Townsend, Lance Davern and Lance Nethery, Q.C., Fred Morton and W. S. Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Howe of Regina, and two grandsons were present at the obsequies, guests of Col. W. A. and Mrs. Davern.

Miss Gladys Lumb with Miss Mary Lumb, Mrs. R. B. Anderson and Miss Marjorie Blakely motored to Picton, Sunday afternoon and visited Mr. T. Boyle, Mrs. Philip McDonald and Mrs. Etelle Phillips, patients in the Picton hospital.

PRESENTATIONS

At the bazaar and supper under the auspices of the Guild of St. Alban's Church, Ameliasburg, on the evening of Nov. 19, Mrs. Archie Cannons and Mrs. Fred Russell, former residents, were kindly honored by gifts from the community and Guild. Mrs. Cannons was presented with a leather hassock and a fine table lamp, and Mrs. Russell with a silver sugar set and tray from the Guild. Mrs. Russell was presented with a table lamp and hassock from the community. Both ladies expressed their sincere thanks. Mrs. Cannons is removing to Trenton while Mrs. Russell purchased a home, and Mrs. Russell now resides in Wellington.

WOMAN'S ASSOCIATION

The members of the W.A. of Wellington United Church held the November meeting in the church schoolroom Tuesday evening with the president, Mrs. Harold Nash, in charge. Mrs. F. Hayden gave an inspiring message on Thanksgiving, and a fitting talk with views by Miss Viola Valleau, was much enjoyed by all present. It was a fine review of her holiday trip to the Pacific coast.

LILIAN LEVERIDGE

In the passing of Lilian Leveridge, Canada has lost one of her finest poets. Born in England, she seemed to bring something of the freshness of the air of the homeland to the cool atmosphere of Canada. Here are poems of tender sympathy and pathos, joyous, hopeful verses that brighten the daily outlook.

Her poem "Over the Hills of Home" has girdled the globe. It was a pleasure to meet Miss Leveridge and a delight to read her poems.

Laddie! Laddie! Laddie! Somewhere in France you sleep,

DOGS WITH WINGS

Tracker dogs are being used in Malaya to round up bandits. In this scene one of the dogs is shown being hauled into a navy helicopter after completing a task in the jungle.

—Central Press Canadian

Somewhere 'neath allen flowers, and allen winds that weep,
Bravely you marched to battle,
nobly your life laid down,
You unto death were faithful
laddie, yours is the victor's crown.

Laddie! Laddie! Laddie! How dim is the sunshine grown
As mother and I together, speak softly in tender tone
And the lips that quiver and falter for ever a single theme
As we list for your dear, last whirrle, laddie, over the hills of dream.

Laddie, beloved laddie! How soon would we cease to weep
Could we glance through the golden gateway, whose keys the angels keep!
But love, our love that is deathless, can follow you where you roam
Over the hills of God, laddie, the beautiful hills of Home.

—Lilian Leveridge.

Govt. Takes First Step to Beat London's Smogs

LONDON (CP)—The government Wednesday took its first step to beat London's killer smogs with the publication of a series of recommendations made in an official report.

But the report warned that it may take years to control the menace completely, if it can be done at all.

Housing Minister Harold MacMillan told the House of Commons that London's disastrous five-day fog last December killed off some 4,000 persons. Government experts earlier blamed a series of choking fogs last winter for deaths of 12,000 Britons.

MacMillan was presenting the long-awaited report of anti-smog measures drawn up by a special government committee.

Radio warnings would be given in advance of expected major fogs, he said, and old and sick people should not venture out of doors unless it is necessary. Then they should wear a mask, mask or tie a scarf across the nose and mouth.

MacMillan said the committee blamed the domestic consumer for most of Britain's smog hazards. Householders in large towns should burn only coke or other smokeless fuels during consistent fogs," it said.

The committee also recommended that cars should not be driven into fogged-up areas; that fires should be allowed to die out at night; that no incinerators or boilers be lit during fog danger times.

To Build New Town

HAMILTON (CP)—An insurance company announced plans to build a new town between here and Toronto at a cost of about $25,000,000.

R. H. Gale, manager of H. W. Ford Insurance Agency, said work will start next February on 700 homes. Some 2,000 more will follow.

The Ford Motor Company has asked the government-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to approve $50 of the homes as defence housing, he said.

The project will cover some 830 acres of farm land.

INDEPENDENT STATE

Vatican City in Rome has its own coinage, post office, radio and railway station.

Will Expand Yards

SARNIA (CP)—The Canadian National Railways will spend $4,000,000 in the next three years to expand the railway's marshalling yard at Sarnia, it was announced Wednesday.

The yard will be moved from its present location near the depot to the east side of the Plank road. At the end of three years the yard will be 2½ tracks wide and more than a mile long.

Medicine Man To Perform Tricks At Opening

VICTORIA (CP)—Medicine men will perform tricks that date back into antiquity and are described by anthropologists as the weirdest in the world at an Indian potlatch opening a new Indian house here.

The three-day ceremony will be given by Mungo Martin starting on Jan. 14 and 16, to officially open the Kwakiutl Indian house he built with his son David in the B. C. government's Thunderbird Park here.

The tricks will be performed before some 300 Indian guests before a huge bonfire in the house.

Mr. Martin said people will be made to apparently disappear into the flames and reappear at will; objects to appear to float through the air and strange voices to come from the fire.

Another trick will be the apparent driving of a stone wedge through a man's head.

WHAT NEXT!

LONDON (CP)—Customers in hundreds of British public houses will be wished a "merry Christmas" by a gruff voice speaking from table mats. The mats are fitted with a tape which "talks" when pulled through a slit in the device.

INDEPENDENT DRIVER

LONDON (CP)—Miss driver Rosalind Collier was fined £10 for dangerous driving. Angry at another driver, he had set off on a non-stop dash that scared his passengers and left waiting customers standing.

HOT AND COLD

The planet Mercury always presents the same side to the sun, but the one side is always hot and the other cold.

Tourist Trade Experts Want More Money Spent

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's tourist trade experts want the federal government to spend more money attracting foreign tourists.

The experts made the recommendation in a resolution passed Wednesday at the final session of a three-day federal-provincial tourist conference.

However, there appears to be little hope of any substantial increase next year in federal expenditures on the promotion of Canada's tourist industry.

Resources Minister Lesage said Monday that heavy defence expenditures will prevent any major increase at present. His deputy, R. Gordon Robertson, also prospects for more money are not good.

The resolution said the government travel bureau's efforts to attract tourists are "excellent," especially in the United States. But it said cost of advertising and other promotional media has risen sharply and competition for the American travel dollar is on the increase.

The government was urged to consider factors in the preparation of the travel bureau's estimates for the 1954-55 fiscal year.

The bureau's appropriation for the 1953-54 fiscal year amounted to $1,526,450, two-thirds of which was earmarked for advertising and publicity, mostly in the U.S.

BUSINESS RENT

LONDON (CP)—Writer of a letter to the Evening Standard suggested that Britain, the Commonwealth and the cause of peace would benefit "if a Comet or other British airplane staffed with a really British Father Christmas" made a seasonal visit around the globe to distribute gifts "made in Britain."

Some Progress Made to Settle Miners' Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Some progress was reported Wednesday at a meeting between Premier Frost and top union officials attempting to settle the strike of some 9,000 northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec gold miners.

The third in the latest series of meetings is scheduled for Friday morning between representatives of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and union officials.

Premier Frost could not be reached for comment following the session but C. H. Millard, Canadian director of United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said "some progress is being made."

He declined elaboration. The parties are deadlocked on the issues of wage increases and union dues checkoff.

Hollinger, which employs 1,500 members of the union, has been strike-bound since Sept. 24. It is the largest of the mines in the seven gold mining areas closed by strikes of Ontario. Settling the Hollinger dispute could pave the way for agreement at the other mines.

BBC Comedy Not So Funny For Phone Owner

LONDON (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corporation was making apologies today, but didn't know to whom.

The BBC was caught in the toils of a wrong-number mix-up as a result of a broadcast by comedy star Jack Buchanan Wednesday night, when he pretended to be trying to telephone a police station and was constantly getting a wrong number.

Listeners all over London started calling the station in the middle of the broadcast on their own phones, and to the BBC's embarrassment it turned out to be a real problem.

The gentleman who answered was in no mood for humor. His blood pressure went up and up as the number calls increased.

Finally the phone was reported out of order. There was some suspicion that he had torn it out of the wall.

Ore Shipping Year Biggest In History

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 1953 Iron ore shipping season is over, and the Great Lakes fleet has marked up its biggest movement ever in one of the shortest periods in modern marine history.

Ending their runs early by choice, rather than at the demand of the ice which later will clog upper lake ports, the shippers have hauled a total of 95,844,472 tons of ore, topping by nearly 4,400,000 tons the previous record set in 1942.

Last year's ore movement was 84,910,788 tons, but an eight-week steel strike during the summer of 1952 cut shipping operations considerably.

Jackson, president-elect of the organization. — Central Press Canadian.

FRANKFORD

Stockdale United Church Holds Fine Bazaar

FRANKFORD — The annual fall bazaar and tea of the W.A. of Stockdale United Church was held recently in the church hall and was a splendid success.

Mrs. Bruce Jandrew gave the address of welcome, which was warmly responded to by Mrs. Cecil Frost of the Anglican church.

Mrs. Percy Hubble took the tickets at the door.

Before the tea, a program under the chairmanship of Rev. Mr. Clarke was given. Those who participated were from Frankford W.A.; Frankford Guild; Carmel W.A.; Wooler W.A.; Batawa W.A.; Zion W.A. and Tabernacle W.A.

The program opened with "Blest Be The Tie That Binds." Mr. Kern, of Batawa, led in singing of hymns; Mrs. Perry, of Tabernacle, sang a solo "Alone." Mrs. Kern of Batawa, gave a piano solo and Mrs. Art Duncan, of Batawa, sang "Tis Rye is on the Sparrow."

Mrs. Albert Tufell, of Zion, gave a reading and Mr. Morganson sang two hymns. Mrs. Lee Grills and Mrs. Hagerman of Carmel, favored with readings. The Frankford quartet sang three numbers.

Mr. Clarke closed this part of the meeting with "Onward Christian Soldiers."

SPEAKING

There was a home baking table which was colorful with different colored cakes and assorted pies, also home produce. This table was under the convenorship of Mrs. Georgina Sharp and Mrs. Lee Flood.

Convenors of the fancy work table were Mrs. Vera Pitcher, Mrs. Ina Parks, Mrs. M. Maybee and Mrs. Bruce Jandrew, which consisted of useful assorted aprons, knitting and crocheting.

A miscellaneous table proved successful with Mrs. Jim Bates as convener.

The tea tables were lovely with their gaily colored tea cloths and serviettes. The head table which had a beautiful linen tablecloth, was decorated with useful 'mums. Mrs. Jim Bates and Mrs. Percy Waye poured tea.

The meeting was closed with a special word of praise from Mrs. Percy Waye when she expressed her thanks to all those who helped in making this bazaar and tea such a success.

Problems Left Unsettled After Long Meeting

CALT (CP)—Three major problems concerning operation of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League next year were left unsettled in a meeting of officials of the clubs which lasted until early today.

The club operators will meet again Dec. 18 to continue discussion.

It was suggested the four top teams be allowed to import four professionals from the United States and the other four clubs be allowed six.

Representatives of the St. Catharines club asked that they be permitted nine imports for next year only.

TWO DECISIONS MADE

It also was suggested the salary limit be set at $18,500 as it was last year. Another suggestion was that it be cut to $12,000.

Abolition of the 10-cent assessment on each adult ticket was approved. A negotiation list of 10 players per team also will be permitted.

John Harris, Oshawa, said his club lost $4,500 last year. Don Gallinger, Kitchener, said baseball was hard business and advised teams to get out of the game if they couldn't make it pay.

Longshoremen Protest Charge Leaders Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Extra police were ordered today to keep watch during a threatened walkout on San Francisco civic centre by Harry Bridges' longshoremen protesting hearings by the House of Representatives un-American activities committee at city hall.

The protest, labelled a "stop work" meeting by Bridges' own Local 10 of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, could tie up 40 ships. It was called Wednesday night at a meeting attended by fewer than 600 of the local's 5,500 members after several Bridges aides were called former Communists by a witness before the committee Tuesday.

Representative Harold Veale (Rep., Ill.), committee chairman, denied ILWU charges that his committee is here to attack it. He stated: "We will continue our hearings against communism and subversion wherever we find it."

Police Chief Michael Gaffey ordered police to prevent mass entries into city hall and to keep pickets from blocking entrances.

MARKED AS COMMUNISTS

Louis Rosser, 47, of Los Angeles, who said he was a disfellowshed ex-Red, testified earlier that those ILWU officers were Communists: Louis Goldblatt, Bridges' treasurer; and Bridges' No. 2 lieutenant; Charles (Chili) Duarte, president of Local 6; Richard Lyndon, secretary - treasurer of Local 6; Jack Olson, former Local 6 publicity chief; and Paul Heide, Local 6 business agent.

At Wednesday's hearings, Dickson Hill, an Oakland, Calif., radio store owner who said he and his wife worked underground for the FBI for four years, said they had made the Emeryville, Calif., Westinghouse Electric plant one of their prime infiltration targets.

John W. Mass, San Francisco City College professor, was suspended for "unprofessional conduct" and violation of state law after he refused to testify on Red attempts to infiltrate teaching.

Roebuck Devises Quick Clean-Up Of Divorce Cases

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate heard a hint Wednesday from the new chairman of its divorce committee that he intends to speed up hearing divorces petitions from Newfoundland. They should be finished early this session.

Senator A. W. Roebuck (L—Ontario) reported that the 17-member divorce committee, by splitting into sub-committees, has heard and recommened that Parliament approved 81 divorces.

He said a total of 300—perhaps 350—petitions are expected before the Dec. 23 deadline.

Senator Roebuck said he plans to divide the committee into as many sub-committees as possible to hear evidence.

"If my ambition is realized, we will clear up what would otherwise be a bugbear at a relatively early date," he added.

Publishers Turn Down Union Proposal Cutting Demands

NEW YORK (AP) — Publishers have turned down a photo-engravers' union proposal cutting demands by about half, a federal mediator announced, and the city's newspaper strike today went into its sixth day.

Prior to the newspapers' action, the union had rejected a proposal by the publishers for arbitration of four deadlocked issues, including wages and hours. Negotiations were recessed shortly before midnight and were to be resumed this afternoon.

"No progress was made," federal mediator Frank H. Brown said.

Brown said representatives of the nine strike-bound newspapers turned down a proposal by Local 6 of the International Photo-Engravers Union (AFL) for a package increase of $7.50 a week. He added that the newspapers, represented by the Publishers Association of New York city, made no new proposal.

William Mapel, president of the publishers group, told reporters: "We've made our offer." By this he meant a package of $5.75, including benefits, which the publishers had offered before the strike of 600 engravers started last Saturday. Average pay then was $120 a week for day work and $130 for nights, although the publishers say overtime boosted some wages to $10,000 a year.

ARBITRATION REJECTED

Last Friday, when a total of 12 issues were in dispute, the engravers voted to reject a publisher proposal for arbitration. The second union rejection of arbitration was voted as a membership meeting Tuesday, which also halted negotiations.

The strike has left New Yorkers without a major city newspaper for the first time in publishing history. Total circulation of the nine 15,500,000 has been cut off and about 20,000 newspaper employees are idle.

The Herald Tribune suspended publication Monday night in sympathy with the other publishers. It was not faferced because its engraving is done by a commercial company.

Lack of newspaper advertising has caused department store Christmas shopping to fall off.

PAY STOPPED

Pay was stopped Wednesday night for most of the 20,000-odd employees of the six newspapers whose action in honoring the engravers' picket lines forced the publications.

The Herald Tribune, which has been keeping its employees going through the motions of putting editions together, is continuing regular pay.

The publishers issued a statement that non-striking employees most of whom belong to unions, have been dropped from the payroll until they return to work.

Papers affected by the strike are the Times, Mirror, Daily News, morning newspapers, and the Journal-American, World Telegram and Sun and the Post, evening papers.

Committee Trip Not Endorsed By Department

TORONTO (CP)—W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, Wednesday threatened to quit the legislature's reform committee when he learned the provincial secretary's office had turned thumbs down on an all-expense trip for committee members to the United States.

"They'll probably tell us next what hotels we are to stay at and what we can eat," Grummett said. "When civil servants become as sticky as that it does not serve us on the committee any longer."

The committee had planned to visit a penal reception centre at Elmira, N.Y., and a penal institution in California.

The provincial secretary's office said that under Ontario statutes committee members making such a trip would be entitled only to railway fare and berths. Hotel bills, meals and other expense would have to be met out of the $20-a-day per of the members.

Mr. Grummett's action left the U.S. trip in doubt.

Three Canadian Entries in Show Are Disqualified

CHICAGO (CP)—Three Canadian entries in the grain show held in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition here have been disqualified for being too old.

Harry Ryan, show superintendent, announced Wednesday night that samples submitted by R. P. Robbins, Shamavon, Sask., Albert Kessell, Rosetown, Sask., and the William Lansdell Brothers farm, Brampton, Ont., had been rejected. William Ogilvie, exposition manager, said a number of grain and hay samples are rejected each year for the same reason.

ANGRY DENIAL

In Shamavon, Robbins, a registered seed grower for 30 years who was named wheat king in 1950, angrily denied that he had submitted an old sample of wheat.

"There's a mistake, that's all I can make of it, and I can prove it," he said.

He said his sample had taken first prize at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and "if it was good enough for them it is good enough for Chicago." He added that the Chicago exposition had rejected his sample of durum last year on the same ground.

William Lansdell said in Brampton that his peas had not ripened evenly this year and he took some of last year's crop to fill out the required amount for his entry. Kessel was not available for comment.

ALDERMAN

WILLIAM ARGUE

MEMBER OF COUNCIL 1950-53

HAS SUPPORTED AND WILL SUPPORT:

1. Reduced speed limit in strictly residential areas.
2. System of city management.
3. Referendum on ward system of elections.
4. Evening council meetings.

TO THE VOTERS of the City of Belleville:

I wish to take this opportunity to inform you that I am a candidate for the office of alderman and to solicit your support to ensure my election.

As most of you are aware I was born in Belleville and have lived here all my 44 years. Many of you will recall that I served as one of your aldermen during the difficult years of 1933, '34, '35, '36. I can therefore lay claim to some experience and knowledge of municipal affairs.

I am a substantial taxpayer and like many of you not too happy about our high taxes. It is hardly necessary for me to tell you that the burden of municipal taxation has reached a point where all of us should do something about it.

The present debt of the City of Belleville is very close to $5,000,000 and in my humble opinion has reached a dangerously high level. I regret to inform you that of twelve cities in Ontario of comparable population the City of Belleville has the highest debt per capita.

Our present tax rate will not encourage people to build new homes nor will new industry locate in a city where the tax rate is too high.

Without doubt your money has been wasted through mismanagement, examples of which are the construction and destruction of the former "House of Sanitation" on the Market Square and similar wanton waste in Parkwood Heights, etc.

I have the time and the desire to serve you.

MARMORA

Marmora, Lake Twp. Acclaims Full Council

MARMORA — Perhaps the shortest nomination meeting on record for Marmora and Lake Township was that held in the town hall on Friday afternoon with clerk Thomas J. Bateman presiding. About two dozen persons heard the acclamation of Reeve Irvin McCoy and his council of the present year. No other names were brought forward, so Reeve McCoy, Councillors Arthur Sheridan, Gordon Jones and George Fox will carry on their respective offices, after four years of continuous service and Councillor John Wilkes will commence his ninth term.

Re-elected as School Area Trustees for a two-year term were Wilbert Jones, Ray Bonier and Percy Carman.

The meeting following the close of nominations lasted nineteen minutes. All seemed to take the cue from Reeve McCoy who chose brevity for the occasion. His remarks concerned his happiness that the rate had been cut from 63 to 34 mills, when a cut to 40 had been the best hoped for. The county rate had been lowered a mill and a half. Touching on roads, he said they did not get as much grant from the government as expected. The equalization, as all over the province, had been cut ten per cent, whereas they applied for $18,000 they only received $16,000.

Arthur Sheridan told of the smoothness with which the year's deliberations had gone on.

Gordon Jones was surprised at the low attendance but considered it an indication that the ratepayers had been satisfied with the councillors' discharge of duties and with the reeve.

John Wilkes said a happy note was struck in the lowering of the rate and George Fox, likewise, expressed his pleasure at what had been accomplished. Wilbert Jones, school trustee, said the board had tried to keep expenses down and briefly mentioned the difficulty there was in obtaining qualified teachers for rural areas. Concerning the refurnishing of Tiffin School for its re-opening, he said they had been fortunate in that they had been able to procure seats through the offices of the Toronto Board of Education.

CONGRATULATES COUNCIL

Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Marmora village, congratulated the reeve and council for their acclamation and for the favorable bank balance. Reeve McCoy spoke further. He showed how rock obtained from the Bethlehem Steel Mine had meant 40c a yard being knocked off its cost from other sources. Also to advantage had been the usage of the power grader from Bancroft. He also told the meeting that he had conferred with the county engineer with regard to having a hard surface laid on the road from the Cordova turn near Lorne Gray's residence to the village.

Garden City Becomes Snowland

This Christmas postcard scene was taken in St. Catharines, Ont., more famous for grapes and cherry blossoms than for snow. Only eight miles away the fields were bare, the storm having travelled in a straight line along the Niagara peninsula. A few hours after this photo was taken, the sun shone brightly removing the snow in record time. — Central Press Canadian.

Sunday Swimming By Duke's Critic Under Attack

GODMANCHESTER, England (AP)—A Methodist leader who condemned the Sabbath polo playing of the Duke of Edinburgh was himself named today as a Sunday swimmer.

Rev. Peter Disney, Church of England vicar here, said Dr. Donald Soper, president of the Methodist conference, "even goes to chapel with a swim-suit under his Sunday clothes."

Noting in his parish magazine that Dr. Soper has strongly criticized the duke for hanging a polo ball around on Sundays, the vicar declared:

CHIDES DR. SOPER

"No, no, Dr. Soper, you cannot have it both ways. If it's wrong for the Duke of Edinburgh, then it's wrong for the president of the Methodist conference."

Dr. Soper admitted to reporters that, "When my wife and I are on holiday we go to chapel wearing swim-suits under our Sunday best and hope for a short sermon."

But his swimming and the sporting duke's activities are far different in their effect on church-going, Dr. Soper contended.

"When the Duke of Edinburgh plays polo it becomes a public event."

Igor Gouzenko Must Decide Whether to Answer Spy Questioners from The U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP will put this question to Igor Gouzenko: Do you want to be questioned by United States spy investigators?

On Gouzenko's reply will hinge the probable end to the Gouzenko controversy or a secret meeting between him and the United States Senate internal security sub-committee.

The Canadian government last week sat down three conditions on which Gouzenko could be questioned by Senator William Jenner's hunters of Communists-in-government.

These were: If Gouzenko agreed, if the meeting were held in secret in Canada, and if Canada approved any Gouzenko testimony which the U.S. investigators wanted to make public.

Jenner at first balked at the third condition but announced acceptance of Canada's terms Wednesday.

Last month, Gouzenko started the wrangle by saying he would be willing to meet with committee members, claiming he possessed some worthwhile advice on spy-catching but would not appear.

CHANGES MIND

This week, however, he apparently changed his mind. He was reported by two newspapers as saying he doesn't want to risk his anonymity and RCMP protection by talking with sub-committee representatives.

Gouzenko, former Russian cipher clerk here, bared operations of a Soviet espionage network in Canada in 1945. All the information he supplied then, and in subsequent interviews with the RCMP, was passed to the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation. Jenner has said he wants to question Gouzenko anyway.

The Canadian government has made no bones about its belief any meeting would be fruitless. It said that although the Senate subcommittee which questioned Gouzenko in secret at Ottawa in 1949 unearthed no new information.

One of the major factors in the Canadian government's stipulation that any Gouzenko testimony be kept secret unless Canada rules otherwise is this:

Gouzenko in his testimony might refer to Canadians but against whom no charges could be proven. If this information were made public, these Canadians would suffer although there would be insufficient evidence to convict them or even place charges against them.

The Canadian government is being extremely careful to prevent leakage of any information which might lead to a "witch-hunt."

'Too Much Pessimism in Ont.' Cheese Makers Told at Banquet

"If we are to make a success of the future we must forget the word 'security' and seek out and venture," said Rev. W. E. Young, chaplain and lecturer, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, in an address to the closing meeting of the 28th annual Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association at the Hotel Quinte Wednesday evening.

"There is too much pessimism in Ontario," he said. "The spirit of fear among the old country people is caught by the younger people and it is dangerous. Not many young people will accept a challenge. This is not how this country was built. We must forget security and start taking chances," he said.

Mr. Young continued by stating that the 95¢ question in the world today is "When do we eat?"

"We live in a hungry world," he said. "One fifth of the population is starving, and one third of the world's population is under nourished. Only we in America have enough to eat."

TRADE CHANNELS DAMNED

"It is ridiculous that the chemicals of trade are damned", he said, "when one half of the world fears starvation and the other half fears a surplus. The hungry man is a menace to the peace and well-being of the world. He is the man who accepts anything including Communism."

"With the growth in world population there is a point somewhere in the future where surpluses will be unknown. The problem will be that of supplying enough food."

Mr. Young noted that the cheese industry should look forward with confidence as Ontario expands at the rate of 14,000 people per month.

"Sooner than you think your factories will have to produce more," he said.

"But the most important element in your industry, as in all others, is the human element," he said. "I don't care how much equipment technique you have, the human element is more important."

FAITH IS NEEDED.

"And what we need for the future is faith," he said. "We need a knowledge of the unseen power to enable us to sustain us when all else gives way. You can't see, sense, buy or sell a spiritual value." Mr. Young said, "but you can't get along without it."

Mr. Young also urged his listeners to have enthusiasm in all their tasks.

"Enthusiasm is the result of faith in God, in—ourselves, and in our fellow man, in our job and in the future of our industry and our country."

Mr. Young also urged his audience to co-operate with one another and other men in other branches of the dairy industry because, within co-operation is all lost, and with co-operation all can be saved.

Mr. Young was introduced by D. H. Bullock, O.A.C., and the thanks of the assembly was expressed by J. M. Bain.

HOPES FOR GOOD YEAR.

Mr. Bain as chairman of the evening session, urged delegates never to lose their faith in the cheese industry. He expressed the hope that their faith had been renewed at the Eastern Ontario Cheese Show and at the convention, and expressed the hope that 1954 would prove to be a better and more prosperous year for the dairy industry.

Mr. Bain also paid tribute to the late A. L. Irwin, who played all of his life in the interests of the industry.

Robert Gillam, government grader at Belleville, reviewed the highlights of the career of the late Mr. Irwin and presented the late A. L. Irwin Memorial Trophy to the highest average scorer in Central Ontario cheese making. The outstanding plant management, to Howard Andrews of Marlbank.

The trophy, purchased by the executive and directors of the late James Irwin, will be awarded annually to perpetuate the honored memory of Mr. Irwin.

E. W. Henderson introduced T. J. Aikens, Belleville cheese maker, of the highest scoring cheese shown at the British Empire Show and winner of four of the five specials.

Mr. Aicken, in winning top honors at the CNE, the Royal Winter Fair, the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, the Western Fair, London, and the British Empire Cheese Show for the better part of the last 10 years, was lauded for his outstanding contribution to the cheese industry.

During the evening Mrs. Harrison, Plainfield, accompanied by James Cornell, Trenton, rendered several popular airs including a haunting refrain "More Cheese."

Christmas Party Held for Kiddies

The Better Relations Committee of Zellers, along with the staff, are busy with the Children's Aid Society last evening to entertain 70 kiddies at a Christmas party held at the I.O.O.F. hall.

Games were played, with everyone enjoying themselves while a lunch was made ready in the kitchen. Oranges, all sorts of cookies, chocolate milk, sandwiches, cake and ice cream made many a little boy and girl very happy, each child received a bag of candy. The table was given a bit of Christmas joy by the glowing spirit of lighted red candles.

Mrs. Marion Groze played the piano while other members of the committee sang favorite Christmas carols, starting inside the theatre lit by several strings of colored lights.

The best thrill of all was saved until the end when Mr. Howard Walsh, manager of the store, dressed in a red suit and wearing a long white beard, marched into the room. A gaily wrapped present was given to each child amidst cries of joy.

In all it was a highly successful evening if you consider the enjoyment and pleasure brought to the children and that's what counts.

ALLIED OFFICERS MEET

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—Twenty-four senior American and British military officers began a joint meeting here today to discuss the continued use of joint facilities in the Mediterranean." The meeting, being held behind closed doors, is expected to last several days.

Speaker Objects To CBC Powers At Kiwanis Club

In an address at the Kiwanis club on Tuesday, T. James Allard executive vice-president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters again criticized the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The speaker objected to the CBC powers of being both competitor and enforcing agent of the laws of broadcasting in Canada. He pointed out that the CBC with a chain of 70 is connected in or near major centres of population and with these stations it has a complete monopoly by its own regulation, on network or chain broadcasting.

Mr. Allard declared that the CBC not only writes and interprets but also enforces the regulations under which the 140 odd private community broadcasting stations must operate.

The speaker described the formalities which must be attended to before a licence to broadcast may be obtained. He said an application must be submitted to the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The CBC according to the speaker, has always maintained that it has a great right to cancel these licences, but merely recommends to the appropriate minister.

Mr. Allard said, "There is however, no case that we can discover where the minister instead of the board of governors of the CBC's recommendation."

The speaker also said that while a station is operating the CBC can tell it what program content to present. He said that the station receives no part of the money from the acquiring of skill.

A report was given by John Ryan on the criticisms of the adjudicator at the Peterborough festival when a "Fumed Oak" was presented. It was felt the criticism was constructive. A guild member who was present at the festival said she had never heard an adjudicator more layish in his praise of a production. The club congratulated Mr. Ryan, his assistants and the cast for their success on this occasion.

A one-act play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," by G. B. Shaw and under the direction of Stu Robb was presented. The play is where a young man becomes enamoured of an older married woman, with somewhat unusual consequences, is full of typical Shaw humor. The young man was played by John Luscombe; the wife by Pearl Miro and the philosophical husband, by Jos Mackey. The stage decorations were excellent and suitable for the period.

Miss Merry who criticized the play, while making some helpful suggestions, stated that she was interested in the production as a whole that she was unaware of any major faults.

Five new members joined since the last regular meeting. Present membership is 112.

'Y' Will Be Busy Place On Saturday

Five main events have been scheduled for next Saturday's program of physical activities at the local YMCA.

The regular four boys' gym and swimming classes will meet as usual, between 9 a.m. and 12 p.m.

The boys' games room, supervised and supervised by the Y's Men's Club, is expected to be a busy place with activities from 9 a.m. and noon. Boys may use the various table games, before and after their gym and swim period.

At 2 p.m., the junior boys' basketball house league, with six teams participating, takes on the gym at 4 p.m.

Between 4 – 6 p.m., the local Y leaders will be hosts to about twenty intermediate and Senior "Y" leaders from Kingston and Peterborough, for a demonstration of exercises on various pieces of apparatus on which they will compete at their next eastern region leaders' conference, to be held in Belleville next April. The apparatus will include parallel bars, long horse, tumbling, springboard and box, rings and horizontal bar.

At 7.30 p.m., an all "Y" basketball team meets, what may be called a thriller, a strong team of the Peterborough YMCA.

It is estimated that over 200 boys, youth and young men will use the "Y" facilities in the above organized activities on Saturday.

The public is cordially invited to see any or all of these activities.

U.S. Firm May Buy Canadian Aluminium

TORONTO (CP)—The Financial Post, in a newspaper story from Montreal, says "another important deal in the United States for Canadian aluminum is shaping up.

"I would mean," says the Post story, "a considerable expansion in Aluminum Company of Canada facilites at Kitimat, B. C.

"Completion of the deal may depend on the United States government calling a halt to plans for further expansion of U. S. primary aluminum production facilities.

"Ollie Industries, Inc., of East Alton, Ill., now building a $5,000,000 (fabricating plant and planning a split-layer mill, is reported negotiating with Aluminium, Ltd., parent company of Aluminum Company of Canada, for $4,000 metric tons a year on a long-term basis—some reports say 21 years, starting in 1955."

Primary Aim Of Theatre Guild Acquiring Skill

The regular meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild was held in Queen Victoria School Wednesday evening.

A financial statement was read by the treasurer. He showed that the net profit from the play "Blithe Spirit" were not as good as from the previous production. This was attributed to the fact fewer seats were sold. He pointed out that great concern was not warranged since the primary aim of the Guild was not money making but the acquiring of skill.

A report was given by John Ryan on the criticisms of the adjudicator at the Peterborough festival when a "Fumed Oak" was presented. It was felt the criticism was constructive. A guild member who was present at the festival said she had never heard an adjudicator more layish in his praise of a production. The club congratulated Mr. Ryan, his assistants and the cast for their success on this occasion.

A one-act play, "How He Lied to Her Husband," by G. B. Shaw and under the direction of Stu Robb was presented. The play is where a young man becomes enamoured of an older married woman, with somewhat unusual consequences, is full of typical Shaw humor. The young man was played by John Luscombe; the wife by Pearl Miro and the philosophical husband, by Jos Mackey. The stage decorations were excellent and suitable for the period.

Miss Merry who criticized the play, while making some helpful suggestions, stated that she was interested in the production as a whole that she was unaware of any major faults.

Five new members joined since the last regular meeting. Present membership is 112.

News of New Uranium Find Told in Letter

News of a new uranium find in the Great Slave Lake area was received by C. E. Stephens, St. Ola, in a letter from his son, Cpl. E. Stephens who is prospecting in the Northwest Territories.

The elder Mr. Stephens gives the details of his son's discovery in the following letter to the Ontario Intelligencer.

"I have just received word from my son, J. E. Stephens, in Yellowknife, that he made another uranium find in the Great Slave Lake area. This one is very close to the shore of the lake and so will be easy to operate and also handy to the lake for transportation."

"He and his party staked 22 claims and already there is a rush to the district. Prospectors are leaving for this locality every day. At the date of writing (Nov. 30th) over 200 claims had been staked out with more being staked every day."

"He is going out with his big drilling outfit to another uranium claim to do some test drilling. This claim he staked earlier in the summer. He does not expect much activity on the last new claims until the snow goes in the spring, when they have a better chance to test out the ground."

Nobody to Blame For Disaster To Hydro Plants

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Karl Terzaghi of Boston, internationally-known expert on soil mechanics, has absolved the Hydro-Electric Power Commission from any blame in the Whatshan hydro-electric plant disaster.

His report was read Tuesday to the royal commission under Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne.

He dealt with geological conditions at Lower Arrow lake where two giant mudslides last August wrecked $2,800,000 worth of dams.

Dr. Terzaghi was critical of an eastern Canadian firm of consulting engineers, H. G. Acres and Company of Niagara Falls, Ont. He added:

"Even the individual firm of consultants concerned did not," he said, "because most firms believe they are capable of solving all engineering problems on any given job."

He absolved chief engineer A. W. Lash and his staff of the commission from blame.

"All the facts responsible for the slides were evident from the surface report," Dr. Terzaghi said, adding that Acres and Company failed to interpret the data correctly or to realize their implications.

Woodlot Contest Won by Sidney Twp. Farmers

Douglas and Griffin Ketcheson, 5th concession Sidney township, were the winners of first prize in the Hastings County woodlot competition this year.

The presentation of the first prize, a cheque for $50, was presented to Douglas Ketcheson at county council Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Reeve Leslie McLaren, chairman of the county agricultural committee. Second prize winner of $30 was Alex. T. Moore of Delior, and third prize winner of $20 went to Peter Casey, of Tweed.

Judges for the competition were David Mawson, of Stenburgh, Arthur Robinson, Actinolite and Kenneth Bird, Sidney township.

Zone Forester W. E. Edwards, of Napanee, briefly described the prize winning Ketcheson woodlot which he said was the result of careful cutting by five generations of the Ketcheson family. Total cutting per woodlot is 50 acres and includes a sugar bush in which 1,400 buckets can be hung for the syrup making season.

"This bush is one of the outstanding examples of the value of a well-managed woodlot," Mr. Edwards said. "It has always been protected from grazing, so that new trees may be naturally to replace those cut. Protection of this woodlot will be continued through five generations have shown that the farm woodlot is a profitable if long term investment."

Don Bell, field man for the Moira River Conservation Authority, said that the authority had had a good year and looked forward to greater success in the future.

RoK Red Converts Refuse To Be Wooed Home; Allied Persuaders Draw Total Blank

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A second group of 30 South Koreans today unanimously chose life under the Communists, giving Allied persuaders a total blank for two days of efforts to woo home balky war prisoners.

There was no violence, but many prisoners were more talkative than the 30 who listened passively Wednesday to South Korean explainers, then chose communism.

The United Nations command said 26 more South Koreans of 328 who refused repatriation will be interviewed Friday. There was no indication when the 22 Americans and one Briton will be called.

Negotiators working on plans for a Korean peace conference, meanwhile, met for 90 hours and apparently made no progress.

United Nations Army Arthur H. Dean warned the Reds that their insistence on seating Russia as a neutral might end the conference "indefinitely and perhaps forever."

The Communists rejected Dean's plan for setting up a peace conference as a "trick" and especially his compromise proposal that Russia attend as a third part with full voting rights rather than as a Communist belligerent or a neutral.

RING, CHANT SLOGANS

Some South Korean prisoners interviewed today marched into the persuasion tent singing Communist songs and chanting slogans.

But the interviews went so smoothly that a top Polish major serving as a repatriation commission observer began nodding; and finally went to sleep. He awoke with a start when the session ended.

There was one dramatic scene when a young prisoner walked into the tent and recognized an exfriend. He is a friend from a South Korean army unit.

The explainer and the prisoner talked for two hours, much of the time discussing the prisoner's family in South Korea. Finally the POW said he had nothing against the Communist personally, but he could not return to South Korea as long was President Syngman Rhee remains in power."

The wages which the strikers want formed by 15 per cent now stand at between £1 1s to £2 a day—in some cases somewhat above the British national average.

Would Probe Pollution

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal senator from Ottawa Wednesday urged the government to inquire into pollution in the Ottawa river which is threatening the national capital plan.

Nehru Says India Will Not Keep Troops in Korea

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today told a questioner in Parliament that Indian government "has no intention of keeping our forces in Korea indefinitely."

Nehru said the question of covering a Korean political conference "as early as possible" might be raised in the United Nations General Assembly "if this is considered necessary."

It was possible it would be raised in the remaining week of the present session "but there is a chance an emergency session might be held later to any event."

MAY PROPOSE RECESS

The United States and her UN allies in Korea have been reported anxious to prevent further assembly debate on Korea now on grounds it might interfere with attempts at Panmunjon by U.S. envoy Arthur Dean to arrange a political conference.

India has been reported preparing to propose that the assembly recess rather than adjourn Dec. 8 so it can reconvene quickly if Korean developments warrant.

Nehru also reiterated today his stand that the future of unrepatriated prisoners should be considered afresh by the UN and Communist commands if the political conference is not held.

'The Word for The World', Theme At St. Paul's Community Service

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

RAWDON—On Sunday evening the annual community service of the Bible Society of Stirling and district branch was held in St. Paul's United Church with a large number in attendance from the various churches.

St. Paul's was decorated with baskets of 'mums in honor of their centennial year and the pastor, the Rev. A. E. Baker U.E., warmly welcomed the guests.

Mrs. A. E. Baker A.R.C.T., contributed three organ selections by Spinney and Staggall, giving as a postlude, "Wrestling." A fall choir, composed of members of St. Paul's, St. John's, and St. Andrew's, sang Martin Luther's and Thomas Carlyle's famous hymn founded on one of the special psalms "A Safe Stronghold."

A mixed composite choir of juniors delighted with "Holy Bible, Book Divine."

THE WORD

The Rev. H. Egerton Young B.A., district secretary, read his message on the theme, "The Word for the World."

The speaker first expressed appreciation on behalf of the Board of the Upper Canada Bible Society for all the effort, planning and co-operation in order to make the meeting at St. Paul's possible.

He took his audience to Africa in the days of slave trade and graphically pictured the bartering of human lives. Occasionally some were redeemed or bought with cash and when Christianity came to Africa, they coined the phrase, "God has taken our heads out of that collar."

He minutely explained all the various problems of translating the Bible into another language. This is a special job for the missionary as he has to study the history and customs of the land before he can translate the Bible into phrases that live. By persistent effort and devotion the gospel of Jesus Christ has been translated into 816 languages and dialects.

WORD GIVES FREEDOM

Mr. Young queried if it was necessary to suffer loss of freedom before the Bible can be appreciated, and said, "It is a proven fact that wherever the Bible is being freely circulated there is freedom for the people; freedom from want, fear and sin.

Just recently the famous Dr. Laubach said "This business of teaching the world to read is a dangerous thing unless these people are provided with something worthwhile to read."

The Bible Society is trying to make the written word available so that the people will discover the "Living Word" for themselves. Today there are nearly 1,000 tribes of people who have as yet no portion of the Scriptures in their own tongue."

The 1st Sunday in Lent in 1954, will be the 150th anniversary of the British and Foreign Bible Society and great plans are being made to have more people in Canada possess the Bible and also to share its message with others.

The society was founded in 1804 for the sole purpose of encouraging a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment.

NEW FILM

A new film was shown picturing the Bible in other countries and explaining how a great many of the copies are read and studied. Christian believers in Japan were instrumental in winning others to read the gospel. This film stressed the work of the foreign Bible work.

Mr. Young gave a graphic illustration of how a missionary and his wife in Korea, hid a valuable manuscript in a pickle jar in order that the Communists would not destroy it. While our boys were busy with war many of our missionaries were sharing the great task of Bible translation. Last year over 5,000 Bibles were given to the refugees.

The auxiliary has 540 branches and Stirling is one of them. The speaker asked for prayers as well as financial gifts to assist in this great work.

Mr. Arnold Wannamaker, of Grace Chapel, Stirling, is president and he presided and read the Bible lesson found in Isaiah 55. He also gave a brief address on the theme "For the Love of Christ Constraineth Us."

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, offered the special prayer. Almost $100 was gathered by Messrs. George Carlisle, Roy Tucker, Bert Hanna and Claude Tucker and a great many donations will come in later this week.

The hymns included "O Word of God Incarnate," The Rev. H. C. Secker, rector of St. John's Church of England, gave the closing prayer and benediction.

The Rev. R. B. Bonsteel of Rawdon circuit, attended a portion of the service.

OFFICERS FOR 1954

An executive meeting followed and the officers for 1954 will be, president, Mr. Arnold Wannamaker, Grace Chapel; secretary, Mrs. Mabel Williams, St. Andrew's Presbyterian; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Vance, St. John's Church of England; executive members, Rev. A. E. Baker, Messrs. George Carlisle and Harold Hagerman, St. Paul's United.

The resignation of Mrs. Norah Wescott, who has served as treasurer for many years, was received with sincere regret that her health made it impossible to carry on this special duty. A motion of appreciation of her long and faithful service was recorded.

Mr. H. K. Young was officially thanked for his message and film.

Bootleg Mining Sign of Stress In Cape Breton

GLACE BAY, N. S. (CP)—Bootleg mining, for generations a yard-stick of strife and prosperity in the Cape Breton coal fields, is on the upswing.

This time it appears to be a mark of unemployment and uncertainty in the ailing coal industry. About 1,000 miners are out of work in this area.

Two men were fined $50 each last week for illegal mining and three more were scheduled to appear in court on similar charges today. Streets have been cordoned by the operations and in one case a tunnel came close to undermining a parish building.

COUNCIL WARNS MINERS

Glace Bay town council, noting that bootleg pits have opened up in a big way, has served notice that it will tear down any cases involving property damage.

The illegal miners, old as the 230-year-old industry, have been an institution of the miners economic position for years.

When times are hard the pits flourish. In good times they peter out.

Most openings of bootleg pits are through floors of barns or outbuildings.

The operation is usually small but some families in the past have been known to make a fair living at it. The coal is usually sold for about $4 a ton less than the regular market price.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG — There were only fair congregations at Christ Church and the United Church, Thomasburg, on Sunday after noon and evening. Do people forget that every Sunday should be a day of thanksgiving, not just Thanksgiving Day?

The United Church Sunday School was well attended, 56 scholars being present. Preparations are being made by the staff for their Christmas entertainment on Friday evening, December 18th.

Several people from Thomasburg attended the funeral of the late Elsie H. Angus in Tweed on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Angus (nee Elsie H. Sayers), our time resident of Tweed, was well known to Thomasburg people, having taught school here for two years. Sympathy is extended to the sorrowing family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morton, Sr., entertained members of their family on Sunday in honor of their daughter's, Mrs. C. Dafoe, birthday.

Thomasburg welcomes Miss Shirley Mayers as she takes up residence at the school grounds in her new camp trailer.

Miss Isabel Beatty, who spent last week a guest of Mrs. R. B. Richardson, went on Sunday to the home of her niece, Mrs. G. Bailey, where she will continue to recuperate from her recent illness.

Mrs. Russell Maracle, of Desmond, and Mrs. Blanche Bafford, of Napanee, were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of their nephew-in-law neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jones and Mr. and Mrs. A. McTaggart, of Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Finch, of Springbrook, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin.

INQUEST ORDERED

HUNTSVILLE (CP)—Kenneth S. Secord, 23, was found dead Tuesday in his car parked on a side road south of here. Police said the car engine had been running several hours. An inquest will be held.

TRISTINI SHOW THEY WANT WORK

An offer of free meals dispersed a throng of about 1,000 jobless Tristini gathered in front of an Allied Military government labor office. A spokesman told the demonstrators they more than 1,000 free meals will be served daily at a communal charity mess hall. Some of the workers claimed they were discharged recently by U.S. occupation forces. Here two of the jobless demonstrators are shown climbing a light pole to attach one of the "We Want Work" posters.

Young Members British Families Working Hard

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP) — Young members of prominent British families have rolled up their sleeves at the Aluminum Company of Canada's huge development here and seem to thrive on the hard work.

Miles Gladwyn Jebb, 23, now a $1.50-an-hour laborer, was educated at Eton and Oxford and is the son of Sir Gladwyn Jebb, Britain's new ambassador to France. He was a lieutenant in the Welsh Guards.

Miles is trying to earn enough to pay for a tour of North America at the dollar allowance granted by the British government is insufficient. He has shared a tent with several backwoods boys, washed his own clothes, lined up at the washboard and dug ditches.

At first he was placed in the carpenters' shop. He insisted he did not want to be pampered. Next day he was digging ditches.

When Adrian Allenby, grandson of Field Marshal Lord Allenby, arrived he was put to sweeping out the carpenters' shop. But it meant no overtime, so the Cambridge University man asked for and got outside labor. He, too, seeks an American tour.

Kenneth Symington, son of England's army, took off happily on his tour after working on the laundry truck.

There are other British public school boys digging ditches just as earnestly as they would play a tense cricket match. Once a week they put on collar and tie and dine together in the mess hall, but so far none has worn white tie and tails.

Cheaper to Take Than Leave Behind

When Cpl. Johnnie Armstrong of Kingston, Ont., was assigned to Germany along with the rest of Canada's new brigade, the First Canadian Infantry, he had to do some arithmetic to decide if he could take his car with him. His figures told him it was cheaper to take his car than leave it behind, so here at Soest, Germany, he is the envy of his fellows. — Central Press Canadian.

Christmas Food Will Be Cheaper This Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians may eat more heartily at Christmas dinner tables this year. Some foods will be cheaper.

Cranberries, the usual tangy trimming, will be at least 10 cents a pound cheaper than last year across the country, a Canadian Press survey shows. Dried fruits will be cheaper in Alberta, and mixed nuts, some candies, raisins and dates will be cheaper in Quebec province.

The price of turkeys, main dish in many homes, was uncertain this far ahead of Christmas but supplies were ample. Turkeys now are selling at about 59 cents a pound at Toronto.

In some sections Christmas foods were moving slower than usual at this time of year. Health officials blamed unseasonably mild weather for keeping people's minds on other things than Christmas.

Old - fashioned plum puddings ranged in price from the fanciest, in cloth bags with red bow ribbons, at $1.25 a pound, down to 40-50 cents a pound in tins.

Supplies of cranberries are greater than last year. Prices are about 30 cents a pound, compared with 1952's 40 cents.

Other Christmas goodies were in ample supply across the country at prices about the same as last year.

Trotsky Slayer Still Silent

Mornard Today

Mornard After Killing Trotsky

On Dec. 20 Jacques Mornard will have the right to ask for his release from prison in Mexico City. Police say they will not grant him parole and their reason is that they would have to deport him. But to prison? Mornard is the convicted slayer of Leo Trotsky, founder of Russia's Red Army. He plunged an Alpine axe into Trotsky's brain 13 years ago, then cried out: "They made me do it." Later he said he killed Trotsky in self-defence and since then has refused to answer any questions as to his reason for the slaying, other than that he thought Trotsky was a traitor. He was sentenced to 20 years in prison and will probably not be released until 1960. Mornard, as he calls himself, has been identified by fingerprints as Ramon Hernandez, a Spanish Communist, and very little is known of him. When Trotsky was dying, he cried: "Let him live; he must talk." Thirteen years have passed, but Mornard has not talked. — Central Press Canadian Photos.)

Eden's Nephew Seeking Seat In By-Election

LONDON (AP)—London's Paddington North area voted today in a sharply-contested parliamentary by-election, the 22nd since the Conservatives were returned to power in 1951.

The Conservative candidate, John Eden, is the handsome 25-year-old nephew of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Enthusiastic but inexperienced, Eden is fighting Benjamin Theaker Parkin, a 47-year-old former Labor member of Parliament.

The by-election was caused by the resignation of Labor member W. J. Field.

LABOR SINCE 1945

Before the war, Paddington was a "safe" Conservative area, but in the 1945 general election it was caught in the Labor landslide and has remained Labor since.

Result of the election will not be declared until around midnight.

A third contender in the Paddington fight is a Socialist Trotskyite bus driver William Walters, who is not conceded any chance for election.

Norwegian Ship Officers Strike

OSLO (AP)—Norwegian ship officers went on strike today in a walkout which may tie up most of Norway's merchant navy, backbone of its economy.

The deck officers complain they are not making as much as the men in the engine room.

Only a few ships were involved in the initial walkout but shipping officials estimated that at least 400 vessels would be idle within a month, barring drastic government action.

The mates demand a 12- to 22-per-cent pay increase. A first engineer now earns an average of $2,852 a year, a first mate $2,388.

The ship owners say a pay increase would put the mates' pay out of line with the general wage level in the fleet.

Big Squeeze

The biggest squeeze in Canada is being exerted at the side of the country's first steel-making plant near New Glasgow, N.S., where this monster press as high as a four-storey building is being tested on a 60-ton ingot of alloy steel in the Trenton Steel Works plant. The red-hot ingot, eight feet long and five feet in diameter was shipped from Montreal and after being reheated in a furnace was moved under the press and 7,000 tons of pressure applied. The press succeeded in the ingot like a loaf of bread, improving the physical quality of the steel and bringing it to specified shape. — (CP Photo.)

Mayor Jackson Of Hamilton Is Re-Elected

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson of Hamilton was re-elected Wednesday in a resounding victory over his opponent, Hugh M. McIntyre, who had campaigned on a retrenchment program with criticism of the rates of spending and taxes.

Mayor Jackson, a bread company operator, polled a higher vote than last year although officials said the total vote was considerably lighter than last year's 44 per cent of the possible ballot.

With the count all but complete, the vote was: Jackson, 30,162; McIntyre, 17,061.

Elsewhere on the Ontario election front, Percy England received an acclamation as mayor of Owen Sound. Mayors of towns elected by acclamation were Sid Arbour, Tecumseh; Lawson Cross, Perth, and Albert Hoole, Massey.

In the Hamilton voting, Jack McDonald, 28, polled the heaviest vote for board of control to become vice-mayor. He will serve his second term on the board. Other controllers re-elected were Leslie Parker, Sam Baggs and Sam Lawrence.

Voters turned down a $250,000 grant to Hamilton colleges and approved a two-year term for council.

Queen and Duke Near Equator

ABOARD H. M. S. GOTHIC (AP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, voyaging towards the Fiji islands, are expected to cross the equator at mid-day, ship's time.

Friday and many watch the traditional ceremony of King Neptune being received on the escorting cruiser, HMS Sheffield.

No ceremony is expected to be held aboard the Gothic as most of those on board have already crossed the line. The Queen did so in HMS Vanguard on her South African trip in 1947.

At noon Wednesday, the Gothic was 190 miles north of the Galapagos Islands, which straddle the equator.

At one time, there was excitement as the Queen and the duke spotted two blue sharks swimming off the port quarter about a quarter of a mile away.

We Are Stronger Than Our Fears Says Pearson

TORONTO (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday night that fear inspired the Western world to gird its strength against a potential aggressor but fear is no permanent basis for political or economic co-operation.

Addressing the Certified Public Accountants Association of Ontario, he said the fear of communism is a genuine one in some quarters but there are those who exploit this genuine fear for their own interests and ambitions.

"We must have a belief in our own society, in our own governments, in our own institutions. We must refuse to believe that the few traitors in our midst can destroy our free institutions. They cannot. We are stronger than our fears, stronger than those who exploit these fears."

In an apparent reference to the recent controversy about a request for Igor Gouzenko, whose disclosures broke a Russian-sponsored spy ring in Canada, to appear before a United States Communist-hunting sub-committee, Mr. Pearson said:

"In these matters, both governments must show in the future, grant itself."

Too Many Santas Spoil a Boy's Illusion!

Now, here is a difficult position for a boy, to be in. Even if he believes in Santa Claus, can he believes in two dozen Santa Clauses? Young Salvatore Stabela, in New York, was confused — but only for a moment. He decided that all these whiskered gents were only helpers to the one and only Santa Kringle and said he would write a letter direct to Santa's North Pole. No red tape was going to stop his Christmas list from reaching the top man.—Central Press Canadian.

MARMORA

Fire Destroys Taxi Booth At Intersection

MARMORA — Some excitement was caused here the intersection of Rs. 7 and No. 14 Highways in Marmora shortly before four o'clock on Tuesday as the taxi booth of Jim's Taxi, operated by Jim Heath, took fire, to become a total loss. The fire apparently was caused by the explosion of the oil stove within the building. The attendant at the time was Doug Phillips, and he sounded the alarm. The fire engine was soon operating but the flames had gained too great a control for the readily extinguished. They also ignited the rubber on the hose at the gas pumps in front of the booth. To the rear of the booth is the northern frontage of Johnson and Killian's new service station and here the heat from the blaze cracked three large plate glass windows. Efforts of the volunteer fire brigade kept the fire from spreading. It is not known whether those suffering loss were covered by insurance.

Looking rough in the kilt is Sir Adrian Dunbar, the 60-year-old odd-jobs man from Fairmont, Md., who inherited a title and a Scottish estate. His estate, including a castle, is somewhat in need of repair, so Sir Adrian says he will do odd jobs for his own tenants to raise the cash to do the repairs.

Little Benny's Note Book

The weather was swell Sunday with lots of sun to keep you warm and just enough breeze to keep you interested, and jap said to ma, What a day.

Yes, we all ought to be out in it, ma said, and pop said, That's what I was thinking, this is no day to stay indoors and admire. It's beautiful brisk weather, and there's no reason we shouldn't be just as brisk and almost as beautiful. We'll take a good walk on the Avenue. There's a tingle in the air, he said.

Yes, and there will be a tangle in my hair, ma said. I was thinking we mite take a nice long drive out in the country, where the air is the purest, she said, and I said, Well G roozalem, ma, we want to walk in the street where the air is, we dont want to ride in the car where it's not.

Of course, my dear, pop said. The air is like wine, and wine should be at room temperture, and the only way to get your body at room temperture on a day like this is to expand your lungs while you beet your feet along the ground, he said, and ma said, Now William, which is the most desirable, a sensible amount of adultherly fresh country air through moderately opened car windows, or blasts and gales rushing off the dusty streets to pull at your hair and clothes? Isn't quality more important than quantity? Just reason it out, she said.

You win, my dear, we are outnumbered, pop said, and I said, Aw pop, how stir we? Were 3 against one, I said, and he said, that's true, but dont forget, your mother is the chairman of the board, and as she so richly remarked, quality is more important than quantity, he said.

The result being we all took a drive, and me and pop took a walk after we got back.

Abel Puts On Skates For First Time This Year And Chicago Ties N.Y.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Law and behold! Don't those pesky Orillia Packet know where the Oshawa entry in the Senior "B" group stands. That's right, in first place. But not only do the Pants trek in Newmarville and surprise the hockey world by tacking a 9-4 defeat on the league leaders, but they rush back home and lay some kind of an ambush for them there. Now do you call it courtesy when, after just downing them by a five-goal margin, they hang another two points up in the win column by virtue of a 6-3 victory over this same team?

But after all, it couldn't have been too much of a shock after watching playing-coach Vic Grigg's boys slap a couple of losses on our own Memos. Orillia, in our opinion, has about the strongest defence of the league and from now on keep your eyes open when the Pontiacs hit town. They have given notice. They are out to win.

Coach "Red" Doran sent his boys through a tough workout at the arena last evening in hopes of bringing them up to their peak for the Peterborough tilt here on Saturday. A win for the Memos would help a very bit to keep it a tight race but you can bet your hat it won't be easy.

Other games this week finds Kingston at Peterborough on Friday and Kingston visiting Orillia Saturday night.

Hergesheimer for Rangers Ties It Up in Third Period; Two Games on Tap Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sid Abel, old Bootnose himself, got on his skates Wednesday night for the first time this year. Ali Rollins was back in the nets.

And for the first time in weeks, Chicago Black Hawks looked like a team of class.

They only tied with New York Rangers 3-3 in their National Hockey League game, but still that was better than the 9-0 and 9-4 thumpings they took from Detroit Red Wings last week-end while Rollins was out with chicken pox and Abel was coaching from behind the bench.

The Hawks, who have won only three games in 25 starts this season were inspired. They were winning until Wally Hergesheimer, the high-scoring rightwinger, tallied at 11:35 of the third period to tie it up.

Rollins, one of the hottest goaltenders in the big time, turned back 32 shots, many of them on rose-headed artist through the 32-year-old Abel didn't score, he provided most of the drive as the Hawks fired 34 shots at New York netminder Johnny Bower.

FOURTH TIE FOR HAWKS

It was the only NHL game of the night and gave the last-place Hawks their fourth tie. Boston Bruins gave the fifth-place Rangers 19 points, six behind Boston Bruins.

Hergesheimer beat Rollins 20 seconds after defenceman Al Dewsbury put Chicago in front 3-2 with his first goal of the year.

Larry Wilson scored twice for the Hywks in the first period. Doo (Boone) Patterson and Andy Bathgate accounted for the other New York goals.

Abel probably will go into the line-up tonight when the Hawks meet the Bruins. In two other games, the third place Toronto Maple Leafs meet the second-place Canadiens in Montreal and the Rangers travel to Detroit for a game against the leading Red Wings.

The Leafs and Canadiens are still having injury woes. Montreal's two star centres, highly-paid Elmer Lach and veteran Elmer Lach, are doubtful starters.

The Leafs are down to one rightwinger, Ron Stewart, and have only the line of Stewart, Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith intact. Out are rightwingers George Armstrong, Eric Nesterenko and Howie Meeker and leftwinger Gord Hannigan.

More About Hockey

Dear Sir:

As this is National Write-a-Letter - About - Our-Hockey-Season - Week, I offer the following:

Through your entertaining and informative column I gained the impression that there are those who are disturbed by the fact that the city may make money through the senior hockey team.

The thought occurs to me that as it would be very difficult to break exactly even on the season's operation, the commission must either make or lose. As continuous loss would not be very entertaining so let the commission make all they can, and more. Through their results they should and undoubtedly would (if only indirectly) assist in the furtherance and betterment of the Recreation Committee under the lasting directorship of "Red" Doran. Further, benefits might be instrumental in developing of such home counterparts as the genial versatile Vern Goyer; also in the gaining of district players such as Keith Macdonald, whom, it appears from his playing enthusiasm enjoys the long 30-mile trek here through rain, hail, sleet, snow, mud and O.P.'s for the privilege and pleasure of playing hockey with Belleville.

Development of such local and district talent may some day deem it unnecessary to go after imports, with all due respect and appreciation to those currently categories. So, let's stop the Richard "Brunsellems" and get going to the game. You'll thrill to the skills and the spills. You'll love it.

Yours Momentarily,
Richard Burrows.

The top U.S. entries, Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, were knocked out after matches in which tempers flared both among the spectators and the American players over a number of foot-fault decisions.

Greenshirts On Way Out As Contenders in Jr. Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A $15,000 cash deal has turned Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts into hockey's second-eaters overnight.

The Greenshirts, who lost most of their star players last Monday when the club was sold to the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, apparently are on the way out as strong contenders in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

They lost both games since the deal—and by big scores. Wednesday night Ste. St. Michael's College Majors walloped the Greenshirts 10-0 in one of the weakest performances by Kitchener this year.

The Greenshirts, in third place Monday, have slumped to fifth.

In the other Wednesday night game, the second half of the Toronto doubleheader, Toronto Marlboros squeezed out a 3-1 victory over Barrie Flyers.

CAFFERY GETS THREE

Jack Caffery fired three goals in the third period to lead the Irish marksmen. Paul Knox added a pair and singles went to Bill Colvin, Dick Duff, Ken Gribbons, Ken Linesman and Ted Toppazzini.

To add to their troubles the Greenshirts may have lost services of their few-remaining regulars. Centre Claude Bolleau returned from a nose injury earlier in the game and suffered an injury to his left ankle. Preliminary examination revealed he may have a broken bone.

In the second game, the outcome was in doubt until Tom McCarthy fired the winner for Marlboros six minutes before the end of regular time. Billy Harris scored a couple of minutes later to salt it away.

Defenceman Bob Duncan had given the Dukes a 1-0 margin in the second period but Bob White erased it with his goal before the period was over.

Kitchener meets the Biltmores in Guelph, Quebec Citadelles travel to Barrie Flyers and St. Michael's go to St. Catharines TeePees in league action Friday.

Ray Marshall Of Cornwall Is New Coach

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CP)—Centre Ray Marshall, playing coach last season with Cornwall of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey league, took on the same job with Louisville Blades of the International League Thursday night.

Ralph Griffiths, president of the club, announced the appointment of Marshall, the teams' high scorer. Shortly after Alex Wood resigned as coach because "he didn't see eye to eye with many of the policies of the owners."

Horses Score Heat Victories

TORONTO (CP)—Williamsburg, owned by Porter Locke of Morrisburg, and Hi Handy, owned by W. Barry of Victoro, N.Y., scored impressive heat victories in the junior free-for-all pace, the featured harness attraction at Dufferin Park Wednesday.

Glendale Doctor, owned by Louis Slater of Rochester, N.Y., and Miss Mary Van, owned by G. J. Barron of Brantford, divided the class "AA" trot, the secondary feature. Each won a heat and placed second in the other.

OHA Waiting for Local Fans To Kick in to Buy Franchise

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association wished today for local fans to kick in enough money for a possible deal to buy back their franchise in the Sub Senior National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens.

Association president Tony Gregg said he will wait until Friday to decide whether to try to swing the sale. It all depends on the cash Kitchener citizens are willing to put up.

At least $13,000 is needed, Gregg said. That would cover only the players. More would be needed to continue the club's operation in the nine-team junior A circuit.

Canadiens bought the team last week. The OHA executive council said it didn't know about the sale until Monday.

Montreal sent nine Greenshirts to four junior teams in Quebec and one in Ontario. The transfers raised dozens of protests from OHA officials and officers of other Junior A clubs.

Gregg said some Kitchener business men reported to have put up $15,000 to help back the club have not come through with all the money. He said he will wait for more offers.

The club, previously owned by a group of Kitchener businessmen, was sold to Canadiens because gate receipts were low. Club president Walter Weber said operation losses ran to about $1,000 a week.

Sport in Brief

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Luke Sewell was named manager of Toronto Maple Leafs and quickly named Bruno Betzel, former Syracuse manager, to be his coach with the International League club.

Sewell managed St. Louis Browns to their only American League pennant in 1944. He managed Cincinnati for 3½ years until replaced by Rogers Hornsby in August of 1952. Sewell was out of baseball last year, working for a rubber company. At Toronto he succeeds Burleigh Grimes, whose contract was not renewed after a fifth-place finish.

Betzel has managed at Montreal, Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester in the International. He was left out of the Syracuse fire after the 1953 season when the club changed hands.

Sewell, 57, is a former catcher with Cleveland, Washington and Chicago in the American League.

No salary terms were announced for the one-year contract with the independently operated Canadian club. Jack Kent Cooke is the president owner.

NEW YORK (AP)—Native Dancer was unanimously voted as the champion three-year-old colt of 1953.

The selections board of the Thoroughbred Racing Associations gave Alfred G. Vanderbilt's great grey all its votes. Last year the Dancer was voted two-year-old champion.

Native Dancer was unbeaten as a two-year-old in nine races. This year he lost only once, Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby upset.

He won nine of 10 races this year for $312,485 and also has won to $743,930—fourth on the list of the world's greatest money-winning horses.

MILAN (AP) — Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler who held the world heavyweight title from 1919 to 1926, was voted the greatest prize fighter of all time in a poll of boxing journals in 22 countries.

Results of the poll were published Wednesday in the Italian weekly magazine Europa. It said the vote was taken among leading boxing publications in Europe, Australia and the United States.

Dempsey was followed by four other Americans — Joe Louis, Sugar Ray Robinson, Henry Armstrong and Gene Tunney.

CALGARY (CP)—Manager Bob Robinett of Calgary Stampeders, back from a scouting trip to eastern Canada, reports that Western interprovincial Football Union clubs are running into difficulty in competition from Big Four teams in the player market.

Robinett said receipts from television are being applied to player budgets in the East and Big Four clubs can offer youngsters more inducement to sign contracts.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The major-minor league committee on playing rules has reluctantly decided to limit the recently adopted sacrifice fly rule to fair balls.

James Gallagher, committee chairman and Chicago Cubs' business manager, said the decision to rule out long fouls that might permit a base runner to score after a catch was made after much discussion.

The sacrifice fly rule, adopted earlier this year in New York, provides that a batter shall not be charged with a time at bat when his fly ball scores a runner.

Chatham Maroons Drop Tenth Straight Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons have yet to beat a line that started last year. It's coating them hockey games.

Tuesday night in Senior A play in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, pegged their 10th straight game to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Wednesday night. Eight of those defeats came last season and the Dutchmen apparently can still apply the hex.

They defeated the Maroons 2-1 for their second victory over Chatham this season. The victory hoisted the Dutchmen back into first place, one point in front of Windsor Bulldogs.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Pembroke Lumber Kings shot out Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 9-0 in Sault Ste. Marie. Their fifth victory of the season pulled the Lumber Kings to within four points of the fourth-place Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians.

The Maroons got on a last period rally against the Dutchmen in Chatham but it fell short. Gerry Theberge led the Kitchener-Waterloo men with two goals. Jim Connelly matched his effort for the Maroons. George Scholes and Charlie Brooker got the others for the Dutchmen.

Lumber Kings did all their scoring in the first period with Ken Charles and Jim Maxwell the snipers.

Owen Sound Mercurys are at Niagara Falls Flyers in the OHA tonight while the Indians meet the Rangers in North Bay in NOHA play.

Buffalo Bisons In Possession Of First Place

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons still are in sole possession of first-place in the American Hockey League, thanks to goalie Jacques Plante and forward Gerry Pennell.

In the games played Wednesday the Bisons managed a 3-2 tie with Providence Reds, and second place Hershey Bears paved Pittsburgh Hornets 4-3. Buffalo now is one point ahead of Hershey.

At Buffalo, Pennell counted with less than six minutes remaining in the final period to force Providence into an overtime period. Bison goalie Plante saved on two Red breakaways in the extra stanza and the game ended in a stalemate. Pat Egan and Pete Kapusta scored for Providence, while Ed Sweeney-ski was the other Buffalo goal-getter.

At Pittsburgh, Skip Teal of Hershey broke a 2-2 deadlock near the end of the second period and Dunc Fisher scored midway through the third. Danny Lewicki opened the scoring for Pittsburgh in the initial stanza but his effort was nullified by Norm Corcoran's tally late in the same period. Willie Marshall and Hershey's Red Sullivan matched goals in the second before Teal got his game-winning marker.

Selke Takes Pot Shot At Junior Council

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday the junior council of the Ontario Hockey Association seems to have delegated to itself the fight to raid junior players all over Canada without being willing to extend the same privilege to other branches.

The statement was prompted by word from Kitchener that the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league council is moving to block transfer of players from the Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts to four clubs of the Quebec Junior Hockey League and to the Guelph Greenshirts team from disbanding.

Canadiens, former sponsors of the Greenshirts, purchased the club last week.

Mr. Selke said that for years the strong junior teams in the OHA have taken the best players out of western Canada and "last summer succeeded in exacting a promise from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association executive that the bar on players who signed would be lifted at the association's meeting in January."

Retired General Manager Thanked For Co-operation

MONTREAL (CP)—Officers and members of The Canadian Press Wednesday thanked W. D. Ross, retired general manager of communications, Canadian Pacific Railway company, for his co-operation in the establishment and development of Canada's national news service.

Frederick I. Ker of Hamilton, former president of The Canadian Press, on behalf of its member newspapers and executives, presented to Mr. Neil a silver tray inscribed with a message of appreciation.

Mr. Ker said Mr. Neil's association with CP dated back to 1907 when the present news services' predecessor—The Western Associated Press—was formed. At that time, Mr. Neil was chief clerk of Canadian Pacific communications in Calgary.

He was eastern district superintendent in Montreal when The Canadian Press group was formed in 1917. In 1930, he was named assistant general manager and was general manager of Canadian Pacific communications from 1932 until his retirement last October.

AWARDED ONE

Mr. Neil was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for outstanding service in the field of communications in the Second World War.

Mr. Neil said his own career had run parallel with the expansion of special newspaper services in various parts of Canada into the present national news service network represented by CP. He expressed confidence that co-operation would be continued to the advantage of national development.

Messages from prominent newspaper men including CP pioneers were read at the reception for Mr. Neil.

Members and executives of The Canadian Press who came to Montreal and senior officers of the railway company were among those present.

Calgary Stamps Sign Fullback

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union said Wednesday they have signed Howard Waugh, a fullback they hope will fill the hole left by all-star John Henry Johnson.

Johnson, voted the most valuable player in the WIFU this season, signed with San Francisco 49ers.

Waugh was leading ground-gainer in the United States in 1952 while playing with Tulsa University.

Buddy O'Connor Declines Offer To Coach Cits

MONTREAL (CP) — Buddy O'Connor, former National Hockey League player, said Wednesday he has been offered and declined the job as coach of Quebec Citadelles, junior team playing in the Ontario Hockey Association.

O'Connor said he was approached about a week ago by owner Frank Byrne of Citadelles and was given a couple of days to think about the matter. He said he didn't want to leave his present business position in mid-season.

He said Byrne didn't indicate one way or another what would be done about Phil Watson, present coach.

Citadelles have won only six games in 22 starts in the Ontario junior circuit and are at the bottom of the nine-team standing.

In Quebec, Byrne said he had no comment.

But 18 Quebec players and trainer Georges Bergeron gave their support to Watson and termed "false" reports Watson may be replaced.

Reds Protest Overtime Win Of Barons

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Lou Fuerl, president of Providence Reds of the American Hockey League, has protested Cleveland's overtime victory over the Reds Tuesday night at Providence, maintaining that the overtime period was illegal.

The Reds and Barons tied 2-2 in regulation time and a 10-minute overtime period was to be the Hershey League rules call for a sudden death play.

Fuerl's protest is on the grounds that Jim Hendy, general manager of the Barons, insisted that the rules be followed, asserting that if his team scored the score would take them off the ice. A fine of $5,000 was levied on them and was threatened by Hendy, Fuerl said.

The overtime went the full 10 minutes, Jack Stoddard scoring the winning goal for Cleveland at 7:30.

Fuerl said the rule, written by the league's board of governors of which he is a member, specifically calls for sudden death play. He asked that the score revert to the end of regulation time and that each team receive one point.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nancy Thomas, 14, is blonde, independent and five years old, was supposed to write this story about Gene Autry.

But she is too busy working over her jumbo western coloring book, so her leg man will have to carry on.

Nancy, you see, just had her tonsils taken out, an awful experience for young or old. But she came through so admirably—her only real indignation was over getting a shot where she sat down—she deserved a reward that was tagging along on, or conducting, as it turned out, an interview with one of her TV heroes, Gene Autry.

Gene was absent when we arrived but we were greeted by the Autry den, where Nancy examined the cowboy relics. She asked about an object on the desk. I explained that it was a telegraph key to send messages and that Gene used to be a telegrapher before he became a movie cowboy.

"QUITE INTERESTING"

"Quite interesting," she allowed.

Gene arrived and came in with a big hello for Nancy. "He looks just the way he does on TV," she observed.

He showed her around the place and explained a glass-enclosed tableau of wood-carved cowboy figures: "Now that's the man riding the bucking bronco and that's the owner of the horse and—"

"Where's the villain?" TV-wise Nancy wanted to know. He had to explain that there wasn't any.

She admired his red-and-green cowboy boots and he offered to show her more. So we went upstairs and he displayed a closet full of boots, all kinds and colors. He also showed us enough shirts to clothe a rodeo.

"How old is Champion?" asked Nancy, moving on to other matters.

"Why, he's around 15, honey," Gene replied. "Gettin' pretty old for a horse."

CUT INTO TRADE

I wanted to know what was happening to the western movies. That old movie fixture appears to be dying out; Rex Allen is the only cowpoke making a series for theatres now. Gene discontinued them recently, joining Roy Rogers, Johnny Mack Brown, Charles Starrett, Bill Elliott and other stalwarts of the Saturday matinee.

Gene explained: "The program western has been hard hit. You see, we used to have Lie week end trade to ourselves. But then the big-name stars moved in. There was Jimmy Stewart with 'Bend of the River,' Gary Cooper with 'High Noon,' and Gregory Peck. And John Wayne makes westerns every once in a while, and Randolph Scott makes two or three a year, and Joel McCrea.

"These pictures naturally cut into our trade. But I think the program western will come back. Westerns have taken a beating before—I remember it happened just after sound came in. The thing is that you'll have to keep your costs down, because the market is small."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The star system fold up? Not on your life, assures MGM boss Dore Schary.

There has been a lot of speculation about Hollywood's star system going to pot. When a doll like Betty Grable is allowed to retire, what else can you believe? And with a studio like Warners down to four players!

Schary scoffed at the notion that the studio was scuttling the stars. "Not at all," he commented. "The star system may be undergoing a period of eclipse at the present time. But it will always be the foundation of the movie industry.

"Metro since its inception has always held to that theory. We have built more stars and made them last longer than any other studio."

"Of course, we have fewer players under contract than we did five or 10 years ago. We found that it was not economically sound to maintain the huge list we had in the past. At present there are about 40 names under exclusive contract—and we prefer exclusive picture deals because we can build and control careers that way.

"We cannot carry as many stars because are making 22 pictures a year, compared to 46 in the past. But I think the size of our star list now is economically sound. We will make enough pictures to keep them busy, and we can also lend them to other studios."

To prove his point, Scary rattled off most of the names on the MGM roster: Tracy, Turner, Garrison, Gardner, Liz Taylor, Robert Taylor, Kelly, Williams, Charisse, Caron, Angeli, Eleanor Parker, Calhern, Ryan, Ann Jane Powell, Lionel Barrymore, etc., etc. What about Clark Gable?

"He is a question mark. He is now making his last or next-to-last picture under his contract. We hope he will sign again. The same is true of Van Johnson, whose contract is also up soon."

Schary admitted that the future is not so bright for young players seeking a break in the movies. "Since we are making fewer pictures, we can't afford to take as many chances with newcomers," he explained.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

The straight and narrow path of bidding is the soundest bridge policy. It is even the best policy for an expert when teamed with a partner who is not geared to the same standards.

I was asked what a dealer should do with this hand.

♠ None
♥ A K Q J 10 9 8
♦ 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣ None

With 13 hearts and not a card elsewhere it is a cinch to take all the tricks with that suit as trumps. It seems that there is no reason to monkey around. Simply bid seven hearts and, agreed.

No skillful player would handle it that way. He would get to the grand slam in hearts gradually. While doing so he would inject some kind of forcing signals to make sure it was kept alive.

Meantime he would slip in one or more bids in diamonds or clubs. Mentioning these non-existing suits would give opponents the general idea that he was fishing for a satisfactory trump suit.

Also before reaching seven hearts he would make convention bids asking about aces and kings. He does not need such information, of course. It is simply a part of his planned purposes.

He has two aims. One is to coax opponents into making seven hearts when he gets there. Another is to keep opponents from taking a sacrifice at seven spades.

One thing not to do is to redouble if opponents double a grand slam in hearts. Clever opponents may become suspicious of what you had goaded them into doing.

Another thing not to do is to bid spades as one of your scheming bids. Partner may have support for a biddable spade suit. When you bid seven hearts he is likely to take you to seven spades. Ouch!

It is not likely that you will ever be dealt 13 cards of one suit. If you do it may be at a time when you have a partner who is also capable of catching your curves. So, think nothing of it.

AT THE CAPITOL—Connie Russell cycled from Hollywood to Hollywood and Gene Autry from Hollywood to Gene Autry, Oklahoma, but it took Columbia comic Jerry Colonna to make musical hit "Cruisin' Down the River" with Dick Haymes and Jo Ann Greer. Billy Daniels and the Bell Sisters who also make their first screen debut, do the same program. Johnny Weissmuller and Valley of the Head Hunters" here also are first Belleville showings and open tonight at the Capitol Theatre.

AT THE BELLE—Errol Flynn plays the title role in "The Master of Ballantrae," and Roger Livesey, Anthony Steel and lovely Beatrice Campbell, above, are featured for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Freighter Goes Aground

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—The American Great Lakes freighter Sullivan, downbound and to-ded with oats, went aground Wednesday night in the shoals of the St. Mary's river.

The United States coast guard said the Sullivan skidded far enough on the shoals to lift her two feet above her normal draft with a load but that she was in no immediate danger and was not endangering navigation in the international river.

Cause of the grounding was not immediately determined.

The Sullivan is owned by the Garland Steamship Co., of Chicago, and was en route to winter-docking with its load of grain.

VISITS DEFENCE COLLEGE

KINGSTON (CP)—Sir John Slessor, retired marshal of the RAF, addressed the staff and students of the National Defence College Tuesday during a brief visit to Kingston.

Dance Hall Fire

NORTH BAY (CP)—Fire swept through the largest dance hall in the North Bay area Wednesday night, causing an estimated $20,000 damage. The hall was empty at the time.

Origin of the blaze at the Top Hat dance pavilion in suburban West Ferris township was not immediately known. Major damage was confined to the interior of the big frame structure.

Mr. Pearson Speaks His Mind

At the U.N. buildings in New York, "if you walk down the aisle with a Soviet delegate, you are labelled a Communist or a fellow-traveller," Lester Pearson, left, Canada's minister for external affairs, told a meeting of the Certified Public Accountants of Toronto. Mr. Pearson condemned individuals "more interested in their own fortunes than in international co-operation," a direct reference to Senator McCarthy and others who have suggested that Mr. Pearson was a Communist sympathizer. With Mr. Pearson is Dr. Chester Walters, CPA founder. — Central Press Canadian.

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTIONS BEATEN TWICE BY GOVT.

Commons Ends Throne Speech Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has ended the throne speech debate and now tackles government legislation.

The way was cleared Thursday after members defeated Progressive Conservative and Social Credit non-confidence motions in the government, the latter drawing support from 11 Conservatives.

The CP motion was defeated 153 to 56, said Canada's welfare depends on free competition and urged politicies to "restore" markets and promote world trade.

Liberals, CCF and three independent members voted against the motion, which received Social Credit support.

Eleven Progressive Conservatives however, lined up with Social Credit in others on that party's non-confidence motion, opposed by Liberals, the remaining PC members under Opposition Leader Drew CCF and Independent members.

The vote was 123 to 23.

PC MOTION AMENDED

The Social Credit motion amended the PC motion by changing the last part to read "restore faith in private enterprise" and adding a requirement that Canada accept sterling payment for her exports.

Thursday's divisions ended the three-week debate which has occupied the Commons for three weeks since the session began Nov. 16 head the long list of bills now to be considered.

The three bills will permit material printed for the Aug. 16 election to be used for by-elections and elections in the Northwest Territories; provide for federal chartering and control of interprovincial or international pipelines; and provide for appointment of auditors for the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Drew, speaking on the Social Credit motion, said he could not personally support it.

NOT BINDING

This was taken as an indication that his views were not binding on other members of the party.

Mr. Drew said the report of acceptance of sterling had not been given to him and he was confident the United Kingdom would not agree to the two-for-one deal apparently involved in the suggestion.

The PC party repeatedly had urged "restoration of the convertibility of sterling and dollars. This government has done so," he said in Canadian trade. But a general acceptance of sterling in payment for Canadian exports might delay the time when convertibility would be restored.

Mr. Drew said he saw no difference in the meaning of "free competition" and "private enterprise," terms involved in the Social Credit motion.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the Progressive Conservatives were for part payment in sterling but not for acceptance of sterling as proposed by the Social Credit party.

The 11 Progressive Conservatives who voted for the Social Credit motion included: John Diefenbaker, Prince Albert; J. W. Hodgson, Victoria, Ont.; Harry O. White, Middlesex East; Gordon Graydon, Peterborough; Andrew E. Robinson, Bruce; John A. Charlton, Brant-Haldimand and Gordon Knight; and Wallace Nesbitt, Oxford.

Ottawa Receives U.S. Note Accepting Gouzenko Terms

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government today received a note from the United States accepting Canadian terms for an interview with Igor Gouzenko.

The note, delivered to the external affairs department in midmorning, and officials said it will receive immediate study.

While the contents of the communication were not made public here, officials said they contained generally with earlier information from Washington that officials booking Gouzenko for any of the former Russian embassy cipher clerk will abide by Canada's decision as to what material may be made public after the secret meeting.

It was learned also that—though the note is permission for officers of a senate sub-committee to talk to Gouzenko—they would do so on the nomination of the U. S. administration.

This is in line with a precedent laid down by the Canadian government, which deals with the administration rather than with Congress.

OFFICERS NAMED

The note, according to Washington dispatches, asks that the interview be conducted in Canada by chairman William Jenner and counsel Robert Morris of the Senate internal security sub-committee.

Gouzenko, who broke the Russian espionage case in Canada in 1945, now is living in seclusion in a Canadian town under an assumed name and under RCMP protection.

Canada's reply to the latest U. S. note—third from Washington since Gouzenko expressed a willingness to be interviewed—will deal largely with arrangements for the meeting with the U. S. officers, it was indicated by officials.

They had no immediate information on when it would be sent or when and where the meeting would be held.

U.S. Tells Reds Reluctant PoW Must Be Released Next Month

PANMUNJOM (AP) — United States envoy Arthur H. Dean told the Communists today that unrepatriated war prisoners will be freed Jan. 23 unless a peace conference decides some other course "and no human hand or mind or debate can change it."

"We are never going to agree under any circumstances, to a change in that date," he declared.

Dean and Communist diplomats conferred for almost three hours on plans for a peace conference while a few miles away 22,000 South Korean war prisoners unanimously rejected pleas to return home.

Allied persuaders in three days have talked to 90 South Koreans who chose life under the Communists and not one has changed his mind.

South Korean officers whisked through the interrogation before noon Friday. The United Nations command's 40 political officers at Panmunjom Saturday. The repatriation commission said the request for an end to the war was filed the late, but tonight the commission approved it.

The preliminary peace talks are in recess until Monday. Dean asked that a Saturday session be called off because he will be in Seoul for conferences with South Korea's president Syngman Rhee.

He refused to divulge the subject of the talks and would not comment on rumored differences between the UN command and the South Korean government over plans for a peace conference.

DIFFER WITH REDS

The spokesman for the 17 Allied countries which fought in Korea spelled out their position on unrepatriated prisoners after the Communists heatedly insisted that the POWs could "never be released" until a peace conference decided their fate.

Dean said the Reds appeared to be trying to block a peace conference in an attempt to hold it indefinite captivity 22,600 Korean and Chinese war prisoners who have refused to go back to Communist rule.

He reiterated that the Korean armistice provides that unrepatriated prisoners "be released to civilian status" on Jan. 23—120 days after they were turned over to custody of the neutral nations repatriation commission.

BUTTER MAKERS APPROVE NEW SANITARY CODE

Creameries to Be Made More Spotless Than Ever

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's usually-immaculate creameries are going to be more spotless than ever.

A sanitary code for butter-making plants has been worked out by provincial authorities. The first to cover creameries, it is similar to one recently introduced for cheese-makers.

C. E. Lackner, the Ontario government's director of dairying, said the strict rules suggest tough Thursday to a convention of the Ontario Creamery Association.

He set up strict rules concerning types of equipment, employees' clothing and control of dust, drainage and smells.

Mr. Lackner said government instructors have been issued with the regulations. They are visiting all plants before issuing next year's licences, he said.

"You can expect a high quality food from human consumption and you can't be too careful," COOP observed.

Convention delegates expressed approval of the code.

"It's a mighty good thing," said L. A. Reddick of Kemptville, assistant manager. "Some of the creameries already use methods which come up to the requirements."

A. J. Wagg of Mindemoya a past president, said others may need more money to bring equipment into line.

J. D. Creighton of Tatamagouche, N. S., president of the National Dairy Council, said Canadians' use of milk and cream and of products really all other dairy products is increasing. But so are productions and the problem was to keep consumption going up.

Mr. Creighton recommended use of more skim milk powder in milk bread and the introduction of a federally supported school lunch programme.

He said tariff charges should be placed on imported milk and cheese bearing seals which now enter Canada duty-free. Such a step would cut down the price advantage now enjoyed by oleomargarine, which costs about half as much as butter.

With tariff protection, the dairy industry would not need floor prices or other forms of subsidy from the taxpayer, Mr. Creighton said.

Eisenhower Flies To Bermuda For Big Three Parley

Churchill and Laniel Greet President on His Arrival

BY MARVIN ARROWSMITH

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived in Bermuda today for the start of a Big Three conference with Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel.

The presidential plane Columbine landed at Kindley Field at 11:12 a. m. EST.

Waiting to greet Eisenhower were Churchill and Laniel, together with Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault.

A crowd of about 2,000 was at the field. Also present was a colorful honor guard made up of Royal Welch Fusiliers, Bermuda militia and U. S. airmen, and a British warship off Hamilton boomed a salute.

Churchill and Laniel, already in Bermuda, reached the airport about five minutes before the Columbine landed.

Eisenhower stepped off the plane promptly at 11:15 a. m. and was greeted by Governor Sir Alexander Hood and Mrs. Hood, followed by the commanders of the military units drawn up to receive him.

BIG THREE MEET

The president then walked a few steps and was met by Churchill, who gave him a hearty handshake. Eisenhower moved on and met Laniel. Three conference officials cheered.

In the presidential party were Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce, Lewis Strauss, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. Strauss was added to the party at the last minute this morning.

Britain's top nuclear expert, Lord Cherwell, arrived Wednesday with Churchill and the supposition is that the question of exchanging atomic information has been added to the agenda.

The flight from Washington took three hours and 10 minutes.

Dulles, Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Bidault were scheduled to meet at 3 p. m. to get the formal talks under way, while their chiefs gathered around the table immediately afterward.

The group was to dine tonight with governor Sir Alexander Hood at government house.

CHURCHILL ACCEDES

Churchill earlier had been believed eager to push through a scheme for a quick meeting with Russian premier Georgi Malenkov. By today, however, it seemed obvious that the U. S. desire to give priority to summer pressure on the French for ratification of the European army treaty now dominated.

London, Thursday, Thursday, let it be known through aides that he is just as eager as Eisenhower to tackle this problem in the hopes of gaining British, French and United States assurances of protection from the rearmed German war machine. The French government's anti-Western demonstrations in Yugoslavia, and Premier Laniel's statement that his troops would march into zone A the minute Hal-

Will Not Handle News From New York Papers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Long Island State-Journal halted publication today when its stereotypers refused to handle news and comics of strikebound newspapers in Manhattan which were to be printed in the form of paid advertisements.

No material from the advertisers of the New York papers was involved.

Stephen Rogers, editor of the suburban afternoon paper, said in a statement that the stereotypers, who make casts for the advertisements, refused to handle the ads, contending it was "struck work."

"Under the circumstances, the Long Island State-Journal could no longer publish and regretfully announces it must suspend until the controversy is settled."

lan forces entered the area.

EDC RATIFICATION

Churchill also were reported to have touched on French ratification of the European Defence Community plan.

The French also let it be known that they hoped to tell Eisenhower and Churchill that Britain and the U.S. must approve French intervention unless Russia broke the tacit understanding that Western troops would not enter Eastern Germany.

The French demand could put the U. S. and Britain on the spot of choosing between France and resurgent West Germany, both vital to European defence.

HEAD-ON CRASH FATAL

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto man was killed Thursday and another man injured in a head-on collision between a truck and car about 20 miles east of here. Dead is James Hicks, driver of the car. Ernest Cyril Smith, 30, of Mount Hope, was taken to hospital with back injuries.

Index of Living Costs Drops Half Point During October

OTTAWA (CP) — Sliding steadily downward since, living costs declined during October, with the consumer prices index dropping by one-half point to 116.3 from 116.7.

The decline was due almost entirely to food price drops, the bureau of statistics reported today. The consumer price index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Egg prices dropped sharply, along with most meat and grapefruit, from 12.3 points in the food column which dropped to 113.4 from 113.7.

SHELTER COST LEAPS

The shelter column rose to a new high of 125.2 from 125.1, reflecting higher rents and home ownership costs.

The miscellaneous column, called "other commodities and services" also showed a rise, to 109.3 from a point to 116.3 from 116, with the price of tobacco products steadily increasing.

However, the household operations column eased to 117.4 from 117.5, reflecting scattered changes in various items.

Only column to remain unchanged was clothing, at 110.3. The cost of men's suits and overcoats advanced, but this was counterbalanced by declines in women's and children's wear.

The all-goods drop in the consumer price index brought it back to where it was in September, the previous five-month climb, the living costs yardstick had advanced a total of 2.3 points.

The index now is two points below the all-time peak of 118.3 recorded in December, 1951.

Some wholesale industrial prices eased during November, but farm products strengthened.

The index of wholesale industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, dropped to 226.6 on Nov. 27 from 231.1 on Oct. 30.

The Canadian farm products index, also based on 1935-39 prices, increased to 307.8 from 307.

Price declines showed for hogs, western oats, fir lumber, western wheat, raw sugar, bleached woodpulp, copper, iron ore and raw cotton.

These offset increases for steers, tin, raw rubber, lead and white lead.

In the farm products index, egg prices increased along with steers, calves, lambs, raw wool and milk for cheese manufacture.

CROWD COURTROOM

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The air was neither literally nor figuratively clear in court Thursday. The sitting was interrupted twice, during while windows were opened and ventilators cleared. Judge F. A. Logie, long-time fighter for better accommodation, was forced to cram 50 persons into his office — as both court rooms were in use — but the overflowing crowd in the room normally seats 16 persons.

How Applauds Alberta Move Aimed at One Gas Pipeline

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta has enough surplus natural gas to free the hungry Ontario and Quebec markets but has deferred its export approval on the premise that the two big companies vying for pipeline rights should amalgamate in one over-all project to the east.

After this decision was announced Thursday night by Premier Manning, Trade Minister Howe said in Ottawa it was a big step toward that the federal government will try to expedite the amalgamation as soon as possible. The premier said Prime Minister St. Laurent also concurred.

Mr. Manning made the announcement following a meeting of provincial conservation board's report, which said Alberta now has available for eastern export approximately 3,500,000,000,000 cubic feet of deliverable natural gas.

The board said this is enough to meet the requirements of either Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., or Western Pipe Lines Ltd., but added that neither company's estimates has yet proved establishment of the necessary assured markets to meet Alberta requirements. The provincial government agreed.

CONSIDER EXPORT GAS

While denying Alberta gas to eastern Canada temporarily, the provincial government will consider shortly the conservation board's recommendation that the surplus minor export to Montana be permitted.

The board said it is prepared to issue, with the approval of the government, a 21-year permit to Canadian-Montana Pipe Line Co., wholly-owned subsidiary of Montana Power Co., for export of gas from the southern Alberta Pakowki lake field where there is $34,000,000,000 cubic feet surplus to the province's needs.

Canadian-Montana already is shipping Pakowki gas to Montana, but it is not the main thing." Mr. Howe said. "Mr. Manning in act of Christian kindness—in return for the act of Christian kindness."

Mother Wounds Three Children Then Herself

BRIDGEWATER, N. S. (CP) — RCMP said a 30-year-old mother, whom they described as "apparently mentally deranged, shot and wounded her three children, then turned the gun on herself early today.

They withheld the names pending notification of the husband, at sea with the fishing fleet.

An officer said the woman was shooting when a division full of all her children were suffering from measles. A report of the shooting her 12-year-old child in is critical condition. The mother and the two children are in a good and I—are given a good chance of recovery.

The shooting occurred at Pentz, 15 miles on the LaHave river, seven miles from this Lunenburg county town.

All victims were taken to hospital here. Later the two most seriously injured were flown by RCAF aircraft to Halifax for special treatment.

April, 1956. If approval is given by the Alberta and federal governments and the U. S. Federal Power Commission, the additional gas will pass through the existing $3,500-mile, 75-inch pipeline.

The board said this export "will not significantly affect the proposed large-scale eastern export projects." Likewise, export to Montana and expected full-scale export to eastern Canada later will have no affect on plans of Westcoast Transmission Co., which awaits only a go-ahead from the U. S. power commission before building its $100,000,000 line to pipe Alberta Peace river gas to Vancouver and the U. S. Pacific Northwest.

Serial Numbers Of Ransom Money Are Circulated

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP circularized across Canada the serial numbers of some $20,000 ransom money missing in the Bobby Greenlease kidnapping case. RCMP sources said the serial numbers of the missing U. S. bank notes had been given to major police forces in Canada, from Vancouver, but that special emphasis was placed on Ontario.

It was noted that some of the missing bills were recovered recently in northern Michigan. Soon after the RCMP, working in co-operation with the FBI circulated the first statement.

Carl Hall and Bonny Heady have been sentenced to die at Jefferson City, Mo., for killing the young boy.

Six-Ply Pill Shows Promise Of Healing Stomach Ulcers

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A six-ply pill described as a new and promising treatment for duodenal ulcers was shown today to the American Medical Association.

The pill contains four different anti-acids to counteract excess stomach acids which contribute to the ulcers. The fifth element is an anti-meal ingredient which makes the acid-fighters together and releases them slowly for about two hours, after which they act on the digested material which forms a protective coating over the lining of the stomach or the duodenum, the first part of the intestines.

These new pills, not yet on the market, have relieved pain within a few days in most of more than 250 patients treated so far accord-ing to Dr. Morton I. Grossman and Drs. Leo. L. Hardt and Frederick Steigmann of Loyola University and Cook county graduate school of medicine, Chicago, and Clarence A. Maaske and Robert Grover of the Chicago Veterans Administration of medicine, Denver.

The pills are known to have helped the healing of ulcers not only in the stomach, Dr. Hardt said, but in the duodenum, the first part of the intestines.

These new pills, not yet on the market, have relieved pain within a few days in most of more than 250 patients treated so far accord-ing to Dr. Morton I. Grossman and Drs. Leo. L. Hardt and Frederick Steigmann of Loyola University and Cook county graduate school of medicine, Chicago, and Clarence A. Maaske and Robert Grover of the Chicago Veterans Administration hospital, Denver.

The pills contain four anti-acids commonly used for ulcers, calcium carbonate, aluminum hydroxide, magnesium trisilicate and magnesium carbonate.

Used separately, some of these produce undesirable effects, Dr. Hardt said, but the combination so far had shown no bad effects. Patients take about 24 pills a day, usually before and after meals and before bedtime.

Treatment usually is continued for at least a year, with fewer pills in the second six months.

Middlesex Farmers Give Blood To Repay Mennonite's Kindness

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Farmers of Middlesex county whose homes and property were damaged by the May 21 tornado and who watched in wonderment while willing Mennonite workers from Elmira, Waterloo and Wellington counties, rebuilt unfailingly to rebuild their wrecked buildings upon their chance to repay good with good.

Almost six months after their hour of need, the farmers of Middlesex have been given the chance to repay their debt.

An 11-year-old Mennonite child lies in War Memorial Children's Hospital here. Since June he has been operated on 47 times—he has had 47 skin grafts, and 47 blood transfusions.

But now young Melvin Keuper, whose father died while he was still a baby, is almost well again. His one ambition is to leave the hospital and return to his mother's farm between Glanworth and Elmira.

Thanks to the wonders of surgery, he has recovered from burns suffered in a gasoline explosion on the farm.

Tom Patrick, MLA, is organizing a committee on a gigantic blood donor group.

Monday they will begin to arrive at St. Joseph's Hospital to give their blood and Mr. Patrick hopes there will be more than 100 donors for the stricken area.

He made his first appeal at the annual conference of the Middlesex Federation of Agriculture. Several members of the local council previously had offered their blood.

"Giving blood is the finest gift a man can make," Mr. Patrick said. "Money is all right in its place, but the Christian kindness—in return for the act of Christian kindness."

Bram Humphreys, Douglas Moxam Heard at Club

The Old Observer, who has covered the Wharf Street Debating Club ever since its early years, when candidates for civic office state their views to the residents of Foster Ward, must have had his attention distracted because he left out the names of Bram Humphreys and Douglas Moxam, both of whom will be seeking election to the Aldermanic Board.

Mr. Humphreys stated he was not for the moment seeking election and told the audience that if they marked a ballot in favor of him and was elected "Bram" will give you everything that is in him. He stated that Belleville area his adopted home and was proud to be a resident and that he possibly could assist in giving better administration.

Mr. Moxam was one of the few candidates offering himself for election who had his birthplace in Foster Ward. He stated he had been a lifelong resident of the city and thought that his education and experience in business life could offer himself as candidate. Mr. Moxam in his address favored night meetings of council and all oil servicing of roads be charged under the general rate instead of the present local improvement Act.

The chairman stated he thought Mr. Bateman and Robert Pringle were exercising their democracy at the City Hall and that the Mayor and Reeves' Association should be after them to endeavor to have more grants for education from the Provincial and Federal governments.

Better Winter Maintenance On Madoc-Foxboro Highway Requested by County Council

Hastings county councillors want better winter maintenance service on the Madoc Foxboro county road with 24-hour sanding and snowplowing service if necessary to keep the road in safe driving condition.

This was brought out at the final session of the December meeting of council Thursday afternoon, following reading of the county roads and bridges report by committee chairman Reeve Percy Moore of Tyendinaga township.

Under the heading of winter control the report indicated that an effort would be made to give quicker service in applying sand on the Madoc road this winter. The report added, however, that the service cost any more than was not equal that on the three provincial highways leading out of Belleville.

"I take issue with that statement with respect to Madoc," stated Reeve Charles Buskard of Deloro. "The Madoc road is a main travelled artery and should be given 24-hour sanding service if necessary. It does not cost any more to sand roads at two o'clock in the morning than it does at two o'clock noon. If the road committee does not have the money available to do this it should be made the money available."

TOOK SAME ATTITUDE

Reeve Clarke Rollins of Wollaston also took the same attitude holding that the Madoc road had been a bone of contention for years. He pointed out that the cost of doing this road could not be kept in better condition than it is now.

Continuing, he said if road foremen were given certain sections of the road to keep in condition it would be their responsibility to see that the roads were kept sanded to know if under the present system direction had to be received from the county engineer before road foremen started sanding or got snowplowing.

Reeve Wells of Marmora said he understood this had been the case in his district. He said it would cost less to keep a road open in the winter than it would to open it after drifts had filled it.

ON 24-HOUR CALL

"We are not that the Madoc road should be improved but when you talk of winter maintenance of provincial highway standard then that is saying something," Reeve Earl Sager, of Madoc said.

Reeve Harry Morrow of Sidney, said highway maintenance crews were on 24-hour call during the winter. They got no standby pay and received pay only for the time they actually worked.

"It is the feeling of the whole council that the road should be kept in better condition," Reeve Percy Adams of Dungannon noted. "The extra cost would not be great. I think three or four hundred dollars would cover it."

"How much did you say?" asked Reeve Moore of Tyendinaga. "I could spend another three or four thousand dollars, I say to keep the road open," Reeve Buskard.

Reeve Bill Davis, of McClure township, thought that giving responsibility to the road foremen would be a good thing. "Get a man interested and give him responsibility and he will do his best; to make good," he said.

NO DIRECTION NEEDED

County Engineer Larry Langlois said present policy allowed to begin sanding or get out snowplows without direction from Belleville. "They are the judge and if they are in doubt directions are to sand anyway," the engineer said.

The engineer went on to say, however, that there was not sufficient work to keep any but key men on during the winter and the county could not afford to pay standby time. The men were only employed if they worked all day they could not be expected to work all night also.

He believed that if council wanted additional winter maintenance than it could be worked out. The county and loader was being moved on the Madoc road for loading sand and this would speed operations. He thought that $2,000 would cover the cost of the additional service.

Reeve Rollins said the council was not trying to force the road committee to do something. "All we are asking is for efficient sanding when necessary and not delayed action," he said.

DESERVING GOOD ROADS

Warden Kincaid noted that in view of the fact only straight maintenance work had been done on the road this year, it would not be too much to ask that the Madoc road be kept to highway standards during the winter. "People of Madoc are just as good as anybody and are deserving of a road condition as good as a highway," he said.

He referred to the effort of the Madoc ratepayers' committee to have the road taken over last summer as a provincial highway. In this the committee had not been successful but the warden said he hoped the attention of council had been brought to the fact that Madoc taxpayers assisted in keeping up the county road system and were deserving of consideration.

Since the opening of the session Warden Kincaid said he had received a telephone call from Hon. George Doucett, highways minister, asking for a report as to what would be unable to attend this session of the county council to discuss the Madoc road question. However, Mr. Doucett had said he would be on hand before the end of the year and would go over the roads and would have some thing to offer.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

A general discussion on county road conditions followed, with both Reeves Sager of Madoc, and McCoy of Marmora, asking for more road construction by the county forces. In the words of Reeve Sager: "If some work was done there would have been taxpayers would feel they were getting something for their money."

Deputy Reeve H. Harder, of Sidney, wanted to know if landowners who sold property for road right-of-way on the Frankford-Foxboro development road had been paid. Engineer Langlois replied that approximately 90 per cent of the owners had now received their money.

The county committee report indicated that the Frankford development road was now completed entirely for a distance of five miles east from Frankford, or to the Wallbridge turn. Work was continuing on the three-quarter mile section east of this. Total expenditure of the work up to November 1st of this year had been $24,981, all of which was returnable to the county from the highways department. The county was required to purchase the additional right of way needed and to erect new fences, this being subsidized in the usual manner by the province.

PURCHASE POSTS

On this phase of the operation a total of $1,000 had been spent up to November 1st. In addition, this included the purchase of sufficient fence and steel posts to reach the Thompson sideroad, leaving but two and a quarter miles of the road to rebuild next year.

During the year asphalt mulch had been applied to the Stirling-Hoard's road at a cost of approximately $23,600. Prior to mulching the road surface coat had been applied as a dust preventative. This had been done before it was decided to mulch the road. The prime coat cost about $1,300.

Wages for county road employees for the year although there had been requests for this. It was noted that it was very difficult to secure labor at the 72c per hour rate paid, and the number of key men was so limited that it was difficult to handle properly the large annual expenditure along with development roads allotted during the past two years.

Members Favor Regulations Permitting Dogs to Hunt Deer

Hastings county councillors wound up their business for the year on Thursday afternoon when they completed in three days what was originally intended to be a two-day December session.

At the final session members went on record as being in favor of the county council assuming the responsibility regarding the use of dogs in hunting deer.

The motion was brought in by Reeve Clarke A. Rollins of Wollaston who said that it had come to the attention of Council that representation may be made to the Department of Lands and Forests to stop hunting with dogs in Hastings county. There was no discussion on the motion and council gave unanimous support.

Another motion passed by council recommended that legislation of parliament to both the provincial governmental and federal government and other county councils that efforts be made to have Canada's surplus of food distributed among the needy starving peoples of the world. In this way they might feel that Canadians with a conscience and it passed without comment.

Four high school trustee appointments were made by council. Brooks Allen of Tyendinaga was named to the Bay of Quinte high school district board; Lincoln Elliott of Dungannon was appointed as trustee to the Centre Hastings high school district; Thos. Brooks of Dungannon to the North Hastings board; Edward Rosch of Deseronto to the Napanee high school board, and John Reid of Sidney to the Belleville high school board.

There was another lengthy discussion on whether or not Hastings county should continue pressing toward the publishing of a tourist booklet with members expressing themselves as to the relative merits of collective and individual advertising.

Opinion was much divided on whether the county should continue the booklet in view of the fact the city of Belleville seemed unlikely to join with them in the booklet.

DISCUSS TOURIST BOOKLET

Reeve Ritchie Wells, of Marmora as chairman of the publicity committee, along with Reeve T. H. Graham of Madoc and Reeve Kincaid thought that possibly the county booklet as a form of advertising had served its usefulness. Several of the northern reeves are printing plants in this county that can do the job."

(The booklet for many years has been published in Picton with the city of Belleville, the Hastings county sharing in the cost. Advertising from tourist resort operators and hotels in the county, appears in the booklet.)

The outcome of the discussion was that the publicity committee was authorized to contact city officials with the view of determining whether or not city council had decided against continuing to pay a share of the cost of the booklet.

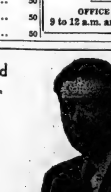
County Weed Inspector Harry Coulter reported on weed control activities during the year, noting that considerable spraying had been done to control weeds on road right of ways. Cost of this operation had been roughly $12.80 per mile for one side of the roads.

WILL CONTROL WEED

A new weed—jumbling mustard—had been discovered in the county this year and every effort was made to bring it under control. Mr. Coulter urged farmers to pull any weed of this kind found.

Harry W. Rollins, representing the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association appeared before council asking for the usual grant of $500. This was approved.

Other grants voted by council included grants of $100 to educational associations in South, Central and North Hastings, and grants of $15 each to Women's Institute branches in East Hastings, West Hastings and North Hastings plus Tweed branch of the Salvation Army was voted an increase of $20 to their grant of $250 received earlier in the year.



As the session closed Reeve Harry Morrow of Sidney expressed the gratitude of council members to Warden Jack Kincaid for his leadership during the year. All had appreciated his friendliness given and had enjoyed the fine fellowship during the year.

Candidates for Civic Office Express Views at C. of C. Meeting in BCI Auditorium

More than 300 persons attended the public meeting in the Belleville Collegiate Institute last evening to hear short campaign speeches by those seeking public office in the forthcoming municipal elections.

The candidates, with the exception of Benjamin Safe, who is ill in Belleville General Hospital, were present on the Collegiate stage to deliver their messages in person.

The meeting was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Chairman for the meeting was Frank Wallbridge, vice-president of the C. of C. who said that "the Chamber is a non-political body, interested in promoting community welfare."

Ralph Graham, secretary-manager of the Chamber, was official timekeeper for the candidates.

Following the prepared speeches was a question period in which members of the audience could further question the candidates about their past records or their policies.

MAYOR HAIG HEARD

In a brief address prior to the candidates' meeting, Mayor Walter M. McLean Haig—thanked the Chamber of Commerce for presenting the candidates with an opportunity to address the public.

"These meetings stimulate interest in civic Worship, and interest certainly needs stimulating," he said.

"It is a pity that there is so much criticism of persons who publish papers," said His Worship. "It is discouraging to men and women who might offer themselves for office."

"I suggest that whoever your officials might be that you deal kindly with them," he concluded. "They need constructive criticism, and your support and help."

PREDICTS SAME RATE

C. L. Hyde, candidate for mayor, stated that in 20 years in municipal government, on the school board and the city council, that he had been chairman of all major committees. He said that he had the best interests of the taxpayers at heart and promised that if he were elected Belleville ratepayers would have the same tax rate next year.

Mr. Hyde predicted that in five years there would be 30 acres of serviceable land on Zwick's Island. He noted the improvement in Victoria Park and expressed the hope that the industrial commission and the Chamber of Commerce would locate more industry here in 1954.

He cautioned against plunging into more capital expenditure until a significant portion of the debenture debt is retired.

Mr. Hyde concluded by stating that what the municipal ship needed at the helm was an experienced captain and crew, and not an experiment with inexperienced men. He promised that he would devote his full time to the office if elected.

John Boh, candidate for mayor, stated that taxes can and should be reduced. If he were elected, without any sacrifice in municipal services. He said that he was interested in bringing new industry to Belleville and said that the $1,000,000 debenture debt had achieved a dangerous level.

Mr. Boh stated that he was not in favor of annexation at this time because "the taxpayer would be providing services (water, light, sewers, streets, sidewalks) for the wildlife of the unoccupied areas."

"Taxes are unreasonably high under the present administration," he said, "and my opponent at no point said that taxes will go higher."

Mr. Boh concluded by stating that he had no outside political affiliations and was free to act as a group, and that he was not part of any "family compact as now exists in the city hall."

Eric Cooper, candidate for alderman, said that as a property owner, taxpayer, and family man, he had a considerable interest in the welfare of the city.

"I feel I would like to be of service," he said.

WILLING TO LEARN

Mr. Cooper promised that while his knowledge of civic politics was limited, he would learn as rapidly as possible and that he would serve to the best of his ability.

M. C. Burgess, candidate for alderman, declined to make promises because, as he said, no matter how good a plan I may have, I will need the co-operation of council.

Mr. Burgess deplored the lack of interest taken in the school board. "They are elected by acclamation," he said, "and yet they control 40 per cent of available expenditures." He said that the public was apathetic in letting the school board off with too little interest.

A message from Benjamin Safe was read by Malcolm Robb. Mr. Robb was speaking as an official of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Safe, ill in hospital, hoped he could be.

"I am a taxpayer, I am not a lawyer," said Mr. Safe who felt that the province should assume more of the cost of education. He felt the federal government should pay taxes on federal government property. He charged waste in the provincial administration in the "construction and destruction of a sanitary station in the market square," and also works in Parkwood Heights.

CITES RECORD

William Argue, candidate for alderman, cited his record of his service on council during the past four years. He said that an efficient health service had been established with prospects for a full health unit in the future. He said that new industry should be sought for the city but that industry should not be acquired at the expense of existing business men by granting subsidies or tax concessions.

Mr. Argue said that the provincial government should be forced to make financial contributors of the municipalities or assume the total cost of education in full, and that the present enforcement of the speed limit in residential areas, the recording local meetings, a ward system of election for aldermen, and a system or city management.

DEMANDING SERVICES.

Arthur Keegan, candidate for alderman, said that the fringe areas of the city were demanding services. He contended that if new industry is sought that the fringe area then it should be considered as part of the city.

In urging careful planning Mr. Keegan said that "the problem is not how to get industry, but how to spend wisely". He stated that he is not opposed to some industrial assessment to balance home assessment. He concluded by stating that he felt, as chairman of the planning board that he knew the needs of the citizens, and that if re-elected he would be glad to serve.

George DeVoyst, candidate for alderman, described for the preservation of Victoria Park. He said that a washroom was needed in the park square, "not a monument" and said that because of his position as chairman of the Rotary Club he knew what was needed.

He said that the city "missed the boat" in not acquiring land industry that would have employed between 1,000 and 2,000 people. He called for the removal of West Bridge St. a roller coaster and Ferris wheel, and removal of the CPR tracks when he was out of office he said.

WANTS TO COMPLETE JOB.

Bruce Smith, candidate for alderman, felt that his experience as chairman of the Arena and Welfare committees, and membership on the public works and executive has given him qualifiers gave him the necessary knowledge to handle municipal affairs. He said that he felt a deep, personal challenge to complete the tasks which he started.

Bram Humphreys, candidate for alderman, said that he was offering his services, "because I believe I can be of benefit service to the city I am proud to call my home town." He said that economy is a great source of revenue, but that spending the cheapest article is not the best way to do business.

"Economy is the parent of integrity," he said, "and that is what the people are looking for."

"The learned, academic candidates pepper me with all the answers," he said. "I don't". He said he had a record of service and he hoped that people would elect him.

C. D. Tice, candidate for alderman, said that he had served on the Arena, Welfare, Parks, Recreation, and planning committees and said that he felt he had done a good job for the electors.

"There is no use kidding ourselves about the tax rate," he said. "The assessment in this city is one of the lowest in the province. New schools, which we need and a new hospital wing, which we need, will tend to increase the tax rate. I do not think council has been spendthrift" he said, "with the budget or the city has been cut to the minimum."

WEST BELLEVILLE CANDIDATE.

Douglas Moxam, candidate for alderman, felt that west Belleville was not adequately represented on council.

"I stand for a city council that will start and finish a meeting in a business-like fashion without outside interference. Mr. Bateman has too much power," he said, "and that goes for Bob Pringle too." "I stand for good government," he said. "I hope you have $10 or $10,000 you will get the same justice if I judge your case."

Ralph Graham, candidate for alderman, said that previous councils had made many mistakes. He stated that in August 1953 a special committee reported to council that members were not sufficiently acquainted with their jobs.

"The only subject school not need this education?" he said, "they should be qualified by their graduation for their trade."

He said that he felt he had the proper qualifications to represent the best interest of the electorate.

Robert Temple, candidate for alderman, pledged himself to investigate proposed legislation to see that frivolous and unnecessary by-laws would not be passed. As chairman of the traffic committee he was responsible. New schools, which we for the next year, he said that it had been the aim of his committee to make the streets safe for children and to this end had constantly increased the school guard staff.

He said that he was glad to see citizens without fear or favor.

Bert Hudson, candidate for alderman, said that he was not born to criticize but to construct. He said that he had been a rubber roader for 42 years in Belleville and that now as a retired person he was offering his services. He hoped that he might be able to lower taxes if elected.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES SPEAK

John Godwin, candidate for school trustee, said that a representative at school board meetings and said that the board of education was now a big business with a budget for 1954 of $500,000. He said that he had been chairman of the dental health committee for the past year and that if elected he would endeavor to serve faithfully.

Dorothy Tugnett, candidate for school trustee, said that it was her first endeavor to seek public office. She said that she felt there was a lack of women in public life. She was well aware of the time and effort required to serve the public, but she felt she had the necessary time to give to the public school board.

F. C. McGuire, candidate for Public Utilities commissioner, said that in the past two years the commission had tried to bring about the most efficient service at the least cost to the consumers.

He said "that the H.E.P.C. had increased rates this year throughout the province an average of $24 per household but that due to "the happy position of the Belleville Utilities," there had been no increase in this city. He said that if elected he would try to prevent an increase in 1954.

Mr McGuire thought that "continuity of service" was more advantageous to the utilities than interrupted service on the commission.

Urjah Lummiss, candidate for Public Utilities Commissioner, said that there were some things he felt the electors should know.

GAS PLANT COSTS

"The gas plant was scrapped in 1948," he said, and until 1960 an annual debenture debt is excess of $15,000 will continue to be paid by property owners.

"There is a Supreme Court action for $170,000 between your utilities and the city council and you are entitled to the expenses of being a guinea pig for the property," he said.

"The water works showed a surplus of more than $14,000 in 1952," he continued, "and it has an accumulated surplus of $46,000. The city council met this sum be used to pay for improvements," he said.

"The Hydro has a surplus of $140,000. Why do we not have better street lighting?"

Mr. Lummiss promised to investigate the water works department's business if elected.

In a subsequent question period Mr. Lummiss pointed out that the Public Utilities had been assessed for residential and that the commission did not feel it was a fair assessment.

"It would have meant an increase in taxation of more than $5,000," he said. He pointed out that tdh commission in London Ontario, faced a similar assessment, had defeated council in court.

MEETINGS ARE OPEN

In answering criticism that utility business was not made public Mr. McGuire stated that a report of the commission's activities was given to the hall every year where everyone, including council, can read it, and that press members attend the monthly meetings which are open to anyone.

C. L. Hyde and John Boh, in answer to questions, both stated that they favored evening council meetings. Mr. Hyde stated that the question of whether or not Belleville should have a city manager, was being investigated by a committee and that its report would be forthcoming in the new year.

Robert Temple, as chairman of the traffic committee, undertook to answer a general question about the proposed by-law to prevent train whistling.

He refused to take sides on the matter committing himself merely to a statement that it be at station.

He said that capital cost to the city for the installation of wig-wag or flasher type warning devices at crossings, as demanded by the Board of Transport Commissioners, would cost $25,000. Installation of the warnings would have to be complete before the longer drive to the Acting area.

A total of 13,000 red plaques included in next spring's planting program on the Authority's arena ing Bridge arena. More will be planted, but this will only be done if suitable securities is purchased. Planting is carried out under the supervision of a Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

More Property May Be Purchased For Tree Planting

Purchase of additional property for planting purposes is being considered by the Moira Rive Conservation Authority with tentative plan submitted for the planting of 50,000 trees in the area of next years.

This year over 18,000 trees were planted in the Moira forest in Hungerford township where the Authority now has several hundred acres. Belleville Boy Scouts planted 4,000 trees in the Hungerford township forest on October 10th.

Fencing has been erected as firebreaks have been ploughed, protect plantings in the Hungerford area from damage by fire and school children in the southern part of the county will plant trees next spring on the Sprackett Tract in Sidney township, thus avoiding the longer drive to the Actinolite area.

CHRISTMAS A NECESSITY

We are now into the December days.

Canada's climate, or at least the climate of southern Ontario, is such that if Christmas had not existed for many generations before the white man settled the land, he would have had to invent it, or something akin to it.

It makes bearable these damp, dull, dreary days which lie between the golden glory of fall and the white and shining beauty of a land wrapped cosily in a fluffy blanket for its winter sleep. Christmas is to December what the hope of spring is to those equally damp, dull and dreary days of late March and early April.

Both remedies for the inclement elements are remedies of the spirit. For Christians, of course, Christmas and its approach has a deep religious significance. But the spirit of Christmas reaches out to embrace all, regardless of their religious beliefs. The Christmas spirit, while Christian, is not restricted to Christians in Christ. Mankind reacts spontaneously to that elixir of kindliness and friendliness which the season generates.

It is natural that, warmed by the glow of Christmastide, men should wonder why the spirit cannot prevail throughout the year. But that is asking too much, for it would create a veritable heaven on earth and that we do not appear to be destined to know and enjoy.

Of course, that friendly feeling has not yet bubbled over. December is yet far too young. But even now the approach of Christmas serves us, for preparations for the season help to relieve the gloomy hours of daylight and, when darkness falls, light houses and hearts with the confident hope that soon the world will be a warm and happy place again, if only for a few brief days.

NO QUICK REMEDY

The British House of Lords is, in some respects, akin to our Canadian Senate.

Periodically, there are pleas for the reform of both these upper houses.

"We are not so sure that the House of Lords needs to be reformed," says a columnist in an English newspaper. "There are people in it who are not mentally fitted to take part in the government of Britain, but so there are in the House of Commons."

The same observation could apply with equal force to the Canadian Senate.

It is also true in both cases that the same answer applies. Members not mentally fitted to sit in the Commons, British or Canadian, were placed there by the people. If an error has been made, it has been made by the electorate—and the electorate can remedy it in five years, or less.

If a Senator or peer is unfit, the electorate is not to blame—and more important, it can do nothing to remedy the situation. Death, though more thorough, does not move as fast as the ballot to correct the situation.

U.S. WANTS NO SATELLITES

John Foster Dulles, U.S. Secretary of States, has never made a more important statement than his declaration this week that he and President Eisenhower "do not propose to impose the assets of allied co-operation "by blundering and domineering methods."

The decision would have been a welcome one had it been taken months, if not years, before in order to avoid finding the U.S. in a situation where it stood alone.

But, besides stressing the practical value of allied co-operation, Dulles' statement is a significant observation. The Eisenhower administration, he said, would not use demands which the United States would turn down if such demands were made of it.

In other words, the U.S. wants no satellites.

Those who are always advocating that Uncle Sam should talk turkey to John Bull or Johnny Canuck or some other ally seem mentally incapable of grasping the fact that if an ally surrenders to such talk that ally becomes a satellite. The difference between it and Communist Poland is one of degree and not of kind; it would be subservient to a vastly different master, but still subservient.

Dulles evidently believes that freedom is best served by free men. We think he is right.

REASON FOR ADMIRATION

"Everybody at some time of his or her life has become exasperated with Winston Churchill, but Churchill never, even Sir Winston Churchill," writes "Brutus" in the London Weekly Recorder. "But," he adds, "you cannot help admiring the man."

Is that word "but" necessary? Indeed does it not give a totally false impression?

It would be going too far to say that everybody admires Churchill because everybody has been exasperated by him. But can you recall one persons whom you admire who has not, at some time or another, exasperated you? The man or woman who never annoys is an insipid character. So is the person who can never be annoyed. One is not worthy of admiration, the other not capable of it.

THINGS

Possession surely comfort brings, But they don't run to greet me
And I don't put my trust in things. when I'm fond of books, but books I walk the path to home again.
alone,
I'd say, are not enough to own.
The day's task done, when home I sit by at last, the fireside's glow,
I want someone to say: "Hello!"

I don't go home the chairs to see. Nor don't take them upon my knee.
Like the pictures on the wall
Or they would not be there at all.

"I decided as long as you're going to be mad you might as well be good and mad."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"GOD LIVES!"

A student of world affairs remarked to an audience recently that whereas before the war 25 per cent of the people in central Europe were loyal to the Church, today more than 75 per cent are loyal to the Church. However, as he pointed out, the loyalty of the 75 per cent of to-day is more real worth packed into it than the nominal allegiance of the 75 per cent in prewar days.

In many places in Germany, one sees a sign reading, "God Lives." The reason why a sign of this sort is put up is because so many people have come to believe that God has died. Furthermore, it expresses the ardent faith of people who are praying for the loving purpose of an allpowerful, heavenly Love reign.

A play was written some years ago on the theme that humanity continues on day by day by faith in the skin of its teeth. Certainly this is true spiritually. We are always standing on the very edge of the hell of destruction. The whole human race is in the grip of the tragedy of being spiritually destroyed. We are very conscious of this acute situation today. When we hear the siren sound, we sit up with a start and say, "Is this what we have been dreading would happen?"

No, the big danger is right at our feet—right in the very center of our own hearts. That is why Christ cannot destroy civilization but our lack of faith can destroy it.

"God Lives!"

The Age of the Refugee

(By C.S.E.

In The Winnipeg Free Press)

The post-war period has been described as the Atomic Age. It can with equal justice be called the Age of the Refugee.

In many ways the refugee is a docile and unresisting human individual. He goes, with his family and his few possessions, long he can carry, where he is told to go. Sometimes because he has no choice in the matter, what happens to the temporary host can offer. He has lost almost completely his independence of action. Whether he may once have been he is now a man without authority, uprooted and adrift in a preoccupied world.

But the refugee is also a desperate man. He has little left to lose. For the sake of freedom and the right of independence he has already risked his life and sacrificed almost everything that he held most dear; his home, his possessions, his means of livelihood.

When at last he reaches a country in which he can hope to establish his family he is apt to be sensitive about his changed personality, to the jealousy his presence may arouse in those who fear his eager competition, to the known fact of insecurity, if he achieves it, will be resented by some who, lacking his initiative, have had to live dependence, have not themselves undertaken.

"This bitter yearning for a home, for a livelihood, for man's family can once again take root, permanently, while countless army of refugees as it shifts from across Europe, and it is not always a coincidence that the greatest numbers of that army consist of those who have known greatest disturbance. No understanding of the nature of the problem of international tension as Germany, Trieste and the Jordan Valley is possible without taking to account the problem of the refugee.

Germany is one of the pivot points upon which the future of Europe is turning, and 10 million of West Germany's 50 million people are refugees — one person in five. Nine million of those refugees have found their way to the Federal Republic for themselves in their new homeland, but the task of "surplus population." There is no room for them in West Germany's economy, for they are not wanted and cannot be separated from the problem of post-war Europe's total economy of Europe.

Trieste, though perhaps not the powder keg of Europe, is certainly a strategically-placed powder keg can ever while a serious military best is poised. And Trieste is the refugee boiltrouble for refugees. It lies upon the escape route from the Balkan overcrowded acres and strained economic resources and cannot support its uninvited guests. It cannot very well turn them back to almost certain death, persecution and hell, and, because the countries of the free world have been so reluctant in shutting their doors against immigration, the refugees are piling up in Trieste.

Perhaps it is on the Jordan-Israeli border that the tragic nature of the refugee problem is at this moment most obvious and most tragic. On the Jordan River west of the river, live some 450,000 Arabs. Three hundred thousand of these Arabs are refugees. They exist upon near-starvation rations, supplied by the United Nations relief organization. In this area, writes Mr. R. H. Crossman in the New Statesman and Nation, "the terrible is the destitution that the refugees regarded as a privileged person." And Miss Elizabeth Monroe, who recently visited Jordan, estimates the damage that these homeless population are completely destitute.

It was across the small holdings of these non-refugees that the near desecration like the between Israel and Jordan was drawn. This line cuts their land off from their own lands, but because they still have their homes they are not eligible for ration cards. It is not surprising that these landless Arabs have been involved in the raids of the almost 200 "incidents" which have taken place along this disturbed the frontier. Under cover of darkness they slip across the invisible line to steal what they can from the land they once owned.

On the Israeli side of this uneasy frontier live hundreds of thousands of Jews, refugees from the crowded cities of Asia and Europe, and these people, with nervous jealousy a few green acres of their reclaimed land. Living in an atmosphere reminiscent of Canada's pioneer days, they must keep a nightly watch against these marauding bands of natives, who prowl in the darkness. Mothers dare not let their children play alone, farmers corral their cattle and lock up everything that could be lifted or wheeled away.

Against these sporadic and unorganized side show of disturbance, peril have retaliated in force. The bloody raids by Israeli troops on Kibya, in which 53 Arabs were killed, is the best of those reprisals and was lately the subject of long and anxious debate in the Security Council of the United Nations.

But though the most spectacular and acute aspects of the refugee problem are to be found in Germany, Trieste and the Jordan Valley, the problem is not confined to any particular locality. It has become a major problem of the Far East, where there are at the present time from three to four million men and women in Europe who are considered "exotic" population. There is simply no place for them in the European scheme of things. They must find a home in Asia, in Africa, Canada and the United States and Australia are the countries to which they are looking.

To help them find these homes a provisional committee was set up in 1952. This committee, now a permanent organization and known as the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, has in the first 18 months of its operation helped 54,000 refugees to 119,284 persons. Its plans for 1954 call for a movement of 132,000 persons.

At this rate it will be a long time before the refugee problem's accounts can be brought into balance. There is no reason to suppose it will not be possible to find that Age of the Refugee is past.

Our Changing Climate

This mild November is more evidence to support the case of those who are maintaining with increasing vigor that the climate is changing—that the Winters in Eastern Canada are becoming shorter and less severe.

Oil in Manitoba

While oil production in Manitoba is still far behind that in Alberta and Saskatchewan, there is cause for satisfaction that the number of wells in this province continues to increase and that the output steadily grows.

German Border Is a Doorway

(Owen Sound Sun Times)

Has Russia by accepting one half of Germany as her domain opened the door the way for new defeat? This an interesting speculation perhaps not as far-fetched as at first it sounds.

East and West Germany are bound together so closely, being one people, that the East is in part an open door through which the West can get behind the iron curtain.

In this past year All-German conferences have been held in West Germany, with delegates people from the East. Notable among these have been church conferences.

Last August one was held in Hamburg to which 12,000 people came by special trains through the partition. Speaking before the conference Dr. Eric Wolf declared that the present position of Germany, between East and West, making a bridge between the two great mutually opposed world blocs. A bridge is a means of communication. It can be used for the traffic of ideas. That is what is going on now. And the blood fraternity of divided Germany will keep the traffic moving.

If Russia has set out to make East Germany as the most powerful nation from the Western half she has made a mistake. The border between them is not a wall, nor an open door or curtain. It is a bridge. It is a doorway through the West has the opportunity of pouring in the ideas of faith, of couragement. The ferment of democracy is thus kept moving among those under the Russian heel, and the strengthening of their morale, may well make East Germany the Achilles' heel of Russia's European adventure.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE NEEDED

I don't think we begin to really live until we are overpowered with the sense of being needed. It is something that occupies the mind, shut flows through the blood stream, and suffuses and warms the heart itself. And perhaps it is what creeps into the soul!

Mothers know what I am trying to write. Mothers are always needed, and God confirms that consciousness within them. When fear and doubt and all this power of being needed in the world that immediately becomes our ally. How many times in history being has been close to the door of death itself, only to exclaim: "I can't die, I'm needed."

It is this sense of being needed that controls the will to survive

The Greatest Faith Ever Known

By Fulton Oursler and April Oursler Armstrong

The Second Martyr

CHAPTER 13

In the few years since Jesus had ascended into heaven, His teachings had traveled far beyond the confines of Judaea. The first fugitives from Saul's bloodthirsty persecutions, fleeing on dark roads at night to safety, settled down to become the core of Christian branches in foreign lands. As always that first persecution sowed the seeds of richly harvest for the faith.

The new Church advanced as if by geometrical progression. A little Christianity in a town soon leavened the whole, and hundreds flocked to join the new outpost of faith. Wherever a Christian had to go, for whatever reason, he carried the glorious message further on.

To those distant outposts of the faith, no word had come as yet of the extraordinary announcement of salvation for all mankind. Christianity was being spread abroad, but only to the Jews and no one else.

Neither God nor His servants could let this state of affairs continue. The time had come for a new force to shape the Christian image — an apostolate to the Gentiles.

Some of the Christians from Cyprus and from the rich and powerful city of Cyrenaica, which Luke called Cyrene, came to visit in Antioch. There they met a colony of educated Greeks, Gentiles with open minds, hungry as the Roman Cornelius had been for the truth. And the Christians from Cyprus preached Jesus to these Greeks in Antioch.

"And," says Luke, with a certain relish, "the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord."

Word of these Greek Gentile conversions reached Jerusalem just after the victorious announcement of the open-door policy of the Church. The apostles welcomed the news as a chance for immediate and decisive action. They sent Barnabas to Antioch, as their personal representative, to guide the new converts and their teachers, the Greek Christians from Barnabas' homeland of Cyprus.

The far-reaching consequences of that decision of the Apostles were actually to change the history of the world. For through Barnabas the greatest of all Christian voices was to be called back to lead the martyrs and heroes of the saints. Barnabas was to summon his friend Paul of Tarsus into the front line of battle.

Barnabas was a natural choice for the important mission in Antioch. For he was a good man," says Luke, "and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith."

He knew how to talk with the Greek converts. He could quote Aristotle and Plato and have no stranger to the mysteries of old philosophical disputations. His ideas were liberal; though he was of Jewish blood, he came from a polyglot island and he met all men as his brothers, as the Lord had taught.

Barnabas fulfilled his mission in Antioch well. He was like a great bridge of mind and spirit between Jew and Greek. But facing the situation there, he knew that he needed a mind more capable of dialectic, tougher in mental combat, to bring the Gentiles in.

Then Barnabas remembered the words which it Damascus the Voice had spoken to Ananias concerning Paul before his baptism:

"He is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear My Name before the Gentiles . . ."

Of course! Remembering, Barnabas turned his face, as if ordered, toward Tarsus to seek Paul. That was why, after thirteen years of tentmaking and meditation, Paul was invited to join in the apostolic labors.

At last he was called into action.

At last! How his heart must have leaped. After having been alone, called by Jesus, visited and instructed by God in the desert, thirteen years of inaction must have weighed oppressively on Paul. To a young man, full of zest and proven courage God's way must have seemed most mysterious.

As he stepped forward with Barnabas, Paul realized that the stern discipline of those years of obscurity had trained his soul to a fine pitch. He restless, eloquent mind had kept silent in his tentmaking shop; his hands, which were soon to wield a fiery pen, had kept busy with needle and thread, while his spirit grew. And now he was ready.

Paul and Barnabas went to Antioch together, as they were to go side by side, on foot and on ship over a large part of the Roman Empire. Soon Paul's words and deeds were to bring both glory and trouble to those called Christians. But in his first weeks with Barnabas in Antioch, his labors were blessed with harmony and inspired fervor.

What trouble there was then for the Church came not in Antioch, but in Jerusalem.

The apostles and disciples were not worldly. Simple-spirited, enchanted with the true faith, they moved through a time of seething political unrest with little thought for anything save spreading and living the Gospel. But the world would not leave them alone.

Christians could hardly ignore the complicated and murderous succession of Roman emperors, or the intrigues and scandals of local kings. From the throne of Rome and Judaea malignant hands reached out to strike down the faithful one by one.

Who were these rulers who could arrest, torment, and kill Christians to suit their political schemes — or even for sheer sport?

In the palace of Herod Agrippa I, puppet king of Judaea, new terror was brewing for the Church. This king, grandson of that terrible Herod the Great who murdered the boy babies of Bethlehem, was about to launch the second major persecution of Christians.

To heighten his own popularity with his subjects, particularly the Pharisees, he decided in the year 44 to persecute the Christians.

Luke coolly reports, "Herod the King stretched forth his hands to afflict some of the Church."

His first move was against James, the brother of John the Beloved. James the Greater, as history was to name him, had not wavered in his devotion to the Christ since the day when he had stood with three other boatmen on the Galilean shore and heard Jesus call them to be fishers of men.

From the beginning he and his brother, John the Beloved, had stood in a special place among the twelve apostles. With Peter, they had been the only witnesses of the Transfiguration, of the raising of the daughter of Jairus, and of the dreadful hours of Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane.

"Sons of Thunder," Jesus had called these brothers, James and John. Already the James the Greater had proved it so lofty chosen agnomen. He was a bold aggressive man, daring anything for the cause in which he believed so devotedly. No Christians in Jerusalem were more conspicuous than Peter and James the Greater.

That was why Herod singled them out as objects of cruelty in his new persecution. He intended to make an example of both these "fanatics." By death and terror he thought to stamp out the fire of Christianity, and ingratiate himself with his own Pharisee subjects.

He pounced on the thunderous James, and put him to death by the sword.

James the Greater was buried in secret, the second martyr among the followers of Jesus.

And in the councils of the Pharisees of the Jerusalem Temple the fact of the apostle's death was received with loquacious satisfaction. Thanks to Herod Agrippa, the elders and the scribes thought their cause beginning to win the battle against Christianity.

VOTERS' LIST DOWN

TORONTO (CP) — This year's civic voters' list shows 351,185 eligible to vote next Monday, 13,005 fewer than last year. Bulk of the drop was attributed to influx of immigrants, who are ineligible, moving into areas previously occupied by persons with a vote. A small drop in the city's population was believed to have had a minor effect.

Weddings

KANE—WALDEN

White, bronze and yellow chrysanthemums in interspersed with ferns formed a lovely background in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 28, at 2:00 p.m., for the marriage of Joan Mary Walden, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walden, to David Melville Kane, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Kane. The Reverend S. E. Larmon, minister of the church, officiated. Mr. C. Tompter, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Isobel Cruikshank, of Peterborough, who sang, before the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register "Through The Years."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Walden, was charming in her bridal gown of white nylon lace, net and satin, featuring a mock-neck, strapless bodice, with lace ribbon having metallic sheen edging in lily points over the sides, and queen anne collar. The floor-length, graceful skirt was accented by an overskirt of nylon lace that ended in a "V" point at the back. Her fulle illusion fingertip veil was held by a matching gilded cap, and she carried a shower bouquet of yellow and white roses.

Miss J. Church, of Napanee, was maid of honour. She wore a floor-length gown of bronze taffeta with strapless bodice and matching bolero. She wore a crown feather headdress and matching mitts, and carried a muff and bouquet of yellow mums.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Florence, of Belleville, and Miss Jean Kane, also of Belleville, were gowned alike in floor-length models with bodices of petal tops, and scalloped bottoms. They wore matching gloves, feathered headdresses and carried yellow mum bouquets.

Mr. J. Kane, of Belleville, brother of the groom, was best groomsman, while Mr. Merle Massey, and Mr. Robert Smith, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, both of Belleville, acted as ushers.

At the reception, which was held in the church parlors, which were beautifully decorated with yellow and white romadas for the occasion, the bride's mother received, wearing smoke grey crepe with black lace and accessories, with pink rose corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a royal blue two-piece suit of crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, the bride chose a lilac shade knitted boucle suit with winter green accessories and one large, deep mauve chrysanthemum corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Kane will reside at 338 Bell Street, Peterborough, upon their return. Guests were present from Ashawa, Peterborough, Toronto, and Kingston.

McGILL—BURD

Yellow, bronze and white 'mums decorated St. Andrew's Anglican church, Wellington, when Rosemary Bernice Burd, only daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. Irs Burd, became the bride of Gerald McGill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale McGill of Newburgh, Ontario. Rev. Charles Raven, L.Th., B.D., officiated. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Dayton Murphy and Frederick McNeill sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "A Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace and nylon tulle over satin. The tiered lace bodice featured a standup collar and long pointed sleeves and a peplum of lace accented the cordion-pleated crinolined skirt. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held by a lace cap edged with seed pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Donald McGill, of Toronto, matron of honour, wore a green gold nylon tulle in ballerina length, with full tiered skirt and fitted bodice.

The bridesmaids, Misses Phyllis and Margaret McGill, were similarly gowned in bronze and green. All wore matching feather hats and carried bouquets of harmonizing 'mums.

Mr. Donald McGill was his brother's groomsman, while F/O. Howard Lochhead, and Robert McGill acted as ushers.

The reception was held at Grahamsmor, Picton, where the bride's mother received in Dior blue with corsage of pink orchid and the bridegroom's mother in Rosewood crepe with corsage of harmonizing roses.

Four pretty schoolmates of the bride assisted in serving the turkey dinner which followed.

Out-of-town guests were from Sodbury, Brantford, Clinton, Toronto, Brighton, Trenton, Belleville, Consecon, Napanee, Kingston and Enterprise.

For travelling to Chicago the bride chose a dress of deep violet wool with matching hat and grey kiddin coat.

Mr. and Mrs. McGill will reside in Toronto.

WHALEN—FRUE

A very pretty autumn wedding took place at the Church of the Assumption, Frankford, on Saturday morning, November 28, when Helen Mae Frue, elder room long of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Frue, of Tamworth, was united in marriage to Burton T. Whalen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael W. Whalen, of Point Anne, Ontario. The Reverend F. Feeney of Erinsville, officiated. Eugene Mahoney, bagpiper of Anne, and Ted Hopkins, of Belleville, were soloists.

During the ceremony, Mr. Harold Davison sang, "O Sanctissima." Then, escorted by the Giri guides, while in the centre rectangle were the lions. Anony Mi," accompanied by Mr. Ambrose Larkin, Mr. Whalen's groomsman rendered the wedding music, which included the "Wedding March" and "Bridal Procession."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in floor-length bridal gown of white nylon net and lace, worn over white satin with mist-sheer yoke. Her fingertip veil was held with seed pearls and bugle beads. The bridegroom's mother, Anony Mi," attended to lily points over the wrists. Her fingertip embroidered silk veil was held with a lace and pearl headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white American Beauty roses and adiantum fern.

Miss Margaret McDonald, of Belleville, as maid of honour, was gowned in nile green nylon and brocade taffeta, featuring chrysanthemums and Miss Betty Frue, of Belleville, aided the bride, as bridesmaid, was attired in mauve nylon and carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums. Both attendants wore headdresses of matching flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Patrick Barrett, of Belleville, and the ushers were Messrs. James Logue and Phillip Bennett, of Point Anne.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the bridal guests at Tamworth Town Hall, where the members of the Women's Association of the United Church, served a delicious wedding breakfast.

The bride's table was exquisitely appointed with a three-tier wedding cake and tall white candles.

The bride's mother received, attired in copen blue trimmed with rhinestone work and black accessories and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a grey crepe with matching accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Reverend J. A. Feeney, to which the bridegroom responded. After the taking of several pictures, the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a social time was enjoyed, after which the young couple left for Niagara Falls and other points in the States. The bride travelled in a beige wool dress with black green accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Whalen will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Belleville, Point Anne, Gananoque, Napanee, Buffalo N.Y., and Kingston.

BENTON—JAMES

A lovely autumn wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, November 25, at 3:30 p.m., in Christ Church, Belleville, by the Reverend Everett Smith, assistant rector of the church, when Sybil Margaret James, of Belleville, R.R. 1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William James, became the bride of William Ralph Benton, of New Westminster, B.C., son of Mr. Ralph Benton, of New Westminster, B.C., and the late Mrs. Benton. Chrysanthemums and

Tabernacle United Church Bazaar, A Christmas Wonderland of Color

Like a page from "Alice in Wonderland," or a peep into the "Arabian Nights," was the Tabernacle United Church Christmas bazaar and tea, held Wednesday afternoon.

To be welcomed at the outer entrance by a happy family, mother, dad and junior, warmly wrapped in white snow suits, and on entering to be greeted by Santa's disarming smile, as he stood beside his sleigh amid the Lapland snow and evergreens; then the third and great welcome by the resplendonists, Mrs. F. Davidson, Mrs. R. Bowley, Mrs. Kelleher and Mrs. Archibald, made it all most more dreamlike, and after that the first glimpse into the fairyland of giant Christmas crackers which by some magic wand had taken the place of the usual massive pillars. Great red, silver-centred stars highlighted each cracker, and round about the room long gay festoons of streamers their intriguing way, interspersed at intervals with more red silver-centred stars, above the various booths each one in its way suggesting the Christmas spirit.

VARIOUS BOOTHS

On the outer sides were the candy booth; the post office; the men's booth; the homecooking, and the booth presided by the Girl guides, while in the centre rectangle were the linens, aprons, nifty, the apron, the felt work and the old animal booths, and in one of the Sunday School rooms, the nursery where the tiny tots might be amused while mothers shopped, and had a congenial cup of tea.

The stuffed animals and felt work booth, convened by Mrs. Ross Robinson and Mrs. Dier and Mrs. Kolver, Mrs. Judge, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. McNish, Mrs. Dier and Mrs. Winstanley, was replete with fat little grey rabbits; calico camels; red nosed horses; long-eared donkies; a red and white Scottie dog; dish-cloth pandies, sachet nets; mitts of all colors and sizes; lovely felt shopping bags with floral appliques; red apple, peach and plum pin cushions, looking most real; dolls' felt cushions, bonnets, mitts, pants and boots; felt collars in plaids, and a host of other attractive articles that space will not permit of mention.

FINE LINENS

The linen section had an exceptionally fine display of embroidered towels; pillow slips, some of the "Ilie" and "Hers" variety; others with floral motifs, while one lovely pair had an appliqued Gibson Girl done in colors of pink blouse, with skirt of many ruffles in mauve edged with filet; yellow, the dog completing the yellow parasol being held aloft. There were tiny bath towels and the like, nursery ones, soft and absorbent, some with floral, bird and other designs bordered with contrasting bands of color; in yellow, rose and blue; little dish towels, bags all signed as little dresses; luncheon cloths with matching napkins; tray cloths, and lovely tablecloths and napkins.

The conveners of this display were Mrs. W. Dougherty and Mrs. Shaw, assisted by Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Cowles, Mrs. Lockyer, Mrs. Yark and Mrs. Oliver.

The novelties, convened by Mrs. Gosnline, Mrs. F. MacLean, Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. and Brickman, Mrs. H. Bovay, Mrs. H. Gray, Mrs. Gosnline, Mrs. Lacey and Miss Ethel Horton, had an delightful array of fancy suitable Christmas gifts, including some lovely African violets; some in flower, and others in bud bedding; there were several crocheted bed jackets, in rose and white, as well as frilly ones designating for what use by the word "bread," and "cake" on the chest; some soft Angora knitted collars; powder puffs; nile petals crocheted hats as holders; pretty handkerchief and glove sachet bag edging; pot holder receptacles; little crocheted jackets; wall plaques; plastic coasters, and fancy mitts with ornate backs.

RICH OF COLOR

On the apron section there was a riot of color and of designs; some in factory cotton as the cobbler apron becoming quite popular, with yellow bibs binding and the pocket edges accented by pretty embroidery; others with the same style were in dark blue with cretonne pockets, while several were in raindrop plaids, and fruit squares, each square housing either an apple, golden peach, or bunch of grapes. There were dainty tea aprons in organdy and the heavy duty aprons so necessary around the home on busy days. These were convened by Mrs. May and Mrs. C. Hogle, assisted by Mrs. P. Ketcheson, Mrs. Ham and Mrs. M. Burgess.

The parcel post booth was quite attractive with its two Union Jacks and blue wicket fence guarding the entrance, and red and green interlacing garlands ran from end to end across the deep white vestibule, doing double duty, being both patriotic and seasonal. Mrs. Ham was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Bovay and Mrs. Allen. Apparently there had been quite a "run" on the office, since every viewed most of the mail had been checked, leaving the postmistresses cosily chatting as they watched the surging throngs passing and repassing. The guardians of Her Majesty's mail were: Mrs. Jones, Mrs. G. Hicks, Mrs. Norman, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. Hillman.

DELIGHTFUL CANDY BOOTH

The candy booth, convened by Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Davis with their helpers, Mrs. Priest, Mrs. Redner, Mrs. Wiley, Mrs. Robinson, and Mrs. Hagar, was a delight to the eye as well as to the palate. Two huge candy canes sentinelled the counter at either end, while two lovely gumdrop trees added touches of beauty to the tempting boxes, cups, cards and saucers of peanut brittle; divinity fudge; chocolate creams; maple creams; colored mixture; plain taffy as seldom seen, but, or, how good, bringing back the good old school days when one stealthily slipped into a piece of taffy into one's mouth, only to be asked the next moment to recite, and the futile attempt to get rid of the offending morsel without being caught—turkish delight in colors of red, green and white, and popcorn balls with pale pink tint.

The Girl Guide booth was highlighted by a decorated miniature Christmas tree, upon whose branches hung little mystery packages, which might be had for the stipulated stipend. Other articles included strings of white beads; variety of earrings, gold brooches, tie clips, glass plates, pepper, salt and mustard set, little animals of wood, necklies, and necklaces. Those in charge were Mrs. Warnick and Mrs. Old, assisted by Mrs. Howard and Miss Lepore.

EXQUISITE HANDICRAFT

The men's booth was outstanding with its exquisite handicraft, including lovely corner whatnots in fretwork, magazine racks in the form of an old stage coach, little Donald Duck rockers, rocking horses, blue wheelbarrows, blocks of smoker stand, and another with the butler aspect, little lawn furniture for children, nut bowls, smooth and shining, woven trays for fruit, door stop rabbit, lamp base, drafting sets, cradles, donkey cigaret dispenser, a large black diamond cheese, little wall brackets of stairs, and some symbolic of Canada showing a squirrel poised between maple leaves. Messrs. Naylor and Mr. E. Schlievert were the conveners with Messrs R. Irwin, E. Taylor, A. Fields, Fields and W. Judge as helpers.

The nursery was attended by Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Pettifor, Mrs. E. May and Mrs. Pogue looked after the tiny tots.

The homecooking booth, as usual, was about four or five deep and it looked as if some shown might be used for the ceiling to even get a peep in. The burf confectionists, Mrs. E. Cornish and Mrs. Davidson, assisted by Mesdames Nunn, Goodfellow, Grandame, Schlievert, Lansridge, Firth, Henley, Arthurs, Woods, McMillan and Wood, were kept at a constant pace wrapping the dainty confections of cocoaput gems, currant buns, chocolate cup cakes, taffy tarts, fruit loaves, date and nut loaves, angel cakes, pickles, scones, doughnuts, meringues, butterfly cream cakes, looking so tempting—only sophistication kept the stealthy finger controlled—pumpkin, lemon, berry, apple and butterscotch pies, date squares, tea biscuits, Chinese chews, canned peaches, jellies, potato salad — another temptation—and baskets of onions and rosy apples.

CHARMING TEA TABLES

The ladies' parlor and the recreation room were set aside for the charming twin tea tables, that in the ladies' parlor was appointed with a white, hand crocheted cloth over an arrangement of pine in tree form, mingled with white Shasta daisies, and tiny, little snow-men perched at intervals on the pine branches. Silver candelabra with tall, red candles, and gleaming silver services added the pleasing effect. That in the recreation room was appointed in similar manner with the exception that the cloth was of Scotch lace.

The tea room convener was Mrs. E. W. Boulton, and the tea room hostesses were Mrs. H. B. Moorman and Mrs. Charles Mott.

Those who presided at the silver services included: Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Mrs. M. P. Duff, Mrs. E. C. Wills, Mrs. H. Bovay, Mrs. E. B. May, Mrs. A. H. Fisher, Mrs. G. F. Lent and Mrs. H. C. Burgess. McBride and Mrs. Ross Ramsaker; while those who served were: Mesdames Mrs. MacLaren, B. Salisbury, M. Smith, L. Andrews, A. B. Bell, G. A. Stewart, M. Birchett, C. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HER FIANCE WANTS HER TO GIVE UP ALL HER FRIENDS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

After going with a very fine boy for two years I recently became engaged to him.

I love this boy very much, and this almost everything which would accept one thing. That is that he expects me to give all my girl friends so as to spend all my time with him. He says he intends to do the same with his friends.

This worries me very much, because it doesn't seem to me it is right. We have had a number of arguments about it, and I am afraid if he continues to feel this way, it will cause quarrels between us after we are married.

I would like to know if you think I am right or wrong.

Stella H.

Dear Stella:

Indeed you are not wrong, but on the contrary, very right. Nothing could be more unfortunate than for you two give up your friends and concentrate exclusively on each other. No matter how much he love two people may be, they need the companionship of other people, too. This is not only the normal way to live, but unless each of you has other interests in addition to each other and sooner or later you will find yourselves at some sort of crisis brought on by boredom.

I hope you can get your fiance to look at this matter differently before you are married, and have it clearly understood that you will be free to go out for good times with your girl friends when you both, and that he should have the same privilege. That is the only sensible basis for any marriage.

ANYBODY CAN HAVE AN INTERESTING LIFE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I don't go out much because I don't have any friends. On Saturday nights I always go to the movies alone.

Can you give me the address of a YWCA in my community where I can go and meet people and get out more? I am 21 years of age.

A.M.

Dear A.M.:

If you will send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, I will be very glad to give you not only the address of a YWCA near you, but some other suggestions as how to make more friends and acquire new interests.

There is no reason whatever for a young woman 21 years old to be lonely, friendless and have no place to go for fun. These are times when there are more ways than ever before by which people of any age can find friends and make an interesting life for themselves, and you can do it, too. All it takes is a sufficiently strong desire to change your life and enough initiative to set about doing it.

Let me hear from you soon and I will tell you how to start. After that, it's up to you.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS

Poor little shy girl! She doesn't know that self-consciousness is a dreadful affliction among adults as well as teen-agers. All she knows is that she always feels like a wallflower and she wishes she weren't! This young lady must learn to cultivate a little healthy vanity and self-respect. She must look in the mirror and say "You may not be type, Cutie, but you're all right, and some day you will be the life of the party!" It has happened many, many times.

Parents must be patient, helpful, never critical. Never tell the shy girl to "snap out of it" as that's the thing she wants to do more than anything else in the world.

The wise mother will make her home attractive, and be so gay herself that girls—and boys too—will be glad to drop in. The attitude of parents toward a girl's friends is an important element in her life and can make her happy or unhappy.

The shy child is constantly beset with fears—fear that she will do or say the wrong thing. All this is painful to the point of heartbreak.

She should go to church, become a part of a young people's society. These fellowships are the source of much pleasure. Amusements are planned, are gay and festive. They will give your little shy girl a chance to try her social wings, to mix with boys and girls of her own age. Once she becomes articulate, isn't afraid to give utterance to her thoughts, she may awaken to full bloom, be able to chatter and laugh with the best of them. Her world will be brighter, her life more normal.

Teach her to keep one thought in mind: you can't be nice to people unless you have nice thoughts about them. She should think kindly of her companions, never envy them. She should make it a practice to tell her girl friends that they look pretty, that she admires their pretty clothes. Everyone responds to attentions of that kind. We all love them.

CONCERNING CHRISTMAS TIME AND OUR ADDRESS BOOKS

Christmas time is the time when most of us get our address-books in up-to-date condition. For this pleasant pursuit return addresses, written or printed, are of timely service . . .

"For every friend must have a name

And live upon a street

And it will often help you much

To have your list complete!"

RETURN ADDRESSES ON CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

To settle a discussion my sister and I are having, please answer this question: Is it proper to write one's return address on Christmas card envelopes?

Myra L.

Yes, Ma'am! It's proper . . . it's practical . . . it's sensible . . . and it's mighty good insurance for the safe arrival of your cards. The return address may be written in the upper-left corner of the front of the envelope, or on the flap.

STICKERS ON CHRISTMAS CARD ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My husband has returned from overseas service, he has a good job, we have bought a small house, and so now, "at long last," we have our own address book. We are thrilled that yesterday I ordered several packets of stickers printed (in red!) with our name and address. My husband suggested we might be a good idea for us to use these on the backs of the envelopes of our Christmas cards. Would this be correct, or should I write the name and address on the envelopes? (We're planning to send out quite a few cards this Christmas, to try to get in touch with many friends we haven't seen or even heard from for a long time.)

A Happy "Mrs."

Please use those proud new stickers! This is proper, practical . . . and the stickers so appropriately printed in Christmas-red. Christmas is a busy season for everyone . . . certainly for the Post Office attendants, . . . and so every short-cut to definiteness and clarity is a help. Everyone to whom you send cards will be informed of your new address; or, if an addressee is not located, the Post Office has the printed information for the return of the card. I know you and your husband will have a wonderful time sending lots of Christmas cards . . . with the stickers causing the good word of "Home, Sweet Home"! My salutations to you, Happy Mrs.!

WHEN GIFT IS SENT AFTER THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When a great friend of mine was married two months ago, I was very ill in the hospital, not able even to plan to send her a wed'ing present. Now I am well, and my husband and I would like to send the wedding present. It is to be a medium-size silver tray (which I know she wants very much), and I would like to have it monogrammed. Should I order the initials I would have ordered before her marriage, or her married initials? (If not, please give me an example.) Also my husband insists that the present now should be addressed to both the bride and groom, but I think it should be addressed to the bride only. Please advise us about this.

Mrs. M.

You should use the bride's married initials on this present to be given after the marriage has taken place. For example, if the bride's name was Dorothy Smith and she married James Brown, the initials you would order would be DCB.

Your husband is right . . . the present should now be addressed to the bride and groom.

(Grace B. requested this.)

One-quarter cup butter or shortening, 1 cup white sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 small teaspoon soda (M.M. note: this should be 1 level measuring teaspoon soda), 1 cup finely cut dates, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour 1 cup boiling water over dates and soda. Cool. Add other ingredients. Spread on pan 9 1-2 by 13 1-2 and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Then cover with the following which has been boiled three minutes: 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1-4 cup coconut or Krumbles, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cream. Brown in oven.

Note: Also in the same mail came letters from Muriel M.; Mrs. Charles J.; June W.; Evelyn G.; D. G. G. giving the recipe for Queen Elizabeth Cake. You are a grand crowd and I appreciate your quick support. Miss Charles J. thinks 1 teaspoon soda is a bit too much. Evelyn G. thinks 3-4 cup boiling water makes the cake a little less moist, and that 60 minutes baking at 350 deg. F., is correct. I have enough versions of G. E. cake to make one whole folder for it now. Thank you all.

QUESTION:

Would you be kind enough to send me your recipe for pumpkin pie? I can't begin to tell you what a marvelous column you have. I have a whole drawer full of your recipes.—Margaret McM.

QUESTION:

Would you please send me a good pumpkin pie recipe?—Mrs. W. E. W.

ANSWER:

The recipe below will please both of you, I hope. It is not highly spiced, but you could add 1-4 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg if you want a spicy pie.

PUMPKIN PIE

(Filling for 1 10-inch plate.)

One and one-half cups canned pumpkin, 2-3 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 large or 3 small eggs, 2 cups whole milk. (If you would like a richer pie use 1 cup each milk and cream or top milk.) Add spices, sugar, and salt to pumpkin. Beat eggs and add milk to them. Stir into pumpkin mixture. Pour into large deep pie plate which has been lined with plain pastry with high fluted edge. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for another 35 minutes or until filling is fairly firm at centre.

LETTER:

This is in reply to your request for

METROPOLITAN CAKE

Which you requested.

Two-thirds cup butter, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, 1-3 cup chopped raisins, 1-4 cup currants, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 1 teaspoon flavoring. Method: Cream the butter and the sugar well. Add the beaten egg yolks. Sift the flour before measuring, then sift it once more with the baking powder. Add the flour alternately with the milk in small amounts. Beat after each addition until it is smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Fill two 8-inch layer pans w'l 2 of the batter. To the remaining batter add the spices, corn syrup, chopped raisins and currants. Pour into a third layer pan. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Put together with spice layer in centre. Ice with brown sugar icing. — Grace B.

Home economists agree that there are two basic refrigeration jobs to be done if you are to make the most of food, time and money. First of all, there is the refrigerator's vital job of keeping perishable table foods from day to day — from meal to meal. Then there is the home freezer's important role in keeping larger quantities of perishable foods for longer periods, so that you can enjoy year-round variety and tastier, more nourishing foods . . . as well as make big savings in time, work and money by quantity buying when prices are lowest. Both the refrigerator and home freezer belong in your home.

St. Paul's W. A. Stirling, Sponsors Attractive Centennial Bazaar, Tea

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

The church parlors at St. Paul's United church, Stirling, were festive on Tuesday, for their dainty tea and attractive bazaar held in centennial year. Baskets of colorful cat-tails with vivid grain, and bronze and golden mums interspersed the glowing Christmas decorations throughout the room.

The platform was nicely arranged with lighted evergreen trees and a real Santa Claus and a snowman, "all lit up" for the occasion.

RECEIVING

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. Kenneth Belcour, and Mrs. George Carlisle, owing to the unavoidable absence of the president of St. Paul's W.A., Mrs. A. Wells. Nearby were the treasurers, Mrs. Harold Wells and Mrs. F. Jeffry.

The tea room was convened and decorated by Mrs. C. Hatton and Mrs. W. Cornett and the latter replenished the plates.

The windows were decorated with baskets of white and colored pompon mums, and the long tea table was covered with white damask and centred with tri-branched candelabra holding tall red tapers. Gleaming silver at each end added to the beauty of the occasion.

GUEST TABLES

Six guest guest tables each covered with a white cloth and centred with pine boughs and a Christmas ornament were arranged around the room. The trays of various sandwiches were centred with imitation Christmas trees. The relish plate contained a selection of fluted vegetables and pickles attractively arranged. The plates of "bite size" cookies, macaroons, date squares and many other delectable sweets were decorated with strawberry marshmallows.

Those who presided at the tea urns were, Mrs. A. E. Baker, wife of the pastor of St. Paul's; Mrs. Carleton Wright; Mrs. A. E. Good and Mrs. Earl Bailey.

Those who served were, Mrs. Ralph Vandervoort, Mrs. Bob Leury, Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Mrs. Doug Patterson, Mrs. Claire Weir, and Mrs. Howard West.

Those in charge of the tea and dishes were, Mrs. Claude Tucker and Mrs. Clifford Lansing.

Piano music was played softly during the afternoon by Mrs. H. West and Mrs. R. Shortt.

GUESTS PRESENT

Guests were in attendance from the various church groups in the town and from several nearby country points.

A group from King Street United Church, Trenton, included, Mrs. M. Tripp, Mrs. Cecil Mollon, Mrs. A. C. Twiddy, Mrs. M. Denton and her sister, from Flint, Michigan, Mrs. S. S. Cross.

The central portion of the room was arranged with chairs so the guests could sit awhile and chat after they had visited the various booths.

The home cooking both occupied a corner and was decorated with garlands of Christmas beads, silver bells, and green roping. The tempting food was attractively arranged on Christmas plates and there was a large variety of rolled-out and drop cookies, some decorating with cherries, others dotted with nut meats; various concoctions of marshmallow and coconut macaroons, white and chocolate cakes all lusciously iced; little shortbreads, buns, apple, pumpkin, cherry, berry, lemon and other assorted pies, some topped with fluffy meringue, banana cakes, bran muffins and iced cup cakes added variety.

Mrs. Walter Elliott, Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Mrs. Sid Williams, Mrs. Roy Duffin and Mrs. Ernest Munroe were in charge of sales.

VARIETY OF APRONS

The fancy work and apron booth was decorated with glistening tinsel and Christmas wreaths and was a mecca of interest. There was a good variety of aprons. The ones gathered on a band were fashioned from decorative print, some were embroidered, others were sprigged with small flowers and a pale yellow apron brought a bit of sunshine to the scene. There were also the all-over work aprons, as well as several pairs of children's mitts in durable colors, sockees in stripe pattern and booties for the wee baby; crocheting edging and tatting for towels; crocheted dish cloths in a novel pattern; pin cushions; knitted necklets in various colors; embroidered teatowels and pillow cases; crocheted doilies in several designs; novel pot-holders in pieced design with embroidery; and last, but not least, a black felt shopping bag with floral applique. Mrs. Percy Ulman was assisted here by Mrs. Maurice Bell and Mrs. Charles Davidson.

The candy booth was accented with fighted tapers, pine cones, cellophane red bows, and other Christmas ornaments. Pretty boxes of chocolate fudge, divinity, maple cream, peppermint patties, peanut brittle, were sold to eager buyers by Mrs. Harold Bird and Mrs. Everett Ketcheson.

WHITE ELEPHANT

The white elephant booth was decorated with Christmas ropes in green and red and centred with a pretty decoration in foil. It was laden with small, medium add large parcels, in square, oblong and round designs. The buyers were eager for bargains and there were several from which to choose. The prices ranged from ten to fifty cents and everyone was allowed the privilege of shaking the parcel before buying. Mrs. G. Bradshaw convened this booth and was assisted by Mrs. Walter Warren. The latter was filling in for her mother, Mrs. S. Elliott.

BEAUTIES OF NATURE

The "country garden" booth was decorated with Christmas greenery, red poinsettia and roping and it presented a picture of the beauties of nature. There were flowing petunias in pots and snapdragons ready to bloom, cacti, and baby tears; baskets of potatoes, carrots, Spanish onions, white cabbage, yellow pumpkins, the lowly turnip; new laid eggs; fresh dairy butter; jars of horseradish; various relishes, which included grandmother's favorite of beets and cabbage; jellies and jams of several varieties and pectin conserves; jars of green dill pickles; canned fruits and tinned varieties from the store. Mrs. Volney Richardson, Mrs. Oliver Stapley and Mrs. Frank Wood were busy parcelling these articles for the interested buyers.

The bazaar was a financial success and St. Paul's W.A. rejoice that the event was so well attended and are grateful to all members who assisted in any way. This venture is not an annual affair but was held in 1953 to commemorate centennial year.

YOUR VOTE AND INFLUENCE WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED

TO THE VOTERS of the City of Belleville:

I wish to take this opportunity to inform you that I am a candidate for the office of alderman and to solicit your support to ensure my election.

As most of you are aware I was born in Belleville and have lived here all my 44 years. Many of you will recall that I served as one of your aldermen during the difficult years of 1933, '34, '35, '36. I can therefore lay claim to some experience and knowledge of municipal affairs.

I am a substantial taxpayer and like many of you not too happy about our high taxes. It is hardly necessary for me to tell you that the burden of municipal taxation has reached a point where all of us should do something about it.

The present debt of the City of Belleville is very close to $5,000,000 and in my humble opinion has reached a dangerously high level. I regret to inform you that of twelve cities in Ontario of comparable population the City of Belleville has the highest debt per capita.

Our present tax rate will not encourage people to build new homes nor will new industry locate in a city where the tax rate is too high.

Without doubt your money has been wasted through mismanagement, examples of which are the construction and destruction of the former "House of Sanitation" on the Market Square and similar wanton waste in Parkwood Heights, etc.

I have the time and the desire to serve you.

Small Jobbers in Algoma Bush Blamed for Cruelty to Horses

Local officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have received a report from the Society's general manager describing conditions of work in the lumber camps of the Algoma district of Ontario for draught horses and the state of health of horses in some of the camps inspected.

A supplement to the report states that there are 2,000 horses being used by small logging firms in the 12,000-square-mile area of Algoma.

For the past four years the S.P.C.A., has had a part time inspector in the area working from Sault Ste. Marie.

An S.P.C.A. inspector has the status of a special constable of the Ontario Provincial Police as regards the law pertaining to animals and birds.

LITTLE GOOD, SAYS

The laws under which an S.P.C.A. inspector acts are federal laws and part of the criminal code. The Society operates on a grant of $1,000 per year from the Ontario government supplemented by public and private donations. The single inspector employed part time on bush work receives $1,000 per year.

The Society can deputize volunteers who are sufficiently well trained and properly supervised as inspectors with all the powers of a regular inspector.

In Algoma, the Society's inspector reports that most of the responsibility for cruelty to horses is to be found among the small jobbers. In the case of rented horses the responsibility rests with the teamster and the jobber. The large operators generally do a good job in caring for horses.

David Askew, R.R. 3, Newmarket, general manager of the S.P.C.A., reports that he accompanied Inspector Allard on a trip to the Goulais River district of Algoma, earlier this year. His report to the president of the S.P.C.A. is quoted as follows:

"We inspected a camp on the Goulais River, only saw six horses as the others had been ridden in the bush at our approach, as we had to walk in 2 1-2 miles. All had sore mouths (one could not even eat), all had collar rubs and were underweight.

"We next went up Highway 17 toward the Montreal River and inspected a camp by surprise—found two teams skidding logs—both teams were badly cut, and the horse so winded if should not have worked at all; the conditions are definitely appalling, and whatever has been said about it is no exaggeration. These are not isolated cases, but prevailing conditions. Most people don't realize that some of these horses work the year round. Veneer logs are skidded in the summer, and soft wood in the winter, which means the horses are never rested. The stables, if you can call them such, are beyond belief—they are shacks full of gaps, and give little or no protection, and the temperature often goes down to 30 below; they are dark and damp, filled with months of accumulated manure on a dirt floor that is just a quagmire in the spring.

"One team we inspected on the road—one horse was at least 20 and much too old and light for the work—the other one was salvaged from the Thessalon "Death March" with a large scar in its back from being beaten with a stave.

OPEN WOUNDS

"Out of 15 horses inspected, 10 had sore mouths from tight bits, all had open wounds or terrible scars, all were old and underweight (as much as 50 to 100 pounds) and only six were shod. All harness was poor and full of nails, rivets and wire, which cut into the horses. No collars fitted —I actually saw sweat pads nailed to the collars with shingle nails—and the drivers were surprised that the horses' necks were bleeding.

"Inspector Allard assures me that conditions have greatly improved since he started his inspections four years ago, but from my observations, if these are improved conditions, what must the situation be where no inspections have ever been made, which is almost all of the north country.

"Other countries have had this problem too, and this is how Sweden overcame the cruelty and neglect of their bush horses. I quote from a letter I recently received—'Thirteen years ago in Sweden, The Society for the Protection of Lumber Camp Horses was started. An inspector and an assistant walk from camp to camp, inspect the horses and stables and give expert advice. Nowadays the men in the camps greet the inspector with friendliness, in the beginning it was not so. As a result, there are now strong and healthy horses in Swedish forest and there are men who will never again be allowed to work in the bush with horses, thanks to this Society'."

ACCIDENT FATAL

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — William Rennie, 78, of Zurich, died Wednesday from injuries received Tuesday night when he and his wife were struck by a car a few miles from their home. Mrs. Rennie was also brought to hospital here, 20 miles from Zurich, suffering lacerations to face and ankles and possible fractures.

The New 1954 Nash Canadian Statesman

Numerous mechanical advancements and styling refinements are featured on the new 1954 Nash Canadian Statesman shown above. With the famous continental styling of Pinin Farina accenting the car's length and sleekness, new all-round visibility is provided by the one-piece curved windshield and wrap-around rear windows. To increase visibility, front fenders rise above the hood line.

A newly-designed grille, consisting of two die-casting in a modern ovoid design, highlights the car. It is powered by the "Powerflyte" engine, famous for its outstanding fuel economy and dependability. It is a six-cylinder L-head engine, developing 100 horsepower with a compression ratio of 7.45 to 1.

Like all Nash cars, the Canadian Statesman has the famous Nash-pioneered "Airflyte" construction, in which body and frame are welded together to form a single, stronger, more rigid unit.

Last year Alberta became the first province whose remaining debt totalled less than its accumulated cash surpluses and investments. The graph shows that Alberta's debt, which soared more than $185,000,000 during the depression, now stands at $22,000,000. Accumulated cash and investments total nearly $100,000,000. (Cp Photo)

Alberta Could Be Tax, Debt Free According to Figures

By LORNE BRUCE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Oil-rich Alberta could be tax-free and debt-free right now according to latest government figures.

In the financial year ended March 31 last the province collected nearly $18,000,000 in taxes, plus $51,000,000 from oil and natural gas resources and $27,250,000 under the tax transfer agreement with the federal government.

When the province paid its expenses, it had left a surplus of $26,000,000. It could have used that surplus to wipe out taxes, but it prefers to meet its debts as they come due, rather than pay them off all at once, and to use its surpluses to assist Alberta's municipalities; many of them aching with the growing pains that oil and new industry have brought.

NOTABLE RECORD

In 1952, Alberta became the first province whose remaining provincial debt totalled less than its accumulated cash surpluses and investments.

Net provincial debt at June 30 was just a little more than $22,000,000. Accumulated cash and investments totalled nearly $109,000,000. Thus, on paper, the $109,000,000 would more than cancel the debt.

In his budget speech last March, Premier Manning, also provincial treasurer, said, however, that the government plans to pay off its debts as they come due until 1973 and the province will then become debt-free.

"We believe," said Mr. Manning, "it is more in the public interest to utilize accumulated surpluses to reduce the burden of municipal taxation and remove the need for municipal governments to accumulate external debts at excessive rates of interest."

MUNICIPAL AID

Later, replying in the legislature to opposition criticism of provincial government treatment of municipalities, he said that in the last four years the government had provided more than $171,000,000 in loans and grants to municipalities.

Since 1950, loans have been made to various municipalities to assist with capital construction amounting to more than $47,000,000 at interest rates varying from two per cent to 3½ per cent.

The provincial debt, which has been gradually increasing since Alberta became a province in 1905, rose to a peak of $187,000,000 in 1936.

The premier reported that in the 1953-54 fiscal year $8.38 per cent of revenues would come from natural resources, mainly oil and natural gas. Other sources are the tax transfer agreement with the federal government, 22.65 per cent; fuel oil tax, car and truck licences, 17.97; liquor, 10.52; and all other sources, 9.98.

Several minor taxes already have been eliminated. For instance, a storekeeper once paid a licence every year. Now he pays only once—for registration; and Alberta has no sales or educational or hospital taxes which vary from two to five per cent in some other provinces.

By gollies that's true, pop said. There's just a chance that the bank was short of help and called in the weather man, he said, and ma said, William, if you're going to go over those figures with a defeatist attitude, you can stop rite now.

It's too bite, I've alreddy stopped, pop said. Your mistake was on the very first stub, where you added in 50 dollers too mutch from the previous checkbook, he said, and ma said, William, I wont be satisfied without that 50 dollers, and you'll have to "deposit it for me.

MARSH HILL

Women's Missionary Society Holds Meeting, Elects Officers

MARSH HILL.—The Christmas meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leslie Finkle with 14 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle 1st vice-president opened the meeting with the reading of a meditation "What Is Christmas?"

During the business several articles for the layette were received. Mrs. W. Lindenfield read a letter regarding the World's Day of Prayer which is to be held March 5th, 1954.

Report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. Bartindale.

A report of the Baby Band was given by Mrs. Bartindale for Mrs. E. B. Finkle.

Mrs. F. Campbell gave a timely temperance reading, "Putting Christ into Christmas," by the Rev. J. R. Mutchmore.

Mrs. Hollinger reported that one bale had been sent during the past year.

The members reported making four visits, eight hospital calls and sending 14 cards and four letters.

Mrs. Allyn Finkle, program convener, was assisted in the worship service by Mrs. Leslie Finkle and by Mrs. F. Campbell who read "What Does Christmas Mean to You?" by Mrs. McKillop.

Mrs. Finkle opened the program with the reading of the poem, "How Far to Bethlehem's Town?"

Mrs. Alex Tanner gave a reading "The Needed Christ" and Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, "These are Lovely Things."

THOUGHTS FOR CHRISTMAS

Mrs. A. Finkle gave a very interesting paper, "On Thoughts For Christmas." "Christmas plays a great part in our life at this time of the year. A Christmas shared is the finest Christmas of all. The wise men brought their costly gifts to the Baby Jesus. We all look at our meagre resources and wonder if we have anything worthy of being offered to one so great as Jesus.

"He does not value gifts by the dollar and He knows how much of a person's soul goes into his offering.

"The star is in the sky shining, are we merely going to stand and look or are we going to follow it where it would lead us? If this happy festival is not used to honor Jesus Christ, then we miss its real point.

"Let us put Christ back into Christmas and tell our children the story of the Baby Jesus, pass on to them the beautiful hymns and carols and bring the Santa Claus songs to a lower level.

"A few years back, gifts were given to friends because of love or to real desire to give them. The motive has changed. We give for show, not for love; when are we going to stop and wake up?

"It was on a quiet hillside by silent shepherds that the glad tidings were heard. It was to men who in their wisdom took time to scan the skies and meditate on the wonders of the heavens, that the guiding star appeared. Shepherds and wise men were at work, faithfully attending their tasks, but with their souls attuned to God. Perhaps it is in doing our daily work with more quiet steadfastness and devotion as part of our duty and service as redeemed children of God that we shall become better attuned to the vibrant story of the heavens.

"As we decorate the tree this year, let us remember that the star we place on it isn't just a star but a symbol of the one that led the shepherds to Bethlehem and it still points to Heaven where Jesus is watching over us still."

Mrs. Finkle closed with the reading of the story of Phillips Brooks, the great hymn writer, who wrote the hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

After the singing of the Christmas carol, Mrs. Giffin closed the meeting, and the hostess served refreshments.

McCarthy's Plea to End Aid To Allies Trading With Reds Is What Annoyed Eisenhower

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP). — Nothing Senator McCarthy has said or done in the three first nine months of the Eisenhower a dm i n i s t r a t i o n flamed it so much as his recent criticism.

Not the Wisconsin Republican was using just a couple of new matches, but an old one, re-lit, which made the administration jump to attention.

What was new in his broadcast a week ago can be stated briefly:

1. He declared himself an issue in the 1954 congressional elections. He told the people to vote Republican if they approved of him, Democratic if they disapproved.

2. He contradicted President Eisenhower who had said he hoped Communist i s l a t i o n would be governmental wouldn't be an issue in those 1954 elections. McCarthy said it would be an issue.

But when in that same broadcast he undertook to tell administration how to handle its foreign aid program, he wasn't saying anything new at all. That was his re-lit match.

Perhaps it was the way he said it, and the fact that he was talking over television radio instead of in a statement from his office, which evoked retorts from Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

In a statement Sept. 23 McCarthy suggested the United States cut off aid to Britain and other allies unless they stopped trading with Red China.

That was precisely what he said in his broadcast, and what he had been hammering away at for months.

This time it was directly coupled with the Korean truce and Red China.

In his broadcast he asked sarcastically if the Eisenhower administration was going to try to get the war prisoners freed by exchanging "perfumed notes" to the Communists.

He suggested the United States Navy should refuse to give up the prisoners by ending all trade with them if the allies do. He said the United States should admit our aid to the allies unless they ended trade with the Reds.

In May Dulles replied saying he was against urging "upon our friends and allies additional restrictions upon their trade with the Communist world even in terms of non-strategic items."

This week, on Tuesday, Dulles said approximately the same thing: That the United States has no right to dictate her allies' trade policies

Burst Water Main Causes Million Damage in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A water main burst in downtown Toronto today, flooding basements of factories and a railway yard containing 100 trucks with water to a depth of four feet.

Some unofficial estimates of the damage ran as high as $1,000,000 but there was no immediate comment from fire department officials.

Officials said pressure on the 24-inch front street main shot water for feet into the air. Thousands of gallons of water flooded nearby basements and gushed over the street and down a hill into a Canadian National Railways yard where the trucks were parked. The water came up to the truck engine hoods.

A heating tunnel in the Royal York Hotel was flooded five feet deep. Firemen worked five hours to pump it out.

Front street between Simcoe and John streets was blocked off by police as water poured over it down to the railway yard.

Water flowing into the main was turned off 1½ hours after it broke, but stopping-up was still going on this morning later. Water was being pumped from the parking lot, but the basement of the hotel was flooded by water in their engines.

Residents leased the lot at the height of the flood, taking drivers to the trucks.

Council Orders Election Banner Across Street Be Taken Down

City council at a special meeting this morning voted against giving mayoralty candidate, John Both, permission to leave an election banner up that had been strung across Bridge street. The banner had been erected without permission by city council.

Mr. J. Strachan, representative of the Both election campaign committee said the sign would be taken down.

Calling council members to order Mayor A. M. Haig said the special meeting had been called to decide on the banner erected by Mr. Both. The mayor said Mr. Both had contacted him seeking permission to erect the banner.

He told him it could not be done and referred him to the police commission," the mayor stated.

TELEGRAM SENT.

In addition the city solicitor had written Mr. Both pointing out that the erection of any banner was contrary to the city by-law. This morning a telegram had been sent to Mr. Both informing him of the special meeting.

Speaking for Mr. Both as representative of the Both campaign committee Mr. Strachan said Mr. Both had applied for permission to erect the sign and feeling that council could grant the necessary permission and that the Bridge street banner is good faith. "If council decides that it will have to come down then it will be taken down," he said.

Mayor Haig said the matter resolved itself very simply and that was if one candidate were permitted to erect an election banner then all candidates had the same right. "I feel it should not be permitted.

CLAIMED POOR LEADERSHIP

"When a candidate is refused permission he should not knowingly go ahead and breach a city by-law," the mayor declared. "I am not for or against any candidate, but I will have to be told kind of leadership.

Alderman Donald Thomas termed Mr. Both's action in erecting the banner on the assumption that permission would be given by council as being "very high handed" and stated it should be taken down.

Alderman Duffy agreed that the banner should not have been erected without permission and asked if it was true that Mr. Blayer had referred Mr. Both to the police commission.

The mayor replied this was true and said Mr. Both had been told by the commission to seek permission of the council.

Continuing Alderman Duffy pointed out that Mr. Both did ask permission and apparently acted on the assumption that council would give permission. "If Mr. Both is forced to take his banner down I am afraid it may be detrimental to opposing candidates."

ENTIRELY NEUTRAL

"Alderman Duffy has hit the nail on the head," declared Alderman Smith. "If the sign comes down the reaction will be greater than if it is allowed to stay." Along with Alderman Duffy, Alderman Smith declared he was entirely neutral in the matter.

Alderman McNevin also declared himself to be neutral but said he was definitely opposed if Mr. Both had broken a city by-law.

Alderman Bradford wanted to know what the by-law said, how old it was and if it had ever been broken.

BY-LAW HAD BEEN BROKEN

He was told by City Solicitor Pringle the by-law was dated 1940 and that it had been broken. When this had occurred the city had issued an injunction. Asked if the by-law had ever been broken for election purposes, the solicitor replied that it possibly had been broken for federal or provincial elections.

"As I see it, it boils down to a matter of precedence," Ald. Bradford said.

"We should abide by the by-law," interjected Ald McNevin.

Ald. Tice said the whole incident was very unfortunate in that it placed other candidates in a difficult position when they voted either for or against permission being granted. Those elected have to sit and work with either candidate elected.

"It is through no fault of this council that the banner was erected," Ald. Thomas declared. "I acted in thinking of what would happen next year if this banner is allowed to remain. I say nip the trouble in the bud."

Ald. Clarke declared that councillors should support the by-law. "If this banner had been erected without permission being asked then it should be put it down as ignorance of the by-law."

FEE NOT ANSWER

Ald. Smith noted that merchants had to pay a fee for erection of signs and asked why there could not be a fee for banners as well. Then everybody would have to come to council.

"A fee is not the answer for election banners," Ald. Thomas declared. "It would be unfair to some candidates who could not afford an expensive election campaign."

Here Ald. C. L. Hyde and Ald. G. Hyde asked permission to refrain from voting as they were concerned personally in the matter. Permission was granted for both to leave the chamber.

ALL SHOULD VOTE

When Alderman Bradford said he was interested only in the technical aspects of the matter Mayor Haig said there had been a deliberate breaking of the city by-law. "There is a moral principal involved and it is a question which can't be avoided by declining to vote," he said.

Here it was noted that Aldermen Keegan, Tough and Argue were not in attendance at the meeting and that all were more or less personally concerned as they were candidates in the forthcoming election. It was decided to poll them by telephone and get their answer to the question of granting permission for the election banner.

When the vote was taken three councillors, Alderman Duffy, Smith and Thomas voted for the election banner to remain, while Mayor Haig, and Aldermen Bradford, Clarke, McNevin, Reid and Thomas voted to have it taken down. Telephone votes of Aldermen Countryman and Keegan were to not give permission for the banner, while Aldermen Temple and Argue declined to express an opinion without first obtaining all the facts.

Gander's Sprawling Airport Is Gateway to New World For Multitudes; Started in '36

By JOHN MOSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — This sprawling airport is a gateway to the new world for multitudes. In September it serviced about 52,000 persons. Each day it serves nearly average. The volume is less in winter.

Gander lies in northeastern Newfoundland, 30 miles from the Atlantic and a natural choice on the air route linking the main centres of Europe and North America.

Since builders began carving the airport from the wilderness in 1936, huge expenditures have been made. Britain bore the brunt at the outset, Newfoundland then having a commission form of government unable to contribute. Canada the remainder. An unofficial estimate of the total to date would be more than $100,000,000. Other improvements are expected to be spent for the foreseeable future.

TWO-MILE RUNWAY

Longest of the three present runways is more than 2½ miles. Land clearing has been started for a new one, ultimately to stretch over three and one-half miles. Another project involves extensive grading on each side.

A major undertaking in the planning stage is renovation of the main airport terminal building to speed up and better placement of air lines' offices.

Another big project, a five-year job that will more than three years to go, involves a new townsite several miles from the airport. Gander is unique among the world's important airports in that all residential accommodation is near the runways. Living quarters were confined from barracks and the 6,000 population consists entirely of airport workers and their families.

Wander is the federal department of transport show, from administration of aviation to weather. Others are usually the functions of ordinary town officials—fire department, water, sewage, engineering. The Airport manager Eric Winser heads the staff. The second in command is operations manager Rex Tilley.

Waiting passengers, and residents in off time, generally congregate in the pleasant lounge at Gander International airport.

The lounge, restaurant, snack bar, cocktail bar and air lines booths cover a two-storied, 400-foot crescent-lighted rectangle about 60 feet wide, four times as long.

24-HOUR OPERATION

At the cocktail bar—called the Big Dipper—all forms of alcoholic drinks are available by the glass or bottle throughout the 24 hours—a convenience for air travellers and a pleasure for those on Atlantic provinces. The whole terminal and airport operate on a 24-hour basis. Designations such as Jupiter Skyways Hotel and Saturn Skyways Hotel are hangovers from the names freely used in early airport days.

Sixteen air companies operate to and from Gander. There's a separate terminal for domestic lines. Essential facilities at Gander include air traffic control, centred at Moncton, N.B., and GCA (ground control approach for guiding planes to a safe landing in zero or near zero visibility).

Moncton controls plane movements in the Maritimes to a line east of Nova Scotia while Gander has a huge area from Newfoundland and Labrador to a position far out in the Atlantic. At these centres the position of any planes flying in the area concerned is apparent at any given time. The airport control tower is subordinate to air traffic control.

CONTRIBUTING BASES

Operation of the mobile GCA equipment, owned by Pan American, is financed on a contributing basis by several air lines. Other companies using the facility are charged $125 per landing. The radar equipment is taken to the end of a landing and the incoming plane is "talked" to a safe descent.

At intervals through a day and night the main Gander terminal becomes a commotion of colorful activity when giant air liners disgorge their human cargo. Turbaned Indians may thread their way between Dutch immigrants. Tired mothers, with babes in arms, accompany servicemen husbands. Notables appear frequently.

A Newfoundland resident chatted at length with a stranger in the lounge then went to a movie. The star he saw on the screen was the stranger, John Wayne. Another man had a talk with Alan Ladd and didn't know it was his identity. The curves of Marilyn Monroe, in person, have been seen here and many other stars have had stoppovers.

Newfoundland's strategic situation as the easternmost land of North America led to development of other airports in this province and neighboring Labrador. The United States has bases at Argentia, St. John's, and Stephenville. Services at Goose Bay, Labrador, are operated jointly by Canada and the U.S.

Notorious House of Ill Repute Figured in Evidence at Sarnia

SARNIA (CP)—A notorious house of ill-repute figured in evidence heard Thursday at an official inquiry into the law enforcement methods of the Sarnia detachment, Ontario Provincial Police.

Deputy Commissioner W. H. Lougheed, presiding on the three-man board of inquiry, declined to elucidate details of the evidence, but admitted the house had been mentioned.

He also confirmed a report that evidence of alleged mysterious note found by city police during investigation of a believed suicide in a Bluewater Hotel room.

The deputy commissioner said the inquiry will probably conclude today. Although he would not identify witness who appeared Thursday, he did say that none of the members of the Corby Sarnia detachment had yet been interrogated. Evidence from these men will be given today, he said.

NO PUBLIC PROBE

Commissioner Lougheed said he saw no possibility the current probe would grow into a public inquiry into the methods of the Sarnia detachment.

A stenographic report of evidence was being taken and when transcribed would be submitted to the Ontario Provincial Police commissioner, F. B. McNeil, in Toronto, he said.

Any public report of the inquiry or its findings would be made by the commissioner, it was announced.

With deputy commissioner Lougheed on the board of inquiry are George V. Clubbe, London district inspector and Leonard Nell, Toronto, staff inspector.

Inspector Nell visited the Sarnia detachment to make a preliminary investigation shortly after Louise Pickhall was found dying in her Bluewater Hotel room with a bullet wound in her stomach and a .38-calibre "police positive" lying on a table beside her.

NOTES FOUND

Two notes were found in the room. One, which was on the table beside the gun was believed written after the shot was fired and before the woman became unconscious. It is believed to have been in the nature of a farewell note to a man.

The second note, discovered later, is the one involved in the current inquiry. It was found by city police and turned over to Inspector Nell.

There is a possibility that the contents of the notes may be disclosed at an inquest into the death of Miss Birchall.

Crown Attorney S. A. K. Logan said that "while it certainly looks like suicide, there have been so many rumors flying around we will have to call an inquest."

RESCUE ATTEMPT FAILS

DEDHAM, Mass. (AP)—An elderly woman and the neighbor child she tried to rescue perished Tuesday night in a burning three-family dwelling. They were Mrs. Eileen Zarelli, 56, a resident of the second floor, and four-year-old Anna Burtis, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Curtis, a first floor tenant. Fire Chief Mrs. Ebbott's body was found near the crib which contained the child's body.

County Home Is Now Filled To Capacity

The Hastings County Home is now filled to capacity, members of council were told at their December session by Reeve Clarke T. Rollins of Wollaston, chairman of the County Home board of management.

Giving his report to council Reeve Rollins noted there were now 184 patients in the home, 35 from the city of Belleville and 149 from the county. Thirty-eight patients are in the hospital wing of the home, it was stated.

Levelling and landscaping of the Allin property east of the main driveway has been completed and in conjunction with the Ontario Department of Highways, a large hole on the right of the entrance has been tiled and filled in.

Shore Batteries In Egypt Fire At U.S. Vessel

CAIRO (AP)—The United States government declared today that the American freighter Steel Seafarer she had been fired on Thursday by Egyptian shore batteries while in the Gulf of Aqaba, east of Egypt's Sinai peninsula.

The ship's message did not say whether there were any casualties or damage to the vessel.

The embassy said it has made "urgent representations" to the Egyptian government and that the government gave "assurances that action would be taken to facilitate the ship's passage through Aqaba gulf."

PROMISE PROBE

The Egyptians also promised an immediate investigation into the shooting.

Lloyd's register lists the Albion as a 7,855-ton motor vessel owned by Ivaris, Inc., of Wilmington, Del.

The ship was reported en route to the Jordan port of Aqaba, tiny Arab kingdom's only port at the head of the gulf.

It appeared likely that the shore battery believed the ship was defined for the Israeli port of Elath, also at the head of the gulf.

Labor Retains North Paddington By Slim Margin

LONDO N(Reuters)—The Labor party Thursday retained the parliamentary seat of North Paddington, London, in a by-election, but with a smaller majority than it obtained in the general election.

Benjamin Parkin, Labor, polled 14,274 votes to 12,518 for John Eden nephew of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. The Trotskyite candidate, bus-driver William Wainwright, received 242 votes.

The percentage of the total vote obtained by the Labor party Thursday was 53.3, compared with 53.7 in 1951 when there was a straight two-party fight for the seat. The 1951 Labor majority was 4,000. Thursday it dropped to an overall majority of 1,756.

Only 32,330 voters went to the polls Thursday compared with 35,127 at the general election.

The result of the by-election, caused by the resignation of Sir Cullen Pilkington, the Tories announced by Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons.

Standing in the House of Commons:

Conservatives and allies 322; Labor 294; Liberals 6; Irish Labor 1; Nationalists 2; Total—825.

Diabetics May Be Able to Produce Own Insulin

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Charles H. Best, co-discoverer of insulin, told the Empire Club Thursday that there is a real hope that diabetics may be able to produce their own insulin.

This might be done, he said, by repairing the damage to the cells of the body which ordinarily produce the insulin needed to maintain the chemical balance of the body.

Results in this research to date, he said, are encouraging.

Sunday School Lesson:

Declaration of Independence

By ROY L. SMITH

This week's Sunday school lesson reports the events of one of the greatest hours in history. It was the time when two Christian preachers stood out against the authorities, and declared that they owed to God a loyalty that was higher even than the loyalty they owed to the state.

THE STORY

The two Christian preachers, fired by a profound conviction that they had been commissioned to preach the great news about Jesus Christ, had been thrown in jail by orders of the Sanhedrin, and commanded never to preach again. But the very moment they were released they began preaching where they left off at the time of their arrest.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 6: "Government under God," Kings 9:3-9; Isaiah 31:1; 43:4; Acts 5:17-29; Romans 13:1-10; - I Peter 2:13-17.

Haled before the authorities again, and again reprimanded, they announced a solemn fact. "We are under a sober obligation to obey you," they said, in effect, "and we propose to do so. But the moment we become convinced that your orders are in conflict with God's orders, then we must tell you plainly that we propose to obey God's orders instead of yours."

OUR SOULS BELONG TO GOD

The chief of police of a great American city was very zealous in fighting communism. In the course of his crusade he publicly criticized the ministers of the town., saying that their laymen must exert economic pressure on their pastors in order to silence them on social and economic issues. As a consequence, the mayor of the city, the chief of police, and a number of the clergymen met for a conference.

The discussion had gone on for some time, the chief repeating his assertions in the course of the meeting, and at length a white haired clergyman arose who was widely known for his generally conservative views. "I have listened with great interest and vast concern," he said, "to some of the things that have been said here today. I have been especially disturbed by the implications of the speech by the chief of police. And I am compelled to serve notice for the first time in my life that I stand ready to defy the government of this city if I think the conditions of the times require it. You can put my body in jail; you may confiscate my property; you may station an officer beside my pulpit if you dare. But my soul belongs to God, and I propose to keep faith with the highest authority I know. I declare my right to preach as God gives me light!"

PAUL'S PHILOSOPHY

The Apostle Paul was a Roman citizen, and proud of it. He had been and glorified in the world-wide order and peace which the Romans had established throughout the known world. He believed the empire had brought great blessing to a torn and tortured world, as indeed it had. But he was shrewd enough to see that there was a conflict brewing between the empire and the Christian church, and he was extremely anxious that the struggle be postponed as long as possible.

He therefore made appeal after appeal to the Christians to obey the law, maintain order, and live at peace with Rome. Perhaps he did not see clearly the implications of the Christian doctrine of freedom which he preached with so much abandon. But no one knew better than he did that it would be possible for Caesar to wipe out the whole Christian movement with one swift movement of troops and police. Peace had to be maintained long enough to allow the church to gather its strength for the conflict that was inevitable.

In pleading for a pacific attitude he laid down the most strict and stringent law the Christians have ever tried to obey: "Owe to no man anything, save to love one another; for he hat loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law."

Dr. C. H. Dickenson Gives Detailed Account of Methodist Bookroom

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

Last Sunday morning, St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was honored with a visit from Rev. C. H. Dickenson, B.A., B.D., D.D., one of two book stewards of the world.

Dr. Dickenson is book steward of the United Church Publishing Company, of Toronto, and the other man is book steward of the Methodist Epworth Press in England.

Dr. Dickenson chose as his text, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." In his report of the Bookroom in Toronto with all of its various departments. In 1829 Dr. Egerton Ryerson instituted "The Methodist Book Room," with the help of 30 ministers who each contributed $100.

Today in 1953, the plants and property is valued at $3,000,000 and they also have a $3,000,000 business turnover yearly.

PROFITS TO PENSION FUND

From the early beginnings, the profits from the Book Room were turned over to the ministers' pension fund. Since church union in 1925 well over $1,000,000 has been given over.

All church work for all organizations is carried on by "The United Church Publishing Company," and there are four main departments — authors, editors, printers and publishers.

The speaker vividly pictured the work carried on by each group. Four hundred persons are employed.

The speaker touched on the official church magazine "The United Church Observer," and congratulated St. Paul's, Carmel, on their family plan of distribution. This circuit was the first in the Bay of Quinte conference to adopt the family plan and they were the fourth in all Canada. At present 25 per cent of the churches are sponsoring "The Family Plan."

The Ryerson Press of Methodist days still continues to use its trade name as a tribute to the founder, Dr. Egerton Ryerson. He was the father of the Ontario public school system and was the first Minister of Education for the province of Ontario. The Ryerson Press publishes all sorts of fiction, school books and various text books.

Dr. Dickenson's message was filled with a wealth of valuable information.

The pastor, Rev. A. K. Baker, graciously welcomed the speaker and was in charge of the service.

Mrs. Walter Warren contributed a vocal selection and the senior choir sang "Send Out Thy Light." The Royal Junior choir rendered "Beautiful Saviour." Mrs. A. K. Baker gave three organ numbers, "Reverie," "Nocturne", and "Templiers March."

The service closed with the centennial theme song, "Year to the Heart of God."

The Adventide services begin on Sunday December 6, with a special emphasis on Christmas hymns.

Mr. Robert Patterson is in charge of the evening carol singing and on Sunday evening, Dec. 6, Mr. Brain Humphreys will interpret "Dickens Christmas Carol."

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Baker and the centennial committee have made special plans for the Christmas services in 1953, commemorating 100 years of Christian service.

IVANHOE

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Holds 'Family Night'

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S., West Huntingdon, observed "Family Night" on Friday evening, November 27. This meeting was held in the S.S. rooms with all church groups in attendance. A delicious pot-luck supper was served at 6:30.

The W.M.S. president, Mrs. Barton Haggerty, welcomed the large gathering, extending a hearty welcome to Rev. and Mrs. R. Bonsteel, of Stirling, who were guests.

The worship service was in charge of the Mission Band, and was conducted by David Fleming, who read from Luke 2:41-52. The Scripture reading was followed by two missionary songs, "Let The Children All Come," and "Away O'er The Ocean."

A seal was added to the Junior Life membership certificate.

The Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer.

Reading, "Things To Remember," by Mrs. John Wallace; solo, Mrs. A. Hassall; reading, "Are You Prepared For Christmas?" by Mrs. J. C. Sills; duet, "The Mountain Railroad," by Harold Thompson and John McInroy; reading, "The Ladies' Aid," by Mrs. Harold Thompson.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mrs. R. Bonsteel, was introduced by Mrs. W. H. V. Walker. Mrs. Bonsteel, before her marriage in 1952, was secretary of the Ecumenical Work Camp of the World Council of Churches, New York City. She has served in the United Church Work Camp in Ontario and in a World Council of Churches Work Camp in Europe.

COLORED SLIDES

It was of this latter work camp Mrs. Bonsteel graciously showed colored slides she had taken while in Europe and on voyage. These pictures were interesting and instructive clearly depicting many historic scenes and buildings in France, Germany and Holland.

The students were shown at work helping to rebuild bombed-out areas.

Mrs. J. C. Sills, on behalf of the W.M.S., expressed thanks and appreciation to Rev. and Mrs. Bonsteel.

CHRISTMAS CIGARETTE

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian troops overseas will receive 1,000,000 cigarets this year as a Christmas gift from Ontario. The cabinet Wednesday authorized $4,250 for the purchase.

VIGOROUS PARSON

LYNEAL - CUM - COLMERE, England (CP)—Rev. R. Egerton has closed the Sunday school here and at nearby Welshampton, Shropshire, because he says "The Sunday school has become an end in itself, which is not bringing the children to church." Some church wardens resigned in protest.

Owen Sound Sun-Times Celebrates 100th Anniversary

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The story of a century of publishing in this Georgian bay centre is told in the centennial issue of the Owen Sound Sun-Times, marking the anniversary of the founding of the Times, Dec. 2, 1853.

A special section without advertising is devoted to an exciting chapter, dating from the days when the settlement of Sydenham was a remote community of Canada West in Canadian newspaper history.

The Sun-Times, published daily since May 1, 1922, has emerged as the survivor of nine local newspaper ventures.

The publisher, Howard Fleming, is in his 50th year in the newspaper profession. He was publisher of the Sun from 1904 and of the Sun-Times since the merger of the papers in 1918. The general manager, Charles J. McTavish, started his newspaper career on the Sun-Times 32 years ago and has been general manager since 1939.

The founder of the times was Richard Carney, first mayor of Owen Sound and first warden of Grey county, a prominent business man and political figure in the pioneer community, he later became the first sheriff of the District of Algoma.

EARLY DIFFICULTIES

The founding of the Times coincided with institution of Grey county. Only two years earlier the village had adopted the name Owen Sound to distinguish it by name from the township of Sydenham. Originally a four-page paper, the Times was published under great difficulties in a section of the province that was still being served only by lake schooners and steamers and overland stages.

The Times, before being merged with the Sun, passed through many hands and, including the founder, had eight owners. Four years after its establishment, Mr. Carney sold the newspaper to his son-in-law, F. G. Lawrie. Two years later it was sold to Edward Todd and remained under his control until 1863. William Wye Smith, noted author and poet of that period, was the owner for a year.

In 1864 it was purchased by two of his own young printers, John Rutherford and David Creighton. The latter represented Grey North in the Ontario legislature, became a prominent figure in the Conservative party and was called upon by Sir John A. Macdonald to organize and become editor-in-chief of the Toronto Empire in 1867.

The Creighton-Rutherford partnership was dissolved in 1868 with Creighton remaining as publisher.

When Creighton left for Toronto the paper came under control of a son of John Rutherford, James H. Rutherford. He remained as its progressive editor and publisher for 30 years until the merger with the Sun.

The Sun was established in 1890 by Joseph Lang and was owned by three publishing partnerships before it was sold in 1904 to the late C. A. Jeming and Howard Fleming, his son. In 1916 the Fleming Publishing Company Ltd. was incorporated and two years later brought about the merger of the Sun and the Times.

The anniversary will be celebrated tonight at a staff dinner in the Owen Sound armories. The speaker will be Louis Blake Duff of Welland, veteran Ontario newspaper man, publisher and historian.

Allow Soviet Citizens To Marry Foreigners

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet citizens are allowed again to marry foreigners under a decree published here. The presidium of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's highest legislative body, revoked a 1947 ban on such marriages.

Marriage between citizens of the U. S. S. R. and persons not having U. S. S. R. citizenship does not bring about a change in citizenship, the decree added.

This indicated that Russian wives of westerners, since they remain Russian, would still not be allowed to leave the country.

AND THE LAST . . .

Someone once wrote that first impressions are always lasting. This might apply to the realm of romance, or business, but it's the old malarkey as far as Senior "B" hockey goes.

The Biblical quotation: "The first shall be last, and the last shall be first" appears to be more applicable in view of what has happened thus far this week.

The surprise package was the twin defeats handed the powerful Oshawa Truckmen by the then cellar-dwelling Orillia Pontiacs. And just to show they meant business, the upswinging Pontiacs shellacked the proud Oshawans by decisive scores, 6-4 and 6-2. The brace of victories knotted the Pontiacs into undisputed possession of third place, one point ahead of the fourth-place Peterborough Petes and two in front of our side.

As we mentioned before, practically every game between the last three teams affects the standing, so closely bunched are they, and Saturday's game between the Memos and Petes will be a battle for the lower rung of the ladder.

It is no disgrace to be able to look one way only, and that is "up" in this sizzling Senior "B" drama. One victory and you're liable to see your favorite squad in third slot and the next night they're down in the dungeon without as much as icing a puck.

Hockey teams, like anything else, have their "on" and "off" nights. There are some people under the impression the Oshawa Truckmen were coasting along on their win and loss record (12-3) when the Pontiacs struck them squarely between the headlights with an 8-4 setback.

That is not the case. Ernie Dickens and his "knights of the road" were fully determined to make a clean sweep of the schedule if it were humanly possible, and they appeared to be well on the way to the Butterfield Memos throw a monkey wrench into the well-oiled Dickensian machinery. The Oshawa coach made no bones about his disappointment when the Truckmen's string of victories was snapped.

There is nothing "flash-in-the-pan" about a 8-4 victory. In fact it smacks very much of a decisive flavor. And it was a grimly, determined Truckmen crew that sat'arf'd to Orillia the night following the unexpected debacle, with vengeance poised on the blades of their shillalaghs.

But Orillia, flushed with victory, was not to be caught with its Pontiac down. In fact they were so jubilant as a Grey Cup winner and as confident as a bridegroom prior to the second ring and they proceeded to demonstrate in no uncertain manner that "we did it before, and we can do it again." They stopped the proud Truckmen cold in their tracks with a 6-3 setback for the second loss in successive nights and the third of the current campaign."

Those two defeats of the group leaders, coupled with the Memos' 4-3 victory over the second-place Kingston Goodyears earlier in the week, have helped dispel some of the aura of invincibility that has smogred the atmosphere in other group centres, from a fan standpoint, that is.

On not a few occasions we have heard some of the faithful hero-hounds opine that "there is nothing to this group. It is fine hockey and all that, but Kingston and Oshawa have the clubs, will play off, and Oshawa will probably grab the honors."

With the Truckmen breezing merrily along in the lead and the second-place Goodyears finding the trail a trifle rockier with the biggest road-block being the Truckmen, it looked as though the fans' prediction "had something."

There is that first impression gimmick again, but to give the various coaching credit they did not share the impression. Being hockey men and not swayed by early-season performances, they refused to go limb-crawling and sought safety in the concentration of will be anybody's bauble. Path till the play-offs." Of course, Coaches Ernie Dickens and Johnny Carr-Harris may have had tongue-in-cheek when they joined in the chorus, but they are very straight-laced gentlemen at the moment.

The Peterborough Petes are guests of the Memos tomorrow night, and in view of past events, the game should be another thriller. The Petes, after that heart-breaking 6-3 loss to the Truckmen the other night when the winning goal was poked in at 19.59 of the third period, realize they rate on a par with any team in the group, and will be out to demonstrate it at the expense of the Bruce Smith crew.

By the same token, with the Kingston Goodyears' one-goal margin loss jinx broken, and inspired by the feats of the Orillia Pontiacs, the Memos realize the importance of the clash with their arch-fendists from Fredericville, and fandom should be treated to another bumptious, speedy display of Senior "B" hockey.

EVENING CHUCKLE

A young man in London was telephoning his sweetheart. He asked for the number, "Ealing, 6000". The operator didn't get it at first, nor the second and third times.

Finally the exasperate young man shrilled, "Listen, it's this way. "E" is for "Erbert; "A" is for what tastes best; "L" is for where you're going; "I" is for me; "N" is for what lays b'eggs, and "O" is for Jerusalem."

He got his number.

Shut Out New York Rangers 4-0 With Second Stringers Getting Three of Four Tallied

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sometimes you can almost convince people that Detroit Red Wings are human.

Only two weeks ago somebody scored on Terry Sawchuk on Detroit ice.

Two days later they even lost a game in Montreal.

At Chicago last Sunday the Black Hawks beat Sawchuk four times—while yielding only nine goals to their opponents.

But there is a growing suspicion in National Hockey League circles that despite these occasional manifestations of humanity the Wings bear no more resemblance to ordinary man than the Pitdown fossil.

New York Rangers, victims of a 4-0 shutout by Detroit Thursday night, fired half-dozen labelled shots at Sawchuk that appeared to be turned aside only by the force of public opinion.

Although it was common knowledge that the Howe-Lindsay-Reibel line and defencemen Red Kelly are the only cogent threats in the Detroit line-up, three of the four goals against New York were accounted by people named Alex Delvecchio, Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Wilson. The fourth goal by Howe was the only one they had a right to expect.

CANADIENS FRUSTRATED

Montreal Canadiens, who normally would consider a 5-1 victory over Toronto a satisfactory night's work, must have shared the Rangers' feeling of frustration.

Montreal fans have watched the Habitants knock off Detroit three times in as many visits, making it hard for them to understand why the Canadiens are in second place, a point behind the Wings.

They were world-beaters against the Leafs Thursday night, scoring four times in the first period with Maurice Richard counting twice and setting up Bert Olmodel for a third tally.

Just to rub it in, Johnny McCormack, the defensive expert whom the Leafs peddled to Montreal two years ago, set up the fourth goal by Floyd Curry and scored one himself in the third period after Rudy Migay connected for the lone Toronto marker.

Boston Bruins drew within a point of the third-place Leafs by whipping Chicago 3-1 before a good mid-week crowd of 13,110 fans.

Last-period goals by Dave Creighton and Milt Schmidt gave the Bruins their victory after Jac Klukay matched Billy Mosienko's opening Chicago counter in the second frame. The loss was the 20th in 27 starts for the last-place Hawks and their 18th meeting with Boston without a win.

Canada May Make Gold Medal Class in Olympics

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Wilson, one of Canada's great middle distance runners of 30 years ago, says luck and a leaf out of the book of United States track teams could put Canada in the gold medal class in the 1956 Olympic Games.

Wilson, a native of Montreal and now track coach at Notre Dame University, said Wednesday there are several good track prospects for the games in Australia provided they keep on the run.

"Our top-flight athletes would be in great shape by 1956 if they stick to their training," he told a forum of Ontario high school coaches.

He mentioned that athletes such as Ritch Feguson of Toronto and Don McEwen of Ottawa were five years away from their peak at the time of the 1952 games in Helsinki. Both attend the University of Michigan.

Wilson suggested that a team should be organized to tour Europe in the years between Olympics to give athletes something to shoot for and an idea of the type of competition they will meet.

Also, he suggested that Canada should concentrate on what he described as the "other" events such as the hurdles.

Don Hogan Moves Up in Scoring Race in North

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's open season for the Trappers in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and Ab Demarco's snipers are catching most of the game.

The veteran campaigner bagged three assists as North Bay Trappers trimmed Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 7-3 in North Bay. The night's catch increased Demarco's total to 31 points—almost twice as many as his closest competitor in the scoring race.

The victory also lengthened the winning streak of North Bay Trappers to four games and left them six points behind first place which is shared by Sudbury Wolves and Sault (Ont.) Greyhounds.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Owen Sound Mercurys rebounded with three goals in the last 10 minutes to defeat the Tuckless Cataracts 5-3 in Niagara Falls.

HOT LINE

Demarco and his linemates, Don Hogan and George Gosselin, racked up 11 points amongst themselves in the Trappers' impressive win.

Gosselin, the league's leading goal-getter, edged up to third in the scoring race by notching three goals. Hogan, who was the fifth leading scorer, scored a goal and collected four assists to take over the second position.

Other North Bay marksmen were defencemen Paul Valerdi, Mike Bukacheski and Bo Elik. Eddie Jones and Gordie Kerr scored for the Indians.

The Cataracts, who fought from behind a 2-0 deficit to take a 3-2 lead on Mick Dubick's three-goal effort, fell apart in the last 10 minutes.

Larry Reid scored his second of the night to tie the game, Bill McComb won it and Buck Forslund wrapped it up with insurance. Forslund, who was in on four of the Owen Sound goals, scored the other for the Mercurys.

Indians and Sudbury in the NOHA tonight. Windsor Bulldogs play the Sailors in Sarnia, Stratford Indians meet the Maroons in Chatham and the league-leading Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts travel to Hamilton to play the Tigers in the OHA.

Near-Complete Domination By Big Four Provides High Spot of Eastern All-Star Teams

By WILF GIBSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The choice of the Big Four provides the halves on the first-string lines of the almost complete domination by the Big Four circuit, today as the high spots of the eastern all-star teams.

The number of Big Four players picked on the first and second teams was the greatest since the selectors—football writers, sportscasters and coaches in the senior football cities—began picking the squads for The Canadian Press.

The Big Four captured 23 of the 33 positions and, as has been the case in the last several years, the first team is composed entirely of players from that loop.

In contrast to previous seasons the Ontario Rugby Football Union and the Intercollegiate failed to hold their own with the Big Four for berths on the two teams.

They usually filled at least three or four positions but this season not a single team has never been as bad.

COLLEAGUES OUT

The OIFU placed the only non-Big Four player on the dream teams and the Intercollegiate union failed for the first time to win at least one spot on one of the teams.

The All-Star squads made the upgrade was Dick Gregory of Toronto Balmy Beach, the league's leading scorer. He was picked as one of the halves on the second-string line-up.

The squads, whose votes were weighted to reflect the playing strength to each city, turned to the Big Four almost solidly offensive team, with one exception, for the first team.

Joe Scudero, Toronto Argonauts speedy back from the University of San Francisco, was assigned to the second-string squad when the selectors picked Kusserow to replace him. Kusserow played stellar defensive and offensive in the backfield for Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

CLUTCH PLAYER

Hills inspired performances, especially in the clutches, were a feak in the clutch games and he showed the selectors they made no mistake in picking him with a great effort in the Grey Cup game. On the half he moved Hamilton's Grey Cup win over Winnipeg with a jarring tackle which knocked the ball out of the arms of Tom Casey only two yards from the Blue-Cats' goalline.

The first team:

Flying wing, Bob Simpson, Ottawa; halves, Lou Kusserow, Hamilton, Gene Ronzani, Ottawa, Avatus Stone, Ottawa; quarter: Sam Etcheverry, Montreal; centre, Tom Riggs, Montreal; end, Ted Bradley, Ottawa, Kaye Vaughan, Ottawa; tackles, Vince Mazza, Hamilton, Tex Coulter, Montreal; ends, Bernie Faloney, Ottawa, John O'Quinn, Montreal.

The second team:

Flying wing, Ralph Tooby, Hamilton; halves, Dick Brown, Hamilton, Joe Scudero, Toronto, Dick Gregory, Balmy Beach; quarter, Tom O'Malley, Ottawa; centre, Red Ettinger, Montreal; guards, Eddie Bevan, Hamilton, Vince Scott, Hamilton; tackles, John Kissell, Ottawa, Bob Cross, Hamilton; ends, Pete Neumann, Hamilton, Doug McNichol, Montreal.

Kitchener Given Until Saturday To Retain Team

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener hockey fans have been given until midnight Saturday to decide whether the Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts will continue in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. OHA president Tory Gregg said Thursday night.

Originally set for Friday, the deadline was extended because the OHA said it was impressed by the campaign in Kitchener to keep the team there.

The club was sold to Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League last Monday because of poor gate receipts even though the team was in third place in the standings. Several of the players have already left for junior teams in Quebec, But Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, said he would allow the Greenshirts to continue operating in Kitchener for $15,000.

PROMISING OUTLOOK

From his Wingham home Gregg said "there's quite a bit of hope" for Kitchener now. The situation looks much more promising and the final reason we have decided to extend the deadline."

The OHA president said that several prominent citizens have approached Selke to reduce the purchase price of the club. Plans are also tentatively to hold a mass meeting in Kitchener aimed at contacting 2,000 or more junior hockey fans to purchase season's tickets.

"I wouldn't be surprised if they did it," Gregg said. "They took much better now but we'll wait until Saturday to see what happens."

Hotel Assoc. To Pay Whole Cost of Dinner

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hotel Association decided Thursday to pay for cost of meals at the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association's third annual sports celebrity dinner for crippled children next Feb. 18.

Wes McKnight of radio station CFRB, dinner chairman, said the donation will make certain that all proceeds from the $25-a-plate event go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The amount is expected to exceed the $20,000 net profit but it may run to $5,000 or more.

Frank Rosar of St. Catharines, association president, announced the decision following a meeting of directors.

McKnight said it is hoped to sell 800 tickets for $20,000, compared with a net of 770 from the 1953 dinner last March.

The association has also completed its list of celebrities for the preliminary list includes: Tom Thomson, coach of Hanover, and only Canadian to hold the world heavyweight boxing title; Johnny Taylor, old time hockey star; Left Gones from baseball; Ken Watson of Winnipeg, Canada's outstanding curler; Torchy Peden, former skiday hike racer.

Terry Sawchuk, Flop Last Year Staging Comeback

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings, a 26-1 identified "flop" in last spring's disastrous Stanley Cup playoffs, is compiling an amazing comeback record.

The 24-year-old netminder has given up only 29 goals in 20 games —an average of 1.45. He also has turned in five shutouts, but most important, he has regained his confidence.

After the Wings were upset by Montreal Canadiens in the playoffs last April, Sawchuk said:

"I'm going to shape up this year but I'll be back—and I'll be the best!"

Sawchuk is back—and he's the best.

He posted his third straight shutout of the season Thursday night, blanking New York Rangers 4-0. He made 27 saves, at least half in a dozen robbing the Rangers of "sure" goals.

NO EXAGGERATION

Sawchuk, who hasn't been scored upon in Olympia Stadium in 211 minutes and 34 seconds, is at no loss to explain his comeback.

"I'm just doing what I've ever had," he said after Thursday's game, "but I'll be darned if I know what. Maybe I've put on weight. I weigh 177 now compared to 165 last season. Maybe I'm using up a sweat last season."

Sawchuk has been more relaxed goalie this season. He displayed mid-season form even in the first exhibition games.

Slashed across the knee, he missed three games earlier in the season. His replacement, Dave Gatherum, gave up three goals in three games.

This gives the Red Wings 32 goals-against in 22 games and gives Sawchuk into the lead for the Vezina Trophy.

U.S. DEFEATED

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australia's second-string team of Rex Hartwig and Merrye Rose upset heavily favored Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad today to win the Victoria state doubles tennis championship. The scores were 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Johnson's Signing by 49ers May Be Sign of All-Out War

CALGARY (CP)—Two Calgary sports editors, commenting on the loss of sensational Negro halfback John Henry Johnson of Calgary Stampeders to San Francisco 49ers, say it is possibly the opening salvo of an all-out war between America and Canadian professional football.

Signing of Johnson, voted most valuable player in the Western Conference this year and one of the top four candidates for the same all-Canada award, was a reversal of the trend of recent years.

Previously, it was Canadian clubs which lifted the U.S. National League interests by picking up choice American professional and college stars.

In some cases there were claims and counter-claims about some of the import stars jumping American contracts. St. John's case, only a one-year contract with Stampeders was involved.

"It was strictly a move to de-emphasize Canadian football and it certainly succeeded," said Frank McCoy, sports editor of The Albertan. "Johnson's exploits for a collar-busting team drew rave notices from one end of the country to the other."

Said Gord Hunter, sports editor of The Herald: "We have it on good authority that the NFL will hold a secret meeting to formulate some plans aimed at stemming the flow of American talent to Canada."

Hunter said that although Johnson's salary was never made public, it was believed in the neighborhood of $10,500 for 1953 and "it is believed the Calgary club was willing to go as high as $15,000 to bring him back next season." McCool quoted Stampeder manager Bob Robinett as saying: "We offered John Henry a salary exceeding the amount 49ers pay their top halfback Hugh McElhenney."

Five Bunched Close to Top Of Quebec Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five teams are bunched near the top of the Quebec Hockey League standings after Thursday night's games, if anything, made it more of a "touch-and-go" affair than before. Only five points separate the first-place Quebec Aces and fifth-place Chicoutimi Saguenenns.

Thursday, the Aces were defeated 5-3 by the cellar-dwelling Valleyfield Braves and Montreal Nationals were beaten 4-1 by Chicoutimi.

In the other games, Ottawa Senators downed Quebec Saints 3-1 to draw into a second-place tie with Montreal.

Dewey to Coach Lumber Kings

PEMBROKE (CP)—Hal Dewey, who coached Smiths Falls Rideaus to the Allan Cup northern finals a year after winning the title in the now defunct Eastern Canada Senior League, has been named coach of the Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, southern group.

Club officials said Dewey, formerly with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, who dropped out of the Quebec Senior Hockey league this year when it turned professional, will be here in time for the game between the Lumber Kings and Sudbury Wolves Saturday.

Dewey replaces Frank (Butch) Dahan, who resigned.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Bill Millridge scored 15 points Thursday night as Buffalo State Teachers took its second game of the season with an easy 90-42 victory over Queen's University of Kingston. It was the opener for Queen's.

Buffalo led the Canadians all the way, piling up a 43-16 margin at halftime.

Don Lyon led the scoring for the visitors with 12 points.

Ten Are Injured When Toronto Trams Collide

TORONTO (CP)—Ten persons were injured Thursday night when two street cars collided during the rush-hour at the east-central intersection of Queen and Parliament streets.

Five of the injured, including motorman William H. Parnell, 50, required hospital treatment.

Parnell was the operator of a crowded eastbound Queen car which police said slammed broadside into the westbound Parliament car. He was pitched headfirst through the front doors of his tram and taken unconscious to hospital.

The others treated at hospital were Roy Gifford, 2 5-E; A. Bernard, 46; Mrs. D. Wilmot, 18; and Mrs. Betty Murphy, 21.

There were two passengers on the Parliament car. Neither was injured.

TRAM CROWDED

Mrs. Murphy, a passenger on the Queen street car, said the tram car just started after a stop at the intersection.

"It was very crowded and nobody except perhaps those at the front had any idea of what was going to happen. There was a terrible crash and then our street-car scooped to lift up in the air and lurch sideways."

Two fire trucks collided at the same intersection May 17, 1947, killing three firemen and injuring eight others.

Govt. Claims Soldier Overpaid In Gratuities

BRANTFORD (CP)—Judge D. J. Coleman Thursday reserved judgment on an attempt by the federal government to recover $41.90 from John William Bishop of Lynden.

The government claimed it overpaid Bishop that amount in gratuities after his discharge from the Canadian Army in 1946.

L. T. Pennell, acting for the crown, suggested the action was a test case hinging on the fact that the crown can do no wrong.

Lieut.-Col. Amos, administration officer of the Canadian Army pay corps, Oakville, testified the army made a mistake in 1946 and paid Bishop $212.12 in gratuities instead of the $170.90 he was entitled to.

J. A. Warren of Hamilton, acting for Bishop, introduced evidence that Bishop received three notices from the government, each asking for a different amount.

Minor Hockey

Six games were played in the minor hockey league at the arena on Thursday evening, consisting of two juvenile-junior, three midget and one squirt.

JUVENILE-JUNIOR.

Gerry Goyer has a field day playing centre for Team No. 4 as he scored five goals to lead his team to a one sided 9-2 victory over team No. 5. Three of his markers were unassisted while McKenna and Hall helped in the other pair. Hawthorne banged in two goals and one assist.

John Cleary and Don Hall netted the others. McKenna had two assists. For the losers it was Juvenile Brown on passes from Harvey Stolker on both the goals.

Charles Kingston in the nets for team No. 5 played an excellent game as he turned in a 2-0 shutout over team No. 1. Bustard slapped in Godbout's rebound for the first marker while Vaughan on passes from Godbout and Bustard completed the scoring.

MIDGET.

In a wild, wide open game between teams 4 and 1, the latter came out on top by a 4-3 score in the first of three midget games. Frank Cris claimed a duo of goals for team No. 1 while Bob Cryil had a trio of assists. Bill Jones and Bob Hunt got the others. Bill Foster with 2 and 1 had a good night in a losing cause. Bob Wannamaker got the odd goal and helped on one of Foster's. Nine penalties were handed out with the winners getting four of them.

Teams 2 and 3 had top scoring power for No. 8 as they notched a 4-0 victory with Jack Gill getting a pair of goals. Ab Wright had one and one while Bob Elliott got the other goal. Jack Mathews fed Gill a nice pass for his second goal.

Team No. 5 came from behind to edge team No. 6 by one in the closest fixture of the night. Calver led No. 5 to the victory on passes from Gord Young and Bill Keegan but Don Symmons and Bob Spencer evened the count shortly after. Gary Dunne proved to be the hero of the game when he took a pass out from the corner by Ron Woods and drove it past Jack Gollendeer. Team No. 3 put on pressure in a vain attempt to tie the score but time ran out.

SPRINGS.

The Black Hawks on goals by Barrage, Blaker and Woodcock downed the Maple Leafs 3-1 in the game at 6.00 p.m. Ray Munroe hit the hero for the Leafs.

TV NEWS

by Gene Hitchon

We heard this week of a wonderful couple in Quinte Manor who swore off beer but bought a brand new 21 inch TV set instead. Now they can't afford to go out to the show but they can sit in their livingroom entirely for the enjoyment of friends who come to see them. You see, the Hunters are both blind!

We can hazard of a TV fan who finds her living climbing into second storey windows when the doors of productions were away. It seems this particular housewife was locked out of the house on occasion found the entire family engrossed in the TV set and no one willing to let her in. Before you've had a look at the unbeatable value that Electrohome has in that stunning 21 inch console, the luminous has to offer. At HITCHON RADIO you'll find a wide range of models to suit both your taste and pocketbook. And you'll experience real value satisfaction when you purchase of these sharp beauties. Just one look at the picture they give and you'll realize it is an integral part of everything else made in our store. We build our business on service and we stand behind everything we sell. Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 5, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Rays mostly favorable though day should be neither too exciting nor too demanding. Hard work and strenuous sports, also military interests freshly sponsored. May not be right day for seeking favors.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your chart suggests a middle-of-the-road course. You can make headway if you don't undertake more than you can reasonably handle and if you keep cheerful, hopeful.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Try not to overtax mental equipment or overdo in trying to outsmart others. Give your usually active brain some rest today; more work slowly where it would help to build stamina.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — This can be a good day if you make it one. Remember, the better the deed, the better the day. Exaggeration could lead to trouble. Hold that story till you check facts.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Steady purpose plus a spirit of optimism makes a good recipe for this good-for-all-time spring tonic. Don't be irked by responsibilities, nor criticism too harshly. Seek high goals.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Impulsiveness isn't one of your innate qualities, but you can commit the offence, and do so unexpectedly on occasion. Be sure to curb any such tendency today!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Think of health, your family's welfare, and start the day by asking God's blessing. Then you will have a satisfactory day, even if rewards of remuneration come later. Logic!

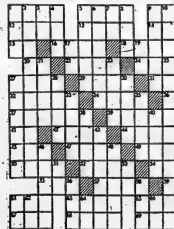
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Observe rules, curb habits you know are detrimental and stop wasting time if you would achieve during this period. Achievement is not measured by the amount done, but by what is done.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Business and pleasure can be mixed during this period—if done adroitly.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Neither be too trusting nor too skeptical. The happy medium, please! Note trends; check well for errors.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Observe where true beautiis have come from; place affections and confidences thoughtfully; heed wise council and remember past mistakes. Protect health.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—With remarkable exactitude you can duplicate successes and assist others to achieve the way they really wish. When disappointments come, remember that faith and optimism are sturdy pillars.



YOU BORN TODAY are innately industrious. You are happiest when busy but may, at times, be inclined to overseriousness, losing vitality and developing "nerves". You are usually a sound investor; could become an accomplished musician, and are equally adapted to a business career. You are inclined to be out-spoken but don't be too abrupt.

Birthdate of Martin Van Buren, 8th U.S. Pres.; Geo. Custer, United States General.

STILL ON JOB

CANBERRA (CP) — Brigadier H. G. Pollard, former Australian commander in Korea, said in an interview the Australians in Korea are busily digging in so they can hold the line in case of a new outbreak. Morale was high because they now had all conveniences, he added. A rest and recreation centre had been built on the scene of one of the fiercest battles of the campaign.

RE-NEWED CARS WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE CARS that have been turned in on later models. They have been thoroughly inspected by our skilled mechanics. Any faulty parts found have been done competently many thousands of miles have been built back into them. Because this work has been done, we feel they are a little better than ordinary used cars, therefore we choose the above name to distinguish them. The initial cost may not be any lower but we feel sure that the cost in the long run will be considerably less.

TLC Makes Move To Close Ranks Of Four Unions

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's largest central union body, the 1,200,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, Thursday made a move to-ward closing the ranks of various four groups representing about 1,-100,000 railroad workers.

However, the TLC said the step, appointment of an exploratory committee, does not mean that unification of the organizations is in prospect.

Appointment of the committee was a follow-up to a resolution adopted at the TLC convention here last fall, which called for non-raiding on other unions' groups as "the first step towards closer relations and eventual organic unity."

That resolution and Thursday's action by the TLC executive council represented an about-face from a year ago two years ago, when it broke up a similar four-way committee set up chiefly to make joint submissions to governments.

Organizations on that committee, and which would be involved in any labor unity, were the TLC, the 313,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with about 100,000 members and the independent railway brotherhoods with 40,000.

The TLC said its four-man committee is to explore further steps that may lead to closer relations and eventual organic unity.

Brampton Horse Wins In Jumping at Chicago

CHICAGO (CP)—Black 'Velvet, from the ABC Farms, Brampton, Ont., won the $1,000 chrome jumper stake at the horse show held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition here Thursday night.

The Brampton farm's other entry, Grey Velvet, was fourth.

King's Counsel, owned by Lawrum Farms, Durham, Ont., earlier was ranked third in the harness horse division of the show.

Patricia Yoko, owned by Dr. E. F. Porter and Son, Galt, was eighth.

Oil Discovered In Australia For First Time

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Shares of the Ampol Petroleum Company of Australia jumped almost 200 per cent this morning in the greatest rise in the history of Sydney stock exchange following announcement of the discovery of oil in an isolated section of the Commonwealth's west coast, 600 miles north of Perth.

First announcement of the discovery was made in San Francisco by Standard Oil Co. of California, which has an interest in Ampol.

Significance of the discovery is pointed up by the fact that Australia now uses 200,000 barrels of petroleum products a day—all of which must be imported.

UTMOST IMPORTANCE

The Ampol managing director, W. G. Wallace, said the discovery "is too far-reaching to predict what its effects will be.

"It is of the utmost importance to Australia's economy."

Sailor Charged With Assault

THOROLD (CP)—A Great Lakes sailor from Thorold was charged Thursday with assault of an unidentified woman as police pressed an investigation into discovery of blood-stained female clothing and what appeared to be bloodstains in the sailor's automobile.

The unidentified 23 - year - old sailor was taken into custody at Midland. He will appear in police court here today.

Police began an investigation when the blood-stained clothing of a woman, including lingerie, was found beside the Welland canal. Officers, however, could learn of no women being reported missing in the area.

Further investigations led to the discovery of the sailor's car parked at the seamen's union hall here and police said there were blood stains in the interior of the vehicle.

Fined $50

CHATHAM (CP)—Josh Horn of Petrolia was fined $50 and costs when convicted Thursday by Magistrate L. B. Craig of supplying liquor to minors.

The charge arose from police investigation into the Tupperville party Oct. 3 in which there was about $700 damage caused to the home of Austin Forshee.

Three boys from Wallaceburg charged with consuming were freed when there was no evidence to support the charges.

A charge of wilful damage against another youth was dismissed and a charge of theft against one youth was enlarged until next Tuesday for trial at Wallaceburg.

You can't go ALL-OUT... If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical things easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's busy living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" hurry-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 13

21 Feared Dead After Plane Hits Spanish Mountain

Twelve Known Survivors Are Critically Injured

MADRID (AP) — Twenty-one persons are feared dead in the wreckage of a Spanish transport plane which crashed and burned Friday night in the mountains north of here.

An airline company spokesman announced that 12 of the 33 known survivors, including Paul J. Douglass, 36, a courier for the United States consulate here, have arrived in Madrid and are in hospital. Officials said no one is to talk with the survivors, and the extent of their injuries was not immediately disclosed.

Listed among the survivors is Jose Marie Crol, prominent Spanish industrialist and developer of the "Caterpillar train." They are in hospital with the pilot, co-pilot, mechanic, radio operator and four passengers, all Spaniards.

The Roman Catholic parish priest of the tiny mountain village of Somo Sierra found the wreckage early today. He reported the survivors, dragged and carried to hospital here had to make their way down through ice-covered mountainous terrain during the night.

There was no immediate word on the fate of the two British passengers, Charles Barret of Barcelona and Victor Gordon.

STRUCK PEAK

The plane, a British-built Britain operated by the Spanish Commercial Aviation Company on a flight from Bilbao to Madrid, struck into a rain-shrouded peak towering before the plane was due into the Spanish capital, 80 miles to the south.

Officials first said there were only six known survivors and early today reported additional names, the number who may have escaped. It was believed possible that more injured might be wandering in the mountains looking for help. One aviation official said, "We fear the worst."

The plane held of great difficulties finding the plane in the fog, drizzle and freezing weather and called the crash spot a "Dantesque scene of desolation."

Gen. Camilo Alonso, chief of state, personally directed his ministers of foreign affairs, the interior and army and the chiefs of his civil and military staffs to the scene to direct rescue operations.

The six who made their way down the mountain from the wreckage included the pilot, co-pilot, a mechanic and three Spanish passengers. All were injured and one, a woman, had both legs broken. The others carried her to the highest village, a three-hour journey.

Survivors said the plane's right engine burst into flame after it struck the mountain. The flames spread, and the plane exploded just after the injured woman was dragged from the wreck.

Spain Terms Queen's Visit 'Clear Hostility'

MADRID (Reuters)—The Spanish newspaper ABC Friday characterized Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Spain as "clear proof of her six-month Commonwealth tour as an unfriendly political gesture which can only be interpreted as an act of clear and particular hostility towards Spain."

"This proposed British move proves the intention to repay the Spanish hyper-sensitivity on this subject by an indefinite plagarism," the paper said.

"If Her Serious Majesty had been coming to Gibraltar as a tourist, we would have welcomed her greatly and treated her with in accordance with the policy of her government and for state reasons."

Since 1713, when Britain came into possession of the rock fortress by the Treaty of Utrecht, Spain has disputed her right to hold it.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cloudy skies, associated with the cooler air, covers the province today. Snowflurries are continuing over the northern regions. Clearing is expected in southern typions this afternoon. However a storm is known to be moving eastward and cloud will spread over the southern regions by Sunday morning. Showers are forecast for the lower lakes regions Sunday.

Committee Will Study Changes In Election Act

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill indicated Friday that a House committee will be established in a future session to study changes in the Election Act.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) that the committee be set up this session. The suggestion was endorsed by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

The discussion arose as the Commons debated the first government measure of the session.

The bill would permit the use of voting machines material on hand in any federal by-election or northern territories election from now until the next general election. It was given second reading—by 129 votes to 19—and passed through the committee stage.

Mr. Pickersgill said the present stocks of election material, based on the election of 1935, would no longer be useable under the revised statutes, effective this year, under the Electoral Boundaries Act.

It would take six months to print new election papers to conform to the revised statutes and a by-election might become necessary within that time.

United States Press Favored At Debs' Ball

OTTAWA (CP)—Socially prominent Ottawans turned out in force Friday night for the Garrison Ball, a main social event of the capital's winter season. It was there, they said, that had repercussions.

The New York magazine monthly has the greatest circulation by the ball committee to take pictures exclusively during the 10:30 p.m. to midnight dance floor. Until that time, photographers, even the press media, including the capital's newspapers, were restricted to the ballroom balcony.

Surveying the floor for planes of right engine burst into flame after it struck the mountain. The flames spread, and the plane exploded just after the injured woman was dragged from the wreck.

Villagers Sight Northumberland Strait's 'Phantom Ship' Again

CAPE JOHN, N.S. (CP) — The phantom ship of the Northumberland strait is sailing the seas again, her slender mast spouting fire and white sails close to storm.

The old three-master has been reported sighted three times this year, twice within a week.

Mrs. Alton Langille looked out the window one night when the strait between the mainland and Prince Edward Island was wind-scuffed and choppy.

She said she saw the phantom ship, gliding up the strait, fire streaking from her rigging and bull, her sails white and billowing, all for an hour.

Two days later, just after supper, nearly all the residents watched the blazing vessel that has been sighted as long as dwellers along this coast can remember.

"It has to be seen to be believed" the villagers claim.

There is a difference of opinion as to the identity of the ship. Some residents say it is the phantom of a pleasure ship that was destroyed by fire during a drinking bout many years ago.

Others tell you that it is a Scottish immigrant ship that set sail from Scotia in the early century and became lost at sea.

Still others say some people say it's an optical illusion. Or that it's caused by gases breaking through the ice from the submarine coal fields.

Some, many years ago, several sea captains from the nearby town of Pictou claimed they had sighted the weird spectacle. When they neared, she vanished.

Mirages are not uncommon in the Maritimes. In New Brunswick residents will tell you about the ghost ship that sails the Bay of Chaleur.

And there's the "teazer light" of Mahone Bay, on Nova Scotia's south shore.

Mariners say that the appearance of a light, usually on a rock, precedes a severe easterly storm.

The weather office, however, predicts improving weather.

FORMER CUBAN PRESIDENT AND MINISTER HELD

Said Conspiring To Send Arms to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba's former president, Carlos Prio Socarras, and, his interior minister were free today under heavy bonds on a charge of conspiring to export arms and implements of war from the United States without a license.

"The implication is quite clear that these munitions were to be used for a revolution in Cuba" said United States district attorney James L. Guinardin.

Prio, 50, and Segundo Curti, 43, his interior minister until Fulgencio Batista led a overthrew his regime in a bloodless coup March 10, 1952, were taken in custody at Prio's home-in-exile here Friday following their indictment in New York.

Prio was released under $50,000 bond and Curti on $25,000 bond.

NINE OTHERS NAMED

They were among nine persons named in the indictment. Names of the others were withheld pending their arrest.

Prio and Curti were named in a separate complaint filed here with conspiring to ship 30 M-3 carbines rifles to Cuba. Two of them were brought in by U. S. customs officers, who said they had worked on the case since April, 1952.

The federal grand jury here issued a statement in which he decided the indictments "do not entail flight in the future."

The arrests came on the heels of unconfirmed report that a revolution had been scheduled for Cuba next Monday.

Polite Gunman Robs Collingwood Bank of $500

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—A polite man robbed the branch of the Bank of Montreal here Friday of $400 and $500 Friday, and escaped with an accomplice in a black automobile.

Police said the six-foot bulky gunman presented a note to the woman customer to precede him as he moved to the cashier's wicket shortly before closing time.

He handed cashier Jeannette Bell a gun and she had "10 minutes to turn over all the money."

When the girl hesitated, he told her "Please hurry up."

He said he had a gun in his pocket. Miss McInnis said she could see the outline of a bench coat bulge.

He handed him a handful of $10 bills. As he turned to leave, the girl pressed a bell on the alarm button. Police came within four minutes but by that time the bandit had disappeared.

Miss McInnis described the man as between 30 and 35, "clean-cut, good-looking, smooth talking." About a dozen persons were in the bank when he entered.

Hundreds Ont. Communities Hold Elections on Monday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hundreds of Ontario communities including nearly a score of cities, will hold municipal elections Monday, in many cases with a full slate of civic offices.

Cities voting Monday include Belleville, Chatham, Guelph, Kitchener, Peterborough, Stratford, Sarnia, Sudbury, London, Woodstock, Brantford, Galt, Niagara Falls, Oshawa, Timmins, Thomas, Sault Ste. Marie and Welland. Brockville is among towns voting that day.

A number of others have already chosen their 1954 civic administrations, some by acclamation. The northern town of Timmins was scheduled to have its election today but the slate of candidates was sent in by acclamation.

Cornwall, Kingston, Ottawa and Windsor, with two-year terms, have an off year. Hamilton voted Dec. 2, St. Catharines votes Dec. 12, the first time in many years Hamilton and the latter will vote on other than New Year's Day, before a Monday. Mayor Arthur elections will be Dec. 14.

MAYORS OPPOSED

Mayoralty contests are opposed in many centres. Mayor Allan Lamport is challenged by Arthur Wright in Toronto, Mayor Jonas Rush by Elmo Curtis in London, Mayor Harry Hunter by Ernest Heffernan in Guelph, Mayor Hugh Waddell by Gordon Hall in Peterborough, Mayor John Frankish by Alderman John Smith in St. Catharines, Mayor Lawrence Feick by Alderman Bert Davies and Alderman C. B. Meier in Stratford, Mayor Dan Jessup by former mayor W. J. Beaton in Sudbury and Mayor Bernadette Smith by Alderman Harry J. Collins in Woodstock.

A by-law to stop whistle blowing in Belleville at 9 p.m. is the by-law questions to be decided in Ontario municipalities. Chatham will vote on a $200,000 extension to the Public Utilities Commission, and on a $900 grant for a new bandstand.

Merritton voters will be asked if they want the town to separate from Lincoln county. They are also to vote on a $100,000 and $100,000 debenture issue for a community centre.

A Stratford bylaw vote concerns a $15,000 debenture issue for renovations to the Stratford General Hospital building as a hospital for nurses, and a $50,000 grant for additional accommodation for the nursing staff.

Brockville has no bus service at present and ratepayers will be asked if they want the town to grant the city to operate one.

Sudbury will vote on five questions, including sale of a city-owned railway, building of a community centre and appointment of a city manager.

The major issues in the Toronto mayoralty fight are rent controls, high rents, and a new look in residential developments. Mayor Lamport, seeking his third term, has opposed rent controls while Mr. Brown, who resigned as board of education chairman to run for the mayoralty, has made an election pledge that he will adopt a policy of qualified control under a three-man board.

Bandits Slug Three as Beer Store at Morrisburg Robbed

MORRISBURG (CP) — Three tough-talking bandits looted the Morrisburg beer store of Friday night after slugging two staff members and a customer over the head with a gun butt.

Police said the thieves took about $600, including $283 from the wallet of manager Harry Tindall, a former mayor of Carleton Place, and $50 from that of clerk Ted Smith, 45.

After leaving the main street store in the east end of the St. Lawrence river town 28 miles west of Cornwall, they apparently made a clean getaway.

Prime said the men entered Friday night by the back and Smith and Smith's 53-year-old brother, Gordon, the latter a cashier, were preparing to lock up for the day. One went over to the desk as if to make out an order slip.

Another, wearing a dark ski cap and dark leather jacket, walked over to talk to Prime.

NO TALK

"The man who came up to me had a gun," Prime said later. "He said, 'This is a holdup, lads.' I looked at Gord and we both laughed. We thought it was a joke but it definitely wasn't."

At gunpoint, the three members of the staff were bustled into an adjoining storage room and ordered to lie face down on the floor. One of the bandits made a quick survey and one stayed in the lobby and the third rifled the cash drawer. Before they left, the robbers ripped the telephone wires from the wall.

Harry Tindall, 39, entered to buy some beer and through an open door saw a man sprawled across the floor. Just as he caught sight of them, one of the gunmen told him:

"Okay—you, too."

With a gun trained on him, Tindall joined the others on the floor.

CUSTOMER THREATENED

"Don't move or you just have five minutes to live," one of the holdup men warned him.

"I didn't move," Tindall said later, "I thought they were going to shoot me."

The bandits then slugged the Smiths and Tindall with a gun butt, knocking the Smiths unconscious and leaving them lying in a pool of blood.

Police said they believe the trio escaped in a waiting car. All the robbers were of medium build and between 30 and 40 years old. They wore ski caps and the third a beret.

Proposal Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—The commons Friday rejected by a vote of 97 to 32 a CCF proposal that Auditor General Watson Sellar replace a private firm of chartered accountants to audit the books of the Canadian National Railways.

The suggestion was made by Hazen Argue (CCF—Mackenzie) who opposed the reappointment of George A. Touche and company as CNR auditors.

ALL-CANADIAN GAS PIPELINE MAY BE REALITY

Project Would Cost About $300,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Government and Parliament are moving to clear the way for a $300,000,000 project to bring natural gas into Ontario and Quebec.

Trade Minister Howe told a press conference Friday he will meet soon with two pipe line companies which must get together if they want to send Alberta gas east.

The Commons also approved a bill providing for federal control over interprovincial and international gas and oil pipe lines.

Among other things, the measure would give the board of transport commissioners jurisdiction over the Alberta government's announcement that it will release gas to eastern Canada provided the two major competing companies form a joint operation.

The companies are Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., which has planned an all-Canadian line from Ontario to the Lakehead and Western Pipe Lines, which would build a line as far as Winnipeg, linking the Alberta gas into the Minneapolis area.

CANADIAN ROUTE

Mr. Howe said, however, the government's first consideration is to get Alberta gas to the east by an all-Canadian line. A line could be built to ship gas into the American market if Canadian facilities in first must be assured.

He did not rule out the possibility of the Consumers' gas project, to get Alberta gas, but said the company must show that its operations would fit into the general pattern for gas piping.

At least two years.

Meanwhile, the Commons approved in principle a bill amending the Pipe Lines Act. Some opposition members suggested the bill be studied by the railway committee but Transport Minister Chevrier said the committee could not be formed until late next week and the issue was one of "some urgency."

The bill will not affect pipe lines built before Oct. 1, 1953.

Duke Becomes Assistant Barber As Royal Liner Crosses Equator

By GOMER JONES

ABOARD "S. S. GOTHIC (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh swore featly to a new ruler, King Neptune, and to a new barber, Sir Neptune, and to a new barber, Sir Neptune's assistant.

Proudly wearing the blue-and-white apron of an "assistant barber" in Neptune's kingdom, the duke played a key part in traditional equator-crossing ceremonies as the Gothic steamed past the equator toward the Fiji Islands on the first stage of the world tour of the couple's six-month Commonwealth journey.

The duke personally pushed Lady Alice Egerton, the queen's lady-in-waiting, into the swimming pool after she had been dunked with Royal Navy and Royal Marine officers and a pirate with a black beard treatment for being the daughter of the British medical-services racons commander-in-chief, Admiral Lord Mountbatten, "as sea sick not appointed by Neptune."

The initiation is inflicted on everyone who had not crossed the equator before. Queen Elizabeth looked on as an old hand—she had crossed the equator on her trip to South Africa in 1947.

The three-course dinner were performed on several royal women secretaries and the Queen's page and footman.

Retribution came in the end for the duke. Impersonated by the duke's police guard, Inspector Frank Kelley, who greeted the traditional king, flowing beard.

The Queen, who took in the ceremony at a safe distance, escaped the "rival monarch" splash with a shriek. Princess Margaret during a general melee which also left the duke and Mountbatten out of the oceanic court dripping.

Earlier in the day the Queen and duke watched a similar ceremony aboard the escort cruiser shelduck with gay bluecoaters.

The initiation aboard the royal liner was even more impressive, with the imposing titles of its victims, Neptune, and a naval commander, a queen and a pirate, mounted their throne to violin music by a pirate with a black patch over one eye—Lt.-Col. Vivian Dunn, Royal Marine music director.

Aphrodite flourished her boatquet, a queen's sceptre and Neptune's court physician brandished a pair of enormous scissors and pliers to add color to the ceremony.

Iran Resumes Relations With Great Britain

Moslem Religious Leader Offers Strong Opposition

TEHRAN (AP) — Iran today resumed diplomatic relations with Britain, a government spokesman announced.

A spokesman for Premier Fazlollah Zahedi's government announced the move, which had been forecast earlier by informed sources both here and in London. It came despite strong internal opposition, particularly on the part of Ayatollah Kashani, powerful Moslem religious leader.

The reconciliation lasted shortly afterwards in London said that following re-exchanging of ambassadors Britain and Iran "will proceed at the earliest mutually-agreed moment to negotiate a settlement of the oil dispute which has recently led to their breach."

BROKEN BY MOSSADEGH

Relations were broken off 12 months ago by former premier Mohammed Mossadegh as a result of the dispute over Iranian nationalization of the properties of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Mossadegh, now being tried by an Iranian army court-martial, was overthrown in a coup d'etat last August in a pro-royalist coup.

Relations with Britain, severed by Mossadegh, were expected since a group of Iranian businessmen, a former cabinet ministers, senators and top business men, arrived the same day to negotiate a settler this week.

The government spokesman said: "Relations have been resumed inasmuch as both sides are confident that with goodwill on both sides better relations and settlement of any questions in the past can be arrived at."

TO REPLAIN TO PEOPLE

Zahedi is expected to make a radio speech Sunday or Monday explaining his government's reasons for the move.

Kashani, long a bitter foe of British, announced Thursday that the oil dispute should be settled first and the final agreement approved by Parliament before British envoys be allowed to enter the country.

Diplomat told reporters in an interview today: "The Americans have increased pressure on the Iranian government, saying if Iran does not reach some settlement relations with Britain they will cut the economic aid which is the main source of money given to Iran at present.

"We will not put up with this nonsense." Kashani declared, adding that the day of resumption of relations should be considered a day of mourning.

It is highly debatable how much influence Kashani has in Iranian politics today in contrast to his unlimited grass-roots power during the Mossadegh regime. Kashani was one of the leaders who organized tribesmen for the first year of the former premier's 28-month rule. Later he fell out with Mossadegh demanded increased powers.

Two Football Players Injured

COBOURG (CP)—Four persons, including two Ottawa football players, suffered minor injuries Friday in a two-car collision on a crest of a hill near Welcome, about 10 miles northeast of here.

Ed Yablonski of the Ottawa Rough Riders and the Big Four union and Pete Karpuk, who started the season with the Riders before being fired, were riding in one car. They suffered facial lacerations.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Fraser of Brownsvale, Alta., in the other car, were bruised. The latter two with lacerations and other injuries.

THE BEST POLICY

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Commended for his honesty in telling the truth when he left the scene of an accident, Magistrate Ivan B. Craig imposed a minimum fine of $10 and costs on Joseph Nemeth, of Wallaceburg, Tuesday. Nemeth, who was charged with driving away after striking a bicycle and injuring the rider, told the court he was "just plain scared."

Fire Was Fooled, Without a Doubt The Chief Was In, The Blaze Was Out

While members of the Belleville fire department were present at Queen Mary Public School Friday distributing prizes won by pupils for writing essays in connection with Fire Prevention Week, smoke from burning stovepipes filled the school and pupils were given a holiday until the smoke cleared away.

The fire chief and two members of his department were on the auditorium stage about to distribute prizes to the pupils when someone smelled smoke. Investigation revealed stovepipes leading from the furnace to the chimney were afire. The janitor emptied a fire extinguisher and the acrid fumes went up into the school.

School Principal C. I. Frederick said that ordinarily the children would have been let out into the school yard until the smoke cleared, but as it was raining they were sent home until noon.

U.S. Weather Balloon Found at Milltown

A weather balloon from Joliet, Illinois, was recovered from the property of A. Stewart, Milltown, Friday morning. Two public school students of Milltown school spotted the balloon as it was descending at 10:30 a.m.

When it landed the boys picked it up and took it to their teacher, Mrs. Mary McConnell. Attached to the deflated balloon was a small device which appeared to resemble a radio. A note read: "This instrument is the property of the U.S. government. Its return is requested."

The device was described by the note as a radiosond and had been sent aloft by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

It is planned to mail the radiosond back to Joliet.

Local Girl Heard On Chicago Program

Miss Barbara Redner, 8th daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner, Redneersville, who is in Chicago this week attending the national 4-H club convention, was a guest on Don McNeil's "Breakfast Club" radio show Friday morning.

Miss Redner took part in the broadcast but was defeated in a talkathon contest by two theology students.

Miss Redner is past president of the Prince Edward County 4-H Junior Farmers and is representing Prince Edward County at the 4-H club convention. She has been a member of the Hillier and Ameliasburg Junior Farmers organization for many years.

She has been in Chicago for the past week and is due to return to Belleville by Monday, December 14th. For the past two years she has been employed by the Belleville branch of the Bank of Montreal.

The Anti Noise By-Law

Noise is one of our twentieth century problems.

Some noises can be eliminated merely by the exercise of a little thought and courtesy.

Some other noises cannot be avoided, no matter what we do.

But most noises, while they can be eliminated, cannot be ended without the expenditure of money.

Railway whistles, horns and bells fall in this latter class.

Some warning must be given vehicles and pedestrians when a train approaches a level crossing. If this warning is not given by whistle, horn or bell, it must be conveyed by some other means, such as wig-wag signals or flashing lights.

Monday, municipal election day, some of Belleville's citizens will have the right to decide, by their ballots, whether other means of warning vehicles and pedestrians should be substituted for the whistles, horns and bells the railways now use. They will, or should, vote on the question: "Are you in favor of a by-law prohibiting the sounding of whistles, horns or the ri ging of bells by trains within the City of Belleville at an estimated cost to the city for protection of a sum not exceeding $25,000 plus an annual estimated cost for maintenance of a sum not exceeding $2,500?"

That means that the installation of warning devices at level crossings is estimated to cost the city up to $25,000 and that the upkeep of these warning devices is estimated to cost the city $2,500 annually.

Because the installation of such warning devices would require the issue of debentures, only those electors qualified to vote on money by-laws will get a vote on this question. Every person who owns property is qualified to vote on a money by-law.

Machine Shed Carried 150 Feet By Freak Twister in Sidney

A freak twister that struck during a sharp electrical storm, picked up a large machine shed on the farm of Keith Bush, 4th concession Sidney township, early Friday night and smashed the building against the side of the main barn 150 feet away.

No one was injured by the twister that apparently struck only in one isolated spot, but James Wilson, father-in-law of Mr. Bush, who was in the main barn when the wind struck, will remember it for a long time.

The wind picked the machine shed completely off its concrete foundation and carried it across the barnyard to smash with terrific force against the side of the main barn. Mr. Wilson, who suffers from a heart condition, was badly frightened, while cattle tied in stalls set up bellowing adding to the din.

Corrugated metal shingles were ripped off the Bush hog pen, while a small cattle shed was picked up and carried across a field where it was deposited against a fence upside down.

EVERY BOARD BROKEN

Almost every board in the 70 by 30-foot machine shed was broken, while the corrugated metal covering was twisted and broken as the building was crushed against the side of the barn.

A new hay baler and combine, along with a threshing separator, tractor and other machinery was undamaged as the machine shed was lifted off its foundation.

The only other damage caused by the wind was a tree near the Bush home which was blown across the road.

"This particular area seems to be pestered with high winds," Mr. Bush said. "I rebuilt my wooden shed last half a dozen times until I erected a cement one."

Mr. Bush carried no wind insurance on his buildings.

Box Attracting Attention At Georgia Salon

"A Jewel Box fit for a Queen" is attracting a lot of attention in the display windows of the Georgia Salon, Front Street.

Literally the jewel box was almost fit for a queen. It was made in Arnprior and originally intended as a gift for Queen Elizabeth II on the occasion of her visit to Canada as a princess.

Unfortunately there was a slight discrepancy in color on the lid and the gift was rejected by the government.

The handsome box was presented to the Belleville Shrine Club by the mayor of Arnprior, himself a shriner, with the condition that proceeds from its disposal be used for the Shrine Club Crippled Children Fund.

The winner of the jewel box will be announced at the Shrine Club crippled kiddies Christmas party being held in the clubrooms on December 23.

Offenders Will Be Summoned to Court

Repeated complaints from residents in various parts of the city of garbage pails being upset and garbage strewn about is resulting in a close check by city police, and will summons offenders into court.

"There seems to have been a mild epidemic recently of garbage pails being upset and inconsiderate items gone out to spoil officers to make a close check for offenders," Police Chief Robert Ashley said today. "Offenders will be brought into court to answer charges."

Stories of Famous Hymns

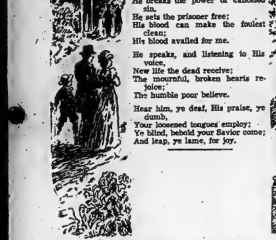
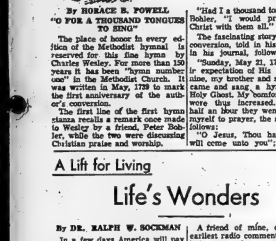
by HORACE B. POWELL

O FOR A THOUSAND TONGUES TO SING

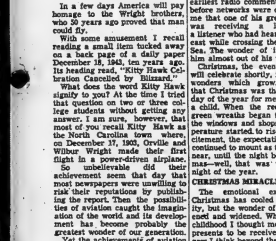
O for a thousand tongues to sing
My great Redeemer's praise;
The glories of my God and King,
The triumph of His grace.



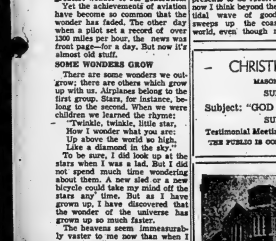
My gracious Master and my God
Assist me to proclaim,
To spread through all the earth abroad
The honors of Thy name.



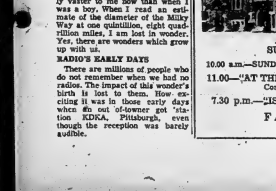
Jesus! the name that charms our fears,
That bids our sorrows cease;
'Tis music in the sinner's ears,
'Tis life and health and peace.



He breaks the power of canceled sin,
He sets the prisoner free;
His blood can make the foulest clean;
His blood availed for me.



He speaks, and listening to His voice,
New life the dead receive;
The mournful, broken hearts rejoice;
The humble poor believe.



Hear him, ye deaf, His praise, ye dumb,
Your loosened tongues employ;
Ye blind, behold your Savior come;
And leap, ye lame, for joy.

"O FOR A THOUSAND TONGUES TO SING"

The place of honor in every edition of the Methodist hymnal is reserved for this line hymn by Charles Wesley. For more than 150 years it has been "hymn number one" in the Methodist Church. It was written in May, 1739 to mark the first anniversary of the author's conversion.

The first line of the first hymn stanza recalls a remark once made to Wesley by a friend, Peter Bohler, while the two were discussing Christian praise and worship.

"Had I a thousand tongues", said Bohler, "I would praise Jesus Christ with them all."

The fascinating story of Wesley's conversion, told in his own words in his journal, follows:

"Sunday, May 21, 1738. I waked in expectation of His coming. At nine, my brother and some friends came and sang a hymn to the Holy Ghost. My comfort and hope were thus increased. In about half an hour they went. I betook myself to prayer, the substance as follows:

"'O Jesus, Thou hast said, I will come unto you'; Thou hast said, 'I will send the Comforter unto you'; Thou hast said, 'My Father and I will come unto you and make our abode with you'. Thou art God who canst not lie. I wholly rely upon Thy most true promise. Accomplish it in Thy Time and manner."

"Still I felt a violent opposition and perhaps resistance to believe, yet still the Spirit of God strove with my own and the evil spirit till by degrees he chased away the darkness of my unbelief. I found myself convinced, I knew not how or when, and immediately fell to intercession".

A Lift for Living

Life's Wonders

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In a few days America will pay homage to the Wright brothers, who 50 years ago proved that man could fly.

With some amusement I recall reading a small item tucked away on a back page of a daily paper, December 1903, ten years ago. Its heading read, "Kitty Hawk Celebration Canceled by Blizzard."

What does the word Kitty Hawk signify to you? At the time I first put question on two or three college students without getting any answer, I am sure, however, that most of you recall Kitty Hawk as the North Carolina town where on December 17, 1903, Orville and Wilbur Wright made their first flight in a power-driven airplane.

So unbelievable did their achievement seem that day that most newspapers were unwilling to risk their reputations by publishing the report. Then the possibilities of aviation caught the imagination of the world and its development has become probably the greatest wonder of our generation.

Yet the achievements of aviation have become so common that the wonder has faded. The other day when a pilot set a record of over 1300 miles per hour, the news was front page—for a day. But now it's almost old stuff.

SOME WONDERS GROW

There are some wonders we outgrow; there are others which grow up with us. Airplanes belong to the first group. Stars, for instance, belong to the second. When we were children we learned the rhyme:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are:
Up above the world so high,
Like a diamond in the sky."

To be sure, I did look up at the stars when I was a lad. But I did not spend much time wondering about them. A new sled or a new bicycle could take my mind off the stars any time. But as I have grown up, I have discovered that the wonder of the universe has grown up as well.

The heavens seem immeasurably vaster to me now than when I was a boy. When I read an estimate of the diameter of the Milky Way at one quintillion, eight quadrillion miles, I am lost in wonder. Yet, there are wonders which grow up with us.

RADIO'S EARLY DAYS

There are millions of people who do not remember when we had no radios. The impact of this wonder's birth is lost to them. How exciting it was in those early days when an out-of-towner got "station KDKA, Pittsburgh, even though the reception was barely audible.

A friend of mine, one of the earliest radio commentators long before networks were devised, told me that one of his greatest thrills was receiving a letter from a listener who had heard his broadcast while crossing the Caribbean Sea. The wonder of it frightened him almost out of his wits.

Christmas, the event which we will celebrate shortly, is one of the wonders which grow. I confess that Christmas was the red letter day of the year for me when I was a child. When the red bells and green wreaths began to appear in the windows and shops, my temperature started to rise. The excitement, the expectation, the glow continued to mount as the day drew near, until the night before Christmas—well, that was the greatest night of the year.

CHRISTMAS MIRACLE

The emotional excitement of Christmas has cooled with maturity, but the wonder of it has deepened and widened. Whereas in my childhood I thought most about the presents to be received and given, now I think beyond the gifts to that tidal wave of goodwill which sweeps up the coastline of the world, even though many shores are studded with bristling battleships. What is the power that lifts the tide of the world's heart at Christmas time?

It is the incoming surge of life's divinest force—love. The mystery of love is inexhaustible. It is God-given. The more we know of it, the more we are remiss to be known.

A few years ago I received a Christmas card with the picture of a poorly clad but smiling boy from New York's lower East Side. On it were the words: "Nuthin' can stop Christmas."

Nothing can stop it because Christmas is the divine invasion of good will. It lends the list of life's growing wonders.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BIRD LANGUAGE

Parrots, budgerigars, and the mynas of India are all noted for their ability to learn words or even sentences in our language. But there is a language special to Birdland which corresponds more to our sign language. We look surprised and say "Oh!" Or we raise our eyebrows and shrug our shoulders, and we are understood.

Birds and animals have no "conversation" as we understand the word, yet they show when they are angry, lonesome, hungry, or happy. They communicate with one another by movements, sounds, or smells. And that is the way we and our domestic pets communicate with each other. Our dogs understand our tone, not our words; and we know when they are glad to see us by the way they wiggle their bodies as well as their tails. We can tell when our canaries are excited at the approach of a cat by the fact that they raise the feathers on their heads. That is also characteristic of wild birds. Watch the look of alarm shown by the position of those feathers when a mother robin is disturbed at her nest. Her loud, scolding notes express her feelings too.

Just as the cries of infants are made by instinct and not learned, so bird language is an instinct. In 1852 Dr. Collias and Professor Joos experimented on chickens for the University of Wisconsin. Using 100 chicks they made recordings of reactions to Isolation from the rest of a brood, cold, heat, and so on. All grew up making some kinds of noises from the moment they emerged from their shells.

When taken from their parents, the chicks gave loud, insistent peeps, just as the young of Ring-necked Pheasants, quails, woodcocks, sandhill cranes, and marsh Hawks give their characteristic distress calls. When the hens (or hens' recordings) made clucking sounds, the chicks changed to pleasure notes, which are much lighter peeps. In fact the cluckings heard from a recording drew the tiny birds nearer to the loder. They also responded to attention with sounds of pleasure. When the call of a hawk is heard, small wild birds as well as hens change from pleasure notes to warning screams.

All birds find their own kind by means of distinctive vocalization. In spring the male attracts the females of its species by its song. The cries of the young indicate whether the honking of geese or the twittering of song birds, keep members of the flock from straying. The meaning of each bird is perfectly clear to those for whom it is meant. Nothing else is necessary.

CURIO COLLECTOR

LONDON (CP) — R. Merrifield, assistant keeper of the Guildhall Museum, has added old London "witch bottles." Such bottles were used in London and east England in 21st century, to be buried beside down under churches and other buildings to ward off evil spirits.

STILL ON JOB

COLONSAY, Sask. (CP) — John Duck, 75, keeper of the municipality of Colonsay, has been elected for his 40th term on the council. He received the Queen's Coronation Medals in recognition of his long service.

BIG GOOSE

CARMAN, Man. (CP)—"Plump" was hardly the word to describe the Canada goose bagged by C. W. Orchard. The hunter's trophy weighed 17 pounds, far heavier than the other four geese he bagged that day.

DO NOT SPOIL YOUR BALLOT

One of the principal wastes at any election is the number of spoiled or improperly marked ballots. That means double time and trouble to decide on an issue, go to the polls to record his decision—and everything by incorrectly marking his ballot is indefinite.

Ballots with a simple cross in the space appropriate space with a marking pencil that is supplied. An X should not touch any of the enclosing lines. Simple isn't it?

But you would be astounded at the number of ballots that are ruined because voters substitute their own ideas for the instructions. Ticks, question marks, and insertions for an X. Their marks, written yeses and noes, plus signs, lines and circles, all cancel a ballot. You may be proud of your new pen but it can spoil your ballot on election day. A special marking pencil is provided and unless it is used the ballot can be and is disqualified.

Too often in a close election the margin of difference in the final count is smaller than the number of spoiled ballots. It is the duty and responsibility not to vote, and it is gross stupidity to go to the polls and waste a ballot because of failure to observe the simple rules of marking the proper mark.

AN EXCELLENT CONVENTION

The Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association is to be congratulated on the success of its 26th annual convention and the British Empire Dairy Show held here this week.

The British Empire Show, while not as large as it has been in other years, was outstanding for the quality of cheese exhibited. The finest cheese exhibited in Canada was shown here. That is the opinion, according to judges and dairy officials, who have shown here. It topped the prize winning cheese shown at both the Canadian National Exhibition and the Royal Winter Fair this year. The finish on the cheese was also praised as being of outstanding quality.

During the convention delegates heard addresses by experts in all fields of cheese making business. They heard marketing reports of a character that emphasized international aspects of the cheese industry, as well as technical information on the latest in cheese factories, the protection of finished cheese, and the production of a cleaner, more wholesome cheese. In discussion periods that followed many problems were ironed out, ranged from prospects of an expanding export market in the United Kingdom and financing of a self-inflicted liability of $1,000 to the cost of 10 million pounds of cheddar to the British market to standardization of the size of cheese bandage and standardized construction of cheese boxes.

The delegates learned of last year's work and programmes and exhortations for the future. Science, economics and the wage and hour problems besetting the individual makers all had a well-rendered place at the convention. In short, the convention was comprehensive without being confusing, pertinent without being monotonous, and serious without being dull. Everything that was done served as a clearing house for ideas and suggestions by which the cheese industry can correct for itself the multitude of problems that beset it from the fall of milk to lake of buyer.

The convention also provided cheese makers, the backbone of the cheese business, with news of the latest developments and prospects of better working conditions for themselves.

The cheese industry in Ontario, which has its heart in the rich Belleville, has just come through two of its leanest years. However, the faith of the cheese producers in central Ontario in their product and their industry has never wavered. It is to be hoped that the renewed hope produced by the British Empire Dairy Show, and the convention recently concluded, will be rewarded.

One of the most heartening announcements stated that Belleville and high quality cheddar cheese are synonymous on the frontiers of the world. The quantity and quality of cheese produced in this area and shipped through Belleville's port gives the citizens of this city more than a passing financial interest in the welfare of their neighbors in the cheese industry.

As neighbors and friends of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and the cheese industry as a whole, it is appropriate for this newspaper to congratulate them on their outstanding show and convention and to wish them every future success.

WHITHER BOUND?

Every day Belleville plays host, for a few fleeting minutes, to thousands of visitors. They are travelling east and west on Highway No. 2.

There must be a hundred interesting stories which pull right by the door of the Ontario Intelligencer without even pausing for the transit of a traveller.

Sometimes, as on Wednesday, an interesting story gets stalled in the city. A car pulling a house trailer had to stop just below the hill on West Bridge Street, to change a tire on the trailer. Both car and trailer bore English licence plates. Was the owner touring Canada? Was he an immigrant who had brought his home with him? All sorts of interesting explanations can be imagined. But before a reporter could reach the scene the puncture had been repaired and the car and trailer had departed.

The vehicle which intrigued us, though, was a car which slipped through the city with three pairs of skis in a carrier on its roof. It was not a U.S. tourist, returning forth into the wilds of Our Lady of the Snows. The car bore an Ontario licence. Skis while the ground is still bare as a bone! Whither bound?

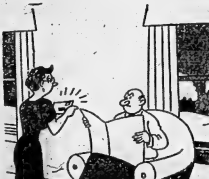
PRAISE AND BLAME

Should you think a thought unkind,
Keep it hidden in the mind.
Never sharply blurt it out.
There are eager ears about.



There are tongues that hasty are
To repeat it, once it's heard.
Soo, this truth I want to teach:
Long of life is hurtful speech.

Praise may not too swiftly spread,
Soon forgotten when it's said,
But the bitter word and strong
Is remembered much too long.

Better silent 'tis to stay
Than a hurtful thing to say.
Good but briefly may survive;
Evil longer stays alive.

Fickle Annie Laurie

(By Allan Reid in the Brockville Recorder and Times)

When the Kirkmichael Junior Choir from Scotland visits Brockville on St. Andrew's Day, there can be no doubt that many citizens—and not all of them Scots—will be regaled by the wonderfully rich, unspoiled voices, of many of the gayest and loveliest traditional airs and melodies. And it is almost certain that the programme, like all St. Andrew's Night programs of song, will include at least one of the most famed of the love songs of the world, "Annie Laurie." The origin of the song and the story of the principals makes a highly romantic tale with an unexpected ending.

About 250 years ago a fiery young Scot, not long out of military service, fell in love with another young Scot has done, to win his lady fair. He found in the lucklest pursuit of his sweetheart, the opportunity given to the world one of its best loved songs—sung by the British troops throughout the Crimean War era en as "Tipperary" was sung in the First World War. The unlucky suitor was William Douglas, heir to one of the Scotland's oldest families, and the girl in the song was Angie Laurie.

CHAPTER 12

It was Easter time again, near the fourteenth anniversary of the resurrection, as the faithful gathered in the Cenacle to mourn James the Greater.

Peter was totally unafraid though he heard the tramp of soldiers' feet mounting the stairs. He knew that the execution of James had pleased the ecumenical Sanhedrin. He felt certain that he himself must be the next to feel their wrath. But he remembered that Christ had foretold for him doom in old age, and wondered.

That night they met Peter into the dungeon as if they thought him a wild beast that might escape. Around the ankles of sleeping pit they set a guard of four centurions of soldiers. Then at dawn only one quaternion had stood at the foot of the cross on Calvary, but the officials had learned that Roman aid could come to Christ's disciples in their hour. They guarded Peter in force.

Herod Agrippa I meant to keep Peter a prisoner throughout the Passover festival, and beyond. But Passover time was ended, he meant to bring the man into the daylight and make his trial a great public process, his death an unforgettable example.

But Herod Agrippa, filled with the venom of his hate, did not begin to understand the nature of the thing he sought to extirpate. He had every seeming advantage. But the disciples had the power of which Herod had never heard.

Night and day in the Cenacle and in homes of Jerusalem, Joppa and its far-flung suburbs, kneeling twenty-four hour vigil, the whole Church was praying for their captain, Peter.

"Prayer was made," says Luke, "without ceasing," of the Church unto God for him.

And God answered.

Close upon midnight of Easter Sunday, Peter was most uncomfortably nestling between two soldiers, bound to them with two pairs of chains. The cell in the dungeon had bolts, bars, locks, and chains, and guards outside as well.

"How," the chief guard had said, "can I have such Christian power, lets see you get free of all that?"

Peter did get free, but the chief guard was allowed to see how.

The soldiers beside him were wide awake and they kept their eyes the door of the prison trampled back and forth, up and down, on duty and alert.

Peter had been praying unceasingly. Suddenly a most shining and mysterious light arrived blindingly and brilliantly in that cell of misery, warming and illuminating its darkest corners.

In the light stood an angel of the Lord.

With one touch of ineffable power he awoke Peter on the side. He raised Peter from the floor and the apostle heard the heavenly voice:

"Arise up quickly."

The chains fell from Peter's hands and feet as the angel commanded him, with gentle authority:

"Gird yourself, Peter. Bind on your sandals."

Without a word, Peter obeyed. The two guards lay, transfixed, offering no resistance to this strange scene.

"And now," the angel commanded, "cast your garment about you and follow me."

Peter's mind was in an extraordinary state as he followed instructions. It seemed that he was asleep and dreaming and yet knew that he was not asleep and not dreaming. Luke put it so:

"And going out he followed him; and he knew not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought he saw a vision."

The angel led him through one corridor, or ward, to a closed and guarded door, through which they passed together, unimpeded by wood or iron, as if the penetration of matter were a commonplace. They kept on, coming finally to the iron gate that led out of that foul place of detention, into the sweet, fresh air of the night.

The iron gate swung open to them, with no porter to release its hinges, no hand to lift its mighty latch.

"And they went out, and passed through one street; and immediately the angel departed from him."

Standing there at a crossing in the pale light of the dawn, Peter gave a great sighing prayer of thanks. He had come to himself and realized with rising astonishment that he was not dreaming; that by a miracle he stood free and unguarded on the common highway, in the pink and dry mist of the Jerusalem dawn.

"Now," he said, "I know in very deed that the Lord has sent His angel, and has delivered me out of the hand of Herod and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews."

He went straight to the house of Mary, Mark's mother, one of the most ardent Christians in the whole Jerusalem area.

Young Mark and his family were people of some substance. They lived in a large, ancestral house on the northern edge of the city, set around with a grove of fragrant trees. There is a certain mystery about how mark came to give up his comfortable life to follow the austere Christian program. Some believe that by an indefinable attraction he had found his way into the Garden of Gethsemane on the night of the Master's betrayal, and that after the traitor's kiss, Mark lost his garment and was seen, a young man fleeing naked among the trees in the moonlight. But no one was ever sure, and though Mark tells that story in his Gospel, he never publicly admitted that it was himself who hovered so close to the Christians that night, longing to be one of them.

The iron gate swung open to them, with no porter to release its hinges, no guard to lift its mighty latch.

Fourteen years had passed since that night in Gethsemane. Now it was sunrise of a spring day in the year 46 as Peter, having "considered the thing", made his way through the quiet streets, entered Mark's front gate, and stood listening below an open window.

Elsewhere in Jerusalem people might still be sleeping, but not in this house. Through the window the apostle could hear voices, low and intense and full of reverence.

They were praying for him, as Christians were doing all over Jerusalem. All night they had been on their knees, storming heaven that Peter be spared the wrath of Herod Agrippa and be loosed from prison.

Peter could not help smiling to himself as he knocked gently on the door.

Among the hired servants of the house was a damsel called Rhoda, and answered Peter's knocking

HORWOOD—BAKER

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 14th at 10.00 a.m. by the Reverend Michael Johnson, when Miss Marie Catherine Baker, of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent E. Baker, became the bride of Leonard William Horwood, of Point Anne, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Horwood.

The bride was attractively attired in a waltz-length gown of white rendition lace over satin and accordion pleated tulle, accented by a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves terminating in lily points. She wore finger-tip veil and matching headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of carnations. White satin slippers completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Mary Jones of Foxboro, twin sister of the bride, was her only attendant, gowned in powder blue lace over satin with matching feather spray hat. She wore floor-length ensemble and a crescent bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Maurice Riley, of Point Anne, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Foxboro, where the mother of the bride, wearing powder blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother in navy with brown suit with matching accessories and corsage of yellow 'mums.

For motoring to Allegro, Michigan, the bride chose a grey suit with black accessories with corsage of white and rust coloured 'mums. Mr. and Mrs. Horwood will reside at 365 North John Street, Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ameliasburg, Colborne and Toronto.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Jack MacDonald and Miss Lillian Bailey, of Foxboro.

CLARKE — MARION

Trinity Anglican Church, Shannonville, was the setting on Saturday, November 14th, at 2.30 p.m. for a lovely wedding, when Helen Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marion, of Shannonville, became the bride of David Francis Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Clarke, of St. Lina, Alberta. Pink flowers adorned the chancel and white satin bows the pews. The Rev. L. A. Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Marcella Brant, church organist, and soloist for the bride, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mr. Arthur Duby, of Belleville, soloist, who sang "Because," before the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Peter Marion, the bride was lovely in her floor-length gown of white net over taffeta with fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, having a scalloped neckline, and long pointed sleeves ending in "V" points over the hands. The long, full skirt of lace fell into a chapel train, and the full-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Shirley Martyn, of Centralia, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, attractively gowned in floor-length mauve net over taffeta with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a nosegay of red roses and white and mauve 'mums.

Mrs. Sheila Doyle, of Shannonville, also sister of the bride, was senior bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of yellow fivetiered net over taffeta, with matching headdress and mitts, and carrying a nosegay of yellow roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Margaret Marion, Hamilton, sister-in-law of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, was gowned in floor-length five-tiered turquoise net over taffeta with matching headdress, mitts, and carried a nosegay of pink roses, white and mauve 'mums.

Little Miss Evelyn Brant, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in floor-length gown of white net over taffeta,

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE FAMILY DESERVES HIS CHOICE OF A WIFE—WILL HE LISTEN?

How far parents, as a family as a whole, can influence a son or daughter, brother or sister, in choosing a life partner is hard to say. Mostly, it depends on how much respect a young man or young woman has grown up to feel for the members of his or her individual family.

Most young people who have been well brought up by the kind of parents who inculcate in their children their own high standards and sound principles, pay attention to the family opinion regarding some particular course of action he or she wishes to follow. This comes automatically, because during the years of their growing up they have learned that their parents make sense; that their brothers and sisters are frequently worth listening to because of the family atmosphere which has developed their characters.

On the other hand, if the characters of the young boys and girls have not been shaped by the right kind of parents, then the children grow up with little or no sense of family opinions and go their own heedless ways.

Because there is no way of knowing which kind of home any one of millions has prevailed in the family of one young man about whom I have just received a letter, it would be next to impossible to answer the question which Baker R: "Can a family help a fine young man avoid an unhappy marriage?"

The letter furnished no clue as to which member of the young man's family has written the letter, but my guess is that it may be a sister. Or it might be some close family friend, not impossibly some girl who had set him and his prospects, and she might herself become the young man's wife and so come to head off his marriage to anyone else.

NOT RIGHT PERSONALITY

The letter declares that the girl to whom this particular young man is interested is one "for whose need of his rather large family cares," because they believe "she isn't the right personality for him." It asserts that his family want him to marry but believe this girl will hamper rather further "his professional, social and personal happiness." She would, it is said, "toss him and his practice," and altogether the family "doesn't feel that marriage would bring real happiness to either of them."

In fact, they believe "his whole future is at stake." Yet they don't want to "talk against his choice" lest they "rush him into a marriage with her just because they disapprove."

Then comes something that might have a significant bearing on their attitude, for, says the letter: "If he would just see at least one other girl occasionally (there are others) he could take out!."

If I have already said, the question of whether or not a family's opposition to the proposed marriage of son or daughter can be effective is very largely problematical. What I personally believe is that the more they say, the less effective it is. Obviously, the writer of this letter has some realization of this since she speaks of the family being afraid that their disapproval might rush the young pair into the marriage they oppose. This is no groundless fear, either, because the average young man resents criticism of the girl he wishes to marry, not only for her own sake, but because he feels such criticism reflects upon himself as a poor judge of human nature. So he has two reasons for stubbornly going through with the marriage—one, because he wants to defend the girl, and the other because he wants to defend himself.

TAKE NEUTRAL ATTITUDE

In my opinion, the wisest way to handle a matter like this is to say as little as possible against the marriage. Let the young man bring the girl to his home, and let the family treat her courteously, as they would any guest in their home. There is no need for them to force themselves to the extreme of being over-friendly with her or enthusiastic about her, but they should not let themselves appear unapproachable or distant. If they have been ready to have her brought to the house by the son, he is much more likely to ask their opinion of her, and to give honest consideration to that opinion, than he would be if his family refused to have anything to do with her. Whatever opportunity they find to present their reasons why they believe this particular girl would not be a suitable wife for the young son, however, once they have done so, they should let it go at that, and not keep harping on the subject. For the more urgently they try to dissuade him, the harder they make it for him to change his mind and agree with them, whereas if they give him the impression, by saying no more about it, that they feel sure they can trust his judgment, he is much more likely to come around to the way of thinking in the end.

All this, of course, presupposes that the family is correct in their estimate of the girl as an unsuitable wife for the son. For the possibility must not be ignored that sometimes a family can be wrong, partially. Cut into strips 1 1-2 inches wide and stack on top of each other. With extremely sharp knife cut crosswise into fine shreds. Let them dry out in single layers. Theoretically these will keep as well as packaged noodles, but it is hard in a house to dry them completely.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

(Cookie press or shape.)

Cookie dough for cookie press will roll into ball and may be pressed with fork. It must be chilled after mixing and before shaping though. Do not grease cookie sheets. If kept cold these will keep for a month.

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted, 2 eggs, 1 1-3 cups sifted cake flour, 1-2 teaspoon each baking soda and salt, 4 tablespoons milk or cream, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Work the shortening with a spoon until fluffy and creamy, then add the sugar slowly while beating until light. Add the melted chocolate and beaten egg and mix. Sift the dry ingredients together and add them alternately with the milk and vanilla, mixing very well. In very warm weather this dough must be chilled even for cookie press. In any weather it must be chilled to roll it into balls, and press with fork to flatten. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

SPICE BALLS

(Cookie press or shape.)

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons milk, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons each baking powder and cinnamon (or 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1-2 teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix exactly as above. Press through cookie press or shape into balls (after chilling) and press on pan with fork to flatten. Bake on cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 10 or 12 minutes.

QUESTION:

. . . I loathe the smell of yeast, and it seems to me there is a definite odor and flavor of yeast to the finished product. No one but my self seems to notice it. My husband can't get enough home made bread and he says I'm imagining the taste of yeast. Have you ever noticed this tendency to yeast flavor . . . I would make till my own bread if I could get rid of the odor and taste of yeast. —F. M. W.

ANSWER:

Your dough is too warm when it rises. That is my opinion and the opinion of two dietitians I talked to after I read your letter. Quick rising raises temperature and too-long rising will result in yeasty taste. Your recipe is plain; remember, if you care to you could increase the salt to two teaspoons. Why don't you try making one batch at night and letting it rise in the basement or somewhere quite cool? Let me know how you make out.

QUESTION:

Have you a recipe for soup noodles? How long will these keep and how should they be stored? Also can I judge how long a cookie can be stored. Often I make cookies in several kinds at Christmas. I make a peanut butter cookie often rolled into small balls and flattened with a fork. Have you any recipe for cookies that can be made into balls like these. . . I would especially like to make a spice and a chocolate cookie using this method.—Mzdeleine F.

ANSWER:

Your letter was lovely—I have omitted all of the compliments but have not forgotten them. I am mailing you the Hot Rolls recipe and a low-calorie dressing. I think you'll be pleased.

SOUP NOODLES

(Mccaroni manufacturers use durum and semolina flour to prepare their good noodles may be made from all-purpose.) One and one-half cups sifted, but not packed, all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each salt and shortening, 2 tablespoons water, 1 egg. These are very exact measurements. Make a well in the flour and add egg, salt and fat. Rub together with fingers, add water to form a stiff dough, then knead on lightly floured board until perfectly smooth. Divide dough into three parts and roll each as thinly as possible—1-32 to 1-64 inch. Spread rolled dough on cloth and allow to dry and the son or daughter can be right, about the person he or she wishes to marry. There are times when, for their own personal reasons, a family rationalizes their opposition, persuading themselves that their objections are based on the fact that a wrong choice in a marital mate has been made when actually, they simply want their son or daughter to marry somebody else than happens to like better. I is dangerously easy to think another person is doing something purely because he or she is doing is different from what we wish him to do. To be on the safe side, this family should take great pains to analyze its own motives honestly, and make very sure that their opposition is not due to any desire of theirs that he should marry some girl they have picked out for him.

In the last analysis, they will have to stand aside and let him make his own choice. Even supposing that his choice really is a poor one, the family must accept the fact that he is no longer a child and must make his own decisions. Once he has made his, if they really love him they will accept it and go along with it to the best of their ability, even though they may still be convinced he was misguided.

HI! HER BIRTHDAY PARTY TO BE A HAY-RIDE!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A few days after Christmas I'm to be sixteen years old, and I think I'm lucky to have the perfect set-up for a Sweet Sixteen Party. It's to be a hay-ride, and right now my friends and I are in search of a truck, the hay, and a driver! There is a pond near my house which we hope will be frozen, for skating. The neighbors who own the pond have set up spotlights and this year, as in the past few winters, the neighborhood is invited to use the pond at any time for skating. Will you please help me word the invitations, to tell about the hay-ride, and to tell them to bring their skates (and to dress warm)?

Could I properly put in the invitation the fact that it will be a "Sweet Sixteen party?"

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas, could I use either red or green ink?

Since my birthday is four days after Christmas, would you suggest I send the invitations out three days before Christmas? One of my guests will have had his seventeenth birthday the day before mine. Should I make that a combined birthday party, mentioning it to the boy and in the invitation?

Do you think I could make it a surprise for this boy?

Mrs. Beckman, I'm so eager to have my Sweet Sixteen Party a great success, a party my guests will remember as fun!

S.

What a wonderful idea for a wonderful party . . . of course it will be fun, all the makings for a memory-making party! I suggest you send your invitations at least two weeks (perhaps even three weeks) before Christmas . . . Christmas holidays are so full of parties and other "dates" that you should be sure to be "on time" with your so-important invitations! Yes, write them festively in Christmas red ink. No, don't call this your "Sweet Sixteen Party" . . . it's more appropriate for others to call it that! No, don't make this a combination party . . . don't mention this boy's birthday in your invitations. But yes, it would be delightful to mention his birthday at some time during your party.

Your invitations might read somewhat like this:

Dear Joan,

Please come to my party on my sixteenth birthday, Tues., December 29. I'm thrilled to say it's to be a Hay-Ride, and the driver will be waiting for us at my house at —o'clock! We have permission to skate on the Hall's Pond near here—so bring your skates, if you wish, and dress warm. You'll make me very happy if you tell me you'll come, Joan dear. I think it will be fun.

Greetings!

I hope you'll have some sleighbells syringing on the hay-ride . . . perhaps, with Christmas" the season" and in your part of the country, it can be a merry and gay

DRAMATIZE YOUR LOVELINESS WITH PERFUME

One of the joys of wearing perfume is that it makes you feel different from other women. It invests you with a little mystery and a touch of excitement. Like a new hairdo or a hat that's apparently was designed for you and nobody else! If you've been using the same perfume where would be the fun? And goodness knows you have a wide choice these days between the true flower scents and the heavenly blends that are offered.

Some women find one fragrance that they prefer above all others. They would consider themselves untrue to type and tradition if they did not always wear the same delicate aroma. There are others sleigh-ride. Happy Birthday to you, Sweet Sixteen!

SHOULD THEY BRING A PRESENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are invited to an Open House to greet newlyweds. Are we supposed to bring a present?

D.R.

A gift on such an occasion would not be necessary, I see no reason why it would be expected.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Who is supposed to take care of all the arrangements and plans for a wedding?

Marilyn

The bride-to-be and her family, who leap nimbly from gardenia to lily of the valley and then to some exotic bouquet that is suddenly the rage. It is a matter of choice. Either way you enjoy yourself and feel elegant and grand and definitely in the modern picture.

Different women have different ideas as to the use of scents. Some like clear old dodeur still feel that they must put a few drops on the handkerchief. But, considering the cost of perfume, it is part of the low a policy of conservation. And this is the way we learn that little trick; we get perfume and toilet water of the same odor. The toilet water is not as atomizer, the atomizer kept in a cool dark place, so there will be no evaporation. And are we fussy about its being tightly stoppered! After the bath, while the flesh is warm after a brisk rub down with a towel, we spray neck, arms and shoulders. The warm flesh causes the alcoholic content to evaporate, only the fragrant elements remaining.

At the last moment, when one is dressed and made up, two little dabs of perfume should be placed behind the ears. Then approach mirror with delicacy and skill before you must be content with the application. Be careful not to put on too much. You must remember that your nose has accustomed your favorite scent but that other people's noses aren't, so the fragrance may seem stronger to them than it does to you.

About scented handkerchiefs—don't waste perfume on them. Keep a sachet cushion in your handkerchief box. Sachets are not used as much as they should be. They are inexpensive and their fragrance lasts for months.

Fashion Flashes

A new handling of fur adds interest and novelty to the latest fur coats. Cut close and spare as a boy's coat is a black Persian lamb model made with round collar and huge patch pockets. Full sleeves end in big turn-back cuffs, and it fastens with little round black ball buttons.

The two-piecers look like one-piecers, and so the one-piece dress returns the compliment with a two-piece look. For instance, a pretty grey dress has a scoop-necked black velvet bodice and a yarn-dyed crinoline skirt. There is an elaborate floral design in bugle beads near the neckline, and the skirt is posed over crinoline.

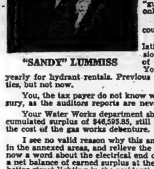
VOTE LUMMISS UTILITY COMMISSIONER

Fellow Citizens of Belleville:

I am appealing to you for your support for election as your Utilities Commissioner at the polls on Monday.



I want you to realize that your Utilities are just as important to your daily well-being as your loaf of bread or bottle of milk.

To my mind there are some salient points regarding YOUR Utilities that you should know. Your Belleville Utilities took form in April 1929 and was made up solely of Hydro, and at a later date water and gas were added. The Gas Plant was scrapped in March 1948, but your debenture debt and interest amounting to $13,668 yearly until 1960 must be paid, and in fact it is being paid ... but out of the general tax rate by you, the property owners, and not by the Utilities.

Did you know that a supreme court action is in progress over an assessment of some $170,000 between your Utilities and Your City Council, and that you the home owner will be called on to pay the cost of this court action, for your city to be a "guinea pig" for the province of Ontario. Belleville was the only city in Ontario where the assessment was disputed.

Reports are published at regular intervals of your city council and your school board, but not of your utilities.

Before consideration of your next sub division, water installation was paid for in full by Your Utilities, in these subdivisions now it is paid for by the homeowners with the exception of street intersections and partial exemptions for corner lots. Your city council pays out of the home owners' pocket $3,315.80 yearly for hydrant rentals. Previous to 1948 this was rebated to the city each year by your Utilities, but not now.

"SANDY" LUMMISS

You, the tax payer do not know whether your Utility has one dollar or a million in the treasury, as the auditors reports are never published.

Your Water Works department showed a surplus of $14,331.54 on 1952 operation, and an accumulated surplus of $46,583.35, still you the home owner, continue to pay hydrant rentals and the cost of the gas works debenture.

I see no valid reason why this amount shouldn't pay some of the local improvement charges in the annexed areas, and relieve the home owners of part of the heavy burden of taxation. And now a word about the electrical end of your Utilities. The auditor's report, never published, shows a net balance of earned surplus at the end of 1952 of $146,211.34. Why have we not lower rates or better street lighting in the residential areas of our city. Please remember the Ontario Hydro says "Power at Cost".

If I am elected as your Utilities Commissioner, I will investigate these points, and I do promise you one thing, and one only. That is that you the tax payer will know what your Utilities is doing through the medium of the press, and I promise to work my utmost to make a good service better.

I Thank You
URIAS (SANDY) LUMMISS

TO THE VOTERS of the City of Belleville:

I wish to take this opportunity to inform you that I am a candidate for the office of alderman and to solicit your support to ensure my election.

As most of you are aware I was born in Belleville and have lived here all my 44 years. Many of you will recall that I served as one of your aldermen during the difficult years of 1933, '34, '35, '36. I can therefore lay claim to some experience and knowledge of municipal affairs.

I am a substantial taxpayer and like many of you not too happy about our high taxes. It is hardly necessary for me to tell you that the burden of municipal taxation has reached a point where all of us should do something about it.

The present debt of the City of Belleville is very close to $5,000,000 and in my humble opinion has reached a dangerously high level. I regret to inform you that of twelve cities in Ontario of comparable population the City of Belleville has the highest debt per capita.

Our present tax rate will not encourage people to build new homes nor will new industry locate in a city where the tax rate is too high.

Without doubt your money has been wasted through mismanagement, examples of which are the construction and destruction of the former "House of Sanitation" on the Market Square and similar wanton waste in Parkwood Heights, etc.

I have the time and the desire to serve you.

If you have confidence in my ability and experience cast your ballot on December 7th for

Little Interest Being Shown In Coming Municipal Election

TRENTON, (Special). — Candidates or voters reflect very little interest in the forthcoming municipal election here on Monday.

A funny situation exists, however, with a brother-vs-brother fight for the mayor's chair.

Despite the opinion of some there are those who feel that Mayor R. E. "Roly" Whitley will be returned for a second term. Supporters of Rose Burtt contend that aspirant Dick Whitley will split his brother's vote, thereby letting Burtt win the three-man race.

Twelve candidates for six council seats seem to be creating most of the election talk but the general public apparently favor some other subject like Christmas shopping conversation or views on the weather. One thing obvious is the lack of interest shown by Senator W. A. Fraser.

In other years the Senator rolled up his sleeves and pitched in. Some of the campaigns were hectic. All of them were exciting. Then when the smoke of battle lifted the victors clearly realized something had been accomplished. There is no outward indication that such will be the case this December 7.

The biggest issue ratepayers have to decide is whether they want a sewage disposal plant and part of the carry-off installation. Adoption of the plan will cost the ratepayers $500,000 now and the pollution problem in the Trent River and bayshore waterfront should be solved that much sooner. Defeat means that the Department of Health may halt extending the present sewerage system.

Chief Sanitary Engineer for the province Dr. A. E. Barry strongly recommends the disposal plant scheme. He feels it is necessary if Trenton intends to grow and provide a healthy atmosphere for the people who live in the town.

FACED WITH PROBLEM

Conservationist Ferguson of the Denbigh district is faced with a housing problem—a dog housing problem that is.

Three stray hunting dogs found refuge at the conservationist's place after the recent shooting season closed. The other day one of them gave birth to a litter of six cute little puppies. Accommodations became crowded and the concerned wildlife officer contemplates having to enlarge the doghouse if the owner does not soon come and claim his lost hound and her newly acquired family.

TALK ON AMMUNITION

The Trent Valley Gun Club heard J. D. Lemment ammunition expert with C.I.L. talk about sporting ammunition Thursday night. About 100 members left the meeting with good pointers on the proper shells to hunt various animals and birds. Club president, Jim Moon, expressed thanks to the speaker.

URGE CONTROL

Department of Wildlife scientists urge pollution control as a measure to preserving the waters of the Trent River as a game fisherman's paradise.

And the strongest supporters of the movement are the four industries contributing the greatest volume of sewage and waste to the watercourse. Representatives of the plants involved assured Dr. Barry that they favored a project that would curb polluting.

EXTEND AGREEMENT

JERUSALEM (AP)—Jordan and Israel said Tuesday they have agreed to a three-month extension of their local commanders agreement to curb infiltration across borders. Capt. Emile Ghoreiah, acting Jordan delegate, announced the extension after a four-hour meeting of the mixed armistice commission.

Word Awaited From Gouzenko As to Decision

OTTAWA (CP)—Will he or won't he?

That's the short form of the question: Will Igor Gouzenko agree to a secret meeting in Canada with representatives of the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee?

As far as is known, Gouzenko isn't saying.

He was quoted Friday by the Toronto Telegram in these words: "I will give it careful consideration and announce my decision in a day or so."

Friday night, there was some speculation here that Gouzenko has agreed to a meeting with U.S. spy investigators. This arose from the fact that two high-ranking RCMP officers met with Justice Minister Garson for 2½ hours.

But Mr. Garson declined to say whether arrangements for a meeting between Gouzenko and the sub-committee were discussed. To a question, whether Gouzenko had agreed to a meeting, the minister said he had no comment.

Government sources said major week-end developments in the case were unlikely.

The Canadian government probably merely will inform the U.S. State department it has received its Thursday note and that it is asking Gouzenko if he wants to be questioned by Senator William Jenner and Robert Morris, chairman and counsel, respectively, of the sub-committee.

The Thursday note, received here Friday, said Jenner agrees to Canada's conditions for a meeting with Gouzenko, one of them being Gouzenko's willingness.

External Affairs Minister Pearson postponed his scheduled departure Friday for the North Atlantic alliance conference in Paris, presumably to iron out the final U.S.-Canada exchanges in the Gouzenko case.

Mr. Pearson has rescheduled his departure for Tuesday, giving him an opportunity Monday to make a statement or reply to any questions on the Gouzenko case in the Commons.

Presentation was made during December session of county council. Third man in picture is Warden John A. Kincaid.

SAY GOODS CONFISCATED

CAIRO (AP) — Police sources Thursday said British military authorities at Fayid in the Suez canal zone have confiscated $700,000 worth of goods in Egyptian shops because traders refuse to sell to the British Army. A British Army spokesman said business is proceeding as usual in the Fayid area but the British forces have condoned off the area "to cope with increased lawlessness."

MARMORA

No Election Needed, Reeve, Council Acclaimed

MARMORA — No election will be necessary to declare the reeve and council of Marmora village for 1954.

Last year's members all qualified and the new nominee for a seat on the council not qualifying, acclamation is thus given the following: reeve, Ritchie Wells; council, John Reynolds, William Lavender, Carl Heath, William Shannon.

School trustees (three for two years), Donald Marett, Thomas Bateman, Roy Wright; hydro commissioner, (two years), F. R. Wells.

Sen. McCarthy Disputes Tally Of White House on Telegrams 'Tell It to Eisenhower' Plea

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy kept an eye today on White House tallying of returns from his "tell it to Eisenhower" plea for messages from the American people how they stand on foreign policy.

But he seemed to have abandoned his earlier announced plan to send a message himself to President Eisenhower, now attending the Big Three conference in Bermuda, if the McCarthy tally keeps running ahead of the White House count.

"I think the president himself should be informed," the Wisconsin Republican senator had said Friday night shortly after he charged and the White House denied, that someone on Eisenhower's staff was making a short count through an "honest, . . . but grievous mistake."

But later, after the White House reported receipt of more telegrams and a backlog of others, McCarthy said:

"I'm happy to see the revised figures. We'll check our figures back and forth and I think they'll finally jibe."

McCarthy called for letters and telegrams to the president Thursday after repeating his contention that United States aid should be stopped to any Free-World countries which trade with Communist China. He said Americans who share his view should tell it to Eisenhower.

EISENHOWER DISAGREES

The president and State Secretary Dulles have taken the position that attempted coercion of allies would endanger Free-World unity.

Late Friday, Walter Snyder, assistant presidential press secretary, said 1,500 telegrams had been received up to 4 p. m., as well as about 50 letters. He said he would announce today how many favored McCarthy and how many upheld Eisenhower and Dulles.

But McCarthy challenged these figures.

He said he had learned that 2,097 telegrams had been delivered by midnight Friday alone, and that many hundreds more were delivered during the day. He said he also had learned there was a mounting backlog of about 3,000 other messages.

Snyder at first stuck to the 1,500 total, but later said it had risen to 2,030 by 8 p. m. He said Western Union told him it had a total of 1,900 more.

The Toledo (Ohio) Blade, meanwhile, found itself swamped with requests after offering to write letters for its readers who sup port Eisenhower.

In a page-one display Friday The Blade suggested "let's all write the president" and invited phone calls from readers who wished their names signed to this letter: "Dear Mr. President: We support you before and we do now. We still like Ike."

The Blade also offered to forward any messages backing McCarthy's stand.

By 7 p. m. Friday night it had 2,094 names listed as supporting Eisenhower and 49 indicating support for McCarthy.

McCarthy said his own office had received about 260 telegrams Friday. He said they ran at the rate of about 50 to 1 in favor of his stand.

Army Officers May Have to Buy New Uniforms

OTTAWA (CP)—Army officers soon may be required to spend upwards of $150 to bring their full dress uniforms to specifications, in the case of a lieutenant, that amounts to eight months worth of the pay increase he received last month.

If a new provisional full dress order is approved, said an army spokesman, officers from 2nd lieutenant to lieutenant-general must buy:

A crimson sash; a crimson-lined cape; a sword scal bard and sling; a sword, and special epaulettes.

It was learned that army ranks have fast taking sides on the issue—those in favor and those opposed.

Asked how much the additional equipment, for use with the regulation "dress blues," would cost, the spokesman said "at least $150."

The new uniform has a new unexplained name: "Patrol dress."

DANGEROUS PLAY

DERBY, England (CP) — Two boys, 10 and 11, were each fined £2 for throwing apples at a train. One apple hit the locomotive engineer in the eye; he spent a month in hospital and had to change jobs.

Creameries Want Heavy Excise Tax on Margarine

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Creamery Association called on the federal government Friday to impose a 15-cents-a-pound excise tax on oleomargarine.

Its resolution said such a step would narrow the price advantage the vegetable oil spread enjoys over butter. Margarine now sells for about half as much as butter.

The convention passed the resolution as the association, representing the producers of 90 per cent of Ontario's butter production, ended its two-day annual convention.

The resolution was similar to letters sent by association officials to the meeting Thursday by J. J. Creighton of Tatamagouche, N.S., president of the National Dairy Council, and by representatives of colored margarine.

H. B. Leslie of Seaforth was elected president of the 193-member association, succeeding W. J. Riedick of Kemptville.

Vice-presidents for 1954 are J. J. Fitzgerald, Toronto; Harold West, Stirling; James D. Hogarth, Fonthill; and S. Thompson, Bowmanville.

New directors: James N. Allan, Dunnville; R. E. Drope, Harwood; R. A. L. Player, Teeg; William J. Thompson, Newtonwater; and W. E. Howie, Lucknow.

Four Licences Are Reserved

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The liquor licence board of Canada Friday considered renewal of 53 licences in Essex, Kent, Lambton and Elgin counties. Four were reserved.

Of 209 hotels, taverns, public houses and clubs in the four counties, 148 licences were renewed without review. Five clubs were asked that members be requested not to invite individual guests more than once a month.

The Aubin Public House, Stoney Point and Clarke Public House, Dresden, were reserved due to sale pending. West Side Public House, Windsor, pending further investigation of charges of failing to clear the premises. Mirwin Hotel, Wallaceburg, was reserved when a representative failed to appear.

John Diefenbaker To Take Bride

The marriage will take place at the Park Road Baptist church here at 7:30 p.m. Rev. C. D. Stone will perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Palmer was born at Roland, Man., though her family lived for five generations in Nova Scotia. A graduate of McMaster University she has been with the Ontario department of education since 1945 and was acting director of guidance when she completed her services recently.

It will be the second marriage for Mrs. Palmer is a widow with a 17-year-old daughter, Mr. Diefenbaker, a widower, has no children.

50th Anniversary Of Medical Practice Observed

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP)—This northern Ontario community today honors one of its pioneers, a man who watched the growth of its industry and attended at the birth of many of its citizens.

Dr. George W. Smith is marking the 50th anniversary of the year he set up a medical practice in northern Ontario. In those years he has watched the birth of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, now the Ontario Northland Railway, the rise of the great Cobalt silver camp and development of North Bay from 3,000 to 20,000 population.

A public dinner is being held here for the medical pioneer who 50 years ago performed his first major operation in northern Ontario under the flickering light of a coal oil lamp. He then practised in Haileybury.

Prior to his work in Haileybury, Dr. Smith practised at Matawa where, with the help of the late A. McMurtry, he cared for 600 construction workers on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. In those days he travelled by horse and cutter in the winter and by horse back in the summer.

Later, he came to North Bay. Citizens credit his efforts here with helping to spur the expansion of North Bay's first hospital and keeping the hospital solvent during the depression years. He has been chairman of the collegiate board and also of the public school board. North Bay's first vaudeville theatre, its first skating rink and first horse race track.

Today, Dr. Smith is still active. He practises in partnership with his surgeon son, Dr. Alex G. Smith.

Three Facing Murder Charge

SUDBURY (CP)—Provincial police said Friday night three men are being brought here from Kingston to face murder charges in the two-month-old slaying of Frank Asselin, 33-year-old St. Catharines resident.

Asselin's beaten body was found in a roadside ditch just north of Sudbury Oct. 4. No inquest has yet been held.

Police declined to release the names of the suspects.

The trio was originally arrested at Amos, Que., on charges of stealing tools from cars and were given terms in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, Montreal. How they came to be in Kingston was not explained.

This picture shows the autoclave in the central supply department of the hospital being loaded with equipment to be sterilized. The material is wrapped in fabric and subjected to steam pressure. Mrs. J. J. Forestall, Reg. N., is shown placing material in the autoclave bed. The present autoclave is not sufficient to the needs of central supply. However, with the addition of the new wing, it is planned to install a new and larger machine. Another problem of the department is space. This situation, will also be remedied when the new wing is completed.

Lack of Space, Equipment, Hampers Central Supply Department of Belleville Hospital

The central supply department of the Belleville General Hospital is exactly what its name indicates it to be, a central location in the institution organized for the purpose of supplying all the equipment to the hospital floors including sterile and non sterile materials.

Included among the non-sterile materials are such pieces of equipment as suction machines and steam inhalators. The other equipment which is described as sterile or bacteria free consists of rubber gloves, syringes, needles, solutions, dressings and dressing trays.

Nurse-in-charge of the central supply department is Mrs. V.M. Pelkola Reg. N. She is a graduate of Victoria General Hospital at Halifax, N.S. Following graduation she entered private duty work remaining as a private duty nurse for a number of years. Before coming to this hospital she was employed in the sanatorium at Gravenhurst. Mrs. Pelkola has been at the Belleville General Hospital for three years.

A great part of the work of central supply is the preparation of sterile equipment trays. Sterilization takes place in the departments, large autoclave. Following this process, the trays of which there are 20 different types, are circulated throughout the hospital. Mrs. Pelkola estimates there are more than 150 trays in circulation through the wards at all times.

Central supply works on a three-shift, 24-hour basis. During the day shift which begins at 7 a.m. and ends at 3.30 p.m. Mrs. Pelkola, another graduate nurse, a nurse aide and a ward aid, staff the department. From 3 p.m., until 11 p.m., Mrs. H. A. Brant, Reg. Nurse is in charge assisted by one ward aid. The final shift, 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., is staffed by one ward aid.

The department during a busy period will distribute between 65 to 75 trays a day to all departments.

At the present time a problem similar to problems of most other departments at the hospital exists at the central supply. It has become the old story of lack of space. Mrs. Pelkola said that for the extra services which are supplied by her department, space requirements are far below that which is available at the present period. The autoclave or steam sterilizer, is far from adequate according to the nurse.

Both these needs are to be remedied, however, with the addition of the new hospital wing. Plans are for expansion of the departmentland a newer larger autoclave. The nurse explained that since she has been in the city, the work of her department has increased until it reached a peak this year.

New Parking Lot

TORONTO (CP)—A plan to convert Exhibition Park into a mammoth parking lot accommodating between 3,000 and 6,000 cars, was suggested Friday by Alderman Joseph Gould.

There are 305,000 cars registered in Toronto and an additional 135,000 come daily into the city from the suburbs.

Alderman Gould said he would put the plan before the controllers Dec. 14.

19,000 Canadians Out of Work Across Country in Strikes; No Signs of Settlement

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Almost 19,000 Canadians are out of work across Canada in strikes for higher wages. Two thousand of them are lumber workers and 7,000 are gold miners.

Strikes of lumbermen in British Columbia and gold miners in northern Ontario and Quebec which have dragged on for months shows no signs of settlement. But other Canadian provinces are free of such large-scale walkouts, a Canadian Press survey showed Friday.

About 600 paper mill workers are on strike in the Montreal area for a shorter work week. Another 500 employees of a tin can company at Toronto and 250 workers of a similar company at Vancouver walked out this week in sympathy with a strike called in the United States.

There were the bigger strikes but there were lesser disputes in other industries. The federal government said last Sept. 30 conciliators into contract negotiations involving 3,300 non-operating railway workers after their 15 unions could reach no agreement with employers.

In British Columbia, almost 4,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) were on strike and another 2,000 lumber workers made idle by the walkout. The union wants a six-per-cent increase in the basic $1.28-an-hour rate.

About 215 Shell Oil Company workers went on strike at Vancouver Wednesday for an increase averaging 10 cents an hour. The members of the Oil Workers' International Union (CIO-CCL) now get $1.50 to $2.21.

FOLLOW U.S. LEAD

American Can Company workers in Vancouver and Toronto struck after 33,000 United States metal workers went on strike earlier in June for 13 cents an hour, or no more than the basic $1.50.

At the Toronto plant of Continental Can Company, 500 workers walked off the job in sympathy with the U.S. strikers but United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) officials said the stoppage was unauthorized. The factories closed down.

Premier Frost intervened for the first time this week in top-level talks of unions and companies involved in the Ontario gold strikes. He met with representatives of the big Hollinger Consolidated mine and the Steelworkers' union but no decision could be reached on strikes, which have closed down almost a dozen mines, began last July.

Civil Servants Will Get Day After Holidays

OTTAWA (CP)—Civil servants this year will not work the afternoon before and the day after Christmas and New Year's, the civil service commission announced Friday. Both holidays fall on Fridays.

(The Canadian Press erroneously stated earlier that civil servants would get a full day preceding Christmas and New Year's instead of a half day.)

This time off for civil servants was approved by the cabinet last March. Those who do not come under the five-day week and who normally work Saturday mornings, will get the Saturdays following Christmas and New Year's off.

Hay gave a talk on "Research and Production: Reactions and Interactions" which was followed by a very lively discussion. Grain Pileup

Grain worth about $300,000 lies on the ground near the elevators at Makepeace, about 20 miles northwest of Suzanne, Alta. The huge pile of grain, for which there is no room in the plugged elevator, belongs to Wilbur Griffith of Calgary. This situation, though generally on a smaller scale, is repeated in many other sections of Alberta due to the heavy crop this year. Note how the grain piles dwarf man at right. — (CP Photo.)

Buganda Leaders Accept Regency But Want King

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—The top ministers of this British African province say they will accept rule by a regency but still are "requesting" the return of their deposed monarch, Mutesa, 32.

Britain exiled the 28-year-old, Cambridge-educated ruler Monday after he demanded that his Baganda province be split from others in Uganda protectorate and that a definite date be set for the granting of Buganda's independence. Mutesa now is in London.

The Buganda premier, treasurer and chief justice said Thursday that they still regard Mutesa as their chief but "are not going to fight" his ouster. They were prepared to swear in a new parliament and parry under a regent.

PROVINCE CALM

The mineral-rich province of 5,000,000 people remained calm, but a political storm brewed in London. The opposition Labor party distributed a motion censuring the government for its handling of the situation here and in violence-ridden Kenya colony.

The Conservative government, in an unusual step, approached the Opposition Thursday night because it failed to carry the motion through to a showdown vote in the Commons. The Labor party decided to hold it in reserve for fear of aggravating the situation in Buganda.

NAMED ECONOMIST

Queen of Tonga Sends Elizabeth Warm Greetings

SUVA, Fiji Islands (CP)—Queen Salote of Tonga, darling of the Coronation crowds for riding in an open coach in pouring rain, has sent a message to Queen Elizabeth assuring her of the warm welcome awaiting her in the Fiji Islands.

In a radio message to the liner Gothic, which was due to cross the equator today, Queen Salote said she hopes the welcome "will in some small measure repay the heart-warming and overwhelming kindness I received from your majesty and the people of the United Kingdom."

The Fijian government has denied a newspaper report that Indians living in Fiji have been refused the opportunity to express their loyalty to Queen Elizabeth.

The Indian weekly Pacific Review had said the absence of a separate welcome for Indians had "a sinister aspect."

LEON J. LONG DIES

STRATFORD (CP) — Leon J. Long, 61, a former chairman of the Ontario parole board, died Thursday night.

Mr. Long was born here, graduated from Queen's University in 1917 and later attended Osgoode Hall, Toronto. He had served on Stratford city council and the Perth county children's aid society.

Selling Trees To Make Up $3,000 Deficit

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A group of prominent Peterborough citizens is selling Christmas trees in an attempt to make up a $3,000 deficit suffered by Peterborough Orfuns of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate A series.

Bad weather during home games and two defaulted games by opposing teams caused the deficit. The Orfuns won the league championship for the second consecutive year.

Does Business on Phone While Speeding About Country

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A man telephoned the offices of one of the Rockefeller brothers not long ago and told a secretary, "This is William Zeckendorf. May I speak to Mr. Rockefeller?"

"I'm sorry, Mr. Zeckendorf," the secretary said, "Mr. Rockefeller is out. May he call you back?"

"No, he can't!" said Zeckendorf. "I'm in my car and about to board a plane."

Doing business on the phone while speeding from here to there could be called eccentricity in some men. But Zeckendorf, president of the real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, explains it simply. "Time," he says "is the greatest asset I have."

By thrifty use of time, Zeckendorf in 11 years has raised Webb and Knapp from a local firm $127,000 in the red to a country-wide real estate empire with 42,000 stockholders an estimated net liquidating value of $60,000,000.

BY-PASSES SECRETARIES

Like his ideas, Zeckendorf is big. At 42 he stands six feet and weighs 250. The telephone is to Zeckendorf what the brush is to the painter. By-passing his secretaries, he places and takes most of his own calls, flipping from outlet to outlet like a television addict.

On a recent Monday span Webb and Knapp made headlines thus: Acquired the Chrysler building, the Chrysler building annex and the Graybar building for more than $52,000,000.

Disclosed plans to build the world's largest office building over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here for about $100,000,000.

Bought a big department store on 34th street and leased it to another store, George Keen, 94, died in hospital here Friday.

Born in England Mr. Keen came to this country as a young man and was chief founder of the Co-Operative Union of Canada in 1906. He was general secretary and treasurer for 37 years. Mr. Keen was also editor of the Canadian Co-Operator for more than three decades and retired from the post in 1947.

Bought the Charlie Chaplin studios in Hollywood.

Announced a $35,000,000 shopping centre at Roosevelt field on Long Island.

VISION PAID

Born in Paris, Ill., a third-generation American of German background, he grew up in New York. In 1938 he joined Webb and Knapp, a firm of four partners founded in 1922.

By 1947 he was president of the firm. In 1949 he bought out his partners for $6,000,000.

Studying Materials For Atomic Weapons

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A new company, formed by three others, is doing research aimed at developing high-temperature materials needed for atomic-age weapons.

The three firms, the Carborundum Co. of Niagara Falls, Firth Sterling, Inc., of Pittsburgh and American Electro Metal Co. of Yonkers, N. Y., are making patent rights and technical know-how available to the newly-organized Barcilla Corp., which is studying heat-resistant metallic compounds known as "borolites."

Carbides, borides, and aluminides—all part of borolite's program —are reported to show promise of withstanding temperatures ranging from 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit for turbo-jets up to 7,000 degrees for rocket nozzles.

Extend Gold Mining Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—Mines Minister Prudham has given notice to the Commons of a bill to extend emergency gold mining assistance through 1954.

This aid, amounting to about $17,500,000 a year, is given "marginal" gold mines whose production costs per ounce to the selling price of gold, $35 an ounce in United States funds. The assistance for each mine is calculated under a complex formula.

The current gold-aid legislation would end this year. Prime Minister St. Laurent recently announced the 1954 extension.

Co-operative Union Founder, Geo. Keen, Dies

Canada Unlikely To Increase Her NATO Forces

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada won't make any changes in NATO commitments next year, it is understood here.

Defence problems of the North Atlantic alliance will be threshed out at Paris in mid-December.

Defence Minister Claxton left Friday by air for Europe. He is expected back Dec. 19. Before the Paris meeting he and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, will visit units of Canada's RCAF division and the new German home of the 1st Canadian infantry brigade.

Canada has fulfilled her NATO army and air force commitments on or before target dates and the government feels the country is carrying its full share of Western defence.

Increased commitments also would be highly unlikely in view of the fact other NATO partners, notably the United States, are thinking of reducing their defence forces in western Europe.

However, there is no thought here that Canada might cut her commitments.

NO SLACKENING

The throne speech said the government considers "it would be unwise to slacken our efforts to build up and maintain the necessary strength to deter aggression."

With Canadian forces already trained and in the field, Canada now can afford to pay more attention to home defence. This involves increased production of aircraft, radar and communications equipment and construction of new airfields.

The defence budget next year is expected to be around $2,000,000,000, the same as this year's, the air force again getting the largest slice of it.

Australia Adopts Flag

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Parliament Thursday passed a bill making the star-spangled blue ensign with a small Union Jack in the corner the official Australian flag.

The flag has been in use as Australia's flag for many years but hitherto has lacked formal recognition.

The bill makes the same flag, on a red background, the official merchant marine ensign. It also preserves the right of citizens to fly the Union Jack if they want.

Britain Hopeful Rift With Iran Will Be Mended

LONDON (CP)—The foreign office has expressed optimism about an early resumption of diplomatic relations with Iran after receiving a communication from Tehran.

Iran replied Thursday to a message from Foreign Secretary Eden proposing renewed diplomatic relations as a prelude to direct oil negotiations.

The contents of the note were radioed to Eden, in Bermuda for the three-power conference opening today.

Means of bringing Iranian oil back to world markets after the 20-month-old dispute is expected to be the subject of important "side talks" between the British and American delegations during the Bermuda conference.

SOME STRONG NOTES

Reports from Tehran meanwhile indicated that strong political opposition is mounting against Premier Fazollah Zahedi's reported invitation to Britain to resume diplomatic relations.

Ayatollah Kashani, powerful Moslem religious leader, declared in Tehran that the dispute with Britain over her nationalized oil properties here must be settled and the Iranian parliament must give its approval before British envoys are received.

Dr. Mozzafar Baghale, a Socialist leader, blasted the country's move in a front-page editorial in his newspaper Bashad. He described it as "a dirty surrender to an aggressive enemy."

However, other leading Iranians, including former cabinet ministers, peasant and top business men, approved the resumption at a meeting earlier this week with Zahedi.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Sid Hunt weren't speaking to each other on account of having had an argywment prety near ending in a fite, and we both claimed we wouldn't be the first one to speek, even if we had to stay mad the rest of our life, and this afternoon the fellows were talking and argewing around the letter box, and Sid Hunt walked past, saying High to the rest of the fellows but not to me, and me not saying it to him, and Pudd Simkins said, Hay, Benny, if you dont make up with Sid before his berthday, he wont invite you to his party.

Sure, why dont you make up with him, Benny? Skinny Martin said. Sid will be glad of the excuse to invite you, so he'll get another present, he said, and I said, Nuthing doing, I told him I would never be the first one to speek, and I'm not going to now, and he said, he wants another present bad enough, let him speek first, I said.

Well O, why dont you stick a note under his frunt door, that wont be speeking, Classes Magee said.

Sounding like an idea, and I wrote a note saying on it, "Happy Birthday in advance, but this aint speeking, Benny Potts."

And I stuck it under his door, and in about a hour Sid who ime he saw Sid stick a note under my door, and I ran and read it, and it said, "Thanks, neither is this, Sid Hunt," and I quick wrote him another one, saying, "If 2 sure yelled Sigh at each other both at the same time, neither one would be speeking first, Benny Potts," and he wrote one, saying, "Okay, Sid Hunt."

The result being we saw each other after dinner and both yelled High at once, and the next thing he did was invite me to his party.

Complains About Expert's Findings On Firm's Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harold E. Barnett, chief engineer of H. G. Acres Co. Ltd., of Niagara Falls, Ont., Friday deplored criticism of his firm before a royal commission here investigating disastrous slides at the Whatshan power project.

Mr. Barnett was answering critician levelled Tuesday by Dr. Karl Terzaghi of Boston, internationally known expert on soil mechanics, in a report read to the commission.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, was appointed to assess blame, if any, in two giant mudslides last August which wrecked the $3,800,000 B. C. power commission plant situated on Lower Arrow lake some 250 miles east of Vancouver.

Dr. Terzaghi's report said the slides "were due to the fact that the consultants (H. G. Acres Co.) did not solicit the co-operation of additional consultants in connection with those phases of the project which could not expertly be covered by their own personnel."

FALSE PREMISE

Mr. Barnett told the commission the entire criticism made by Mr. Terzaghi was based on false premise.

"Our commission to do this work was not an over-all commission such as we had at the John Hart development (at Campbell river, B. C.)," said Mr. Barnett. "In this instance it was pointed out we were willing to do any work the B. C. power commission asked us to do. That's exactly what was done."

"We did nothing further on this job after May, 1948, around the start of construction. We knew nothing further, and had no interest in it, and were never asked to go there until the slides."

Waving a copy of a newspaper report which he said had been carried across Canada by The Canadian Press, Mr. Barnett said: "I can't explain how much damage this may have done to us. The whole thing is irresponsible. I don't know what to do about it."

Mr. Justice Clyne interrupted to say: "Newspapers are entitled to carry any statement given in evidence. Apparently the report is quite accurate."

Mr. Barnett said:

"If Dr. Terzaghi does not agree with us then we have no complaint."

"At the same time making a statement that a responsible firm such as ours, which has been operating in the country for 28 years, and has completed hundreds of millions of dollars worth of projects—I don't know what the law of libel is, but he must be very close to it."

Mr. Justice Clyne: "You are complaining against Dr. Terzaghi and not against the press?"

Mr. Jarrett: "I want the newspapers to give our side of it."

'Ole' Injury Gremlin Continues To Ride Herd On Crippled Canadiens

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE WORM TURNS . . .

As Stanley Jackson, the Bard of Brooklyn, would chirp, "the wheels is totate"!

The storm signals are aflutter on the Senior "B" staffs of the Oshawa Truckmen and the Kingston Goodyears. That's heavy seas aruninin' ahead, mates, and those gusts of breeze that scuttled the Truckmen and the Goodies this past week are by no means squalls.

The Peterborough "rocker" that was dished earlier in the season by an eastern sports scribe as being the possible "weak sister" of the group, turned into a savagely-striking "rattler" last night up in Parliamentary and drubbed the hell out of the 1952-53 champions to the tune of a 6-1 score. That's the second loss in a row for the haughty "big brothers."

And to make it a more pleasant week-end for the Carr-Harris laddybucks, they make the long trek to Orillia tonight where they take on the potent Ponties of that town, twice conquerors of the power-packed, league-leading Oshawa Truckmen. If the Ponties puncture the Goodyears, and on their week's performance, they should, the standing will find them snuggling their jowls on the shoulders of the former champions. An Orillia win will give them 11 points, just one measly point in arrears of the faltering champions.

Meanwhile the victory-flushed Petes will be here tonight to do battle with the Memes starting at 8.30. The Littlock laddies, who pushed the Oshawa Truckmen to the last-second wire before bowing 4-3 at their last meeting, and went on to hand the Goodyears a fancy pasting last night are no cocky as a rooster with his first tail-feathers. They have taken the measure of the best, and their victory cup will stop over this evening if they can tie a less-knot in the tails of the Memes.

But our side has other ideas. The Orillia and Peterborough victories of the past week has relegated them to the dunson spot and a win tonight will put them on the . . . the Pestiferous Petes. It should be a honey of a battle.

E.H.A.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the largest sports organization of its kind in the world, went into annual conclave at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, this morning with a record crowd of over 300 delegates from all parts of the province in attendance.

Secretary Jack Christie in his annual report to the convention pointed out that the 1951-53 season established a record in that 250 teams were registered for OMHA play and 730 registered as members of local leagues and associations. The total registration of players, the greatest in the world, was 18,642 with 8,000 taking part in OMHA groups or playdowns and 11,655 of affiliated groups.

Christie paid tribute to the various teams and organizations of their fine sportsmanship evidenced in the fact that only nine protests were submitted during the season. Rough play, legal holding and bad language must be eliminated from the games, he said, and the OMHA will continue to take steps necessary to reach this objective.

"We have now one weapon in our battle against rough play, a possible cancellation of insurance for teams who persist in continual illegal or rough tactics."

"We want to assure you also that referees have been, and will be told, to crack down on both rough play and bad language and that they will be backed up, as will you, to the very limit."

At the election of officers ten nominees were presented for election of the executive. President "Mike" Wolchek (and he couldn't happen to a better fellow) was re-elected by acclamation. There were vice-president Fred Newman, Simcoe; Albert Hick, Lindsay and Jack Oakes, Streetsville. Also back in office is the perennial secretary, Jack Christie (as important to the organization as a motor is to an automobile), and treasurer Dr. Leon Hipwell, both of Toronto.

Seven members of the 1953 executive stood for re-election with three newcomers vying for positions. The "veterans" include Jim Austin, Stouffville; Frank Cudmore, Whitchurch; Frank Doherty, Thorold; Tod Elmer, Galt; Doug Patterson, Stirling; G. V. Simmons, Gravenhurst, and Albert Watkins, Peterborough. The new faces include Gordon Bishop, Norwich; W. Kurels, Oshawa and Tom Lofthouse, Kingston.

While no results were available at time of writing, it is noted the former executive will be restored to office, if for nothing else than their record of last year.

And it is this department's sincere hope, and we feel sure that a lot of minor hockey people in this area, and in Canada" that Doug Patterson in particular and Albert Watkins in general receive the accolade of the voting delegates. Patterson and Watkins have teamed up and have operated the minor hockey like the dew covers Dixie and it is extremely doubtful that two better men could be found to do the job.

Patterson, especially, has been a tower of strength for the OMHA in this immediate district and has proven himself a worthy successor to the first executive member to hold office down thisaway, Sam Curry. Doug has spared neither time nor expense in his OMHA duties and already has covered a lot of work for the coming season. He is a distinct blow to minor hockey in this immediate area if Doug is not returned to office. We do not forget what the Kingston or Oshawa aspirants could or could not do, but it is head-pipe clench that neither could better the job done by both Watkins and Patterson.

One of the most important changes suggested at today's convention is the proposal to have each team name a responsible per prior to each game. This officer (manager or coach) sign the referee's report before the game and be responsible the conduct of team and officials during the game and to from the contest.

The executive also suggested a more even distribution gate receipts in playoff series that are decided by the odd ne on home ice. The suggestions say the net gate be vided evenly between the two teams after all expenses ve been deducted.

The Oshawa Minor Hockey Association, which lost all its pe-ti-ns in the fire which destroyed the arena, suggested an pment pool and equipment insurance plan for the benefit teams similarly affected in the future.

Elmer Lach, Veteran Centre Out With Cracked Leg Bone; St. Laurent Bears Busted Beak

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONTREAL—Canadiens, one club that doesn't quibble about dollars and cents when bartering with hockey players, is running out of regular centres.

The Canadiens, in second place in the National Hockey League, counted only two centres today for their two-game week-end series against Boston Bruins.

They have lost the services of Elmer Lach, out with a cracked leg bone. The 32-year-old veteran injured the leg Nov. 25 and reportedly aggravated the break Friday. He will be out until early January.

It was a big blow to the Montrealers. They were juggling lines to fill in for centres Jean Beliveau and Floyd Curry. Curry is injured.

And, to make matters worse, they will go against the fourth-place Bruins in Montreal tonight with out defenceman Dollard St. Laurent. He suffered a broken nose in a game against the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night and may be out for a week.

THREE GAMES TONIGHT

In two other games tonight, the leading Detroit Red Wings meet the Leafs, and the fifth-place New York Rangers entertain the sixth-place Chicago Black Hawks.

On Sunday it will be Canadiens at Boston, Toronto at New York and Chicago at Detroit.

The Canadiens, only one point behind Detroit, will keep centre Paul Masnick for a while. He was called up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League last week. Johnny (The Goose) McCormack is the other first man.

Moore suffered a shoulder fracture early in the season and Bel veau came out of a game in Chicago Oct. 22 with a "cracked fibula near the ankle.

Earl Walls KO's Reynolds In 33 Seconds

EDMONTON (CP)—Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, knocked out Herale Reynolds of Fairfield, N.J., in 33 seconds of the first round with a crushing right hand in an exhibition bout Friday night.

More than 6,000 fans saw Walls catch Reynolds with a left hook and then floor him with a hard right in the scheduled 10-rounder. Fairfield was carried to his corner.

Walls weighed 182 pounds, a pound more than his opponent.

Walls, who lives in Toronto but fights out of Edmonton, is rated fifth in the world's heavyweight class and second in the British Empire classification.

Joey Giambra Salts Herring In 4th Round

NEW WYORK (AP)—Hard-hitting Joey Giambra of Buffalo, N.Y., knocked out Jimmy Herring of New York in 2:35 of the fourth round Friday night with one right hand punch to the jaw.

Herring and his handlers protested that referee Ray Miller had counted Jimmy out too fast.

Giambra, fifth ranking middleweight contender, caught the 24-year-old Herring with a right flush on the jaw, sending him flat on his back.

Herring clambered to one knee as Miller's count reached eight and Herring appeared to be up just a fraction of a second before Miller said 10.

Herring's manager, Ralph Cuomo ran around the apron of the ring yelling "no, no, no." Herring turned to the referee and shouted "Ray, no, I was up in time."

Asked for his reaction to the count, Boxing Commission Chairman Bob Christenberry said: "We had a good referee in there, a former fighter."

Giambra weighed 158; Herring 160½.

Waterloo May Not Operate In Intercounty

WATERLOO (CP)—Waterloo Tigers of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League announced Friday night they may not operate next year because of financial troubles.

After a meeting of the club's executive President Ernie Goman said the team's losses for the last two years have amounted to about $5,000.

The executive said it didn't want to begin a season with a deficit from the previous season and suggested an appeal to the public for monetary assistance if they quit the loop.

It decided that if the deficit could be erased by subscriptions before April 15 the Tigers would operate next year. If not, the Tigers could suspend their franchise for one year without loss of their players to member clubs, Goman said.

Minor Hockey

The Canadians, led by Jimmy Potts with two goals and one assist, handed Quinte a 5-2 setback in the first game of three played in the two-team division at the arena this morning.

Larry Rowbottom had a goal and a pair of assists. Whitefield two helpers while Bob Langabeer and Ron Urch got the other.

For the Bruins, Jack Boulter and Terry Kelly were the marksmen and Ellis Gaulin a 2-2 setback in the first game of three played in the two-team division at the arena this morning.

Gerald Ethier got a duo of goals, Dick Clapp, Barry Simpson, Gary Dugan, Bill Lainford and Tom Brawley sank the Hawk markers. Paul Bowen was a double goal man for the Wings with Cam Wallbridge and Dennis Post sinking the others. Rod Day, R. Wiley and Raymond Connors had an assist.

Billy Lattimer put the Rangers one goal up in the final game against the Maple Leafs. Garry Hall slapped in two goals in a space of about 25 seconds to send the Rangers out front 3-0 with 8 minutes left to play. Bob Falwell, on a pass from Hull, completed the scoring as Ron Dulmage racked up a 4-0 shutout. Ron stopped several breakaways in a good game in goal.

Bulldogs Bilge Sarnia Sailors 11-4 As Dutchies, Tigers Battle to Draw

By The Canadian Press

First place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series has changed hands twice in two days — Windsor Bulldogs and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen—but Friday night things reversed with Windsor smothered Sarnia Sailors 11-4 to regain the title the Dutchmen fought to a 3-3 overtime draw with Hamilton Tigers in Hamilton, leaving the Bulldogs and Kitchener deadlocked for first place.

Chatham Maroons blew a 4-3 home-ice decision over Stratford Indians to the other league game. Now in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Sudbury Wolves needed an extra period to put down the spunky Sault Ste. Marie Indians (4-3 in Soo).

GORDON EDGES TEEDIE

Gerry Gordon counted four times for the Bulldogs. Lyle Wiseman and Wali Hyrkiewicz potted two each and Johnny Horeck, Art Sayers and Gerry Ehman also completed the total. Ollie Haddon, Harry O'Connor, Tommy Jamieson and Vern Gardiner shared the scoring for the Sailors.

Charlottetown and a last-period Stratford rally in Chatham. Marathon held a 6-5 edge after the first seven period. Frank Boselio, Bill Lee, Danny Blair and Eddie Dickens were the Chatham marksmen. Herve Delorme, Jack Bihun and Mel Lee Stratford replied for the Indians.

Hamilton scored one goal in each of the first and second periods and then fell apart as the Dutchmen last year's Allan Cup champions, surged back with a pair of markers in the third.

Jack Taylor gave the Tabbies a 1-0 lead in the first and then set up Lloyd Ferguson's marker in the second. Doug Verity put the Dutchmen in the scoring column in the third and Jerry Theberge tied the equalizer six minutes later.

SUDBURY FIRST

Andy Milne notched two goals for Sudbury to lead them into sole possession of first place in the NOHA. Moose Kaspar added the single.

Windsor and Kitchener will attempt to settle first place at Kitchener, Saturday while Sarnia is at Stratford. Chatham is home to Soo Soomel Mercurys. Hamilton journeys to Sudbury Tigers.

In the NOHA Saturday North Bay Trappers meet the Greyhounds at Sudbury, and Timmins takes on the Lumber Kings in Pembroke. Soo North Bay travels to Sault, Mich., Sunday.

English Soccer Is in For Revolution

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Indications are that English soccer is in for a revolution.

The handwriting was up on the walls of Wembley Stadium long before Hungary smashed her 90-minute record of "soccer impossibility" at home against all foreign teams.

The originators and professors of the soccer arts exported their knowledge long ago — they were defeated by a band of state-trained upstarts and the blame for the 6-3 lacing has been spread across the entire structure of English soccer.

Stanley Rous, secretary of the Football Association, said:

"We had this defeat coming to us," said Walter Winterbottom, team manager. "I hope its lesson will be taken to heart by managers and players. League football must become faster and more accurate—and we must provide a settled team.

It must be decided whether soccer is to be played for fun or as a "national institution." Only a solution lies with the 92 football league clubs, independent and amateur organizations.

"Unless they demand training by foreign stars and new practices with the ball, England cannot hope to compete with the highly-organized Soviet machine.

The authorities, still digesting the 6-3 defeat, were unable to meet early in January. The Football Association Council, the selectors, club managers to, state frankly—then what they think should be done to restore English soccer to the face of a marked South American, Russian and European progress.

"It was Aguicarori in reverse," noted The Times as it digested the day the way the Hungarians shot like archers, dispelling the myth that England invented the game as a ball. The Hungarians themselves paid tribute to Gusztav Sebes and Gogan, 70-year-old soccer coach who was with the team four years. Sebes said Hungary beat the best England's team is to stay close to Mihaly Lantos, whose name will be played in Switzerland next year. Lantos is a member of the team the every game will have to be abandoned.

TOURNAMENT TEAM

Eric Stanger of the Yorkshire Post wrote:

"At the start of every season the best 22 squad of 18 players selected from whom the likely England team will be chosen. Let them live and train together. Then train together for weeks at a time."

Stanger added: "Then they could play for their clubs on important occasions. The Football Association could pay their salaries."

Desmond Hackett of The Daily Express said players get flabby mentally and physically on $½ hours a week practice.

Arthur Oakley of the Football Association and a director of first-division Fulham Wanderers was quoted by Hackett as saying:

"If the players put as much spirit into their play as they put in demanding more money we would soon have some great teams."

Hackett disagreed and accused club directors and managers of irresponsibility for the week-long "soft" schedule asked of players.

England's team—and those of Ireland, Scotland and Wales—is selected several days before international matches and spends a few days training and playing together. Hungary's red-shirted team has been together more than three years.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's long way from the bright lights of Broadway and Hollywood to the crisp air of mile-high Denver, but Ethel Merman has made the transition and she's never been happier.

The veteran musical star is a proud resident of the Colorado capital since her marriage to Bob Six, athletes boss whose head quarters are there.

"I love Denver," she said emphatically. "I think I've even got my accent back in my life. The air is simply wonderful, the mile-high city, you know. I was in New York last week, and oh, it was terrible. The smaze or smog or whatever you call it. You can hardly breathe.

"Yes, I miss the theatre a little but happiness is more important. My kids are going to public schools now, instead of the private school they went to in New York."

NO MORE BROADWAY

Like Bette Davis and Gary Merrill, who have moved to Portland, Me., Miss Merman said she will commute to the entertainment capitals.

"I'll do some TV in New York or Hollywood and come here (Hollywood) for a picture now and then," she explained. "I'll spend the rest of the time with my family in Denver."

What about doing a Broadway show?

"Never again," she replied. This may be a blow to Broadway, where she starred in an amazing succession of hits. But she added: "Nobody is indispensable."

Some of her old stage pals find it hard to believe this. Some time ago, producer Leland Hayward cautioned her to read a book called "The Last Resorts" as a future stage possibility. Irving Berlin was to do the score and Lindsay and Crouse the book. The same crew who turned out "Call Me Madam."

Berlin even pitched a couple of the songs at her when she visited New York.

But Miss Merman turned the deal down with a smile. "My family is more important," she explained.

The busty songstress is in Hollywood to renew an old acquaintance with Jimmy Durante. She'll appear on his TV show Saturday night, and he'll return the favor on one of the two hour-long shows she will do here after the first of the year.

POLIO CASES REPORTED

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two polio victims admitted Thursday to Victoria Hospital brought the total in isolation to nine. None is seriously ill. New cases are a 12-year-old St. Thomas girl and a boy of four from Southampton.

Appointments To Senate May Be Changed

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Friday hinted that the government may be moving away from party appointments to the Senate.

In filling the current 13 vacancies in the upper house, he said, he is looking for a general policy that will strengthen Canada's confidence in the Senate.

Mr. St. Laurent was talking to a delegation from the Dominion Joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhood, whose annual submission to the cabinet asked for labor representation in the Senate.

There now are no labor representatives in the Senate, appointments to which are regarded as the prerogative of the prime minister in office. At present, the chamber is preponderantly Liberal.

CAREFUL CONSIDERATION

Mr. St. Laurent, in the first public indication that he and his advisers are thinking of getting away from political appointments, said that filling the vacancies is "giving us occasion for careful consideration."

"We must do all that will strengthen the prestige of the Senate with the public," he said.

"We are studying very closely methods of filling the vacancies, and we are trying to determine some general policy that will . . . strengthen the feeling throughout the country that the Senate is a good thing."

Present standing in the Senate: Liberals, 81; Progressive Conservatives, 8; vacancies 13.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

To stretch is his inalienable right, many a good bridge player is fond of believing. The clumsy time to do it, however, is when the tough contract is going to be handled by an incapable partner. An expert tactician knows the folly where a gamble is worth a try. As when the pair is bidding in a minor suit without the tricks for game. He may take a chance at game in no-trump instead. South was the weak sister of the team in this deal:

♥ 9
♦ 8	4 2
♣ Q 8 6 4 2
WEST	EAST
♠ Q J 10 8 2	♠ 9 7 3
♥ Q J	♥ 6 5 2
♦ Q 7	♦ J 10 9 6
♣ K J 9	♣ 10 7
SOUTH
♠ A K 5
♥ K 10 7 4 3
♦ A K 3
♣ 5 3

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 H	1 S	2 C	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Dbl	Pass	Pass
Redbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

The spade queen opening lead from west ran to the south ace. A south club was captured with dummy queen when west played the nine. Thereafter the contract went down for big loss.

The second bid by north should have been three clubs instead of a raise to three no-trump. No doubt about it. North's clubs were unbiddable and he lacked additional high cards for no-trump.

However, realizing a club game was not there, north hoped it might produce game in no-trump. When it took a bad bearing, south jumped on his partner with both feet and a pair of heels.

"Okay," he ranted, "so the caster mind took a chance at game in no-trump. But if I was dumb enough to believe you, be smart enough to take me out of the redouble and any four clubs." South had something there and north should have admitted it. But north stated: "The dumbness was not in believing me. It was in the way you played it. Three no-trump is easy." And so it was.

AT THE BELLE

Technicolor Action, Famous Eight in "Red Men," Unusual Western

A highly unusual and thrilling Western, "City of Bad Men" opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre. Starring Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson, the Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor outdoor drama revolves around the famous Cortez-Firsimmons fight in San Antonio at the turn of the century.

All of the turbulence of the era and the excitement of the throng-packed community has been deftly woven into this satisfying screen drama. "City of Bad Men", is crammed with entertainment values. It has love complications between hero and heroine Jeanne Crain and Dale Robertson; the clashes of outlaw bands who come to town looking for trouble and loot, and it has the added spectacle of the world championship heavyweight fight.

The drama opens with Robertson, as one of the West's most notorious outlaws, riding into Carson City with his gang and finding a teeming community anxious to witness the championship fight. Eventually, offer motions gangs show up. The battle among them, as they fight for supremacy and the $100,000 take of the ring battle, is almost as fabulous as the championship fight itself. Jeanne Crain is seen as Robertson's fiery, red-headed sweetheart, who is torn between love and hate for him. Robertson is at his best in "City of Bad Men". Miss Crain looks beautiful and gives a winning performance.

English Soccer Is in For Revolution

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Indications are that English soccer is in for a revolution.

The handwriting was up on the walls at Wembley Stadium just before Hungary smashed her 90-year reputation of soccer invincibility at home against all foreign teams.

The originators and professors of the soccer arts exported their methods to the world. They were defeated by a band of state-trained pupils and the blame for the 6-3 lacing has been spread across the entire structure of English soccer.

TAUGHT A LESSON

"We had this defeat coming to us," said Walter Winterbottom, team manager. "I hope its lesson will be taken to heart by players and players. League football must become faster and more accurate—the game must provide a settled team."

It must be decided whether soccer is to be played for fun or as a "national success," he added, and then he came face with the 92 football league clubs, independent and amateur associations.

"Unless they demand training by full-time coaches and more contact with the ball, England cannot hope to compete with the highly-organized Continentals."

The authorities, still digesting the defeat, are also looking back as early in January. The Football Association's annual meeting of football managers to, state frankly then what they think should be done to improve soccer. Now, even in the face of a marked South American soccer decline, the programs are:

"It was Agincourt in reverse," noted The Times sadly in discussing the defeat. "The mounted knights like archers, dispelling the myth that European superiority was built on a ball. The Hungarians themselves are the European champions, Nimsy Hogan, 70-year-old soccer coach who was with the team four years, the Chelsea Pensioner and Ed Mc-Queen rounded out the Barrie total.

Boston Bruins May Buy Franchise Of Kitchener's Junior Greenshirts

KITCHENER (CP) — A hockey executive here said Friday night Boston Bruins may sell to try to buy Kitchener's junior A franchise from Montreal Canadiens of the Quebec Provincial League.

Pat Roberts, a member of the Kitchener Minor Hockey Association executive, said he was told the Bruins might be interested in taking over the franchise of Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts.

Canadiens transferred the Ontario Hockey Association club last week to Drummondville and star players to their farm clubs in Ontario and Quebec.

"We hope to contact the Bruins' management immediately," Roberts said.

Residents have been trying to build major league hockey back to Kitchener from Montreal.

TUESDAY EVENING

Bill Strudwick, president Troy Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association have set Saturday night as the deadline for arranging the schedule.

"I could dispose of 100 shares at $25 apiece right now," Roberts said. "Many other offers of assistance have been made but we couldn't possibly raise the amount of money required before tomorrow night."

Frank Selke, managing director of the Canadiens, said he would sell back the franchise for $13,000.

Tony Gregg told me it was necessary to raise the entire sum by Saturday night," Roberts said. "Some people are working against time, my suggestion is to contact the hockey officials as soon as possible."

He added:

"The Bruins would have to try and make a deal with Krank Selke, if they're interested we could give our answer to the OHA."

Roberts previously rumored Barrie Flyers and Waterloo Hurricanes, Last year they backed the OHA juniors at Oshawa General who disbanded this year when the Oshawa arena was destroyed by fire.

Canadian Football Making Headway With South-of-the Border Experts

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Friend of ours just back from Canada says he's hard pressed to notice any difference between their professional football and the brand.

Yes, the Canadians possibly pass a bit more because they have only three downs in which to make 10 yards. The consequent reduction in blocked kicks is offset because in the Dominion season so many of our stars have been playing north of the border lately.

One thing our observer liked especially about the Canadian game is that the defensive team must run the ball or punts out of its own goal line. If they don't get it back to the field of play the opposition racks up a point. Also, the Canadian ban on blocking more than 10 yards beyond the scrimmage line makes for more exciting open field running and cleaner tackling.

TV TROUBLES

Sponsors of nationally televised bowling shows are taking a long time to learn.

One of their recent principals, Freddie Steinore, had been retired permanently by the National Bowling Association for being unable to fight, and now Norman Hayes has been told to bring himself a title bout or even army food before he gets foul up the air waves.

The sponsors are being sold packages that would have been unsalable to anybody else only a few years ago. Tired of talking the blame for bad matches, the NBA commissioner has told the complaints will be forwarded to the bowlers responsible for them possible.

ALTEDO HORSE SALE

Larry MacPhail is far from through with horse racing, despite the troubles he ran into at Suwa.

The former baseball magnate is off to England this week-end to attend the Newmarket sales, looking for brood mares to be serviced by the Derby winner Tulyar.

General Staff. Practically every important American stable will be represented at the sale.

Outdoor Vandals

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
Noted Sportsman, Author And Creator of Salmar Tabby

A fellow who fishes and shoots as much as I do naturally has a good many friends among the rural residents. Thus, the depredations of the "sportsmen" are recounted to me first-hand. And it isn't always the sportsman who does the damage; often the non-sportsman is just as much to blame.

One of my friends has a nice summer place on the bank of one of our trout streams. One Sunday he was much surprised to see two loaded cars come into his place and proceed to park on his picnic table.

Fathers, mothers, uncles, aunts, children and dogs disembarked and began to spread out their belongings, preparatory to a voluminous picnic lunch. Being a good-natured fellow, he did not disturb them, not wishing to spoil their outing.

He did, however, take down the license numbers of the two cars. Then he phoned a few of his friend and his wife went to the pine grove and picked up the litter, which was full of tin cans, paper plates and the like.

Through the State Police he secured the names of the car owners. One of the cars was a truck, incidentally—all him Mr. Jones. He placed the two bags of trash in his car and drove to Mr. Jones' home.

Mr. Jones was home and my friend told him he had forgotten something at his picnic grounds last Sunday. Just a moment—he'd get it from his car. Mr. Jones seemed pleased over this thoughtful gesture and came on his errand, waiting for the forgotten articles.

My friend took the two shopping bags from his car and then methodically spread their contents all over Mr. Jones' lawn. "Now," he said, "you pick it up." Then he climbed into his car and drove home. Maybe it gave Mr. Jones the lesson he needed, but I doubt it.

FARMERS PATIENT MEN

How the farmers of the nation put up with the kind of damage heaped upon them annually is something which I fail to understand. Careless hunters, tree-cutters, fire-starters and such certainly do plenty of damage. Spokesman Bob Small wonder that we see so many signs reading "No Hunting" on the Ten Thousand Islands.

We had hacked and pushed our way through the wonderful channel into a "hidden lake," and I was watching a mink from under the overhanging branches of the mangrove bushes, thoroughly enjoying this day of "untouched wilderness."

Then came disillusionment. We rounded a point which guarded a narrow inlet, and there, back under the broken end of a mangrove branch, was a beer can! Some fine fellow who must have been there has been to read this news story. If he should, I want him to know that it is my sincere wish that he should be in everlasting torment.

WHY LEAVE TRASH

And tell me this—why do so many people regard a flowing stream as a repository for trash? Every community has its garbage dump. Why throw old tires, tin cans, all unwanted articles into a flowing stream? Surely it wouldn't be so much extra trouble to dispose of these things properly.

It takes only a very few minutes to do away with the incidental refuse of a picnic lunch, unless you are out fishing or shooting. Along a rocky stream bank, parents can be burned quickly and safely. Cans can be punched and buried with but little effort. Papers can be buried easily in the woods if it is unsafe to burn them.

Another class of citizens without whom we could get along very well are the bottle-breakers. Glass is tough stuff and does not disintegrate in the elements. Edges of broken glass are sharp, a constant danger to every feet. Surely there is a special treatment, devised by His Satanic Majesty in his realm in the nether regions, to be accorded the glass-breakers.

DISLIKES INITIAL—CARVERS

The initial-carvers and the paint-smearers are another unsavory pair in the neck. Why must they deface Gods outdoors with their initials? Why, I ask you, cares two hoots whether or not Jim Hicks has passed this way, leaving his obnoxious memento behind him.

Down in the headwaters of the Susquehanna River of Pennsylvania is a rock formation known as Standing Stope. It consists of a large slab of rock, probably four feet thick, which is about five feet high which has wedged itself securely under the river bottom.

For untold centuries Standing Stone has withstood the onslaughts of the river, with its floods and ice jams. It is a natural monument to pioneermen. Yet across its face has been painted goodness only knows how many names, dates, an observations of folks who have passed that way. Such desecration does things to you.

Last July no means least, don't forget the target fanatics who shoot up state highways, telephone poles and at road signs. To be sure such lawlessness is contrary to law but what does a law mean to a confirmed outdoor vandal?

With his rifle he shatters an insulator, probably not knowing and undoubtedly caring little that his action impairs the telephone or power service of nearby farmers. How many road signs are destroyed annually in this nation by care-

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 6, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Moon, Mars, Neptune favorably aspected. Other configurations, however, warn against reckless-ness with health, property, valuables. The good aspects will further wholesome activities.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Planets favorable to the Aries-born are also in your column. No day for money transactions unless for religious or charitable purposes. Essential tasks should be handled cheerfully, graciously.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Though your Mercury indicates some tricky periods today, you will get worthy activities, humanitarian affairs and necessary duties highly favored. Lend your aid to good causes.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon smiles on all who keep in friendly, helpful mood. You can be a big asset in any group when you are your amiable self. Attend church first; then enjoy some recreation.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't make this a business day and you will have better. Unless work is imperative, do things pertinent to a Sunday. Religious services, social gatherings, wholesome fun favored in that order.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Planetary aspects warn against overdoing, needless anxiety. Day favorable for domestic interests, artistic affairs, associating with children. Healthy diversion helps all.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Favorable for aggressive action in all worthwhile causes. Be militant in defense of God's teachings and for our democratic government. Obligations taken care of, we can rest more easily.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—This should be a stimulating, inspiring day—and for unnecessary work, but for God's works, music, good reading, family and social interests. There's contentment in doing wholesome things.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter is in quiet mood, which is all to the good on this Sunday. One should not seek material gain only, but devote some hours to spiritual development, happy family relations.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Notations to Sagittarius pertinent now, too. It can be a happy and full day. You folks seldom waste time, but don't think it's wasted time to enjoy well-earned recreation, wholesale diversion.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Avoid restlessness; shift into low gear when such feelings arise. You can achieve more by maintaining a steady pace than you can by keeping at top speed.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Ideal indications for wholesome fun and entertainment, lectures, religious interests, charities, reading, music in the home and for necessary study and research.

YOU BORN TODAY have great energy, desire for achievement, a happy disposition; are often witty and entertaining. Opportunity is usually waiting for you because you constantly seek it. You like the truth, directness, and seldom, if ever, are a party to pettiness or gossip.

Birthdate: Warren Hastings, 1st Governor-general of British India; Josiah Gay-Lussac, noted French chemist, physicist.

RE-NEWED CARS
WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE CARS that have been turned in on New Pontiacs. They have been thoroughly inspected by our skilled mechanics. The necessary work has been done consequently many thousands of miles have been built back into them. Because this work has been done, we feel that they are a little better than ordinary used cars, therefore we chose the above name to distinguish them. The initial cost may not be the lowest, but we feel sure that the cost in the long run will be considerably less.

Old Mill Will Have Face Lifted

FRANKFORD. — One of Frankford's oldest structures is doomed, giving itself up to the march of time. The "Old Mill" as it is known to Frankford citizens is due for a face lifting.

Mr. S. Flevak enterprising business man of Frankford has purchased the property from Mr. E. Carter and plans to build in the near future a modern plaza until for a building containing two apartments on the top floor, and a store space on the main floor. Mr. Flevak plans to locate his jewellery business there, and expand his stock.

OLD LANDMARK

The "Old Mill" was built in the early 1800's by Marcel Robin, and was one of Frankford's five buildings, also the highest, being two and one half stories. The mill burned in 1873 and was rebuilt and sold to the Sills brothers, who also added a building for storage on the west side. This addition is now in use as a grist mill.

The Sills brothers property was purchased after their death, by Percy Mikel who operated it until fire struck again in 1931, while the mill was rented to Mr. Keith. The mill was never rebuilt after the fire in 1931, and has remained a burnt-out skeleton until this day.

Says U.S. Government Not Delaying Project

KITCHENER (CP) — Robert Saunders, Ontario hydro chairman, said Thursday the United States government is in no way holding up St. Lawrence river power development.

He said "only the selfish interests of a few" in the U. S. are opposed to the power project. He said in a dinner speech the commission has received the utmost co-operation from President Eisenhower and his government.

Mr. Saunders said he still has faith in the U. S. government's intentions with regard to the power development.

"I believe we shall be able to get under way on the project next June or July," he said.

Rubber Company To Move Plant

KITCHENER (CP)—B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company of Canada Ltd., Friday announced it is transferring its footwear manufacturing operations in Kitchener to the province of Quebec, beginning in January. More than 400 employees will be affected.

Ira G. Needles, president, said a working agreement has been reached with a Quebec manufacturer for the production of Goodrich brand footwear, using Goodrich designs, specifications and technical knowledge. Name and location of the manufacturer was not announced.

Mr. Needles said high production costs, of which labor was a principal factor, had placed the company in a non-competitive cost position as compared to other footwear manufacturers, adding that the average wage of Goodrich footwear workers was substantially higher than the average Canadian wage for such work.

Mrs. Margaret Hill Drowned In Moira Near CPR Bridge

Woman Became Panicky When She Heard Train

A mother of four young children was drowned in the Moira River at Belleville Saturday night when she stumbled and fell through the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge while running to beat a diesel hauled freight train approaching the bridge from behind.

Mrs. Margaret Hill, 29, of 11 Willard Street, with a group of four others was using the railway bridge as a shortcut to their home when they heard the blast of the diesel horn behind them. They became panicky and started to run for the west end of the bridge. Mrs. Hill fell through the bridge and was drowned.

The young girl was thrown from the car and died of severe head injuries. Driver of the car, Lyle Hay, of Stirling, escaped serious injury and suffered only shoulder bruises.

The road on which the accident occurred is narrow and crooked. The car went out of control at the base of a steep hill and was almost a complete wreck as it rolled end over end.

Provincial Constable McAlonen of Belleville investigated. An inquest has been called by Coroner Dr. E. A. Carleton, the preliminary hearing being scheduled for Monday morning.

Sheila Dawn Ingram was born at Stirling and was the daughter of Harry Ingram and Mrs. Helen Bailey Ingram of Stirling. She had lived at Stirling all her life and was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

She is survived by her parents, one sister, Mrs. John Mumby, of Stirling, and two brothers, Byrne, Robert Barry and Eugene, all at home.

Resting at her late residence, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Sheila Ingram, 19, Stirling, Killed, Car Turns Over

Eighteen-year-old Sheila Ingram, Stirling, was instantly killed Saturday night when the car in which she was riding on the Town Line, half mile east of Stirling, left the control and rolled over several times into the ditch.

The young girl was thrown from the car and died of severe head injuries. Driver of the car, Lyle Hay of Stirling, escaped serious injury and suffered only shoulder bruises.

Demand Made To Investigate Past Methods

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Two demands were made Sunday night for immediate independent investigation into this municipality's past borrowing methods and its present financial position.

The demands came from John Stirling, president of the Oakville Chamber of Commerce, and Dean Hewitt, president of the Oakville Ratepayers' Association. They said in interviews they feel an investigation is committed if sought.

The Ontario municipal board said between Toronto and Hamilton only Oakville, midway, has borrowed $458,000 illegally during the last seven years.

Money-Minded A and M Students Sell Dates to Lonely Damsels

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Chivalry, dead for years, has been pushed about six feet deeper into the ground by students of Oklahoma A and M College. Undergraduates who decided to trade the Sir Lancelot role for the fast buck.

Their money - making idea is guaranteed to make Frenchmen's blood turn white, a Latin's heart bleed.

They are selling good looks and social poise for 75 cents an hour to the lonely females.

Calling themselves the City-Wide Escort Service, they hope their business venture will prove the answer to a desperate coed's prayer. They are available, at the prevailing rates, for coke dates, dances, bridge, coffee or tea drinking, or any social gathering at which a young lady may wish to appear with an escort.

So far, Gaylord Grimm, Hennessey, Okla.; Joe Perry, El reno, Okla., and Dave Bergdahl and Jerry Herrin, Shanida, Mich., guarantee the young ladies a date with a clean-cut, well-mannered, well-dressed, well-read.

They're available at a moment's notice to help out a girl whose date has suddenly come down with pneumonia. They believe these services will constitute the bulk of their business, which hasn't been booming but looks promising.

The boys announced their arrival on the Oklahoma A and M social scene with a blitz mailing to coeds. "Girls, don't panic. An escort is as close as your telephone."

Here's the way their system works:

Customers get the use of one of four cars—their choice. The first hour costs $1, any hour thereafter 75 cents. Gasoline is furnished.

Death Funnel Kills At Least Thirty Persons

Vicksburg Viciously Hit by Tornado

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Rescue gangs worked in freezing weather today in a grisly hunt for additional victims of Saturday's vicious tornado that took at least 30 lives.

The temperature dropped to 31 degrees in the heatless city and frost covered lawns and other open ground in outlying areas.

National guardsmen on guard duty built fires from the debris that littered the streets.

The two latest victims died in hospitals today and authorities said at least eight other persons remained on the critical list.

Dawn brought the noise of steam shovels, bulldozers and shovels after a heatless, shivering night for the 29,000 residents who piled into the streets.

The most serious cases among the 230 injured were crowded into Vicksburg's four main hospitals, swarmed by blankets and electric heaters from the city's homes.

Civil defence and military officers estimated the damage at $25-000,000.

President Eisenhower declared the city a disaster area, authorizing emergency funds to help restore 12 blocks of stores, homes and warehouses.

GAS CUT OFF

One-fifth of the city was without electricity. All of the city was without natural gas—but the only heating most people had for their homes. The temperature dropped to 44 in the night and was near the freezing point in the suburbs.

The tornado broke the gas main. It was repaired late Sunday, but city officials feared to turn it on because someone might have left a gas jet open.

The twister roared out of the west, cut through the heart of the city, and then died out.

It started its deadliest punch at small children. Ten youngsters between the ages of 2 and 10 were among the dead.

Roof Blown Off

DELHI, Ont. (CP)—An explosion ripped the two-storey frame house Saturday blowing the roof into the front lawn and starting a fire that gutted the structure.

The owner and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arpad Szabo, escaped but returned to their home when they thought they recovered. Mrs. Szabo, DeDecker and the front door and knocked Mr. DeDecker down and Mrs. DeDecker received burns and shock.

Damage to a kitchen stove is thought to have caused the blast. Damage was estimated at $8,000

Two Killed as Troops Fire On Anti-British Iranian Mob

TEHRAN (AP)—Iranian troops fired into a crowd of anti-British demonstrators at Tehran University today, killing two persons and wounding another.

It was the first public violence in Iran's heavily patrolled capital since Premier Fazollah Zahedi announced Saturday that his government had resumed diplomatic relations with Britain.

Thirty demonstrators were arrested.

Following his announcement, the powerful Moslem leader, Ayatollah Kashani, threatened to order a campaign of "national necessity" — the wearing of black arm bands, displaying of black flags and shouting of anti-British slogans—to protest the action.

BLAMES REDS

Gen. Farhad Dadestan, Tehran's military governor, said most of the demonstrators at the university were Communists who refused to attend classes today and have tried to demonstrate against government policies."

Dadestan said: "Attempts were made by the soldiers to disperse them. When the students attempted to disarm the soldiers, the troops fired on them."

Kashani's threat came a few hours after the premier explained in a broadcast Saturday night that he had patched up the 12-month diplomatic break with Britain because, during it, "no progress was made in solving the oil problem."

Zahedi said Iranians "have no enmity against any nation in the world," and the British have given assurances "they will show understanding" in settling the dispute over compensation for nationalized British oil holdings in Iran.

Republican Leaders Silent In McCarthy's Trade Quarrel

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the evident hope that the whole matter will blow over soon, Republican congressional leaders stood silent today in the controversy between Senator Joseph McCarthy and the White House.

It was obvious that some of the Wisconsin Republican's most influential party colleagues agreed privately with his statement that the United States should stop all aid to Free-World countries which trade with Red China.

But it also was obvious that these Republicans didn't want to be linked with McCarthy's public challenge to the stand taken by President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles that America has to trade with Red states if the trade policies of the countries it helps.

CALLS IT 'BLOOD TRADE'

McCarthy called any trade with Red China a "blood trade" and, in a televised plea Thursday, urged that those who favor it be made to resign the president.

The White House was scheduled today to give a new count on the number of telegrams and letters that have poured in on the issue.

At noon Saturday, presidential aides said they had received 6,000 telegrams. McCarthy's stand was approved approximately two to one.

On an NBC radio-TV forum Sunday McCarthy said "both sides should message their views to the president."

"This is not a popularity contest between Eisenhower and McCarthy," he added, candidly. "If it were a popularity contest, he (Eisenhower) would win it 25-1."

Election Results Will Be Given, Phone 4600

As is the usual custom in civic elections, the early morning vote in the city hall will be tabulated according to reports from various polls.

However if the advance poll is any criterion, the general vote should be well in advance of the "new-low" record that marked last year's civic election.

Some eighty-nine cast their ballots at the advanced poll this year as compared to 48 votes cast in 1952.

The weather was good, clearing in the afternoon, so blame for a small turnout—if there is one—can be the fact that there is no civic election. Voting will be by means of the acclamation of Mayor McLean Hall.

The record number of votes polled in the city is 6,289 which was cast in 1951 the vote was 6,132.

Ex-Mayor W. R. T. Potter holds the record for the largest number of votes given at any election, when he polled 3,213 in the 1949 election. Mayor Hall in 1951 when he defeated Jack Allin in the mayoralty race, polled 3,208 votes. Haig polled in keeping with its civic election policy will relay returns to the general public via telephone today. A battery of phones and an augmented editorial staff will be ready to serve the public.

With the polls closing at seven o'clock there will be no returns from the polling booths until eight o'clock.

Intelligencer will be receiving returns.

EISENHOWER WILL GIVE BIG THREE VIEWS IN TALK

Will Make Address Before UN Assembly

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York Tuesday to deliver a new Western challenge to Russia to join in world disarmament and a peaceful settlement of atomic control.

With the backing of Prime Minister Churchill and the French leaders here for the Big Three conference, Eisenhower will make his address to the United Nations General Assembly, is expected to suggest a fresh approach to the international atomic problem which has been caught in a Soviet-Western deadlock for seven years.

The speech, to be made at 4 p.m. EST, is "perils that confront the world in the atomic age."

The announcement Sunday night that Eisenhower would address the UN caused a sensation dominating the closing rounds of his meetings here with Churchill and French premier Joseph Laniel.

The three conferees overwhelmed the shift of the talks today to Far Eastern problems, including France's war in Indo-China and negotiations for a Korean peace conference, and obtaining British-U.S. efforts to press the French for early approval of the rearmament of West Germany.

COMMUNIQUE EXPECTED

The Big Three talks were due to close today with a communique summing up their work.

Eisenhower will leave Tuesday, flying directly to New York's Idlewild airport. The ailing Laniel, still suffering from a lung infection, also will fly home Tuesday for Paris.

Churchill, the conference host, will leave for London late Wednesday.

Eisenhower and Churchill, along with Secretary of state Dulles, British foreign secretary Eden and French foreign minister Bidault, at their sessions Sunday drafted a note to Russia, believed to be similar to proposals made by Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin, possibly in early January.

The draft was sent to Bonn for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's approval.

In their examination of European problems, Eisenhower and Laniel are all reported to have heard a plea Sunday from Churchill for assurances they will maintain their military strength in Europe, and with hold if France's demands for continued close economic union with West Germany and Britain, which Germany wants to join.

These were given as part of France's price for ratification of the European Defence Treaty and of the projected European Defence Community.
